TUTT'S PILLS. TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA. From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels constive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Sleepless nights, a feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluctuating of the eyes, a feeling of heat, highly colored urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "sewer-pipes" of the system, producing a clear skin and vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.

Summer Fables OR A MID SUMMER'S NIGHT DREAM. THE IDEAL. 1. Hammock slung between two trees, Cigarette, new book and braeze, Lemonade with "just a squeeze," Bachelor not hard to please. 2. Snowy muslin wandering by, Dreamy eyes, half smothered sigh, Causing man to wonder why Gordian knot is hard to tie? THE AWAKENING. 3. Happy thought not quite evolved, Sudden fancy, half resolved, Introduction, quite involved, Question very nearly solved. MEDITATION. 4. Better far a settled life, What is home without a wife? While with meditation rife, Undarned socks means endless strife. TEMPTATION. 5. Moonlight walks a dangerous thing, Headless of mosquito sting, Murmurs low and lips which cling; Business settled with a ring. REALIZATION—AND MORAL. Hammock full of babies now; Books all torn in infant row; Loving mother wonders how Clouds can ruffle father's brow. R. S. HILL. Shows Our Chance.

The Charleston News and Courier has been making investigations to ascertain how much more cheaply cotton can be manufactured in the South than in the North. Dr. Young of the Columbus (Ga.) Mills, contends that the Southern mill has an advantage of $7.46 a bale over the New England mills. Mr. Converse of the Glendale (S. C.) Mill holds that the advantage does not exceed $2.07. Mr. Hanson of the Macon (Ga) Mills is confident that the advantage of the Southern mill over the New England mill will not exceed $4.50 on each bale of cotton, and Mr. Hickman brings the advantage down to $4.22 a bale. "Taking the mean of the statements received from different sources," the News and Courier sums up "it is clear that the Southern mill has an advantage of about one cent a pound, on the basis of the cotton consumed, in comparison with the New England mill. Even at this rate, such a mill as the Eagle and Phoenix of Columbus, Ga., has an advantage of $7,500 over a Northern mill of similar capacity. This is equal to an annual dividend of 7 per cent on very nearly a million dollars."

When Sugar was Invented. The exact date of the invention of sugar is lost in the midst of fable. However, sugar is said to have been known to the Chinese three thousand years ago, and there is not much doubt but that the manufacture of the article was carried on under the Tsin dynasty two hundred years before Christ. A strong claim for priority has been made for India. Probably the Hindoos learned the art from the Chinese, and from China the knowledge was carried farther West. Three hundred and twenty-five years before Christ, Alexander sent Nearchus with a large fleet down the Indus to explore the adjacent countries. When that officer returned from his expedition he brought to Greece an account of honey (sugar) which the Asiatics made from cane, without any assistance from bees. This was the earliest idea the Western nations had of sugar, the Jews, Egyptians, Babylonians and Greeks knowing nothing of its use. As late as A. D. 150 sugar was prescribed by Galen, the famous physician, as a medicine. Before the discovery of America, sugar was a costly luxury, used only on rare occasions. During the wars of the roses, about 1455, Margaret Paston, wife of a very wealthy country gentleman of Norfolk, wrote to her husband begging that he would "vouchsafe" to send her a pound of sugar. As late as 1700 all England consumed only twenty million pounds in the course of a year, but since, the consumption has greatly increased, twenty million hundred weight now being used by the English people. The process of refining sugar was not known in England previous to 1659. That was probably an invention of the Arabs. A Venetian merchant learned the secret from the Saracens of Sicily, and sold the art for one hundred thousand crowns.

