A stray bale of cotton coming in now and then.

W. F. Snider of Asheville spent a few days here this week.

A large tobacco factory is to be built at once for Messrs. Martin & Foard.

The grades of tobacco offered on this market, are improving every day.

Mr. Thos. Rainey, the post office clerk is confined with a throat trouble.

Leaf tobacco has held its own this week. All the warehouses have had regular sales.

D. L. Gaskill has returned from a tobacco drumming trip South. His maiden trip was a success.

When the book agent ceases from traveling, then the wearied in this section, at least, will be at rest.

A big snow followed by warm weather would benefit alike the garden and farm, so those who know say.

John W. Bostian has purchased and is now occupying the property formerly owned by Bill Valentine.

Negotiations pending for the purchase of several town lots—upon which will be erected neat dwelling houses for rent.

The quality of the gas made here has been improved, yet consumers say there is still room for improvement.

The grand pipe organ in the Methodist church has been tuned and set in perfect order by an organ builder of wide experience.

A really good opera troupe or dramatic company, would be patronized liberally here now. Only a few have touched Salisbury this winter.

Old "Miranda" post office has been re-established at Mr. John K. Graham's residence. It was one of the ante bellum offices in this county.

Mr. John Y. Rice's friends will learn with sorrow that he has been confined to his bed for some time by serious sickness. It is hoped he will soon recover.

The drug stores here are getting in stocks of garden seeds of all kinds to supply their spring trade. The seed business has increased wonderfully all over the land.

The various professions here are filled with young, and men under middle age, with three exceptions; one clergyman, one physician and one lawyer are on the shady side.

The Mayor finds but little to do now-a-days, so far as sitting in judgment on violators of the law is concerned. Lost time will be made up, however, during the latter part of the year. Election time coming, you know!

The bright sun, the first of this week put all the gardeners to work. Peas and potatoes should be in the ground. The early flowers are beginning to lend their fragrance to the balmy air.

A mountain man was disposing of his load of apples on the streets this week at 85 cents a bushel or 20 cents a peck. Our people don't get left on that kind of a bargain. One man bought 8 pecks.

Miss Emma Council has returned from her visit to the family of Hon. Walter Steele, in Rockingham and is now the guest of Mr. J. A. Boyden, where she will spend a few days before returning to her home in Watauga, the queen of our mountain counties.

Lewis Seales, the negro who was implicated in robbing cars at the depot here last summer for which he was sentenced to three years imprisonment has escaped from the penitentiary. It is reported that Noah Dedman, the accomplice of Seales, has also escaped.

It was stated here last week by a farmer and a representative man from Davidson county, that the mortgage system had played almost entirely out among the farmers of that county. The result is they are in a more prosperous financial condition than ever before. Rowan should profit by the experience of her next door neighbor.

Mr. J. Samuel McCubbins, representing some of the largest and most reliable Insurance Companies in the world has opened an office on Main street, with a view of giving the business his especial attention. Mr. McCubbins is too well known in this community to need any flattering notice from the press. Read his advertisement in this paper.

Salisbury boasts a signal station on her own hook, without governmental appropriations. When a flag is seen suspended from the third story of Klutz's drug store, it is sure sign that the Knights of Cythias will hold a meeting that night. This prediction can never be a signal failure.

Court adjourned on last Monday morning, after a sitting of just a week. The poor dog now has speedy justice in Rowan. There were additions to the men, from Rowan. This is just what was predicted by the WATCHMAN several weeks ago. The present court arrangement is entirely adequate to the needs of this county.

Mr. P. C. Sanders, commonly called "Tebe" was up from Montgomery county last week. Judging from his proportions the people of his county have an abundance for the proper sustenance of physical requirements.

Your reporter saw an auctioneer selling cheap pistols on the streets last Saturday. This is all wrong. It encourages the carrying of concealed weapons and has a tendency to breed contempt for the law on that subject.

Mr. L. S. Overman fell from the court house steps on last Monday morning and sprained his ankle. He will probably be confined for a month from the effects of the fall. His sufferings were intense at first, but he has experienced much relief since the accident.

