The Wood Chuck.

A special committee of the New Hampshire Legislature has been amusing the members of the legislature and the readers of its reports by a semi-serious diatribe against the woodchuck; the occasion being a bill to authorize a bounty of fifteen cents on each woodchuck killed.

But really the "woodchuck," or "wood hog," is a terrible pest to farmers in New England and in the northern tier of countries of our Middle States. It does immense havoc to growing crops, and its devastations seem to require as encouraging legislative enactments for its destruction in the way of bounties as in former years the legislatures offered for wolves' heads or foxes' skin.

The woodchuck is one of the most wary of animals. He is as bad a sneak as the weasel. He makes his ground burrow in a field planted to corn, or to other vegetables, or cultivated to clover. His hole may be found, but long before the beast can be reached he is far away. It is difficult to attempt to drown out a woodchuck by filling his hole with water. Long before the water can be brought to the hole the woodchuck has made a new home. Indeed, it is a fact that a chased woodchuck has made a new burrow a most in sight of his pursuers while they were searching for him.

There is nothing succulent and of a solid quality that the woodchuck does not relish; growing beans, lettuce, peas, spring corn, new potatoes, anything that is good for humans is good enough for him. He will make a meal of clover, or will subsist on ordinary grass.

But all his life he knows that he is a sneak thief. He does not come out and rob like his betters of the ferocious tribe, but is very careful about exposing himself. Just after the sun has sunk in the west, in the inter-gloaming between daylight and dark, he sneaks out of his hole and goes to feeding, but he never feeds without watching. His down nibblings and uprisings are so frequent as almost to be instantaneous. It is considered in New England localities where the wood chuck abounds, a fair trial of skill to send a rifle bullet through one as he shows himself above the grass or stubble. This extraordinary quickness of movement makes the hunting of the woodchuck a sport. Usually the woodchuck is caught with dogs and "drowning out" by pouring water in his subterranean habitation, after driving him in and being sure that he is there.

The woodchuck, to those whose prejudices do not extend beyond reason, makes a palatable dish. He is a cleanly fed animal, taking only vegetable food. He is a hibernating animal, sleeping like the bear from frost to spring, and grows fat on vegetation of the field and garden, until in the fall he is "fat as a hog," which he is, and deserves to die to give food to those whom he has robbed a whole season through.

Avoid Farm Mortgages.

H. A. Haigh gives the following wholesome advice on mortgages to farmers in the American Agriculturist for August:

Mortgages are necessary and beneficial in civilized society, but there are unpleasant features about them. They often enable a man to accomplish what he could not otherwise do, and they also often involve a man who would have been otherwise successful. They often enable a man to get out of trouble which he could not otherwise avoid, and they perhaps equally as often make miserable a life which would have otherwise been happy. It is easy to get them on the farm, but it is not always so easy to get them off. Farm mortgages are about the best investment that capital can find. Investors generally like them. They partake of the nature, permanence, and other substantial qualities of real property, but are relieved from many burdens imposed upon land.

Therefore:—1. Do not mortgage the farm unless it seems absolutely necessary. But, as a general rule is less valuable than a particular one, it may be well to specify, by adding: 2. Do not mortgage to build a fine house. By so doing, you will have to pay for an investment which does not bring money: 3. Do not mortgage the farm to buy more land. Where there is absolute certainty that more can be made out of the land than the cost of the mortgage, this rule might not apply. But absolute certainty is rare; mistaken calculation is common. 4. Do not mortgage the farm unless you are sure of the continued fertility of its soil. Many persons borrow with an expectation of repayment based on an experience of the land's virginity only, which, on failing, may leave the land less productive, and the means of repayment thus be removed. In this way trouble begins which may result in the loss of the farm. Keep very clear of mortgages.

LEADVILLE, COL., August 31.—Reidy Williams and Ed Cunningham, living near Red Cliff, Battle Mountain, yesterday agreed to settle their rivalry for the hand of a young lady by means of pistols. At a signal each drew his weapon and fired. Williams fell at the first shot, pierced through the heart, and Cunningham fell shot through the lungs, and died a few minutes later.

How to Run.

Of course every healthy boy who has the use of his legs claims that he can run. A writer in St. Nicholas gives the following hint on the subject:

I believe I can tell the boys something that will help them to run better. I was a pretty old boy when I first found it out, but the first time I tried it I ran a mile and a quarter at one dash, and was not weary nor blown. And now I am going to give you the secret:

Breathe through your nose!

