England has the electric light stock fever in as violent a form as the mining stock fever ever attacked the most susceptible of American communities. Shares are selling at fabulous prices; some have brought five times their face value. The talip bulbs that set all Holland crazy had as much intrinsic value as many of these shares; for the more successful the light the more earnestly the companies using it will be prosecuted for infringement. The most magnificent of these electric light schemes appears to be the most elaborate swindle. This showing the state of the English mind, Mr. Keely low water, independent of the water power. might find it profitable to emigrate with The mill-tract of land which will be sold with