The Building and Loan Association held its regular meeting on last Thursday night. The election of officers was the prime business of the evening. Theo. F. Klutz, Esq., was made President; Mr. B. H. Marsh, Vice President, and Rev. F. J. Murdoch, Secretary and Treasurer. The board of directors is to be elected to-night. There was considerable wrangling over the office of Secretary and Treasurer, and it is hoped all will unite now and work for the common good, regardless of former preferences.

Quartermen.

Parties wishing to bid on a contract to get out Belgian blocks, for paving streets, can get information and specifications by calling on Capt. John A. Ramsay, at his office in Legal Row. There is an abundance of splendid material on and near Dunn's Mountain for this purpose, and the quartermen should be on the alert to catch such jobs as this. Quite a business might be worked up in this line. Some effort should be made to get this very superior granite on the market, and there is no better way of starting than to begin with furnishing paving stones.

New Tobacco Factories.

Messrs. G. W. Martin, of Leaksville, N. C., (formerly of Henry county, Va.), and Robt. H. Foard, late of Statesville, have formed a partnership for manufacturing tobacco. They are practical men and have selected a splendid plot to establish a large factory. Salisbury offers many advantages to the manufacturer. They are welcomed among our people.

Messrs. Eugene Johnson and James H. Ramsay constitute a new firm in the tobacco business here. They propose to manufacture tobacco on a large scale. They are energetic, wide awake young men and will succeed.

A party from Asheville is negotiating with a view of establishing a tobacco factory here. "Let them come in." "We are marching on."

The Ladies Feast the Club.

If the young people of Salisbury have any one distinguishing excellence, it is generosity. The young men of the "Pleasure Club" have done so much for several seasons past for the pleasure of the ladies of the town that they very naturally desire to show some substantial appreciation. With this in view, the happy idea of a supper was suggested. On last evening the result of that conception was consummated in the most delightful, crowning entertainment of the season. The young ladies had prepared a most sumptuous feast which they graced, as only the fair women of this glorious South-land can, with charms of personal beauty and intellectual accomplishments. The parlors of the Mt. Vernon Hotel never held so captivating an array of loveliness before. The brilliantly lighted rooms were almost dazzling, and the tout ensemble, as one gazed on the party, in full evening dress, was impressive. Faces were brightened and eyes were sparkling under the exhilarating influence of genial conversation mingled with sparkling wit and happy repartee, which was heightened by sweet strains of music from an Italian orchestra. About ten o'clock the party moved to the dining hall to the strains of a march. Here was a blaze of light, graceful floral decorations and a feast, the like of which is rarely seen here. A mere recital of the bill of fare can convey only a meagre idea, yet the reader may have interest enough to read the

Menu.

Turkey. Mayonnaise Salads. Cranberries. Pickles. Ham. Chicken. Tongue. Sanwiches. Potatoe Souffle. Ambrosia. Jellies. Fancy Ices. Creams. Assorted Cakes. Roquefort Cheese. Nuts. Cafe Noir. For nearly two hours the merry feasters hung around the festive board. The ladies seemed to realize the complete success of their undertaking, in the hearty appreciation of their guests, who did ample justice to so generous a feast, and yet accomplished no apparent diminution of the contents of the "gloating board."

It was a success, of which the ladies may boast, and it demonstrates their appreciation of the efforts of the gentlemen of the Club, who have done so much for their pleasure during the season now coming to a close.

The WATCHMAN would be glad to describe the elegant dresses worn on this occasion, but lack of space forbids.

[The thanks of all are due to Mr. and Mrs. Forrester for their kind donation of parlors, dining hall, service &c., of the Mt. Vernon Hotel.]

The evening's last, or the morning's first hours were spent in enjoying a dance in the rooms of the Pleasure Club.

J. ROWAN DAVIS of Blackmer has received his splendid stock of hardware, consisting of everything useful on a farm from a Plow Point Bolt, up. Why run to town in the mud hub deep when you can get first class goods at town prices for cash or barter at Davis? Highest market prices paid for Produce, at all times, at Davis.

MINING DEPARTMENT.

T. K. BRUNER, EDITOR.

Other mining matter unavoidably crowded out of this issue will appear in next.

Suggestions and Facts.

