Read the new adv. in this paper. Dealers in Fertilizers are waking up and coming forward with their arrangements for the year 1882.

The attention of farmers is called to Mr. H. Ennis' adv. of a valuable variety of seed oats.

The Mining editor of this paper is abating Montgomery County, which will count for any deficiency in that and local departments.

Mr. H. Ennis, col'd, committed a theft on Mr. D. A. Atwell, a day or two since, by taking a fine pistol from the show case, but was speedily detected, arrested, and now lies in jail, awaiting trial at a higher court.

A slight unpleasantness between two young men at the Skating Rink Tuesday night produced a panic among the ladies present. Irate young gentlemen would be more select in time and place.

GARDEN SEEDS.—The enterprising publishers of the "North Carolina Farmer," Messrs. James H. Ennis & Son, are receiving their liberal offer to every subscriber to their paper, of a dozen papers of Buist's Garden Seeds. A farmer cannot make a better one dollar investment than this, and now is the time to do it.

Also a number of queries pertaining to everyday work in the school-room. The next meeting will be held at Franklin Academy, Franklin Township, on the second Saturday in February. 1st Topic. R. M. DAVIS, Secretary. Magistrate's Meeting. On Saturday last, 28th ult., the Board of Magistrates of Rowan County met in the Court House for the purpose of electing a County Commissioner, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. D. A. Davis. Twenty-three of the magistrates being present—constituting a quorum—the session organized by electing Juno K. Graham, Esq., chairman; when, on motion of G. R. McNeill, the chair appointed a committee composed of Messrs. McNeill, Sumner and Kincaid to draft suitable resolutions in memorial of Mr. Davis.

The Board then proceeded to vote for a commissioner, which resulted, on the 3d ballot, in the election of Andrew Murphy, Esq., who received 13 votes—a majority of all the votes cast.

A motion was introduced by T. J. Sumner calling for the sense of the meeting as to the propriety and necessity of the magistrates meeting together at the Court House on Saturday the 6th of May next, for the purpose of restoring two annual terms of the Superior Court in this county. The motion was sustained.

No other business the meeting adjourned. The following are the resolutions: IN MEMORIAM OF D. A. DAVIS.

Resolved, That we, the Justices of the Peace of Rowan County, being called together for the purpose of electing a County Commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of D. A. Davis, take this opportunity to give appropriate expression to our feelings of regret for the loss sustained in the death of our late associate, a citizen of great and acknowledged worth, whose eminent talents and executive ability were for many years given to the public by serving usefully in the many positions to which he had been called, and with such practical ability and success as to endear him to every lover of moral worth and public economy.

Resolved, That, while we acknowledge theodetroof Him who never errs, in the removal by death of our late associate, we cherish a full appreciation of his eminent abilities as a man and usefulness as a citizen.

Resolved, That in his death Rowan County mourns the loss of a citizen whose example as a man of sterling integrity, is worthy the imitation of his successors and every other good citizen.

Resolved, That a page of the County Records be set apart as a memorial page, upon which shall be written the name of D. A. DAVIS; that a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of the deceased, and that the same be furnished the papers of Rowan County for publication.

For the Watchman. Small Pox.

Mr. Editor: Please let me say a few words in your paper about a small pox receipt of zinc sulphate and digitalis mixture, in order that many good people may not be deceived by it, notwithstanding that many eminent and celebrated physicians have tried it.

The zinc sulphate is a tonic, astringent and in large doses a prompt emetic. It is sometimes used internally in cases of debility, dyspepsia, epilepsy, St. Vitus' dance and the like, in quarter grain doses repeated several times daily. It is chiefly employed externally in the form of gargles, injections and eye-washes in the proportion of one to three grains to the ounce of water. It was used as a puke before the discovery of tartar emetic, and "in over doses it acts as an irritant poison." It, therefore, cannot be of much service in small pox in one-teaspoonful doses (every hour) of a mixture containing one grain to four ounces of water, in so short a time as the hours.

Digitalis is given mostly in some of the heart diseases and dropsy, in doses of one grain repeated every four or six hours. It gives energy to the heart's action, and increases arterial tension and the flow from the kidneys—sometimes slightly stupefying the patient. It is often given in delirium tremens and other diseases in much larger doses than in the small pox receipt, to produce sleep and quiet restlessness. It cannot in my opinion do much good in 1-32 part of a grain every hour in the first stage of small pox. It may, however, be given in this disease with good effect when there is much exhaustion, but then only by the advice of a physician. In numerous instances death has resulted from its incautious employment.