I had been thinking what poor runners we are, and wondering why the animals can run so far, and it came to me that perhaps this might account for the difference, that they always take air through the nose, while we usually begin to puff through our mouths before we have gone many rods. Some animals, such as the dog and the fox, do open their mouths and pant while running, but they do this to cool themselves and not because they cannot get air enough through their noses.

I found once, through a sad experience with a pet dog, that a dog must die if his nostrils become stopped.—They will breathe through the mouth only while it is forcibly held open; if left to themselves they always breathe through their nose.

So, possibly, we are intended to take all our breath through the nose, unless necessity drives us to breathe through the mouth.

There are many other reasons why we ought to make our noses furnish all the air to our lungs. One is, the nose is filled with a little forest of hair, which is always kept moist, like all the inner surfaces of the nose, and particles of dust that would otherwise rush into the lungs and make trouble, are caught and kept out by this little hairy network. Then the passages of the nose are longer, and smaller, and more crooked than that of the mouth, so that as it passes through them the air becomes warm. But these are only a few reasons why the nose ought not to be switched off and left idle, as so many noses are, while their owners go puffing through their mouths.

All trainers of men for racing, and rowing, and all other athletic contests, understand this, and teach their pupils accordingly. If the boys will try this plan, they will soon see what a difference it will make in their endurance. After you have run a few rods holding your mouth tightly closed there will come a time when it will seem as though you could not get air enough through the nose alone; but don't give up; keep right on, and in a few moments you will overcome this. A little practice of this method will go far to make you the best runner in the neighborhood.

A Dangerous Plaything Two Young Children were Found with.

A Stroudsburg (Penn.) telegram says, a few days ago a neighbor of Mrs. Franklin Smith, in Eldred township, this county, while passing her house, saw her lying in the yard with two children crying by her side. The neighbor hastened to Mrs. Smith, and saw lying a few feet away a large rattlesnake dead. Mrs. Smith was unconscious but was soon revived and explained the situation. Her child, age two, and a child of a neighbor, age three, were playing in the yard, and she had been watching them from the door, enjoying their sport. She noticed that while they were side by side in the grass her little one was occasionally striking in front of her with a short stick she had in her hand, and after each stroke both children would laugh heartily. The other child at intervals would bend forward, with her face to the ground, and apparently stroke something with her hand. There had been a small land turtle about the yard for some days, and Mrs. Smith supposed the children had come across this and were amusing themselves with it. She watched them for as much as a quarter of an hour, when she walked toward them to see what they were doing to the turtle. When within a few feet of them she was struck speechless and motionless with horror to see that their plaything was a large rattlesnake, which was at full length, making no hostile demonstrations, simply raising its head when it was touched, opening its mouth and darting its tongue out and in. It was this performance of the snake which caused the children's mirth. Finally Mrs. Smith took a step or two forward, and the snake discovered her. Instantly its whole appearance changed. As quick as lightning it threw itself into the coil which gives it the power to make its deadly spring, and sounded its rattle. This sudden movement of the snake alarmed the children, and they moved quickly away. Mrs. Smith then found a club, and with a few blows killed the snake, after which she remembered nothing until revived by her neighbor. The snake was between four and five feet long, and had seven rattles.

Maternal Love.

A mother's love is deep, abiding, and peculiar. The child, as soon as born, is taken up into her tenderest and most generous sympathies, and lives, as it were a part of herself. This peculiar affection is as extensive as the race, for it is found among savage as well as civilized people. This affection was strikingly manifested by an Indian who had lost her child. Unable to find her own child, she entered the home of a white family and taking in her arms the pretty baby, lavished upon it her wealth of reassured sympathies. The mother was surprised at the peculiar exhibition, and sprang forward to rescue her child, when the poor Indian gathered up her blanket as one would a sick child, and, after clasping it in her arms, uttered a low, mournful cry. Tears ran down her cheeks as the white mother put her pretty babe back into the Indian's arms. She passed her hands over it very tenderly and gratefully and departed. In a week she came again, bringing a peck of ripe plums, and the next time two buffalo tongues. She asked permission, by signs, to kiss the baby, and it was granted. Then she departed, and never came again.

