Recent Inventions.
We clip from the Scientific American:
An improved device for slicing potatoes and other vegetables has been patented by Mr. Ferdinand Espele, of San Francisco, Cal. A knife is pivoted in the usual manner to a frame, so as to slice the vegetable with a downward slanting cut, having a cushioned cutting plate to relieve the cutter from the strain which would result from a rigid cutting plate. A gauge is provided for regulating the thickness of the slice.
An invention has recently been made which provides an escape door to be located at the side of railroad passenger cars, to be used in case of accident when the doors at the ends of the car have been closed by the telescoping of the car, or by the abnormal abutment of the timbers from any cause. This door is hinged at the bottom, and the fastening appliances are so simple that any one without previous instruction can open it in case of accident. The patentee is Mr. Joseph Parkinson, of Danville, Va.

Some improvements have recently been made in machines for measuring bagging, carpets, and other fabrics, and a patent has been obtained for the same by M. J. C. Williams, of Scotland Neck, N. C. The fabric to be measured is passed through the machine and is brought thereby in contact with a drum, which is of an accurately measured circumference, and is rotated by the action of the fabric. A dial which indicates exactly each revolution of the drum is connected with the latter, whereby the number of yards of the fabric passed through the machine is automatically recorded.
Mr. Alex. G. Points, of Staunton, Va., is the patentee of an improved dinner pail for the use of workmen and excursionists. The casing is cylindrical and provided with a series of circular pans placed one above the other within the outer case, they being designed for meats, eggs, or other food. The opening at the top of the cylinder is closed by a tea kettle. A receptacle is formed at the end for carrying knives, forks, etc. Provision is made for carrying a tin cup on the tea kettle. The pail seems to be very compact and well arranged for the purpose for which it is intended.

Fallacies of the Learned.
Seneca, Claudian, Basil, Augustine, Gregory, Jerome, and perhaps Thucydides, agreed in the belief that crystal is simply ice strongly congealed; and such men as Scaliger, Albertus Magnus and Bassavolus assented to the proposition. It is, however, but fair to say that there were always opponents to this theory. Pliny denied the assertion, and in his company we find Agricola, Dioscorus Siculus, Cœsius Bernardus, and others. Of course, the test of specific gravity settles the matter at once.
As for astronomical and geographical fallacies, their name is legion. Xenophanes asserted that the earth had no bottom; Thales Milesius averred that it floated on water; and almost every old writer had his own pet craze about the problem.
A glimpse at the monkish map of the world, which is still preserved in Herford Cathedral, will prove the unsystematic nature of the topographical studies in much later days; but such errors are too numerous to be more than briefly hinted at, and fallacies re-peating crystals and precious stones afford in themselves sufficient matter for a tolerably long dissertation. To them, therefore, let us keep for the present.
Pliny believed that the diamond will suspend or prevent the attraction of the loadstone, if placed between it and a piece of iron; and, although the problem was one capable of speedy solution by experiment, he went on to ascribe the same remarkable property to the plant garlic.
Eusebius Nierembergins, a learned Spaniard had his own private craze. He imagined that the human body, left to turn as it would, would always point its head to the north; and it is hard to understand how this and most of the other fallacies connected with the loadstone escaped detection by experiment.
Lælius Bisciola, for instance, asserted that one ounce of iron added to ten ounces of loadstone would only produce a total weight of ten ounces; and Apollonius and Beda join in testifying that there are certain loadstones which attract only at night, while other learned authorities affirm that the mineral in question, when burned, gives off an unbearable stench, and that, if preserved in certain salts, it has the power of attracting gold, even out of the deepest wells.—All the Year Round.

It is said that our people expend every eleven years for intoxicating liquors more than the value of all the products of agriculture and all our mechanical and manufacturing industries. The $600,000,000 paid for liquors in a year, would buy 1,000,000 barrels of flour, which, loaded in wagons, ten barrels to the wagon, would extend 45,456 miles, nearly twice around the earth or half way to the moon.