Relative to the ridge beginning at Mauney's mill on the river and extending S. W. to Gold Hill, for lack of any name, it will be called, Mauney's mountain ridge. While this ridge is of the general Huronian formation of the section, it is in portions so highly metamorphosed and crossed by dykes of igneous rock, that from its wedge like shape which comes to a point near Gold Hill, it can only be called a conglomerate wedge shaped fault. This being near the dividing line between the slate and syenitic granitoid rock west; is the cause of the shifting of the Gold Hill strata as noted heretofore. Gold Hill, of itself is an independent series of segregated veins, in a talco chloride and argillaceous slate formation, apparently from its attitude the butt end of the fault and an exclusive and local zone on the south of this point, the Hunnicutt, Union, Troutman and other mining properties are located approximately in this zone, but there is no definite connecting link. So, likewise on the north, the veins are interrupted by the fault and while they apparently can be traced for miles on to the river, not enough work has been done on them to establish their continuity. The attempt to particularize will not be made here, as so much has been and can be said on this point—most of it too without a thorough and proper investigation, that it is thought best only to generalize. West of the slates proper, divided almost by the line of Reedy branch, the geology changes to one that is hard to define in a cursory manner, save under the general term of syenitic, for contemporaneous there is schistose, gneissoids, argillaceous slates, granite and syenitic rocks, the latter predominating. All the others partaking of its characteristics; hence the term. This formation continues west for miles, permeating the whole system are many lateral quartz veins that can be traced on the surface from the river S. W. into Cabarrus. All of these veins carry gold, some of which are immensely rich in free milling brown ore above water, below water they run into refractory sulphide ores, and almost invariably into copper sulphides in depth, probably with one or two exceptions.

The most prominent mines of this belt are Kesler, Huffman, Dutch Creek, Halsey, Rowan, Davidson and Wilson, Gold Knob, Mike Holshouser, Reimer, Dunn's Mountain, Sol. Morgan, Dolph Hellig, &c., though one can hardly go amiss for a vein, every farm having from one to a dozen veins crossing it. All of these mines are idle, why? Are they not rich enough to pay? Yes! Then, why idle? The ores are too refractory to pay to extract save by a Reduction Works. Start the works a enough ore can be had to run a dozen 100 ton works in this county.

Sudden Death of Peter W. Hairston.

Many of our citizens were shocked and grieved last week at the sad story of the death of Mr. Hairston. He was well known to many citizens of this place, having married the youngest daughter of the late Judge D. F. Caldwell, and having thus formed social relations which attracted him to this place from time to time. It may be most truthfully said of him that those who knew him best, esteemed him most highly. He was a generous man, and thoughtful of the happiness of those about him, manifesting this disposition in the most intelligent and delicate manner.

A note from Dr. J. A. Caldwell to the editors of this paper says:

"Mr. P. W. Hairston died of apoplexy at his place of business, 55 South Carolina street, Baltimore, at ten minutes to 12 o'clock, in an hour after he was seized. He was buried in the Hairston family burial ground at Berry Hill, Pitsylvania Co., Va."

"The deceased was held in great esteem for his kindness of heart; and such was the affection of his former slaves for him that some rode nearly forty miles to see him put away in his last resting place."

"Dr. Caldwell and his niece, Miss Francis Fisher, went from this place to attend the burial."

A Baltimore paper of the 17th inst. says:

"Mr. Hairston was in the office at about 11 o'clock pleasantly conversing with Mr. Owens and several other merchants. He was observed by Mr. Owens to draw up one of his legs, and he almost immediately afterwards fell back in an unconscious condition."

"The usual restoratives were applied, but he died one hour after he had been stricken down."

Mr. Hairston came from Virginia some time after the war and associated himself in business with the late Gen. James R. Herbert. The deceased was a member of the Corn and Flour Exchange. He leaves a widow (who is at present on a visit to North Carolina, where her husband owned considerable property), two sons, Frank C. and Peter Hairston, and two daughters. He was 65 years of age. A letter from Mrs. Hairston to her husband arrived at the office just after he expired.

