CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION!

The delegates of Rowan County to the 7th Democratic Congressional District Convention held on 7th Aug. are hereby notified that, in consequence of the declination of Kerr Craige, Esq., the nominees of said Convention, the Democratic Congressional Executive Committee have called another Convention, consisting of the old delegates appointed heretofore to the Convention on the 7th of Aug. to meet in SALISBURY on the 9TH of SEPTEMBER 1884, to nominate another candidate. L. H. CLEMENT, of the 7th Dem. Cong. District Committee.

SCANDAL IN HIGH PLACES.

We publish on the outside of this paper what is designed to be a complete refutation of a scandal circulated against Mr. Cleveland, Democratic candidate for the Presidency. It is greatly to be regretted that such a publication against one occupying his present position before the people of this country, should have become necessary. It is no relief to the mortification many will experience on reading it, to know that Mr. Blaine is charged with an offense of a similar nature. Quite the contrary. For although no one expects absolute purity in human flesh, yet it would be far better for the morals of the country if the candidates of the two great parties were punished.

MR. CRAIG'S WITHDRAWAL.

We publish in another place Mr. Kerr Craige's letter to the Dist. Ex. Committee, declining the nomination so handsomely given him by the Convention held here on the 7th instant. Much as his friends in the District may regret it, his letter must satisfy all that no one more sincerely regrets the disappointment than Mr. Craige himself. He has been compelled by stern necessity to decline an honor with its emoluments so eagerly coveted and sought by others, though most gracefully tendered him, unasked and unthought. Mr. C. retires with the best wishes of his friends, who, though at this moment sad, may yet find an opportunity to testify their unabated confidence and respect for the man who uniformly stands on the high and honorable plain of truth and duty.

WHEAT.

The present rates in the West is given at 77 for No. 1 hard, and 72 for ordinary grades, which is said to portend lower rates at a distance from grain centers.

happy in their home pursuits and exemplary among their fellow men. We have them, and though not themselves office-seekers, may yet be induced to accept positions of labor and trust which their fellow citizens may lay upon them.

It may not be out of place to mention the names of some gentlemen whom we have heard talked of. And foremost among these, is that staunch Democrat and able debater, Mr. Pinix, of Lexington. Next, a brilliant and vigorous speaker and exemplary citizen of the new town of Mooresville, in Iredell, Mr. A. Leazer. Next, the not less brilliant and accomplished Davis of Catawba. Next, that solid and reliable citizen of Mocksville, Marshall Clement, Esq. These, and others not less worthy the confidence and support of their fellow citizens, have been mentioned in high terms of praise; so that the Democrats of Rowan, now cast down by being deprived of the pleasure of voting for their favorite, are assured that they will not lack for a man to kindle their enthusiasm in the great contest upon which they are now entering.

A Lenoir correspondent of the Charlotte Observer recites the particulars of a scene at that place on the 16th, in which Dr. York "flew off the handle," banded up his documents and left the stand on which he had commenced a speech in answer to General Scales. The Observer vouches for the reliability of its correspondent and we therefore commend the report, which will be found in this paper, as worthy the careful attention of our readers.

We are not at all surprised at the attempt of Dr. York to make himself a martyr, because he knows people sympathize with martyrs; and if he can win votes by that means he will have accomplished all he desired. But apprehend that the reading public are pretty well informed in respect to such foot-loose, ranting, howling martyrs as Dr. York will be, and will vent their feelings on the subject by drawing charcoal sketches on barometers and fences, of Dr. York leaving the stand in Lenoir, with "hurra for Scales" written beneath them.

The criticisms passed in some of the newspapers on Greely and his party of sufferers in the Arctic regions are made by men who have never been deprived for a single day of a plenty to eat. Placed in the same unfortunate and starving condition, those who talk of their barbarity would no doubt have done as they did. Human nature is the same all the world over; and it is nonsense for men to talk of things they do not understand and, cruel to find fault with their actions in such fearful extremities.

The Waynesville White Sulphur Springs Hotel will reduce board rates after the 24th instant to $9 per week. The high price of board at Asheville, the Warm Springs and elsewhere in the mountain country of the State, is said to have had the bad effect of curtailing the number of visitors and limiting their stay in that healthful region. It would be folly to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.

The programme of the Republicans in this State, it seems, is to get the "poor white men" on the same platform or level with the negro. One step at least towards civil rights. "Poor white men" form the bulk of the honest voters of North Carolina. Will they support a man who attempts to place them on a level with the negro? Tyre York and the Republican speakers are doing this.

There was a large and interesting reunion of soldiers at Reidsville, last week. Gen. Ransom was there and made an able speech. He never makes a bad one; but on this occasion he is said to have spoken too long. A very fine poem from the pen of Mrs. Henry Sampson, was read with fine effect. We shall probably find room for it in our next issue.

