THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1886.

The Vance Family.

Here is the list as made out by Republican liars. Just read and see how many Vance's there are in office:
Z. B. Vance, U. S. Senator, salary $3,000.
R. B. Vance, Assistant Com. of Patents, 4,500.
C. N. Vance, son, Clerk to the Senator, 2,100.
Z. B. Vance, Jr., Geological Survey, 600.
W. G. Vance, cousin, in the Treasury, 1,200.
T. H. Vance, cousin, in the Post-office Department, 1,000.
D. M. Vance, cousin, in the army, 1,600.
J. Vance, cousin, Mississippi river Commission, 805.
Rich. Vance, cousin, in the army, 1,000.
H. Vance, cousin, Mississippi river Commission, 1,800.
E. Vance, cousin, Department of Justice, 1,200.
David N. Vance, cousin, Internal Revenue, 425.
A. E. Vance, Government Printing office, 600.
E. Robinson, nephew, page in the Senate, 900.
Hall, nephew, page in the House, 900.
McDonald, cousin, Government printing office, 700.

To which the Winston Republican adds:
This makes a total of sixteen persons, and a total salary list of $25,320. Somebody ought to introduce a bill for the relief of the Vance family on the government.

The same authority found but two other Senators as well provided for and adds, the total salary account of relatives would foot up an amazing amount. At the opening of Congress there was much talk, through the press, that Senator Vance was opposed to the administration in its Civil Service policy. But all that sort of "stuff" has ceased. Of course it has! If, with a total of 16 relatives a hold of the public test at an aggregate annual salary of over $25,000, won't lynch up a fellow, a seat on the very inside of the Treasury vault would hardly do so.

Now that's the way they put it. Is it true? The writer felt that it was false and wrote to the Senator for the truth, here it is; the list as revised is as follows:

Z. B. Vance, U. S. Senator, salary, $5,000.
R. B. Vance, Assistant Com. of Patents, 3,000.
C. N. Vance, son, Clerk to the Senator, 800.
Z. B. Vance, Jr., Lieutenant in the army, 600.
Hall, nephew, page in the House, 600.

What a falling off is here! But read the Senator's private letter, which we take the liberty to publish. It shows how the rotten liars lie and refuse to correct them.

SENATE CHAMBER, WASHINGTON, Mar. 2d

T. K. BRUNER, My Dear Sir:

I return the slip corrected according to the truth. The Vances in office so far as I know or am in any way responsible for, are embraced on the slip. The others through which the pen has been drawn, I never heard of before on this matter. I doubt if all of them are in existence. My son Charlie is my clerk, a very confidential position, and is paid about $6 per day, whilst Congress is in session only. My son David is earning his bread on the Times-Democrat in New Orleans. Tom is Lord Mayor of the town of Lenoir, and practices law. Zeb was appointed a Cadet in the Navy by Judge Ashe, graduated at Annapolis, and when the Naval force was cut down by act of Congress, he was thrown out and was appointed to the army by Fred. Arthur.

My little nephew, Hall, was appointed a page in the House originally by the Tennessee delegation, where he lives, and that is my responsibility. I am much encouraged by this lie—the most bungling one they have started on me yet, and shows they are getting out of heart. Thank you very much for your offer to expose it.

In haste yours, Z. B. Vance.

REVENUE RAIDERS.

Revenue raiders caught four men at an illicit still in Wilkes last week. They were bound over to court. The raiders also captured six stills and cut up several coppers.—Alexander Journal.
This and like items are too common in the press of today, but they serve a good purpose in rebuking the democratic representatives in Congress. Hurry up the reform, if not the abolition of the revenue system. Neglect of this matter is dangerous. If the democratic party ever pledged itself to anything, it was to the wiping out of this revenue oppression. THE WATCHMAN was abreast of the party in denouncing the law and promising a change, and it meant just what it said. We demand of all our representatives, in the name of the people who put them in place, to do all in their power to hasten the change. Talk is cheap. Action is what the people demand.

Snow Storm.

There was a furious snow storm in the northern and eastern section of the county last Saturday and Sunday. The drift in some places was from three to six feet deep stopping the trains on railroads, and impeding business of all kinds. A train was derailed in Maine by ice, and several trainmen seriously hurt.

A Dissection of the Blair Bill.

On the first page of this paper will be found a strong article under the above heading from the pen of that able and patriotic lawyer George T. Curtis. It is reproduced for the benefit of those thinking readers of the WATCHMAN who really wish enlightenment on the constitutionality of the Blair bill. No more concise statement of the case has been published.

