

Carolina Watchman.

THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1885.

Postmaster General Vilas, has written a circular letter to democratic Senators and Congressmen in Ohio, outlining a policy to be pursued in reference to postmasters. The partisan workers in the department are to be removed, men who have in serving the party used their official position to purposes of that kind. Wait and see. The Cleveland administration is working back the country into ancient usages and honest methods.

Commissioner Coleman, of the Agricultural Department at Washington, has found that his predecessor, Dr. Loring, is chargeable with ways that are crooked and scandalous. He caused over $100,000 to be expended for seed during the last nine months of his time, much of it worthless, and more of it at enormous high figures. Sorghum seed at $2.35 and $2.95 a bushel when there was no need for the seed at all, or if needed, it could have been bought at 25 cts. a bushel.

Geo. T. Jackson, of Augusta, Ga., convicted of appropriating to his own use $170,000, funds of a public trust, was on Saturday last sentenced to six years of imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary. He is 62 years old, a man of family, and during his past life filled many places of trust with acceptability to the public. The majesty of the law has been vindicated in his case as it should be. High standing in society should shield no man from the just penalties of crime.

The State Board of Health met at Durham on Tuesday. Dr. J. J. Sumner, of this place, is a member of the Board and was in attendance. The State Medical Society met at the same place on yesterday. The laws of the State having reference to the medical profession, are designed to protect her citizens against quackery. The State Medical Society have for years sought favorable recognition in enactments of the Legislature, but that body with its proverbial caution has been slow to act. The high responsibility of the profession certainly entitles it to all the legal support and encouragement it has tardily received, and will result it is believed, to the public good.

Thomas Dwyer, a cooper, residing near Essex market, N. Y., was brought before Justice Gorman on the 14th, on the charge of brutal conduct towards the dead body of his wife. Dwyer was drunk on the night his wife lay a corpse, and was behaving very rudely in the presence of those in the house, including six or more children. Every attempt to quiet him made him worse, until finally he tumbled the ice-box and body to the floor. The corpse rolled out, and he seized it by the legs and began dragging it about the room. Persons present were stunned by the enormity of his brutality, but after a while succeeded in getting the body out of his hands. He sobbed before the Justice and confessed his sorrow and shame—was allowed to go with an officer to the funeral, and then returned to prison.

A CRASH.—The fall of a three story brick building in Charlotte, last Thursday morning was a startling incident to that city. It was occupied by Hammond & Justice, hardware merchants, on Trade Street, two doors east of the Merchants' Hotel, had a frontage of 35 feet and ran back 120. The Observer says the catastrophe was caused by a giving way of the foundation, and this was caused by digging away the earth within three feet of the foundation for the purpose of making a cellar to a new building to be erected adjoining the one which fell. The fall was not instantaneous: the rear part of the wall went first, without personal damage to any one. This was the signal of danger to all who were in or about the building and they rushed out of the way; and from the outside viewed the progress of destruction. The walls, 70 feet high, were seen moving—leaning—quaking, and then to come down with a fearful crash, the roof on top of all. Fire broke out among debris which brought out the fire companies of the city. The fire was soon subdued and a great crowd of people stood around to see and discuss the event, which involved the loss of many thousands of dollars. A building adjoining on the east, owned by Mr. W. J. Yates, was thought to be in danger, and was vacated as speedily as possible, the numerous occupants moving out their goods and chattels. It is believed however, that there was no great danger and that the building can be easily made secure.

REMARKABLE.—When an American visits Europe, the hotel keepers and every body else who recognize them as tourists, stick on to them the highest charges possible. On the contrary the aristocrats of Europe, visiting in this country, are said to bankrupt every hotel that happens to have the run of the foreign custom. The latter are more exacting than Americans and will pay as Americans do—for extras, perhaps.

The Goldboro Transcript and Messenger of the 15th May, is a magnificent 16 page issue, comprising a picture gallery, largely displayed advertisements, stories, news, and a general miscellany. The Messenger claims to have the largest circulation of any paper in the State, as it certainly is one of the best.