The Cotton Exposition. The main building of the world's industrial and cotton centennial exposition at New Orleans now being constructed, as in many respects the most remarkable edifice ever erected in this country. The only larger structure in the world intended for the display of natural and artificial products, mechanical appliances, &c., is the Crystal Palace at Sydenham, England. The building is 1,300 feet long by 905 feet wide, covering thirty-three acres, or eleven acres more than the main building of the Centennial exposition of 1876. There are 1,656,300 square feet of floor space, including the gallery. The reader may form a better impression of the vast dimensions of the structure by imagining three ordinary city squares, or blocks; one way and five the other, covered by a solid roof. And if he chooses to allow his fancy still further he can picture a monster panorama of the world's industry, extending before his vision uninterrupted by a single object. The roof which is being made in Cincinnati, will cover 1,000,000 square feet. The building will be sixty feet high with a tower 115 feet high, and the architect has been unusually fortunate in rendering the exterior exceedingly unique and attractive. A platform will be erected on the tower, reached by elevators from which visitors may have an exceptionally fine view of the city of New Orleans, the exposition grounds, the Mississippi river and the surrounding country. The music hall, situated in the centre of the building, will be 364 feet wide and will comfortably seat 1,000 persons. To light the building with incandescent lamps will require 15,000 lights and 1,800 horse power. To light with the arc system will require 700 lamps and 700 horse power to operate the dynamo. The total steam required for lighting and for machinery will be at least 3,000 horse power. The building will be in complete readiness for the reception of articles intended for the exhibition by the middle of August. The two Republics Linked. Mexico Celebrates the Completion of Her Railroad. CITY OF MEXICO, May 13.—The directors of the Mexican Central railway and party were entertained yesterday noon by the Mexican Jockey Club. The Paravilla hippodrome was crowded by a large and brilliant assemblage including the most distinguished personages of the city. The guests were entertained with races, feats of horsemanship, and country sports. The banquet by the Mexican government in honor of the Mexican Central Railway officials was brilliant. Two hundred guests were present including many prominent Mexicans. Speeches were made by Senors Pacheco, Canacho, Loudez and others, testifying to the good will felt by the Mexicans for Americans, and to the pleasure in the completion of the road afforded them. President Nickerson referred to the completion of the main line which unites the two republics, and expressed satisfaction with the relations existing between the railway company and the Mexican government. He said he hoped for a continuation of these relations. Alluding to recent attacks on the company's property, he appealed to the government for protection, and was fully assured of receiving it. The banquet closed with a toast to the Presidents of the United States and Mexico, proposed by Senor Pacheco, minister of public works. In the banquet hall the flags of the United States and Mexico were intertwined and the bands playing national airs of both countries.

Death's Doings. This has been a sad week with this community. Death has been busy and its victims shining marks. On Monday the largest funeral procession ever seen in the city, followed with the afflicted family, to its last resting place, the remains of Rev. C. C. Dobson, late pastor of the Methodist Church, one of the most popular divines of his age, beloved by many and esteemed by all. On Monday night, Mrs. R. L. Chandler, a lady who only four short months ago, some of us had the pleasure of welcoming as a bride; accomplished, young, and apparently with a happy future and a long and useful life before her, died, the afflicted husband deserving and receiving the profound sympathy of every one. Again the sickle was thrust forth and on Tuesday morning, Mr. Christian Ebert, of Salem, a man ripe in years, successful in his day as a man of business and a pillar in his church to the last, was gathered to his rest. These afflictions, while in neither case wholly unexpected, yet in each were peculiarly sorrowful. Death is always terrible, but how sublimely so when its heavy hand is laid upon one, whom of all others, a family, church, or a community feel least able to spare—a man of God, a laborer in his vineyard—a tender wife or even the aged grandsire!—Winston Republican.

"I find nothing equal to sorghum cane for stock," says a writer in Spirit of the Farm, "and I do not think I am over-estimating it in saying that three acres of sorghum, cut and fed to my mules, fattened them more than six acres of corn gathered and fed in the ear. I can say to all, grow sorghum for stock feed."

THE OLD MULLEIN PLANT. While nature has been so sparing in giving us an abundance of her valuable medicinal plants she has by an all-wise provision been generous in the prolific distribution of such vegetable substances as give us medicine, and science in its eager search for the rare ones, has overlooked this fact. How many of us seeing the common Mullein plant in the old fields common tree bordering our swamps, have thought that in each there was a principle of the very highest medicinal virtue. It is true that the Cherokee Indians knew of this virtue long ago, but until recently it has been to attract the attention of the Medical world, and now the long forsaken Mullein plant ranks among the first and all the medical journals are heralding its grand effects. Cough, and all suffering from Lung and Bronchial Diseases are troubled no more. For sale by all Druggists. Price 25 cts, and $1.00 per Bottle. Manufactured by WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga., Proprietor. The "Old Mullein" is sold by all Druggists and Dealers generally. Dec. 13.—9.6m.

THE OLD MULLEIN PLANT. While nature has been so sparing in giving us an abundance of her valuable medicinal plants she has by an all-wise provision been generous in the prolific distribution of such vegetable substances as give us medicine, and science in its eager search for the rare ones, has overlooked this fact. How many of us seeing the common Mullein plant in the old fields common tree bordering our swamps, have thought that in each there was a principle of the very highest medicinal virtue. It is true that the Cherokee Indians knew of this virtue long ago, but until recently it has been to attract the attention of the Medical world, and now the long forsaken Mullein plant ranks among the first and all the medical journals are heralding its grand effects. Cough, and all suffering from Lung and Bronchial Diseases are troubled no more. For sale by all Druggists. Price 25 cts, and $1.00 per Bottle. Manufactured by WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga., Proprietor. The "Old Mullein" is sold by all Druggists and Dealers generally. Dec. 13.—9.6m.
