The Revolt. The Nomination of Blaine "An Insult to the Conscience of the Country."

Last Saturday the Massachusetts Republican Reform Club held a meeting in Boston, to protest against the nomination of Blaine and Logan, and passed resolutions requesting the independent voters throughout the country to join them in an organized effort to secure the nomination by the Democratic convention of candidates whom they can support, or failing in that to call a convention to nominate men who may represent the reform element of the country. A committee was appointed to take the necessary steps in this direction, and that committee was authorized to increase its numbers as might seem desirable, and co-operate with all Independent Republicans or other organizations favorable to the reform movement.

What Blaine's Nomination Means. Wise Words.

The Philadelphia Press remarks that the nomination of Blaine "means a Southern policy which will restore to the South its old time prosperity and something more." What the Press means by "old time prosperity" is not quite clear, in fact, it is rather beclouded. If it means the "prosperity" that prevailed during the days of Republican ascendancy in the South, the South will respectfully beg to be excused, for she has even yet a quite vivid recollection of what that means. She is yet carrying upon her shoulders in the way of reminders debt obligations of no puny proportions, not to speak of the obligations she has cancelled by liquidation or otherwise.

We don't wish to dampen the ardor of the Press, but even at the risk of doing so we are compelled to remark that one of the greatest evils that could befall the South would be the election of James G. Blaine and John A. Logan to the Presidency and Vice Presidency. They are both essentially sectional men, both of them regard the South not as an integral part, but as a mere appendage to the Union of States, and each in his sphere of administration would ignore it. Blaine is a mere politician, cunning, tricky, self-seeking; able it is true, but able in the sense to make him dangerous, not great. Logan is not able but he is a vindictive partisan, who regards his first duty to his party, and like Blaine, will stoop to anything to achieve party success. If elected their policy would be sectional, and they would as far as they could revive sectional issues, encourage sectional legislation, undo much that has been done in the way of allaying sectional strife, and bring back political chaos again.

The South has been at peace since Republicanism has been overthrown within herb orders, she has moved on quietly, steadily, perseveringly in the path of industrial progress, and has reached marvellous success. Any opening up of sectional legislation again can only check this progress and do her harm. When the Press talks of Blaine restoring old time prosperity it talks without knowing what it means. The South's prosperity to-day is ahead of any old time prosperity she ever saw.

Whether Blaine can carry New York State is hardly within the category of debate. It seems to us beyond question that he cannot. It is even doubtful whether he can carry Massachusetts, a State whose people have never asked any favors at his hands and who have ever been pronounced in their antagonism to the "man from Maine." On one occasion we remember he evinced his hostility to Massachusetts in such severe strictures upon that State as to precipitate a heated debate in the Senate. The Boston Herald (Republican) remarks in its issue of Friday morning: "The Blaine movement reveals itself at every step. It outrages the honest public sentiment of the country. If he could secure the nomination, it would only result in the defeat of the party."

A merchant traveler at dinner requested the waiter to bring him a piece of rare beef, and when it came it was rare indeed. "Waiter!" he remarked warningly as he looked at the undone dish. "Yes, sah," responded the darkey. "Take this beef out, please, and kill it."

The waiter crawled into a napkin ring and disappeared.—Merchant Traveller.

WEDDING IN YORK COUNTY.—On Tuesday evening, June the 10th, at the residence of Mr. Frank Brown of York county, S. C., Mr. J. Clay Wilborn, of Salisbury, N. C., to Miss Mattie Brown. The ceremony was performed by Revs. A. B. Brown and J. H. Thornwell.

EDUCATIONAL CONVENTION. The Committeemen, white teachers, and many others interested in education in the county of Rowan met at the Court House in Salisbury on May 24th at 10 o'clock.

The meeting was called to order by Co. Supt. T. C. Linn, who stated the object of the meeting. Mr. H. C. Bost was elected Chairman, and H. J. Overman Secretary. The topics for discussion were then read. I. "School Committeemen and their duties" was discussed by Messrs Linn, Weatherly, Hill, and others. II. "Teachers and their duties" was discussed by Mr. J. M. Hill and others.

A DESERTER FROM THE U. S. ARMY CAPTURED IN CHARLOTTE.—About noon yesterday, an individual appeared at the recruiting station in this city to enlist in the army, and while the preliminary questions were being asked one of the sergeants tapped the man on the shoulder and said: "You are a deserter, sir." The man turned pale and attempted to deny, but it was no use. The sergeant had only too surely recognized him. His name is Wm. Humphrey and his home is in Danville, Illinois. He had enlisted in the army for a five years term which he served out, and then re-enlisted for another five years, after which he deserted. He has since been living near Columbia, S. C., but finding it too hard work to make a living for himself, he concluded to come to Charlotte and enlist again. He was turned over to sergeant Irwin, who locked him in the station house. Humphrey made a full confession on seeing that he was caught. Capt. Hayes will send him to Fort Monroe for a court martial trial. The punishment is imprisonment in Fort Leavenworth.—Char. Observer.

He that lacks time to mourn lacks time to mend. If one were to be worded to death Italian is the fittest language. One should seek for others the happiness one desires for one's self. The truly valiant dare everything but doing any other body an injury. Don't open your purse too hastily or too wide, nor your mouth either. In order to do great things we should live as though we were never to die. Women—their first love inspires the poet, and their praise is his best reward. Fire and sword are but slow engines of destruction in comparison with the babler. To enjoy the pleasure of wealth thou shouldst first experience the fatigue of labor. It is one proof of good education, and of true refinement of feeling, to respect antiquity. To fill the hour and leave no crevice for repentance or an approval—that is happiness. To the generous mind the heaviest debt is that of gratitude when it is not in our power to repay it. When a misfortune happens to a friend, look forward and endeavor to prevent the same thing from happening to yourself.

IV. "School houses and their comforts" was discussed by Mr Linn and others.

V. "Rowan School Times" was discussed by Messrs Linn and Newman.

VI. Miscellaneous: The following resolution was offered and unanimously adopted: Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that it is expedient to have a permanent organization of the committeemen, teachers and friends of education generally in the county.

Mr. H. C. Bost was elected chairman until a permanent organization should be effected, and H. J. Overman, Secretary. Moved, seconded, and carried, that a committee of three be appointed to draw up a Constitution and By-Laws for the government of this body, and report at the next meeting. Messrs, T. C. Linn, J. M. Hill, and J. L. Graber were appointed.