Hon. John S. Henderson, who has been much of his time abroad on business, is now at home, busily working up answers to a heavy correspondence constantly pouring in upon him.

The Too Ready Pistol.

Another illustration of the too ready pistol was furnished in the town of Liberty, Bedford county, Va., Saturday, when E. A. Jeter, a prominent and much respected business man was shot and instantly killed by a young man named Terry, son of Gen. W. E. Terry, superintendent of the State penitentiary. It seems that Terry had given Jeter a puppy which Jeter named after Terry's sister. Meeting Terry on the street Saturday Jeter asked him jocularly why he did not come to see his kinsfolk, meaning the dog, which Terry construed as a reflection on his sister, drew his pistol and shot Jeter dead. It is said the young man has for some time shown signs of insanity, and doubtless in this case emotional insanity will be the plea offered in defence of the shooting.

TERRY HANGED BY A MOB.

The following no doubt announces one of the results of the recent "alcoholic insanity" verdicts: Lynchburg, Va., May 18.—The excitement caused by the unprovoked murder of T. A. Jeter by H. W. Terry at Liberty, Saturday last, received fresh impulse at the funeral of Jeter, at his home in another part of the county. As two o'clock the funeral of Jeter was held, and the most popular man in the county and his funeral was very largely attended. Terry was the son of W. E. Terry, a prominent man in the State. The murderer is said to have been insane, but other cases recently tried in the State, in which murderers were cleared on claims of insanity, made the lynchers more determined. The lynchers are thought to be relatives of Jeter.

The loss by the fall of a large three story brick store in Charlotte, last week, is estimated at $33,000. It does not appear that there was any defect in the structure of the building, but that its fall was entirely due to digging away the dirt in the adjoining lot to make a cellar, thereby weakening the foundation and causing it to fall.

Who is responsible for the loss? Ordinarily, the man who caused it. But suppose he consulted his neighbor before he began to dig, and it was agreed that he might come within three feet of the foundation, how then? Would that be considered such a surrender as to leave the whole responsibility on the shoulders of the owner of the building?

Our fellow citizen, T. J. Sumner, who is known to be a good engineer, was in Charlotte a day or two before the disaster, and we are informed he warned the cellar diggers that they would cause the building to fall. However that may be the mischief was then probably past remedy, no amount of stays being available against a certain disaster.

The trial of T. J. Cluverius for the murder of Miss Fannie Lillian Madison, of Bath county, Va., is slowly progressing at Richmond. The poor girl, it is believed was seduced from her home to that city under false pretences by the man Cluverius, with whom she had been entirely too familiar, and there meeting him went out with him at night. It was the last seen of her in life. Her dead body was drawn out of the dock next day. The evidence of the prisoner's guilt is all circumstantial and fragmental. Link by link it is picked up by the prosecution, and from present appearances the chain may yet be completed.

There was a grand escape of convicts at Clay's plantation, Texas, last week. Some have since been captured, others returned, and about twenty-five desperate fellows are heading for Western Texas. They are their best well armed, and while doing their best to get out of the way, will not be captured without a desperate resistance. The escape was not premeditated but was instigated by some strangers who furnished them with fire arms, &c.

James Knox Polk, a nephew and namesake of the late President Polk, is an inmate of the Hartford insane asylum. He lived the life of a recluse for several years, spending his time in boating, fishing and hunting, having a handsome income for his support. Latterly, he mingled in society and married a Swedish lady. By and by, rumors came of falling fortunes, and then he became moody, and finally insane. It is believed, however, that his case is a curable one.

The N. Y. Tribune is accredited with saying that high license has worked well in Illinois, where the minimum license for dram shops is $500 a year, and for the sale of the malt liquors $150. Wherever honestly tested it has largely reduced the number of drinkers and the amount of drunkenness, and increased the revenue to the State about four fold.