Pampered.
It is very easy to spoil children by rearing them in idleness. A girl who is never allowed to sew, all of whose clothes are made for her and put on her, till she is ten, twelve, fifteen, or eighteen years of age, is spoiled. The true idea of self-restraint is to let the child venture. A child's mistakes are often better than no mistakes; because when a child makes mistakes, and has to correct them, it is on the way towards knowing something. A boy who is "put to bed" at night, who is waked up ever morning, and never wakes himself up; and never makes mistakes in dressing himself; and is washed, and never makes mistakes about being clean; and is fed, and never has anything to do with his food; is watched and never watches himself; and is cared for, and kept all day from doing wrong—such a child might as well be a fawn candle, perfectly straight and solid and comely and unvital, and good for nothing but to be burned up.

How Birds Learn to Sing.
A wren built her nest in a box on a New Jersey farm. The occupants of the farm house saw the mother teaching her young to sing. She sat in front of them, and sang her whole song very distinctly. One of her young attempted to imitate her. After proceeding through a few notes his voice broke, and it lost the tune. The mother recommenced where the young one had failed, and went very distinctly through with the remainder. The young bird made a second attempt, commencing where it had ceased before, and continuing the song as long as it was able, and when the notes were again lost, the mother began again where it had stopped, and completed it. Then the young one resumed the tune and finished it. This done, the mother sang over the whole series of notes the second time with great precision, and again the young one attempted to follow her. The wren pursued the same course with this one as with the first, and so with the third and fourth, until each of the birds became a perfect singer.

The Terrors of an Epidemic.
London Spectator.
Nothing is more curious than the fact that dying as one of a crowd seems to be more terrible to a man than simply dying his own individual death. Unquestionably there seems to be no kind of death more dreaded by men than death either from sudden catastrophes—like that of the King Theatre at Vienna and that on the Clyde, for instance—or from pestilence. No doubt it is perfectly true that death cannot be shared in the same sense in which a peril or a pleasure can be shared. You cannot in all probability be conscious of the strength of companionship after life begins to flicker low, nor are there above one or two people in the world with whom most men would covet the sense of companionship in such a moment as that of death. Still, it is some what curious that death on a grand scale always seems to be more terrible, even to the separate individuals, than the ordinary death by units. Of course, terror is very catching, and, therefore, the terror of a crowd always enhances the terror of the individual. But though that explains the supreme agony of a sinking ship or a burning theatre, it does not in the least explain the additional dread of death which plague seems to inspire in individuals, for between the inhabitants of a plague-stricken city there is "always very much less active sympathy than there was before the pestilence appeared, and it is rather through the growth of mutual repulsion than through the heightening of a common sympathy that the influence of pestilence is chiefly felt. As a fact, very few patients stricken with ordinary disease, show any panic at all, while the perfectly healthy man, surrounded by pestilence, is too often consumed with terror which renders him absolutely unfit for the discharge of his duties.

HONEY TREE.—A correspondent writing us from Yackindine says there is a honey tree—a spanish oak—on the road from that place to East Bend one mile from Forbush postoffice that is a curiosity, and that has attracted the attention of many people in the county. The tree is about one foot in diameter and the honey exudes from all parts of the body and limbs running down the tree in such quantity that the hogs in the neighborhood have been attracted by it and feed upon it while swarms of bees alight all around it. The substance is sweet. Will not some scientific gentleman tell us what it is?—Winston Republican.

PHILADELPHIA, Wis., Feb. 11, 1882.
I am in the ninetieth year of my earthly pilgrimage, and before passing to another, and I trust, a better world, I wish to bear testimony to the great benefit of Brandreth's Pills as a household remedy. They are the best purgatives and cleansers of the stomach and bowels in the world. I have raised a family of 10 children, been blessed with three wives, and my family experience reaches over seventy years. For over forty-five years I have known and benefited by Brandreth's Pills. They have cured me of indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, and the females of my family have found them invaluable at all times. I also wish to say that I have found ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER very useful in breast pains, backache and weak muscles.

