| of the Norman horse, speaks of him as French cavalry, was ridden to glory on every Enropean field of medieval times; the great horse before whose charge, in the first crusade, the Moslem cavalry were uriven like chaff befure a hurricane; the great horse on whose back the warriors of Normandy conquered England, controled France and long held the whole of Europe in awe. But in 0 uer $t w$ show that the Norma. hor et can travel with other breeds, wi wil turn a moment to trials made o: trot ing tracks in France. The average time of 31 horses at Montague, on a track $15-6$ miles in length, was six minutes and forty seconds: at Illides, on a 2 mile track, the average time of 40 horses was seven minutes and twenty seconds; at Courtlain; the average minutes and fifteen seconds and at Rourven "Decidei" trotted 2 3-5 miles, drawing 408 pounds, in ten minutes. As an illustration of the endurance of thentic record that a yray mare 7 years old belonging to a party in France, was trotted 60 miles in less than 5 hours, over a hilly and rough road, and and she did this two days in succession without a whip. Many such examples of endurance could be given were it necessary. To show how the endurance of the Normam is appreciated in England, the following from an Quartely Journal of Agrieculture, is to the point: "The horses of Normandy are a capital race for hard work and scanty fare. I have never seen such horses at the collar. They are enduring and energetic beyond description. With their necks cut to the bone they Hinch not-they put forth all their et- forts at the voice of the driver, or at the dread sound of the whip. They keep their condition when other horses would die of neglect and hard treatment."  Farmer. |