The cotton crop for the year now closing, as pretty certainly ascertained will not fall short of 5,700,000 bales, and the position both in respect to price and supply is declared exceptionally favorable as compared with former years. Messrs. Latham, Alexander & Co., bankers and cotton merchants, N. Y. are the authority on which this statement is made.

Gen. Sherman has written a letter wherein he undertakes to show that U. S. Grant is entitled to rank in military skill and ability with Napoleon, Wellington and Moltke. He declares that he is the greatest military commander of modern times. He says Grant is not appreciated.

Mr. W. H. Hunt has been appointed Postmaster at Lexington, N. C.

WELL DESERVED TRIBUTES.

Two Good Appointments.

The Statesville Landmark doubtless reiterates the general sentiments of the people when it says: "After a protracted struggle between the friends of Col. H. C. Jones, of Charlotte, and Col. John N. Stepien, of Greensboro, Col. Jones has been appointed United States District Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina, succeeding Mr. James E. Boyd. The appointment is a thoroughly good one. Col. Jones is a very fine lawyer and a very fine gentleman. Moreover, he is one of the best Democrats in the State. He has done a great deal of work for the party. Shortly after the war he edited a Democratic newspaper in Charlotte, afterwards, for many years was chairman of the Democratic committee of his county, Democratic orator, member of the Legislature, always wise in counsel, always bold and skillful in execution, he has rendered his party at many junctures conspicuous service, and he has never been of the sort, either, who work an hour, and then run in and demand their pay. This is the first office that he has ever asked for. He did not ask for it until his friends had presented his claims, and then he asked for it modestly and unobtrusively. The Democratic party does itself honor when it bestows honors on capable and deserving men like Col. Jones who have always been as true to it in its adversity as they are in its prosperity and who have fairly won their spurs by able and unselfish party service.

"Another good appointment is that of Capt. S. A. Ashe, editor of the News and Observer, as Postmaster of the city of Raleigh. He is a pure, true and able man. He has labored long, faithfully and effectively for his party. He was one of the most active Democrats of the Cape Fear country while Wilmington was yet his home. After his removal to Raleigh he was secretary of the State executive committee, and in that capacity was one of the most useful men in the State in the campaign of 1876. As editor of the News and Observer, he has furnished most of the arguments which the stump speakers have thundered into the ears of the people, and has many times been on the stump himself. He deserves recognition from the party, and his appointment to the Raleigh postoffice is very gratifying to those of us who believe that when a party has officers to bestow it should give them to its workers."

A Watanga man sold apples (carefully sorted) in Leonor, a few days ago for $1.12 per bushel. This was near where they grew, and shows the advantage of bringing nice things to market at a time when there is a demand for them. He could not have sold in the winter for 50 cents per bushel.

The bicycle riding at Charlotte by Prince and Morgan was the occasion of a large crowd last week. Three miles in 9 minutes and 37 seconds was the record of one race. Prince's best record heretofore was one mile in 2:39. They outran horses in several races.

20th May.—The celebration of this day at Charlotte was duly provided for, but owing to clouds and showers was totally hindered. The bicycle and tricycle riding has been postponed to the 25th.

Farce Ended.—The dead lock in the Illinois legislature which has continued since January, was terminated on the 19th by the election of John A. Logan to the U. S. Senate.

BRIEFS.

The wheat and oats crops of Virginia will probably fall off one-half as compared with last year.

Victor Hugo is reported ill with heart disease and congestion of the lungs, and is said to be sinking rapidly.

Contractors are vigorously at work on the Fayetteville and Wilson Railroad, which is to be completed by 1st April, 1886.

The inoculation with cholera microbes in Spain is reported as successful, the epidemic disappearing under the application of the system.

"The New South," is the title of a neat little paper issuing from Columbus, Miss., especially devoted to the promotion of Southern enterprise and the development of Southern resources.

