TAPE WORM.

An eminent German scientist has recently discovered from a root extract, an absolute specific for Tape Worm.

It is pleasant to take and is not distressing to the patient, but is peculiarly sickening and stupefying to the Tape Worm, which loosens its hold of its victim and passes away in a natural and easy manner, entirely whole, with Head, and white string.

One physician has used this specific in over 400 cases, without a single failure to void worms entire. Success guaranteed. No pay required until removed with head. Send stamp for circular and terms.

NORTH CAROLINA'S EXHIBIT.

New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The exhibit made by this State will be just what might be expected of its thorough-going and practical people. It will be substantial, of the best quality and sufficient for the purpose for which it is designed. Comparatively little attention has been bestowed upon ornamental features. Enough to relieve the ensemble from a look of heaviness, but decoration is treated merely as setting forth what is valuable and not as constituting it.

The material for the exhibit has been collected under the supervision of the officers of the Agricultural Department—Hon. M. McGehee, commissioner; Dr. G. W. Dabney, State chemist; Mr. P. M. Wilson, secretary, and Mr. S. G. Worth, superintendent of fish and fisheries, and Prof. J. A. Holmes, of the State University.

It would have been an easy matter to fill double the space allotted to the State. But the fact that the Director General had all the sister States and Territories to assign space to was respected, and the purpose adopted and pursued has been to use a just economy in space, to fill it with the best material and to classify and erect the exhibits by relative and scientific arrangement.

The work of setting the exhibit in position has been under the immediate charge of Mr. Frank B. Dancy, of the Agricultural Department; Mr. T. K. Bruer, the mining editor of the Salisbury Watchman; Prof. Jos. A. Holmes, of the chair of Botany, University of North Carolina, and Mr. S. G. Worth, superintendent of fisheries. Their previous experience in similar work at the Boston Exposition and the North Carolina State Exposition is standing them in good stead, and the results of their labors will proclaim their merits.

"What will be shown?" the reporter asked.

"Everything of economic value and representative of the industries of the State," came the answer swift on the heels of the query. "North Carolina stands on the dividing line between the North and South—that is to say, many Northern growths find their Southern limits and Southern growths reach their Northern limit within her borders. It is not a new fact, but a fact nevertheless, that this State has no blank in the census reports. Everything that is grown in the Union can be grown there. It has an extreme length of 500 miles, and falls in terraces from the summit of Mount Mitchell, nearly 7,000 feet above the sea, to the Atlantic shores. This great stretch of country has many climates, and consequently the forestry and agricultural products of these climates. The geological formations embraced in its area furnished soils and minerals almost unequalled in variety. It is a good storehouse to draw from."

As you leave the comfortable office, where will be found the North Carolina papers and a North Carolina welcome, will be placed the wonderful varieties of rough and heavy ores. Most of the specimens are large enough to make a practical mill test. The gold ores, from scores of mines, silver ores, copper ores, magnetic and hematite iron ores, will prove as interesting to the capitalist as to the man of science.

There will be an array of building stone which will surprise and delight visitors—marbles of delicate tints, granites of exquisite and intricate pattern and of almost every hue. It will be difficult to decide whether the fancy will incline to the curious leopard spots and its dentritic forms or to the startling and novel orbicular granites.

Facing these will be mounds of phosphate rock taken from the newly discovered deposits in the eastern section of the State, and heaps of coal from the Deep river and Dan river basins.

There will be handsome piles of tin ore (first identified and located by Dr. Chas. W. Dabney in North Carolina), corundum, garnets, etc. There under glass will be found the rarer minerals, emeralds, amethysts, zircons, beryls and the lustrous and beautiful hiddenite. There will be a pavilion covered and glistening with mica of which mineral North Carolina is the chief source of supply in which will be shown North Carolina gems, cut and polished, and nuggets of gold worth over $2,000 each.