CURE OF NEURALGIA.
Schenck Ave., East New York, April 12, 1880.
I most cordially give my testimony as to the great value of Brandreth's Pills, verified by eighteen years' experience in my mother's (the late Mr. Dr. Geo. M. Brown) family and my own. They were first taken as a "forlorn hope" for the cure of a very severe case of Neuralgia of several years' standing, the patient being completely prostrated by disease and the excessive use of opium, taken to deaden the pain (by advice of her physician). The effects were almost magical; in one month she was able to be up and walk around freely, and the disease has never returned. My mother was also cured of an attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism by the same means about six years ago I was taken with what appeared to be a bad cold, but in a short time, symptoms of confluent Small Pox were developed, causing much alarm. I determined to try Brandreth's Pills as a remedy, and their efficacy was proved. I was well much sooner than was expected, and without receiving a single mark or trouble of any kind. It is my firm belief, judging from the severity of the case, that had I gone through the regular routine prescribed by physicians, I should have died. I know of many other instances of the value of Brandreth's Pills in disease and sickness, which I will be happy to give to any one who will apply to me.

Tale Formation.
In mining and prospecting in this country altogether too little attention has been paid to the formation known as tale. This substance is generally found in the neighborhood of mineral and, and common custom has assigned it to the dump. That there are formations that carry mineral other than the general accepted ores is being proved from time to time so conclusively that to say anything is barren is making an assertion that is likely to give the lie on test. Carbonates, in the early days of Leadville, or California Gulch, as was it then called, were known to exist, but were supposed to be valueless, and hence the bonanza camp lay for years undeveloped and unthought of other than for its placer mines. Tellurium is another formation, though known to experts and well-posted mining men, is not generally known at all and tons have been consigned to the dump by tenderfeet and prospectors because they could not see anything that looked like mineral in it. Recently at Bonanza, Colorado, some parties working a prospect were throwing this valuable mineral over the dump and other parties coming along and seeing it bought the property for a fraction of what was in sight and on the dump. And now we find the Nellie S. mine, on Printer Hill, Leadville, has been consigning tale to the vast dump that on assay runs from $20,000 to $50,000 a ton in gold. The Polomas Chief, New Mexico, has given us some magnificent specimens of "native silver in tale, and now the Cucillos are furnishing specimens that are plentifully specked with silver. To prospect thoroughly, formations lying adjacent to bodies of mineral should be assayed and bearings or common custom dispensed with. The fact we cannot see mineral in rock is no evidence that it is not there, and to presuppose that we know all about it is to show ourselves enemies to advancement and science.