In an investigation by a sanitary committee in Philadelphia last week, out of 7,000 houses examined 2,746 were declared unwholesome on account of their extremely filthy condition.

Japan has an army of 40,000 men, a reserve twice that number, and territorial reserve of 150,000, all dressed and equipped in European fashion, carrying Remington rifles.

A fatal disease has recently broken out in Seward Valley, N. Y. Swelling of the throat, paralysis of the tongue, inability to eat and double sight, are the symptoms. None have recovered from it.

The N. C. Press Association will meet this year, at Smithville, June 17th. Mr. Walter H. Page, of the Raleigh Chronicle will deliver the annual oration.

The fearful sickness at Plymouth, Penn. continues without abatement. It was expected on Saturday that the death rate would be high during this week.

A ruthless murderer was acquitted in Virginia a few days ago on the plea of insanity, and now we have a similar case to report at Goldsboro; State vs. Pearsall for the murder of Tom Crew. Pearsall is to be sent to Dr. Grisso's for examination.

Washington Letter.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18, 1885.

There is no end of complaint in Democratic circles, or I might say, rings, of what is called the President's tardiness in turning out bad Republicans and turning in good Democrats. It really looks as though the new Administration had done very little, but may not the reason be because there is so much to do? Four years was considered a short period for the Herculean task, but as yet only two months have elapsed. If it were a mere physical operation, the bad Republicans could be discharged in twenty-four hours, and this is doubtless what a large majority of democrats would like to see done. But this would be quite as insane as if the Pennsylvania Railroad Company should discharge all its skilled engineers and attempt to run its trains with new men, who do not know a time schedule from a steam register. It would be very refreshing, doubtless, to the majority who voted for Cleveland to see the rascals turned out en masse. I confess I would enjoy it myself as a mere spectacle. The rascals richly deserve it. They should have been turned out eight years ago. They have not earned an honest dollar since they profited by the fraud of Hayes inauguration. But with all their despicable rascality, they have some knowledge that is absolutely indispensable to this new and unskilled administration. And President Cleveland's Cabinet Officers are painfully aware of this fact. Our government has grown to be a complicated and much involved bureaucracy and those who have charge of its ponderous machinery, whether as heads or hands, must know a Time Schedule from a Steam Register. If they do not the machinery will come to a standstill, or go to smash, and five thousand little Republican papers "Blanche, Tray and Sweetheart" will yelp "we told you so."

It is conceded even by our enemies that the present administration has made but few mistakes. It must be admitted by ourselves that it has made some mistakes. There is no divinity or infallibility about the President. He is perhaps without genius or even tact. But he is endowed with strong common sense, and gifted with the grace of doing right as he knows it. No one is better aware than himself that, notwithstanding his slow and careful gait, he has occasionally stumbled. He has made comparatively few appointments but not all of them are the best selections. It was a physical impossibility for him to study and know the qualifications of one in ten of the men who have been recommended for office by eloquent delegations, and by petitions signed with many names. It is a matter for congratulation that he has succeeded as well as he has. Unfortunately, he has not been able to rely upon the recommendations of his Cabinet Officers, and has wisely withheld his signature from the commissions of some who have been recommended by the Secretary of State because in his prudent caution he had learned of some disqualifications which the Secretary had ever looked. If a president cannot trust his own official household, then whom is he to trust; and is it remarkable that he occasionally appoints skilled men like Pearson or Graves who he knows are at least honest and sober? President Cleveland said recently that he had determined from the first to proceed with great caution in filling offices, and that his experience so far had convinced him that he had gone quite fast enough.

It might be well for those who are so loud and so prompt in their criticisms of the President to put themselves in his place. Each one of them knows a circle of good democrats whom he would immediately appoint to office. They are undisputed good democrats; but his small circle is exhausted, rival circles of good Democrats are offended, and our substitute President is blamed for setting up a personal government of his special friends. It is not easy to play at President even in imagination, but it is more difficult to build real castles than to build castles in the air.