Passing into the agricultural section, a tastily arranged pagoda is thatched with wheat, rye, oats, barley, buckwheat, rice, sugar, corn, etc., every cereal from subfrigid to luxuriant subtropical growths intertwined in its roofing and sides. One of the most interesting displays in this section will be the beautiful tobacco. Every grade, shade and texture of tobacco, from the black African, French and Austrian shippers of the valleys of the Dan and Red Roanoke and the red and mahogany leaf of the Piedmont to the bright golden, lemon colors of the weed that covers the ridges of the low-

Where a Western Man got a Wife.

A western builder, reputed to be worth over $100,000, who always visits one of the clerks in Castle Garden when he comes to New York, that gentleman being one of his friends, called there a short time ago just as Miss Bertha Heinz, a beautiful and vivacious blonde from Hamburg, landed on American soil. The lady was taken by the frank countenance and cordial manner of the builder, who is a widower, and inquired of him in German: "Can you tell me, sir, where girls go to secure employment?" A conversation ensued, the result of which was that that the builder procured a situation for the young lady as a governess in a family in Tarrytown. On his part it was a case of love at first sight, but he took the precaution to conceal his feelings until he had satisfied himself by careful inquiry that the girl was respectable and worthy to become his bride. It came out that the young lady was a person of refinement and education, who was forced to earn her own living because unlucky speculations had ruined her father, and sickness, which followed, had sent him to the grave. The result, says the New York Mail and Express, was the marriage of the happy pair, and a trip to the Western home of the groom.

Did you know there was such a section as this in The Code? Section 1670. "Any person in behalf of one who is deemed an inebriate... many file a petition before the Clerk of the Superior Court of the county... setting forth the facts, duly verified by the oath of the petitioner, whereupon such Clerk shall issue an order, upon notice to the supposed inebriate, to appear before the Sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of twelve men to inquire into the state of such supposed inebriate. And he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be an inebriate." Section 1671 defines what an inebriate is as follows: "Any person who habitually, whether continuously or periodically, indulges in the use of intoxicating liquors to such an extent as to stupefy his mind and to render him incompetent of transacting ordinary business with safety to his estate, shall be deemed an inebriate within the meaning of this chapter: provided, the habit of so indulging in such use shall have been at the time of inquiry of at least one year's standing." T. Richard Dednam, of Mark's Creek township, had under this law been adjudged an inebriate, and a guardian had been appointed. To-day, upon proof of his reformation, his property was restored to him.—Raleigh Chronicle.

It seems right old that a committee of Congress should report a bill providing that no persons other than citizens of the United States shall own land within the United States. Queen Victoria and other crowned heads have made considerable investments here and the drift has been to induce other foreigners to do likewise. They buy railroad bonds secured by mortgage—if the mortgages are foreclosed may they not purchase and hold the roads?

Indeed there are many reasons why this proposed measure should not become a law; and among them is this: Congress has no right to interfere in such a matter. It is for the States to say who shall be capable of holding lands within them; but Congress may legislate for the Territories. Up to 1870 aliens could not hold land in North Carolina. They could take but could not hold. The legislature then altered the old common law in that particular. We would like to know the constitutional provision which it is suggested confers the right on the Federal government to take the proposed action.—News Observer.

NOTHING OF THE KIND HERE.—Last Sunday the New York Herald published a list of nearly seven hundred divorce cases pending in the courts of Chicago. Yesterday it printed the names of the parties to more than seven hundred suits on the docket of the Philadelphia courts, and also gave a similar catalogue for New York city, but its length is insignificant compared with others.

"Fourteen hundred applications for divorcing pending in two cities," says the Herald, is a startling fact, whose announcement is well calculated to arrest public attention."

LOOSE SWEARING.—The Pittsboro Record, in discussing the defects in the present unequal system of taxation, says: "More men swear to lies in listing their property than in doing anything else, and not only that but they think it no sin, but look upon it as something smart. A man in one county is compelled to pay more taxes on the same quantity and quality of land than another man in an adjoining county. The same kind of a horse or mule is valued much higher in some counties than in others."

A young lady of Knoxville, Tennessee, bet with her lover, and promised to give him a kiss for each electoral vote for Cleveland in the event of his election. The young man is to have two kisses per week until the debt is paid.—Knoxville.