The death of Mr. Hairston caused much surprise, and numerous expressions of regret among his brother merchants on Charles street. His eldest son, Frank, one of the clerks employed in the establishment, was almost prostrated by the shock caused by his father's sudden death. Mr. Hairston was a gentleman of fine physique and of a genial disposition. The flag on the Corn and Flour Exchange was placed at half-mast out of respect to his memory.

Every reader of the WATCHMAN can have DIXIE, the elegantly printed and illustrated Southern magazine, for the balance of this year—ten months—for $1.00, but to secure it you must send your name, post office, county and state, plainly written, with money, on or before April 1, 1886, and you must mention this paper when you write. Address,

To Preserve Green Apples.

Dr. Jno. B. Gaither, of Mill Bridge, this county, handed the reporter some perfectly preserved apples of last year's growth. He said that their preservation was a very simple matter. The apples were picked from the trees, and only perfectly sound apples saved. Each apple is carefully wrapped in common brown or newspaper, and packed in a flour or a sugar barrel and the head put in, or simply covered with plank. This is all there is to it. He said that Mrs. Gaither had saved five barrels in this way, and he did not think there were as many as five rotten apples in the lot. They were gathered before a hard frost, wrapped in paper, packed in barrels and set away in the closet or pantry. This is simple enough and is worth remembering. Try it this fall. Apples always bring a good price in winter.

LIST OF LETTERS.

Where's Clod Knockor?

Is he sowing his spring-odds or breaking his corn-land?

Ye voiceful winds, tell us where Clod knockor is!

Price of cotton so low, peradventure his horn-hand!

Just incessantly wipeth his tear-furrowed phiz?

Oh, hath he no gray goose to furnish him pen-quill?

Doth he flourish no ink-splasher, brals, steel or gold?

Is he numb with the "writer's cramp?" Waits he for stenils?

Or expects the arrival of type-writer bold?

Hist, the voiceful wind moaneth—In January frozen up,

He will thaw out in February's mild open spells!

When that cold snap e'en great Mississippi was closin' up,

Can you wonder his ink-bottle took sudden spells?

Too much sand in his gizzard to weep at the cotton jumps!

Either upward or downward, when the gray geese all die

And the out-of-date pen and type-writer are rotten lumps,

On the eagle's pen-feather he'll soar by and by!

Mr. VERNON, Feb. 22, 1886. E. P. H.

Woodleaf Items.

Woodleaf has been visited with diphtheria recently. Myself and my wife have been confined with it, but are now recovering.

Dr. P. A. Klutz, our young and popular physician has had very good success in his treatment of the disease.

It is a pleasure to state that Miss Lizzie Rice is recovering from a severe attack of sickness. She is a very popular young lady here and we all feel a very deep interest in her welfare.

Prof. J. B. Wetmore's school is still improving in the way of attendance. He has several scholars from a distance—one from Watauga county.

Prof. Wetmore is a very good teacher, and his school is likely to grow to greater proportions yet.

Clod Knockor is hard at work. It is reported that he is going to raise 25 acres of tobacco this year, and that he will build brick barns for curing it.

Some work is still being done at Rice & Bailey's gin house. The house is as full of cotton now as it was last December.

Noah Lewis sold 50 acres of his land to N. D. Elliott. It brought $300.

R. B. Bailey has bought out the business formerly conducted by Rice Bros. & Bailey. Jen.

Clod Knockor Still Knocking.

WOODLEAF, Feb. 23, 1886.

Mr. Editor:—The general agent seems to be somewhat anxious about us, (we answer all accounted for) have't taken him but since we met him, roaring through our woods a few weeks ago with his pockets stuffed with chattel mortgages. If the agent don't quit this we shall petition that dancing girl to wear him out to a frazzled neck chance she gets.

We think it about time for the merchants and guano men to give us a little resting spell and let Charlie Kriders one arm deputies have a chance to push us for unpaid taxes, it is only about three months till harvest and the poor farmer ought to have at least that much time during the year in which he can live, move and have his being without fear of the almost omnipresent chattel mortgage man.

