

Never wash raisins that are to be used in sweet dishes. It makes the pudding heavy. To clean them wipe in a dry towel.

Grape Grower's Maxims.
The Vine Dresser lays down the following rules:

1. Prepare the ground in the fall; plant in spring.
2. Give the vine plenty of manure, old and well decomposed; for fresh manure excites the growth but does not mature it.
3. Luxuriant growth does not insure fruit.
4. Dig deep, but plant shallow.
5. Young vines produce beautiful fruit, but old vines produce the richest.
6. Prune in autumn to insure growth, but in spring to promote fruitfulness.
7. Plant your vines before you put up trellises.
8. Vines, like soldiers, should have good arms.
9. Prune spurs to one developed bud, for the nearer the old wood the higher flavored the fruit.
10. Those who prune long must soon climb.
11. Vine leaves love the sun; the fruit the shade.
12. Every leaf has a bud at the base, and either a bunch of fruit or a tendril opposite it.
13. A tendril is an abortive fruit bunch—a bunch of fruit, a productive tendril.
14. A bunch of grapes without a healthy leaf opposite is like a ship at sea without a rudder—it can't come to port.
15. Laterals are like politicians; if not checked, they are the worst of thieves.

Not in Harmony.
Mr. and Mrs. Widgeon do not live in harmony. They live in Austin. They fight more or less every day in the week, and we infer from the following that Mrs. Widgeon is not entirely to blame, as her husband causes her to become angry every once in a while.

Potatoe Recipes by Miss Corson.
Small Potatoes, Stewed.—Wash small potatoes of even size, rubbing the skins off with a cloth if they are new, or peeling them smoothly and thinly; put them over the fire in sufficient actually boiling water to cover them, with a tablespoonful of salt, and boil them fast, only until they are tender enough to pierce with a fork; then at once drain them, dust them with pepper and salt, and pour over them two tablespoonfuls of butter, melted by gentle heat, for each pint of potatoes; shake them gently to distribute the butter evenly, and then serve them very hot.

Fried Potatoes.—Peel and slice a quart of potatoes quite thin, and drop them into cold water and wash them; put two heaping tablespoonfuls of lard or sweet drippings into a thick fryingpan, then put in the potatoes without draining them, season them with pepper and salt, put a cover over them, and cook them for about fifteen minutes, or until they are tender, stirring them frequently to insure even cooking, and prevent burning; then serve them hot.

Fried Hashed Potatoes.—Peel half a dozen cold boiled potatoes, slice them thin, and cut them in small dice; put two tablespoonfuls of butter or sweet drippings in a frying pan over the fire, and when the fat begins to smoke put in the potatoes; season them rather lightly with pepper and salt, stir them occasionally to prevent burning, brown them quickly, and serve them hot. Small bits of cold ham or bacon can be fried with the potatoes, to vary the flavor of the dish.

Mashed Potatoes.—Peel and slice a quart of potatoes, put them over the fire in sufficient boiling water to cover them, with a tablespoonful of salt, and boil them only until tender; then drain them; add to them the yolk of a raw egg, a tablespoonful of butter, a palatable seasoning of salt, and quarter of a salt spoonful each of white pepper and nutmeg, and either mash them smoothly with a potato smasher, or beat them with a fork; then put them lightly on a dish and serve them hot.

Saratoga Potatoes.—Peel and slice the potatoes, put them into cold water containing a tablespoonful of salt, or a bit of alum as large as a grain of corn to each quart, and let them stand over night, for several hours. Heat a frying pan half full of fat; drain the potatoes, and dry them on a clean cloth towel; when the fat is smoking hot put in the potatoes, fry them golden, and then take them up with a skimmer and put them into a colander; sprinkle them with salt, shake them thoroughly, and then serve them.

What is Desired in a Wife.
It is not to sweep the house and make the beds and darn the socks and cook the meals chiefly that a man wants a wife. If this is all he wants, hired servants can do it cheaper than a wife. If this is all, when a young man calls to see a young lady, send him into the pantry to taste the bread and cakes she has made; send him to see the needle-work and bed-making or put a broom in her hands and send him to witness its use. Such things are important and the wise will quietly look after them. But what the true man wants of a wife is her companionship, sympathy and love.

The way of life has many dreary places in it, and man needs a companion to go with him. A man is sometimes overtaken by misfortune; he meets with failures and defeats, trials and temptations beset him, and he needs one to stand by and sympathize. He has some stern battles to fight with poverty, with enemies and with sin, and he needs a woman that, as he puts his arm around her, she feels that he has something to fight for; who will put her lips to his ear and whisper words of counsel, and her hand to his heart and impart new inspiration. All through life, through storm and sunshine, conflict and victory; through adverse and favorable winds man needs a woman's love. The heart yearns for it. A sister's and mother's love will hardly supply the need, yet many seek nothing further than home-work. Justly enough, half of these get nothing more. The other half surprised above measure, obtain more than they sought. Their wives surprised them by giving a noble idea of marriage and disclosing a treasure of courage, sympathy and love.

