These three counties produce about twenty thousand bales of cotton; a million one hundred and seventy-five thousand bushels of corn:

a quarter of a million bushels of wheat; a quarter of a million bushels of oats; more than a hundred and twenty-five thousand pounds of tobacco, and a host of smaller crops. The aggregate value of live stock amounts to more than $680.326.00. The mineral wealth in these three counties is beyond estimate: there are seventy-five known locations, all of which are gold bearing. When this industry shall be given an impetus, such as the construction of a road through the very heart of the deposits must give, then the world may begin to estimate the wealth now being held in this wonderful anriferous region. Just one more point. This road would make available, to a large extent, the water power of the Yadkin. Of this water power, Prof. Kerr, in his first volume, Geology of N. C., says. "The discharge per minute of the Yadkin, measured at Brown's Ferry, near the the N. C. A resident of the third ward. South Eaton, bit off a large piece from a plug of tobacco the other day, and, after making several attempts to roll it in the left side of his jaw, discovered something wrong. He removed the quid and to his horror and disgust, found in it the first joint of a man's finger, the nail included.

Senator Ransom and the Administration. Washington Dispatch.] Senator Ransom, of North Carolina, arrived here yesterday morning. He with two of his constituents, called upon the President, and later in the day visited Secretary Manning. To day there were two collectors of customs appointed in North Carolina. Whether or not Senator Ransom is responsible for these two appointments I am not prepared to say, bat I do know that the Senator is very highly thought of by the President. I had the pleasure of meeting the Senator immediately after this interview with the President yesterday. In reply to several inquiries concerning North Carolina affairs, the Senator said he had just time. come from home, where he left everything in pretty good shape, politically speaking. North Carolinians, as a rule, are very well pleased with the Administration, and are perfectly satisfied with the slow but sure policy which apparently governs its official actions. He says he was tempted to make a speech before leaving home, and tell those of his people who think changes are being made too slow, that there is no good ground for complaint, so far as North Carolina is concerned. He only restrained himself because he thought it might look as though he was trying to vindicate an adations will operate generally, and that ministration that needs no vindication. the physical and immortal interests of He believes in turning all Republicans out of office, and if he had his way they would all have to go; but, says he. there is the civil service law on the Statute Book, and you can't well go behind it. therefore he says he is unwilling that the President should violate that or any other law and commit perjury. He says that he believes that the President has but one object in view, and that is to give the people an honest and a good second term, and if the truth were known he would probably say that he is already tired of being President. The President, and apright Cabinet, and a Southern one to some extent. He has been extremely of offices, both at home and abroad. CITY OF MEXICO, July 7 .- A proclamation addressed to the people, and signed by several students, was found placarded on the dead walls this morning. The document stated that the recent decree for the conversion of the debt was humi lating to the people and the signers of it and protested that the law was one of the most tyrannical ever registered in the history of arbitrary government. It call ed attention to the protest against the recognition of the English debt during Gonzalez's administration -- a protest written by the blood of the people. WASHINGTON NOTES.

H usseys Correspondence to the Patriot. Washington, July 4th .- The "clean sweep" expected on the 1st of July did not take place. The beginning of the new fiscal year has come and gone and the "Rascals" are still with us. The 17 year ocusts have come and gone and the 'Rascals" are still with us. President President Cleveland's "go slow" policy is severely trying Democratic patience. Itis not the "what-are-we-here-for" Democras who are doing all the "kicking." "There must be a change," was the rallying cry of the Democratic party in the last campaign. It cannot come too quickly. We have never doubted that it would come in CIVIL SERVICE. The Administration will uphold the civil service humbug. It is the law. The Democratic party is pledged to "an honest civil service reform." Auditor Chennowith tackled the elephant and was ingloriously whipped. Owen Kellar, of Caldwell, Ohio, was certified by the Civil Service Commission for appointment to a clerkship in the First Auditor's office. He was rejected on the ground that he was an "offensive partizan," and was distasteful to Congressman Warner and other Demograts of his neighborhood. The facts were brought to Secretary Manning's attention, when he promptly disapproved the Auditor's action, and caused Kellar to be assigned to duty What the Auditor was thinking about is beyond comprehension. The law is boldly denounced by Democratic Congressmen, who say emphatically that they will never give a dollar for the Civil Service Commission. If a majority hold to this opinion the Commission will collapse at the expiration of the present fiscal year. It is a most transparent piece of hum-

The Keily Case.

It is pleasant to observe that the government proposes to stand by Mr. Keiley, much comment. It has been at various times cabled from foreign news centres that he would not be received by the Austrian government and while these announcements have been unauthorized there seems reason for the belief that the appointment was not agreeable to the Austrian court. Mr. Keiley will go to Vienna-is on his way there indeed-and should the Austrian government refuse to receive him, the United States will probably remain unrepresented at Vienna. The appointee is a capable man, and in every way other than that of capability fitted for the post to which he has been assigned. When he was appointed minister to Italy he was indorsed by the entire Congressional delegation of Virginia and was confirmed by the Senate. The Italian government, it is understood, made inquiry of this government whether or not Mr. Keiley had given utterance in a public speech in 1871 to sentiments in opposition to the occupation of Rome by Victor Emmanuel. The former governmentafterward, it is said, protested against his appointment, and Mr. Keiley resigned his commission.

The Austrian government, however, has no reasonable ground for complaint against the present appointment of Mr Keiley. The sole objection raised to his reception has been that made by the Italian minister to Austria, who is a natural Due to State Banks and bankers....... son of Victor Emmanuel, and was on the score of a personal desire not to be thrown in contact with Mr. Keiley. This is hardly of sufficient force to exclude a gentleman chosen to represent this country from a European court. The question has been raised whether or not it was un- July, 1885. complimentary to Austria to send Mr. CORRECT-Attest: Keiley to that empire after he had been rejected by Italy, and in reply the case of Mr. Kasson is cited to support the statement that no disrespect was offered. Mr. Kasson was nominated for the Spanish mission and objected to by Spain but was afterwards sent to Austria and was received. Later, and until a recent date, he served at Berlin. No valid objection can be made to Mr. Keiley on this score. The attitude of the government in the matter is therefore to be commended. The dignity of the Republic must be upheld, and will be upheld under Cleveland.