We have been quietly resting on our oars, Mr. Editor, for some time listening to the general agent, Job, and some of the other correspondents as they write up the cotton gins, saw mills, marriages, and dancing frolics, but not one of them has said a word about our new still house that is nearly completed at Blackmer, in Steele. For a long time Steele has been without a still house, and for several years without a whiskey shop, and since we got clear of the latter, no crime, as we know of, has been committed within her borders. The J. P.'s have ceased to pull each others wool about the vacant county commissionship. Can't we strike on some plan, Mr. Editor, make them all county commissioners? Suppose we stop the per diem and mileage and let 'em all in for a year and then turn 'em out and put up the gap. Hanking for office is a bad disease; we have seen it in it's most squallid forms; had a slight touch of it myself when we entered the race with our old friends, Tom Vanderford and John Beard for a revenue office, but when old Collector Dowd eyed us from head to foot he saw that we were not demagogue enough to suck government pay and didn't have money enough to help him on to Congress after the government cow went dry it was no go—so we went back to the old woman a wiser if not a better man but hadn't exactly got over the mean feeling yet.

CLOD KNOCKOR.

"DIXIE," Atlanta, Ga.

To Return the Silver.

Senator Butler's bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to deliver upon satisfactory proof of ownership, to the claimants thereof, the silverware, jewelry and other property deposited in the treasury by the secretary of war in June, 1869, as property captured by the United States army during the late war, has been favorably reported. Some of the heir-looms carried out by Sherman's bummers may therefore still be recovered.—Nash and Observer.

Whose Husband.

There is a strange case in the courts of Atlanta. A man died in that city recently and soon after his death two women, who had never met before, appeared and claimed his body, one as that of her husband, J. Pierce Weaver, an undertaker of Indianapolis, and the other as that of her husband, J. Woods Pierce, a stock dealer of Texas. The question is as to which woman is entitled to the remains. The evidence is as strong in favor of the one as in favor of the other, and the lawyers are all puzzled. The outcome will be awaited with interest.—Nash and Observer.

The Railroad.

The Newton Enterprise says: We learn from Col. R. Z. Linney that there is a bright prospect that the railroad from Statesville to Taylorsville will be completed at no distant day. Col. Linney has the assurance from one who has the authority to make it, that the Richmond and Danville syndicate propose to iron and equip the road if those who are interested in its completion, will grade it and furnish ties. This, we believe, has been done—or the largest part of it at least.—Alexander Journal.

The Increase in the Mean Duration of Human Life.

Dr. Quain, an eminent London physician, remarked in the course of his recent "Harveian oration," that fifty years ago a patient could command no anesthetic to induce insensibility to pain, no antiseptic to promote the healing of a wound, no chloral to produce sleep no antipirietic in general use to control fever. He showed that in the past forty-five years the mean duration of male life in England and Wales has been increased by two years, and that of women by three and a half, the greater portion of such increase being subsequent to childhood and prior to decrepitude.

The Richest Copper Mine.

The Calumet and Hecla mine in the upper peninsula of Michigan is probably the richest and most prolific copper mine in the world. Discovered in 1855, it has built up an industry in which over 2,000 men, and two flourishing towns of 5,000 inhabitants find employment at all seasons. The dividend account exceeds $20,000,000. It pays quarterly dividends of $5 a share on 100,000 shares. More than one-third of the entire copper of North Michigan has been taken from this mine, and a good share of the whole product of the globe. The total product of refined copper produced in 1882 was 28,000 tons. The Burra-Burra mine of South Africa, worked for twenty-one years, did not yield as much copper as was raised from the depths of the Calumet mine in the two years of 1880 and 1881. It should be borne in mind that the only virgin copper comes from the Lake Superior mines, and not copper ores, which mines, in other regions yield, which ores have to be "treated" and reduced to produce copper.—Detroit Free Press.

DIED.

David Marvin, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gaskill, aged 11 months, passed away as the sun was rising, Monday the 22d inst. after several days severe illness. The little fellow bore his suffering with much patience, but now he will suffer no more forever. He is gone, but his memory will linger, a bright spot in the life of the fond parents, and affectionate children. This is the first time the pale visitant has come to this house, and broken the home circle by death. So in the years to come, one by one, parents and children pass, beyond to the regions of the dead, may there be in each case, the same good ground to hope for a blissful immortality. His life on earth was brief, but his life in heaven will be unending, and all will be healthful and joyous there.

"Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." PASTOR.