I will add a few words about the symptoms and treatment of small pox. Varieties, Discrete, Confluent and Hemorrhagic. Small pox usually commences with chilly sensations, sometimes suddenly, and is followed by high fever for three days, severe (lumbago) pains in the back and limbs, headache, restlessness, delirium, intolerance of light, inflamed eyes, soar throat, cough, loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting.

On the third day of the fever, or sixteenth after the exposure to the contagion, in the Discrete form, an eruption resembling "flea bites," (macules) makes its appearance, first in the edges of the hair, the forehead, nose, upper lip and mucous membranes of the throat. In a few hours little pimples (papules) three or five together feeling like small shot under the skin will appear around the roots of the hair and the orifices of sweat glands. These will in the next two days spread over the whole body—hands and feet last. There is itching and burning of the skin.

On the third day of the eruption, these "slotty" papules will have small blisters (vesicles) on their summit, and these vesicles, about the size of a pea, will become depressed or umbilicated on their summit on fourth or fifth day of the eruption. "Now the fever will abate and the hair will be gone." On the eighth day of the eruption these vesicles will contain matter (or puss), or in other words, they will be changed into pustules. And now the secondary fever will rise higher perhaps than the first fever. About the 14th day the pustules will be covered with scabs, or may break and let out the matter. The scabs will come off about the 20th day, leaving some discoloration, or the well known "pitting."

In the confluent and semi-confluent varieties, the symptoms are much more severe and the eruption will run together so that the surface will be covered like a mask when the scabs appear. In the confluent variety, the eruption has a bruised appearance not unlike that caused by blows. It is often fatal before the eruption makes a show. The death rate of the discrete variety is from one to six per cent. In the confluent variety about one half die. The hemorrhagic is most always fatal. The treatment means "make the patient comfortable." It should be removed to a well ventilated room and placed in the care of a competent nurse and an experienced physician. Quinine to control the fever and morphine the pain along with gargles for the throat, eye washes, cool drinks for the stomach, seditiv powders for the bowels and sweet oil for the intolerable itching of the skin will comprise the best treatment for most of cases. No remedy will prevent "pitting" when cellular tissue has sloughed. The diet should consist of milk, and farinaceous articles as rice, corn starch, tapioca, &c. No stimulents should be given without consent of a physician. Vaccination with Bovine Virus is the best preventative. I claim no originality in this statement for I have not seen a case of small pox since 1825.

Respectfully, E. ROSE DORSETT, M. D. Feb. 1, 1882.

DIED.

Jan. 21st, in Scotch Irish Township, Rowan County, Letitia R. Nelson, 64 years of age.

The deceased was a native of Virginia, where she lived previous to the war as the honored mother of a large family. During the war, they moved to this State and lived in Davie County, afterwards in Rowan. In the domestic circle and among her friends, she ever shined a pleasant and wholesome influence. A member of the Episcopal Church from early life, she was much loved, as she will be long remembered, for fervent piety and other christian virtues. She bore a long illness with exemplary patience, and died as she lived, relying for salvation on the merits of her Saviour. G. B. W.

AT FRANKLIN, ROWAN COUNTY, Jan. 17, 1882, Mrs. Fannie V. Thomason, wife of Mr. Wm. T. Thomason, in the 34th year of her age.

Mrs. Thomason was born in Salisbury, March 23rd, 1848, and was the daughter of the late John Shuman Sen., and Mrs. Elmina L. Shuman. She was early dedicated to God, the Presbyterian Church, being baptised by the Rev. Arch. Baker. She was trained in the Sabbath School of the Presbyterian Church, and at an early period became a communicant, and a teacher in the Sabbath School. She was married to Mr. Thomason in 1867 and at once moved to Franklin where she became an active member of the Church, and a useful member of society. She was a faithful wife and mother, lived in the fear of God and died in the hope of a blissful immortality. Her remains were interred in the burying ground of the Presbyterian Church of Franklin, her old pastor preaching the funeral, to a large and sympathizing congregation. J. R.

The South Carolina Legislature has passed a bill regulating the railroads within the State, and creating a railroad commissioner, at a salary of $3,000 per annum, who is to exercise a general supervision of all railroads doing business in the State.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

T. K. BRUNER, MANAGER.

Reports from Silver Valley continue very flattering. The Ureka mine, near Thomasville, has resumed work and is producing some high grade sulphuret ore.

