Mischief Makers.

Oh! could there in this world be found Some little spot of happy ground, Where village pleasures might go round Without the village talking; How doubly blest that spot would be, Where all might dwell in I berty, Free from the bitter misery Of go sip's endless prattling.

Dame peace might call it as her own, And in it she might fix her throne, For ver and forever;

While every one would soon forgive The little lights they might receive, And be off inded never.

If such a spot were really known,

There like a queen might reign and live,

Tis' mischief makers that remove Far from our hearts the warmth of love, And leads us all to disapprove What gives another pleasure. They seem to take one's part but then They have heard our cares, unkindly then They soon retail their all spain Mixed up with poisonous measure.

And then they've such a cunning way Of telling ill meant tales they say, " Don't mention it, I pray, I would not tell another ;" Straight to your neighbor's then they go, Narrating everything they know, And break the peace of high and low, Wife, husband, friend and brother.

Oh ! that the mischief-making crew Were all reduced to one or two, And they were painted black and blue, That every one might know them ! Then would our villagers forget To rage and quarrel, iume and fret And fall into an angry pet, With things so much below them.

For 'tis a sad, degrading part To make another's bosom smart, And plant a dagger in the heart We ought to love and cherish; Then let us evermore be found In quietness with all around While friendship, joy and peace abound, And angry feelings perish.