Logan was father of the famous black laws of Illinois, of 1833. They were savage against the negro. But Logan did not know then that he would be a candidate for Vice-President and the negro a voter in 1884. Circumstances alter cases.

A torrid wave from New Hampshire, Aug. 18, caused a suspension of outdoor work, the thermometer running up to 100. Several persons were struck down by the heat.

CLEVELAND'S ACCEPTANCE.

The Champion of the People Speaks Plainly and to the Point.

A Government For the People and By the People, in Which the People Rule and Their Servants Obey. That it May be Administered in an Honest, Simple and Plain Manner.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19, 1884. Gentlemen: I have received your communication dated July 26, 1884, informing me of my nomination to the office of President of the United States by the National Democratic Convention lately assembled at Chicago. I accept the nomination with grateful appreciation of the supreme honor conferred and a solemn sense of the responsibility which in its acceptance I assume.

I have carefully considered the platform adopted by the convention, and cordially approve the same. So plain a statement of Democratic faith and the principles upon which that party appeals to the suffrages of the people needs no supplement or explanation. It should be remembered that the office of President is essentially executive in its nature.

The laws enacted by the legislative branch of the Government the Chief Executive is bound faithfully to enforce, and when the wisdom of a political party, which selects one of its members as the nominee for that office has outlined its policy and declared its principles, it seems to me that nothing in the character of the office or the necessities of the case requires more from a candidate accepting such a nomination than a suggestion of certain well known truths so absolutely vital to the safety and welfare of the nation, that they cannot be too often recalled or too seriously enforced. We proudly call our government by the people. It is not such when a class is tolerated which arrogates to itself management of public affairs, seeking to control the people instead of representing them.

Parties about the necessary growth of our institutions, but the government is not by the people when one party fastens its control upon the country, and perpetuates its power by cajoling and betraying the people instead of serving them.

The government is not by the people when the result which should represent the intelligent will of free and thinking men is, of course, determined by the corruption of their suffrages.

When an election to office shall be a selection by the voters of one of their number to assume for a time a public trust instead of his dedication to the profession of politics; when the holders of ballots, quickened by a sense of duty, shall average the truth betrayed and pledges broken, when senators and congressmen shall be altogether free and uncorrupted, the full realization of a government by the people will be at hand, and of the means to this end not one would in my judgment be more effective than an amendment to the constitution disqualifying the President from re-election.

When we consider the patronage of this great office, the temptations of power, the temptation to retain public places once gained, and more than all the availability a party finds in an incumbent when a horde of office holders, with zeal born of benefits received and fostered by the hope of favors yet to come, stand ready to aid with money and trained political services, we recognize in the eligibility of the President for re-election a most serious danger to that calm, deliberate and intelligent political action which must characterize a government of the people.

A true American sentiment recognizes the dignity of labor, and the fact that honor lies in honest toil.

Contented labor is an element of National prosperity.

Ability to work constitutes the capital, and the wages of labor is the income of a vast number of our population, and this interest should be jealously protected.

Our working men are not asking unreasonable indulgence, but as intelligent and manly citizens they demand the same consideration which those demand who have other interests at stake.

They should receive their full share of care and attention of those who make and execute the laws, to the end that the wants and needs of employers and employed shall be met in a liberal, and the prosperity of the country, the common heritage of both, be advanced.

As related to this subject, while we should not discourage the immigration of those who come to acknowledge allegiance to our government and add to our citizen population, yet no means of protection to our working men should be neglected.

A different rule should prevail concerning those who, if they come or are brought to our land, do not intend to become Americans, but will injuriously compete with those justly entitled to compete with our field of labor.

The selection and retention of subordinates in the government employment should depend upon their ascertained fitness and the value of their work, and they should be neither expected nor allowed to do questionable party service.

The interest of the people will be better protected, the estimate of public labor and duty will be immensely improved, public employment will be open to all who can demonstrate their fitness to enter it, the unseemly scramble for place under the government with the consequent importunity which embitters official life will cease and the public service will not be filled with those who conceive it to be their first duty to aid the party to which they owe their places instead of rendering a patient and honest return to the people. I believe that the public temper is such that the voters of the land are prepared to support the party which gives the best promise of administering the government in the honest, simple and plain manner which is consistent with its character and its purposes.

They have learned that mystery and concealment in the management of their affairs cover tricks and betrayal. The statesmanship they require consists in honesty and fragility, a prompt response to the needs of the people as they arise, and a vigilant protection of all their varied interests.

If I should be called to the chief magistracy of the nation by the suffrages of my fellow citizens, I will assume the duties of that high office with the solemn determination to dedicate every effort to the country's good, and with an humble reliance upon the favor and support of the Supreme Being, who I believe will always bless honest, human endeavor in conscientious discharge of public duty.