Best in the World.
Brandreth's Pills have stood the test of forty-five years of use by the American people. They are entirely Vegetable. They are absolutely universal, for there is no disease they will not cure, if taken in time. They are safe for infants and adults. They aim to accomplish three things: first, to purify the blood; second, to cleanse and regulate the stomach and bowels; third, to stimulate the kidneys and liver and purge away the ashes of the system and diseased matters of the body. By purging with these Pills constantly, a new body can be built up from fresh, healthy food in a few months. In this way, gout and rheumatism, ulcers and fever sores can be eradicated in a few weeks. The worst cases of dyspepsia and constiveness can be cured by taking one or two pills every night for a month. In cases of twenty years' standing, gentlemen have been cured by taking one pill a night for a year. Brandreth's Pills give to the human body, no matter how worn or decayed, the recuperative powers of youth. In their action, they imitate the rapid changes of the youthful body. We all wish to die of old age. A hundred years is the natural limit of life, which can only be reached by purging and purification. In general debility, nervous tremor, and mental depression Brandreth's Pills have a marvelous effect. They have won the confidence of millions in all parts of the civilized world. Constitutions shaken by long residence in unwholesome climates, or by sedentary habits, are wonderfully renovated by a course of this extraordinary medicine, which, powerful as is its action on the whole system, is perfectly harmless to the tenderest frame. The Pills are composed of rare balsams, without the admixture of a grain of any mineral whatever, or of any other deleterious substance. They operate directly, powerfully, and beneficially upon the whole mass of blood; nor can we question the fact when we see indigestion cured, liver brought into healthy play, and all every physical function renewed and strengthened by their agency.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.
They are a vegetable tonic purgative, absolutely harmless under all circumstances. They never injure the weakest female or the youngest child. One box is a medicine chest sufficient for a whole family. Suppose you have diarrhoea; nature is making a great effort to get rid of some irritating matter in the stomach or bowels. A dose of Brandreth's Pills removes the matter and the disease is cured. In costiveness one good dose of Brandreth's Pills, followed by one pill every night for a week or two, make the human machinery run as regular as clock work. In bad colds, where the pores of the skin are closed and the insensible perspiration thrown upon the nose, opening the fountains of life and filling the nose, the throat and the lungs with choking mucus, seven Brandreth's Pills taken at night on an empty stomach, will restore the perspiration, break up the cold and purge away all the watery secretions that should have passed off by the skin. Diphtheria, a family disease and a most dangerous one, is almost immediately cured by one or two doses of Brandreth's Pills, aided by a gargle of lime water. Rheumatism, which comes from too much acidity or too much alkalinity of the system, requires nothing but Brandreth's Pills, and a few good sweats to make a perfect cure.
It is marvelous how they purify the blood. After two doses, the effect is seen in brightness of the eyes and clearness of the skin. All pimples and eruptions vanish like magic under the influence of this purifying purgative. We cannot stop the march of time with any medicine; but Brandreth's Pills will remove the excessive lime from the system and prevent grey hair. They improve the sight and tone up the human body, so that the old man's eyes will be undimmed and his natural force undiminished even after seventy years.

PHILADELPHIA, Wis., Feb. 11, 1882.
I am in the ninetieth year of my earthly pilgrimage, and before passing to another, and I trust, a better world, I wish to bear testimony to the great benefit of Brandreth's Pills as a household remedy. They are the best purgatives and cleansers of the stomach and bowels in the world. I have raised a family of 10 children, been blessed with three wives, and my family experience reaches over seventy years. For over forty-five years I have known and benefited by Brandreth's Pills. They have cured me of indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, and the females of my family have found them invaluable at all times. I also wish to say that I have found ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER very useful in breast pains, backache and weak muscles.

CURE OF NEURALGIA.
Schenck Ave., East New York, April 12, 1880.
I most cordially give my testimony as to the great value of Brandreth's Pills, verified by eighteen years' experience in my mother's (the late Mr. Dr. Geo. M. Brown) family and my own. They were first taken as a "forlorn hope" for the cure of a very severe case of Neuralgia of several years' standing, the patient being completely prostrated by disease and the excessive use of opium, taken to deaden the pain (by advice of her physician). The effects were almost magical; in one month she was able to be up and walk around freely, and the disease has never returned. My mother was also cured of an attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism by the same means about six years ago I was taken with what appeared to be a bad cold, but in a short time, symptoms of confluent Small Pox were developed, causing much alarm. I determined to try Brandreth's Pills as a remedy, and their efficacy was proved. I was well much sooner than was expected, and without receiving a single mark or trouble of any kind. It is my firm belief, judging from the severity of the case, that had I gone through the regular routine prescribed by physicians, I should have died. I know of many other instances of the value of Brandreth's Pills in disease and sickness, which I will be happy to give to any one who will apply to me.

I have used Brandreth's Pills for over thirty years. I am a great sufferer from Rheumatism. Whenever I feel it take one or two of Brandreth's Pills, and I am relieved, I also take them for constipation, and I am also troubled, and they always give me relief. I could not get along without your pills in my house.