LONDON, August 31.—The Vicar of Stratford on Avon, has signified his willingness to allow the remains of Shakespeare to be examined. The object is disturbing the remains to compare the skull of the poet with the busts and portraits of him.

THE TORNADO AT ROCHESTER.

The wind that destroyed the town of Rochester, Minnesota, August 24, was attended with many remarkable results. On the grounds of F. A. Poole, opposite the court house, a curious freak of the storm is to be seen. A pine board, about six feet long and four inches wide, is driven endways through the trunk of a maple tree six inches thick, and remains embedded in it.

The wife of one farmer, who was in the field, started for the house, but failed to reach it. She ran for a stake in the field, but was blown almost to pieces. The stake was driven through her body, and her limbs torn off so that they have not yet been found.

The Hon. John McCall, of Winona was killed near his elevator. He had started for the house, across the way but, had evidently been caught in the air and whirled on to the earth, for the grass was swept clean where he was found and ever bone in his body was broken.

A silent hour under the stars may whisper to your soul great thoughts of eternity.

Japanese Foot Gear.

One of the most striking sights that takes the attention of the traveler in Japan is that of the wooden sandals worn by the 35,000,000 of people. These sandals have a separate compartment for the great toe, and make a clacking noise on the streets. Straw slippers are also worn, and a traveler starting out on a journey will strap a supply of them on his back, that he may put on a new pair when the old is worn out. They cost but a cent and a half a pair. They are rights and lefts, and leave the foot free to the air; we never see those deformities of the foot in Japan which are so frequent in this country. They are never worn in the house, being left outside the door. Pacing down the street you see long rows of them at the doors, old and new, large and small. It is surprising to see how rapidly the Japs step out of them and pick them up again with their feet, without stopping, when leaving the house.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They are a vegetable tonic purgative, absolutely harmless under all circumstances. They never injure the weakest female or the youngest child. One box is a medicine chest sufficient for a whole family. Suppose you have diarrhea; nature is making a great effort to get rid of some irritating matter in the stomach or bowels. A dose of Brandreth's Pills removes the matter and the disease is cured. In costiveness one good dose of Brandreth's Pills, followed by one pill every night for a week or two, make the human machinery run as regular as clock work. In bad colds, where the pores of the skin are closed and the insensible perspiration thrown upon the blood, poisoning the fountains of life and filling the nose, the throat and the lungs with choking mucus; seven Brandreth's Pills taken at night on an empty stomach, will restore the perspiration, break up the cold and purge away all the watery secretions that should have passed off by the skin. Diphtheria, a family disease and a most dangerous one, is almost immediately cured by one or two doses of Brandreth's Pills, aided by a gargle of lime water. Rheumatism, which comes from too much acidity or too much alkali of the system, requires nothing but Brandreth's Pills and a few good sweats to make a perfect cure.

It is marvelous how they purify the blood. After two doses, the effect is seen in brightness of the eyes and clearness of the skin. All pimples and eruptions vanish like magic under the influence of this purifying purgative. We cannot stop the march of time with any medicine; but Brandreth's Pills will remove the excessive lime from the system and prevent grey hair. They improve the sight and tone up the human body, so that the old man's eyes will be undimmed and his natural force unabated even after seventy years.

Best in the World.

Brandreth's Pills have stood the test of forty-five years of use by the American people. They are entirely vegetable. They are absolutely unobjectionable, for there is no disease they will not cure, if taken in time. They are safe for infants and adults. They aim to accomplish three things: first, to purify the blood; second, to cleanse and regulate the stomach and bowels; third, to stimulate the kidneys and liver and purge away the ashes of the system and diseased matters of the body. By purging with these Pills constantly, a new body can be built up from fresh, healthy food in a few months. In this way, gout and rheumatism, ulcers and fever sores can be eradicated in a few weeks. The worst cases of dyspepsia and costiveness can be cured by taking one or two pills every night for a month. In cases of twenty years' standing, gentlemen have been cured by taking one pill a night for a year. Brandreth's Pills give to the human body, no matter how worn or decayed, the recuperative powers of youth. In their action, they imitate the rapid changes of the youthful body. We all wish to die of old age. A hundred years is the natural limit of life, which can only be reached by purging and purification.