I am not sure that my letter will be in accord with the views of the Editor, but I hope it will be published as the view of a Democrat and who reverses its true exponents. I am by no means in love with Mr. Cleveland, and I do not altogether approve his appointments, but it is certainly premature to write his presidential history, as some rash journalists have done, before he has been in office three months.

The Tower Dynamiters Convicted and Sentenced.

LONDON, May 18.—The jury in the case of Cunningham and Barton, charged with causing the explosion at the tower of London and elsewhere, returned a verdict that they were both parties guilty. They were both sentenced to penal servitude for life.

Cunningham maintained his self-composure, but Barton broke down and sobbed when the verdict was rendered. When the prisoners were asked if they had anything to say why the sentence of the law should not be passed upon them, Cunningham protested that he was innocent. He said he was willing to accept penal servitude for life, but they could not touch his soul. Barton simply declared that he was innocent.

MORROE LA., May 16.—R. L. Jones late postmaster at Lake Providence, recently convicted of conspiracy to rob and of robbing the mails of over four thousand dollars, was to-day sentenced to five years imprisonment at hard labor.

Mr. T. C. A., of Atlanta, desires to say that "I have been a constant sufferer with G. & G. for over two years; have failed to secure relief from any source until I obtained Kinch, two bottles of which effected an entire cure without any loss of time, change of diet or the use of any internal medicine."

One bottle of B. B. B. will purify your blood.

The Postmaster General is said to be planning a campaign against the lottery men of Louisiana and public swindlers generally. Success to him. We hope he will give them a regular Bull Run stampede.

Letters left at hotels and not called for in ten days are returnable to the nearest post master, whose duty it is send them to the dead letter office at Washington. Few know that this is the law in regard to such letters.

IT WILL PAY TO GIVE Shriners' Indian Vermifuge a trial. It will destroy and expel worms and beautify the complexion.

Petersburg, Va., May 18.—W. W. Pearsall, on trial at Goldsboro, N. C., for the murder of Thomas Crow, in whose case the jury failed to agree Saturday, has been acquitted on the ground of insanity.

The Revised Version of the Old Testament has been completed and handed over to the printers. Harper Bros. of N. Y. will issue copies of it to-day, May 21st. We will give in our next a more extended notice of the work.

DESTROY THAT SIGN.—One may feel that he's getting old, but he naturally dislikes that anything about his appearance should advise others of the fact. Yet nothing does this so effectually as thin and falling hair. No woman wants to marry a man, and business firms hesitate to employ a man, who shows this fatal sign. Parker's Hair Balsam is worth to you, in this regard, more than his weight in diamonds. Use it, and have plentiful and glossy hair. Many have had every trace of grayness removed and bald spots covered by using a single bottle.

AMERICA AHEAD ONCE MORE.

As the New Orleans World's Exposition, the Williamette Thread Co. of Hartford, Conn., a distinctly American institution, again carried off all the honors, and the only medals awarded for spool cotton. The completeness of this latest Williamette victory can be better appreciated by reading the following copy of the reports of the judges: "BEST QUALITY OF SIX CORD SP. COTTON in numbers for SEWING MACHINE and handwork. AWARDS—Medals of the first class. "Best quality and most comprehensive display of manufactured six cord spool cotton, from the lab of cotton "to the finished thread on spool." AWARDS—Medals of the first class. "Best display of manufactured spool cotton ready for use. "In black, white, and colors." AWARDS—Medals of the first class.

To emphasize this report of the jurors, the Committee on Awards have made a SPECIAL report of which the following is a copy: "In confirming this report, the Committee on Awards take occasion to express their appreciation of the superior quality of the complete exhibit made by the Williamette Thread Company, as well of the SUPERIORITY OF THEIR PRODUCT, as resulting from practical operations at the Exposition, and hereby grant the highest awards possible, 'able under the rules.' AWARDS, GUS. A. BREAUX, Chairman of Committee on Awards.
