GUNS THAT BUST EASILY.

In bravado a young man placed the muzzle of his fowling piece under the water and fired the charge. The result was the bursting of the barrel near the breech, and the mutilation of his hand. Another placed and held the muzzle of his gun square against a piece of plate window glass and fired the charge—powder and bullet. The glass was shattered, so was the gun barrel. Another instance was that of an experimenter who had heard that a candle could be fired from the barrel of a gun through an inch board. He drove a candle into the muzzle of the gun, fired, and the explosion split the barrel almost its entire length, and did not even drive the candle from the muzzle. Still another burst of a gun-barrel was caused by the use of wet grass as a wad, well rammed down over a charge of shot. But perhaps one of the most singular exhibitions in this line was a Colt's navy revolver, with some years ago was sent to the factory in Hartford, Conn. This was before the adaptation of these pistols to the metallic cartridges, and it is probable that in loading with open powder and ball only a small amount of powder got into the chambers, and the bullet was not propelled with sufficient force to drive it from the muzzle; at least the bullet did not go out, but lodged. As the shooter did not know whether the bullet escaped or not, he kept on firing until the barrel burst or bulged, and when it was sawed in two longitudinally there were found fourteen bullets wedged into the other, and so much "upset" by the hammering of the successive explosions of the powder charges that some of them were not less than one inch in diameter, flattened discs instead of conical bullets.—Manufacturer and Builder.

A Bigamist on the Rouds.

This paper three weeks ago told of the marriage of one Felix Crawford of South Carolina, to Miss Elizabeth Gross, daughter of Mr. George Gross of Engle Mills township, this county. There was a suspicion in the neighborhood at the time that Crawford, who had been living there but a short while, was not exactly all right and a little investigation proves that he had at that time at least one living wife. A letter from the register of deeds of Burke county to a party in this places states that he issued license on the 19th of November last to S. Crawford to marry Mrs. Julia Ann Propst, a widow woman of that county, and that they were married that day; that after living with her a little while Crawford sold her land, pocketed her money and left. The descriptions given of S. Crawford and Felix Crawford render it certain that they are one and the same person. The rascal seems to be a roving character, and it is said that he has a fashion of marrying in every community in which he stops. By his escapade in Iredell he has brought disgrace upon a respectable girl who belongs to a respectable family. It does not help their cause any to say now that the girl should not have married a man without knowing something about him, that her parents should not have allowed her to marry under these circumstances. There is no telling what the country is coming to. M. I. Vestal, Esq., of Yadkin, who married Crawford and Miss Gross, has been written to issue a warrant for the former and it is to be hoped he will be arrested and brought to justice.—Landmark.

FATAL DUEL IN TEXAS.

July 13.—The particulars of a fatal duel, fought at sunrise yesterday in Kaufman county, near the village of Kemp, were received here today. Joseph Holt and James Fryer were the principals. They had been enemies several months, the trouble growing out of a business disagreement. They met at Kemp on Saturday evening and quarreled. Friends prevented a personal collision, and afterward one of the principals quietly proposed to the other they meet next morning at sunrise in a lane near the village, each to occupy a given point about fifteen paces apart, facing each other, then advance and fire with Colt's navy six shooters until one should fall. This meeting they arranged without the knowledge of their friends, who remained in ignorance of it until shots were heard yesterday morning. On hurrying to the scene they found Fryer lying dead on the ground, wounded in four places, while Holt was uninjured. One bullet struck Fryer in the side; his exit near the left nipple; another severed the femoral artery, and striking the pelvis bone passed down and out at the thigh. Examination developed the fact that Fryer had not fired a bullet from his weapon, the first shot from Holt having passed through his pistol hand, forcing him to drop his weapon.

Strange Bridal Omens.

Superstitions About the Dates of Marriages. "Oh, bless you, no; the wedding will not take place until early in June," said a society mother in a chat with the fashion editor, who had touched on the subject of her daughter's nuptials. "But it was supposed to be all fixed for an earlier date," said the visitor. "So it was, a long time in advance," said the mother; "but we discovered that the wedding would come in Lent, so we put it off."

New and Observer: A man from the North is in Macon county and has caught on to a nice scheme for making money.