There is considerable change going on all over the country in regard to this measure, and it will be safe to predict that should it not pass the present Congress it will never pass.
The Asheville Citizen, speaking of the bill says:
Anxious for increased and better educational facilities, our people are caught by the "hard cash" which alone is held up to their eyes, and apparently fail to see, or are disposed to disregard, the surrounding and threatening evils. Leaving out of sight the constitutional question involved, and granting all that may be claimed in this respect by the advocates of the bill, the question naturally forces itself, is it with a proper view of the economic interests of our people for the general government to keep up a high rate and costly system of taxation in order to collect funds to distribute among the States for purely State concerns? There is no parity of resemblance between this distribution and appropriations for government buildings, government harbors and improvement of government defenses which may be located within a State. These latter are strictly for the use of the general government in the exercise of its legitimate and necessary functions. The same cannot be said of this school fund, so far as the present bill contemplates, but it is in the nature of a distribution among the States to be controlled by the States themselves. * * * And how will this be done? By keeping up the odious Internal Revenue laws, "with its attendant corruptions and oppressions," as well as higher tariffs than are otherwise needed. In order to keep up the present system of national taxation, pensions must be enormously increased; and costly coast defenses entered upon, and subsidised steamship lines, and here comes along the educational bill, "generous offer" as Senator George terms it; and thus bringing the soldiers, and the cities on the coast, and the Southern people, and protecting whiskey monopolists of the North and North-west, keep up a system which all the people of all sections denounce. To divert the minds of the people from real wrongs and to avoid moving them, showed representatives of monopolists of various sorts and in various sections, and local and personal selfishness, erect golden calves, and forthwith the people regardless of conscience fall down and worship. * * * Our people complain and justly, of the present oppressive and stagnating nature of the governmental system of taxation, yet they, when shining dollars are held up before them, forget the hereafter, or even present embarrassments, and cry to their representatives, "give," "give." The people must make up their minds to submit eternally to the present system of taxation, or reduce instead of increase national "offers" of generosity, and, by cutting down general burdens of the character alluded to be the better enabled themselves to work out their intellectual and social and material salvation.

The Moore Gazette has found an eye opener, and turns in opposition to the "steal" as follows:
Opposition to the Educational bill is put upon its unconstitutionality. Its advocates think that they find a warrant for the measure in the "general welfare" clause of the Constitution. Let us see. Educators and statesmen are among its advocates, and we have felt from the first agitation of the measure that it would be a good thing for the South if it could be brought about under Constitutional warrant, but after reading the opinions of those who have made the Constitution a study, we regard the measure as one which in the end will prove a most dangerous precedent, fraught with mischief to our country, and undermining the principles of our government. The long wished for relief from a war tariff, under which our people have groaned for upwards of twenty years, although promised to the people and anxiously looked for by them, will not be realized at the hands of the present Congress.

In the Senate on the 26th inst., the bill was taken up, and Mr. Blair took the floor. Mr. Allison formally presented his amendment which provided that where white and colored schools existed separately, the money was to be paid out in support of such schools in proportion as the illiteracy of the white and colored people bears to each race, as shown by the census. Mr. Blair objected to the race distinction. Mr. Riddleberger declared that as soon as a distinction was made between the white and colored schools that moment the public schools would be destroyed. Mr. Allison's defence of his amendment was placed on the ground that without it the money appropriated under it could be distributed according to numbers, while the illiteracy of the colored children was vastly in excess of that of the whites. Statistics were quoted to sustain this position.

Mr. Miller of New York opposed Mr. Allison's amendment while he favored the bill. He favored abandoning the bill rather than adopting the amendment. "In that amendment he saw the beginning of race distinction that would result in race hatred and a war of races." Upon this the Wilmington Star remarks:
If that does not open the eyes of intelligent men who are favoring the dangerous bill, then they must indeed be sealed against all light. * * * That is to say a bill that pretends to be intended for the "cure of illiteracy" will bring about race troubles in the South—even a war—if you distribute the fund upon a basis of illiteracy. What a huge fraud the Paternal Pedagogy bill is!

This question on which really jangles the "general welfare" of the people of the South. It is necessary, therefore, that they, the people, should understand it. To this end, the WATCHMAN, ever zealous in opposition to measures fraught with danger to the people, deems it best to lay before them the opinions of those most competent to pronounce them, that they may act in the fullest light.

Mrs. Della Worth Bingham, wife of Col. Robt. Bingham, of the Bingham school, died on last Wednesday.

Schedule of Time and Connections ON THE WESTERN N. C. RAILROAD.