Startling mining news is scarce, altho many mines is in active operation, and new ventures continually springing up. Quite a number of mining men are at Thomasville looking out for good properties, etc. This gives the town the aspect of a mining centre.

The North Carolina Mining and Reduction Co. will resume work at their Chlorination Works in a few days. Treating Bymer mine ore.

Our correspondent met Mr. Fred. H. Stith, proprietor of the Ward mine in Davidson County. He is sending in machinery and making ready to bring the Ward prominently out as a bullion producer.

We have just seen a bar of gold weighing about one and a half pounds, the result of five days work on the ten stamp at the Dunn's Mountain Gold Mine. This is the fifth bar of the kind produced since the mill was put in operation on the 26th of Dec. 1881.

The case of Fred H. Stith, et al, vs. Jno. F. McKee, et al, a suit of ejectment against the Conrad Hill Gold and Copper Company, of Davidson County, was tried at the special term of the Superior Court on the 26th, 27th and 28th January, and the Court decided that the Company's title in Law and Equity was perfect, and gave a verdict in favor of the Company on all the points asked for in the pleading. The amount involved was very large.

Dutch Creek Mine. T. K. Bruner, Esq., Mining Editor Watchman: DEAR SIR: Being interested in the working and sale of mines especially gold mines in North Carolina, I have through your columns some suggestions to make, and some points to note, which, I think are pertinent at this time, and are the outgrowth of a recent business trip of our president, Jno. C. Pennington, Esq., and myself to New York; as well as ideas gathered from your journal and a recent letter in the Mining Record, written by Chas. G. Mann, M. E., of High Point, under date of Jan. 10th, 1882.

I will be brief and as much to the point as possible. First, in New York, North Carolina has a black eye. We talked N. C. and gold mines as best we could. The favorable answer was, "Pshaw! North Carolina gold mines. Show us a mine that has ever made a cent there? Show us a mine that pays there and we will put our money in it. You say your ore is good know there, yet every body who goes there loses their money, &c." We cited Gold Hill, Kings Mountain, Radisill, and others; and the quick reply was: "None of your mines have paid yet. Look at the Mint Statistics. What is the output for the investment?—show us a success and we are ready."

Mr. Mann's letter is a good one, but it does not go far enough and shows no relief. While it shows mines that have paid, and a good many that are worked on private account that do pay, and can never be reported. I have recently heard of one miner who took four pounds of gold to New York that North Carolina never got a cent worth of credit for. How many more like him? What is the remedy? Only one thing. Have every body interested in gold mining to send their bulletin to the Charlotte Mint, where a proper credit can be obtained for the State. Then we can get capital here to take hold and make North Carolina a California, or a Nevada on the Eastern Slope. Query. How can this be done? Easily, though it may take time. Solution: You through your columns, call a meeting of all the mining interests in this State to meet, say in Raleigh, Charlotte or Salisbury, the first week in April 1882. Ask every paper in the State to copy and invite all mining interest—Gold, Silver, Copper, Lead, Mica, Iron, all. Have Prof. W. C. Kerr to preside, and form a North Carolina Miners' Association, or Convention. Have this Association or convention to elect permanent officers; let these officers obtain reports from all mines, stock as well as individual, and see that the output is tabulated correctly. The precious metal sent to the proper mint through the proper channel, and the loss metals, yes, and Coal too, taken care of as it should be, and you will see a revival that will astonish the natives; bring capital here; assist the country in being developed; do credit to mines that are scarcely known; let North Carolina, where she should be and help everybody. Try it. Do it and see the result. "Where there's a will there's a way." Respectfully, J. J. NEWMAN, Sec. D. C. M. Co.

For the Watchman. Why is it so? Mr. Editor: About two months ago there was a petition gotten up, signed by some fifteen or twenty citizens of Litcher township, for one J. L. Sifford to be appointed as a magistrate in place of Isaac Linker, Esq., dec'd. I learn that this petition, on being presented to the clerk of the Superior Court was opposed by the Hon. Chas. Price, who happened to come in the office at the time. The objection was that the said Sifford was a prohibitionist. Last week I learned that James Smith was appointed. I presume he must have been an Anti, or Mr. Price would not have had him appointed. Now, what we wish to know is, why could not Mr. Horah have appointed the first applicant, Sifford? And what did the Hon. Maj. Chas. Price, Esq., have to do with the filing of a vacancy away out in Litcher township? Is our Superior Court Clerk, Mr. Horah, to be governed by what Mr. Hon. &c., Price says? I don't know that Mr. Smith had a petition, but that is all right any way if Price said so!