He has put up a mill on a creek and cuts out of a fine white tale (or soapstone) round tips for gas-burners. These are about half an inch in diameter and an inch in length. He packs them in that shape and ships them North. There they are sawed in two, perforated and made into perfect tips.

The South's Side of the War.

Correspondence of the Rockingham Rocket. I have lately noticed that Gen. Grant repeats in his history of the war the story that Jefferson Davis, when captured, was in his wife's clothing, or words to that effect. I have also noticed in the Century Magazine accounts of some of the battles in the late war between the States differing materially from what we were taught to be the true result of those battles. Our country is flooded with Northern accounts of the war; our children's school books are from Northern sources, and the history of that great struggle is mostly from the Northern standpoint. I believe ex-President Davis has written a history of the war, and also Mr. Stephens, but we ought to have a more concise yet full and truthful history, written by a Southern man—"Nothing extenuate or set down aught in malice;" and it should be one of the text books in all Southern schools, that our posterity may know the truth of the history of the events. Justice to the dead heroes, as well as to those living who participated in the struggle, demands it; our own self-respect demands it; and it ought to be written as soon as possible, while the events are green and fresh in the memory of the survivors.

How can it be done? If the editors of Southern newspapers will all put their shoulders to the wheel they can soon raise money enough to get some competent gentleman to give it his time and attention. See what amount the efforts of one Northern newspaper, the World, has raised to accomplish its object. I have in my mind's eye one gentleman who would accomplish the undertaking if he could be induced to try it.—Col. Charles C. Jones, Jr., LL. D., of Augusta, Ga., and I have no doubt there are others.

If you coincide with these views, start the ball. (I will give fifty dollars towards the necessary fund).

Truly yours, &c., RICHMOND COUNTY, N. C.

The Cohen Sensation.

His Arrest at Wythville, Va.—His Wife Hastens to His Rescue.

A dispatch from Wythville, Va., says: "This morning Sheriff Robinson, of Greenville, arrived here and caused the arrest of Cohen at the Hancock House, where he was stopping with his bride. Telegrams from Sheriff Robinson to Goldsboro elicited a response from Cohen's alleged wife, saying they were married in Cincinnati during the sixties. A telegram to the mayor of Cincinnati was answered as follows: "Records destroyed March, 1884. Can't get the information."

Cohen's North Carolina wife telegraphed to the sheriff to hold his horses, etc., for her benefit.

Miss Patton's high and wide social connection adds great interest to the case. She was from the first families of her section, and her infatuation is inexplicable. From the loss of the records it is supposed the second marriage must stand as valid. Cohen says he lived with the North Carolina woman for some years, but was never married to her."

The sensation has likewise created a considerable commotion in this community where R. M. Cohen and wife, with a large family of children, have resided the past fifteen years, and here whatever other charges and croakings have from time to time been laid at Cohen's feet, their domestic relations have, from all accounts, been affectionate and happy, and the children feel indignant at the false report that their parents had not been properly married. At first Mrs. Cohen, it seems, shared in this disgust, but a woman's love is capable of strange spasms, and so it happens that the pitiful appeals received here from Cohen himself, have prompted her to leave here for Wythville, and reports say, for the purpose, and with a willingness, to make almost any sacrifice to release Cohen from the charge of bigamy. We await further developments.—Goldsboro Messenger.

One of our exchanges takes the trouble to tell its readers how to roll mazzines, pamphlets, etc., for transmission by mail or otherwise.

This is one of the cases where Puncti's excellent advice "Don't!" comes in. Such things should not be rolled at all. They should always be sent flat. To roll them is to mar them at once and forever. When a periodical dealer offers to roll up a parcel for a customer he should be told politely but unmistakably that he doesn't wholly understand his business. Manuscripts, it may be added, should never be rolled, under any circumstances. If necessary to reduce the proportions of a package, they may be folded, once or twice, as required, but the less the better.—Goldsboro Messenger.

Raleigh News-Observer:—The State Board of Assessors yesterday fixed the valuation of the railway franchises in North Carolina.