In general debility, nervous tremor, and mental depression Brandreth's Pills have a marvelous effect. They have won the confidence of millions in all parts of the civilized world. Constitutionally shaken by long residence in unwholesome climates, or by sedentary habits, are wonderfully renovated by a course of this extraordinary medicine, which, powerful as is its action on the whole system, is perfectly harmless to the tenderest frame. The Pills are composed of rare balsams, without the admixture of a grain of any mineral whatever, or of any other deleterious substance. They operate directly, powerfully, and beneficially upon the whole mass of blood; nor can we question the fact when we see indigestion cured, liver complaints arrested, the oppressed lungs brought into beautiful play, and every physical function renewed and strengthened by their agency.

The Four Trials.

There was once an old monk who was walking through a forest with a little scholar by his side. The old man suddenly stopped and pointed to four plants close at hand. The first was beginning to peep above the ground; the second had rooted itself pretty well into the earth; the third was a smart shrub; whilst the fourth and last was a full sized tree. Then the old monk said to his young companion:

"Pull up the first!"
The boy pulled it up easily with his fingers.

"Now pull up the second!"
The youth obeyed, but not so easily.

"And the third!"
But the boy had to put forth all his strength and use both arms before he succeeded in uprooting it.

"And now," said the master, "try your hand upon the fourth."

But lo! the trunk of the tall tree (grasped in the arms of the youth) scarcely shook its leaves; and the little fellow found it impossible to tear its roots from the earth. Then the wise old monk explained to his scholar the meaning of the four trials.

"This, my son, is just what happens to our passions. When they are very young and weak, one may, by a little watchfulness over self, and help of a little self-denial, easily tear them up; but if we let them cast their roots deep down into our souls, then no human power can uproot them, the Almighty hand of the Creator alone can pluck them out. For this reason, my child, watch well over the first movements of your soul, and study acts of virtue to keep your passions in check."—Ez.

CURE OF NEURALGIA.

Taken as "Forlorn Hope," Brandreth's Pills Effect a Magical Cure.—Small-Pox Cured.

Schenck Ave., East New York, April 12, 1880.

I most cordially give my testimony as to the great value of Brandreth's Pills, verified by eighteen years' experience in my mother's (the late Mrs. Dr. Geo. M. Browne) family and my own. They were at first taken as a "forlorn hope," for the cure of a very severe case of Neuralgia of several years' standing, the patient being completely prostrated by disease and the excessive use of opium, taken to deaden the pain (by advice of her physician). The effects were almost magical; in one month she was able to be up and walk around freely, and the disease has never returned. My mother was also cured of an attack of inflammatory Rheumatism by the same means. About six years ago I was taken with what appeared to be a bad cold, but in a short time, symptoms of confluent Small Pox were developed, causing much alarm. I determined to try Brandreth's Pills as a remedy, and their efficacy was soon apparent. I was well much sooner than was expected, and without receiving a single mark or trouble of any kind. It is my firm belief, judging from the severity of the case, that had I gone through the regular routine prescribed by physicians, I should have died. I know of many other instances of the value of Brandreth's Pills in disease and sickness, which I will be happy to give to any one who will apply to me.

COULD NOT GET ALONG WITHOUT BRANDRETH'S PILLS IN THE HOUSE.

84 Morton Street, New York City, Mar. 1, 1880.

I have used Brandreth's Pills for over thirty years. I am a great sufferer from Rheumatism. Whenever I feel it take one or two take them for costiveness, which I am almost sure to have, and they always give me relief. I could not get along without your pills in my household.

Letter from a Gentleman Ninety Years Old.—Long Life from Use of Brandreth's Pills.

PRairie du Chen, Wis., Feb. 11, 1882.

I am in the ninetieth year of my earthly pilgrimage, and before passing to another, I trust, a better world, I wish to state my indebtedness to the great virtues of Brandreth's Pills as a household remedy. They are the best blood purifiers and cleansers of the stomach and bowels in the world. I have raised a family of 10 children, blessed with three wives, and my family experience with these Pills is a household experience of over seventy years. For over forty-five years I have not been believed in Brandreth's Pills. They have cured me of indigestion, costiveness, dyspepsia; and the females of my family have found them invaluable at all times. I also wish to say that I have found AUNT DOUGLASS'S PLEASANT AND WEAK MUSCLES.