The management of the Western North Carolina road are always on the alert, and meet every demand of the traveling public as quickly as it can be done. The new schedule, now being run on that road is designed for convenience and cheapness of both freight and passenger traffic to points in the southwest, west and northwest. The change shortens the time to all points in the directions indicated. To illustrate, the time now made by this schedule of connections from Salisbury to Chattanooga is 17 hours; Nashville, 24 hours; Memphis, 29; Cincinnati, 44; Louisville, 31; St. Louis, 44; Kansas City, 55 and Dallas, Texas, 54. There is only one change of cars from Salisbury to Chattanooga, which is at Morristown, Tenn. It is the most direct and convenient way for emigrants going west of the Mississippi river, as it gives them more daylight travel and makes the changes at points where confusion is not likely to occur. The transfers are made in daylight and the connections are close and sure, which is a matter of great importance to all classes of the traveling public. This route takes the traveler through the finest agricultural, mineral (iron and coal) and forest regions of central United States, and the scenery along the way is unsurpassed in America.

Two negro boys, aged 10 and 12 have been caught robbing the lock boxes in the Charlotte post office. They have been working this little racket for about a month. They are youthful violators of U. S. laws, but will probably suffer the penalty, all the same.

The radical press is now circulating a most bare faced lie under the heading of the "Vance family" in which they show a list of many as 16 of the Vance family in office. It's all a lie. There are no such people as those described. The lie originated in a Cincinnati paper.

A Yarkin correspondent of the Landmark says that the peach and cherry buds were killed by the late cold weather. It may not be so in other counties.

The same paper reports a mad dog in the Olin and Turnersburg, (Iredell county), section which bit several other dogs, and ran through the country snapping at other things, but disappeared, no one knows how.

"Onus Probandi and Preparation for Trial" is the name of Mr. W. H. Bailey's new law book, which has just come from the press. Mr. Bailey has many friends here who have pleasant recollections of his jokes, his keen appreciation of pure fun in all its forms, and who have been as often beaten by his superior game of whist as by his transcendent legal accomplishments.

There was a meeting in Asheville, Monday night, to hear a Kentuckian speak on this organization—advocating it, probably.

The proprietors of the glass works at Crystal City, Mo., have trouble with the members of this organization in their employ, and have ordered them to leave the Order or the works. Twenty-six were discharged Monday, and the rest were given two days to decide on what they will do.

It would seem to be a truth applicable by all, and especially by professors of the healing art, that to remove the disease, not to alleviate its symptoms, should be the chief aim of medication. Yet in how many instances do we see this truth admitted in theory, ignored in practice. The reason that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is successful in so many cases, with which remedies previously tried were inadequate to cope, is attributable to the fact that it is a medicine which reaches and removes the causes of the various maladies to which it is adapted, indigestion, fever and ague, liver complaint, gout, rheumatism, disorder of the bowels, urinary affections and other maladies are not palliated merely, but it is really, not nominally, a radical remedy, and it endows the system with an amount of vigor which is its best protection against disease.

There is a wonderful familiarity about this item. Nearly all the news papers in the South have just such items with only a change of names and places. Why is it? But Solomon, whose reputation for wisdom was a never failing source of comment for the press of his time, says: the Ethiopian is as prone to perloining as the sparks are to fly upward. The records of the petty courts in the Southern States may be quoted as backing Solomon in his sweeping assertion. He also states in another place that there is nothing new under the moon. This may be taken as another evidence that Solomon was acquainted with "Sambo's" noctivagant raids.

There have been three negroes lynched at Spartanburg, S. C., within the last twelve months, the last one on the 2d instant, was a very public affair, in which 800 men are said to have taken a hand, given notice having been previously given of time and place. The offender was a negro man without announcement of name, charged and convicted on the testimony of the highly respectable young married lady who was waylaid on her return from a school house, knocked down and dragged off and abused. The man was brought before her and identified by her. He was hung to the limb of a tree. The lady suffered severely by him, and was, at last accounts, in a critical condition. So says the Charlotte Observer.

J. V. Leads, of Cincinnati, an extensive manufacturer of cotton seed oil, conceived the idea of pooling this new product, and set about it with such industry, as now, it is said, Lead's syndicate controls sixty per cent. of the entire seed oil interest of the country. The object of this scheme is to regulate the price of oil and to restrain competition. It is a monopoly, designed to enrich the members of the combination at the expense of consumers. Now let the public get out of the way of them—refuse to buy their oil, and they will trump the game.

The new Hotel in Statesville is finished, and was opened to guests on Friday last.

A sharp talking lady says the Kansas City and Farm on being advised to keep her tongue in her mouth, answered that it was against the law to carry concealed weapons.

Judge Bennett, it is said, will not be a candidate for re-election to Congress. This will give a chance for quite a number of prominent gentlemen to come before the next nominating convention.

One of the old and prominent citizens of Iredell, Mr. John Davidson, died at his home, near Statesville, Friday morning last, aged 78 years. The Landmark pays him a well merited notice.