The highest valuation appears to be that of the Piedmont Air-Line—$1,500 a mile; the lowest, that of the University, the Alma & Little Rock and the Milton and Satterlin Narrow Gauge, each $100. The longest line of road within the State is that of the Western North Carolina, which is 276 1/2 miles in length, while the Milton and Satterlin line extends but 1/2 mile within our border. It will be some time before the whistle of a locomotive shall be heard in every county of the State, but that day is coming.

that one does not like to acknowledge, and yet no one wants to run the risk of inviting bad luck by violating the rule.

The eddies being started on the track of woman's superstitions in regard to marriages, made inquiries and gathered a surprising number of them.

No girl, for instance, is willing to make Friday her wedding day. Away back in the tragic times the most of these maiden superstitions were traced. The Romans were very superstitious about marrying in May and February. The 14th has always been considered in England peculiarly unlucky for brides. Why, tradition sayeth not. In the Orkney Isles the bride selects an evening for her wedding when there is a full moon and flowing tide. In Scotland the last day of the year is considered lucky; the bride's prospects in life are supposed to be brilliant.

Sunday is a great favorite with brides in some parts of England and Ireland. The French demoiselle, however, thinks the first Friday in the month particularly fortunate for her nuptials.

In Sweden the bride on her way back from church has pieces of bread in her pockets. These she throws away on her road to her home to insure her good luck. It is ill-fortune to the one who picks up these crumbs. If the bride lose her slipper on her way from church, she will lose all her troubles, and the one who picks it up will gain riches.

In every country it is an unhappy omen for the wedding to be put off when once the day has been fixed, and in England it is believed great misfortune will ensue if a bridegroom stand, if only for a moment, at the junction of cross roads on his wedding morn. In England, also, it is thought a sign of bad luck if the bride fails to shed tears on her wedding day, or if she turn to take a last look at herself in her wedding toilet.

Among the English lasses it is bad luck for a bride to look back or go back when once she has started for the church, or to marry dressed in green, or to let the ceremony go on while there is an open grave in the churchyard. When the bridesmaids undress the bride they must be sure of good luck to themselves as well as for her. If a single pin be left in the bride's raiment, woe unto her. And if a bridesmaid should keep one of them she will not be married before Whitsuntide, or the Easter following. Therefore bridesmaids in England are not given to preserving the pins from the bridal costumes. If the bridal party venture off the land they must go up stream, and the bride, to make certain of good luck, must, on the happy day, wear "Something old and something new, something gold and something blue." If she sees a strange cat on that day she will take it as an omen that she is to be very happy; and if on the morning of her wedding day she steps from her bed on something higher than the floor, and then on something higher still, she will rise in the world from the time of her marriage. To wake sure of this, the maiden has chair and a table at her bedside and steps from one to the other on rising from her slumber on her wedding morn. On leaving her home and on starting from the church to return, she is very careful to step out with her right foot first, and is careful not to address her husband after they are wed without first calling him by his full name. The break of the wedding ring is a sign that the wearer will soon be a widow.

And there were fifty others of the same sort which are shared by our young women, who carefully follow many of these nummeries in the weddings of today. Though they be nineteen century maids, the graduates of colleges of high standing, they are not proof against the superstitions of brides from time immemorial.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Cancer Cured.

About three years ago there appeared on my right breast several hard lumps which gave me almost intolerable pain. They continued to grow, and finally developed into what the doctors called cancer of the breast. In a short time I found my strength gone and my constitution a total wreck. From a robust woman I was reduced to a helpless invalid. Several of the best physicians of Atlanta treated me for cancer, but without improving my condition in the least, and finally agreeing that they could do nothing more for me. The cancer by this time was eating out my very life, and for five months I was a helpless, bedridden creature. About one year ago, at the suggestion of a friend, I commenced the use of Swift's Specific. The first influence of the medicine was to increase the discharge, but after a month or more I began to improve, and this wonderful medicine has brought back my health again. I am now perfectly free from pain, and feel like a new person altogether. I can not feel too grateful for this wonderful recovery, for I am satisfied if it had not been for Swift's Specific I would have been in my grave to-day. I most cheerfully recommend it to all those who are suffering with this fearful disease. MRS. JANE CLEMONS, Atlanta, Ga., April 16, 1885. Treatment on Blood and Skin Disease mailed free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta Ga.

THAT DIRTY DANDRUFF.—Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. It is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.