COREA.
The Land which Doesn't Hesitate to Sacrifice a Stranger's Head.

Corea lies as a peninsula between the Japan and Yellow seas, projecting from the northern part of the empire of China. It is a kingdom, with an area of 80,000 square miles. The king of Corea is a supreme ruler. His word is law, even when it affects life or death, and he is almost considered a god, and the greatest honors possible are paid to him. Three ministers constitute the king's cabinet, and they are virtually the government. Each has his various sub-officials, and all are honored in keeping with the dignity of their positions. The king has no great standing army, for the empire of China protects him against invasion from foreign foes or from internecine strife. At one time, the Tarnian language was the universal speech of the kingdom, but the Chinese language has largely taken its place. At one time Buddhism was the national religion, but Confucius's teachings have largely replaced it since the 14th century, and it may be considered the national religion to-day. There are still many superstitions extant, and there is a great belief in the power of evil spirits. Great attention is paid to funerals and the worship of the ancestors. There is also a general belief in the supernatural powers of serpents and reptiles. The women cut a small figure in the kingdom. They have neither a legal nor social status. Concubinage is recognized as a universal practice, and marriage is considered a matter of family policy. Education is looked upon as a necessity, especially in public life, and no official can hold office without first having passed a public examination. The abodes of the lower classes are miserable hovels, one story high, ten or twelve feet square, built of wood, clay and rice straw, with a thatched roof. The floor is mother earth, and the furnishing is simple. The dude would have little show there, for the fashionable costume consists of a pair of coarse cotton cloth and very baggy breeches, and very long vests. As for head gear, anything will answer, from a rice straw to a palm leaf hat, and when that is not procurable, the people go bare headed. The punishments for crimes are severe and tortures frequent. Harakiri is a mild kind of punishment. Men are put to the torture, and are frequently condemned to lose a leg or a thigh, an ear or an eye, and sometimes they take off the scalp just under the ears, omitting to leave any portion of the head. When a man commits treason, they not only punish him by cutting off his ears or his leg, but they do the same thing to his wife and his wife's relations. The climate of Corea is said to be very temperate and healthful. Rice, millet, wheat, rye, cotton, hemp, etc., are its principal productions. The minerals are said to abound in great profusion.

INTELLIGENCE OF ANTS.—Each ant in an ant-hill knows its companions. Mr. Darwin several times carried ants from one hill to another, inhabited apparently by tens of thousands of ants; but the strangers were invariably detected and killed. Thinking that there might be a family odor by which they were recognized he put some ants from a very large nest into a bottle strongly perfumed with asafetida, and restored them after twenty-four hours. At first they were threatened by their companions, but soon recognized, and allowed to pass.

The red rust on raspberries is a fungus which rapidly spreads to healthy plants. Every hill showing signs of it should be rooted up and burned. It may be avoided on the varieties that root from the tips by planting only those tips grown the year after setting out the plants. At this age all will be healthy and remain so.

HALL'S VEGETABLE HAIR REGENERATOR.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S VEGETABLE HAIR REGENERATOR. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

A Great Water-Power FOR SALE!

The most extraordinary unimproved Water Power on the Yadkin River is for sale at low figures. It is situated at the head of the Narrows in Stanly county, 8 miles from Albemarle, the county seat, 13 miles from Gold Hill, and about 28 miles from Salisbury. It is one mile from the public highway leading to Salisbury, from which road it is easily accessible down to the water's edge. The peculiar feature of this property is that it is a natural stone dam which makes about a six foot head of available water. The dam runs at an angle of about 20 or 25 deg. up the river nearly all the way across, gradually diminishing in height as it approaches the opposite shore. A race of 400 feet in length will add from 12 to 14 additional feet of head, making the grand power of 18 or 20. There is any quantity of building stone and slate of excellent quality, on the premises, easily transported by water.

This excellent power may be used for GRIST AND FLOURING MILLS, COTTON & WOOLEN FACTORIES, REDUCTION MILL FOR SULPHUR, RETED ORES. It is conveniently near the mines of Montgomery, Stanly, parts of Cabarrus, Rowan and Davidson Counties to make it a custom mill, for the reduction of ores, with the great advantage of being in the centre of the mining districts named above. The ores within easy reach could not be worked out in a century. This water power with 10 acres attached is offered at $2,500, with the option of $100 acres at $2,500. The lands are valuable for farming purposes; the situation healthy, the society good, and church and school advantages very good. Persons wishing further information may address "Watchman," Salisbury, or Mr. J. B. Littleton, Albemarle, N. C. (Map of place furnished on application.)
