Several interesting communications crowded out this week.

Last Tuesday was the longest day in 1886—the turn of the year!
The material for the new freight depot is at last being put on the grounds.

June has not been a favorable month for the sale of soda water and other iced drinks.
Will the energetic ice dealers of the town run delivery wagons this year? It would pay.

The Salisbury flouring mills are preparing for a big run just after harvest, on new wheat.
Several of our teachers have gone to Black Mountain to attend the North Carolina Chautauque.

Berries are coming into this market with some regularity now. Berries are also abundant and cheap.
The mornings and evenings have been quite cool all this week, so much so that fresh have been comfortable.

Rev. H. M. Blair, of the Rowan circuit, preached in the Methodist church at this place on last Sunday night.
Travel over the Western road is becoming very heavy—every train from this place toward the west is loaded.

Conflicting accounts are heard concerning the wheat crop. Some say it is medium to good, while others speak less cheerily.
Mr. O. W. Atwell carefully weighed the milk product of one of his cows during the month of May. The result was 851 pounds of milk; about four gallons a day.

Miss Lena Williams of Davie county, a grand daughter of Col. William March, was married last week to Mr. Williams, a lawyer of Lexington. She is well known here.
Mr. Eli File's horse ran away on last Tuesday, while in the heart of town. It was a short race, but the damage was almost a complete loss of the buggy to which the animal was hitched.

Look out, or the sanitary inspectors will find you unprepared for a scrutinizing visit. This law should be enforced with all vigilance—it is a plain duty; a protection from infectious diseases.
Policeman Rufus Barringer has been off duty for several weeks, on account of sickness. He is a faithful and acceptable officer. His place on the police force is supplied by Mr. F. Pace, an experienced officer.

Blowing Rock is the coming summer resort for Salisbury people when it becomes necessary for them to leave home for a higher climate. It has not yet been warm enough to start our people westward.
Travel from the south to the mountains of this State will be as heretofore, via Salisbury. It has been stated from official sources that trains from Hendersonville to Asheville will not be running before September.

Prof. J. M. Weatherly, a former principal of the Salisbury Graded School, and now principal of the Jamestown High School, a flourishing institution, was here last Monday. He is on his way to the Teacher's Assembly, at Black Mountain.
Here we are! Salisbury is in the same old place. Give us something for the 4th of July, if only an excursion. Be careful to let the excursion come to Salisbury—should like to see the streets filled up by people from a "fer back" in the country.

There is but little local interest going on in town or country. The towns people are having a quiet time, while the farmer is gathering his wheat, and attending to other duties imperative at this season. The recent rains and cool weather of this week has been against the farmer.
In the article about cruelty to animals, which appeared in last week's paper, we were mistaken in saying there were two magistrates arrested on the charge. Only one was a magistrate, which leaves the story bad enough. The other, or accompanying man was a neighbor, and was arrested as accessory.

The public roads are reported as being unusually rough for the time of year, especially the Mt. Pleasant road. On this road three miles from town, directly opposite Adam Hartman's place, where a small branch crosses the road, there is a dangerous place, which should claim the attention of the authorities.
An accident happened to Mr. L. H. Clement a few days since, which bruised him up considerably. He had started to Mocksville with his family, and when only a few miles from town, the center-pin gave way, the fore wheels and tongue were pulled out allowing the carriage to fall forward precipitating the occupants to the hard road with much violence. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clement received painful bruises, but no serious damage was done. The children escaped with less damage.

Personal Mention.

Miss Mal. Nesbit of Charlotte, is visiting Miss Carrie Young.
Miss Hattie Tomlinson, of Bush Hill, is a guest of Mr. Jno. W. Mauney.
Ex-Senator Theo. Poole, of the eastern part of this State was here this week.
Mr. John F. Wilson spent a few days in Salisbury last week, visiting his mother.

Mrs. Jos. P. Caldwell, of Statesville, is just now the guest of friends and relatives in Salisbury.
Capt. Wm Wiley returned from Washington a few days ago, but left on last Wednesday night for New York, and will sail in a few days for France.

Mr. John Wilkes, of the Mecklenburg Iron Works, was here on last Monday. He was returning from a trip to one of the Western mines where he has been making estimates for supplying a full plant of mining machinery.

It is said that there are over 30 criminals awaiting the rope in the jails of this State, and that most of them will be hung this year.
The season is here when sales at the tobacco warehouses are becoming less frequent. Salisbury has reason to be satisfied with the result of this year's tobacco trade. All efforts made in behalf of the tobacco interest, and in maintaining a market for the weed, have been rewarded beyond the predictions of the most enthusiastic.

The location for the gallows on which Frank Gaston, the condemned negro, is to be hung, has not been determined upon. One applicant to the sheriff in stating why he would like the execution to take place on his land said: "There is entirely too much 'possum hunting going on over my property, and I think it would frighten off a good many if they knew a man had been hung there."

The Presbyterian Sunday School has been trying to have a picnic since the 1st of June, but as each succeeding day rolls around, the weather is found to be unsuitable on account of rain. It is hoped now that the matter will be postponed until the middle of the August draught. This would test the weather.—The party got off this a. m., and have escaped to the mountain, but from the indications they will not escape a shower this p. m.

The Hook & Ladder Company's first annual picnic was a success. Ten wagon loads formed the procession, and was increased en route to St. John's mill, where the fun was to commence. They all say they had a jolly good time, and unite in praising the speeches of Messrs Chas. D. Crawford, Jas. W. Rumble and Theo. F. Kluttz. Mr. Crawford led off and in his happiest mood, made an enjoyable talk. Mr. Rumble always has something to say and says it well, while Mr. Kluttz has long been famed for his sparkling wit and brilliant figures. The party returned late in the evening, filled with the joy of the occasion and—red bugs.

Mr. J. A. Boyden, Mr. Breathed, and Mr. J. F. Ross are contemplating going into the fruit canning business here at an early day. Mr. T. N. Smith, a practical canner, will most likely take charge of the works, should these gentlemen conclude to go into the business on a large scale. There is no reason why fruit could not be canned here and put on the market at as low figures as elsewhere, and all else being equal, the profits of such a business should be as large as can be made anywhere.

The July Hanging.
Sheriff Kridler bought a hempen cravat to be worn by the negro rapist, Frank Gaston, on the second day (Friday) of July. It is a serious business, and the County Commissioners in making the execution of this criminal public, did so for the sake of the living; to teach several lessons. In the first place, that there is a law which is swift enough in bringing criminals to justice; that it can and will be executed without the aid or assistance of the people, save twelve, who must pronounce on the innocence or guilt after hearing the evidence. In these days of violence and lynching, this fact seems to have been overlooked. In the next place it is intended as an awful spectacular warning to the illiterate and non-reading classes of the community, and to teach in the most solemn and impressive manner that the rapist—fiend incarnate—must die; that the law says he must die and that the scene before him is the triumph of law. The hanging is to take place on the right hand side of the Gold Hill road, just beyond the town creek, and without the limits of the town. There will be, or there generally is, a large crowd to witness such executions, and Sheriff Kridler has already perfected arrangements for an ample guard and for effective policing on that day. Trouble is not anticipated, but the Sheriff has acted wisely in preparing to meet any emergency.

It is reported that a petition will be circulated asking for a reprieve of sentence to a term in the penitentiary. It is to be hoped that such is not the case, as there is nothing in the circumstances to justify such an action. It is not believed that signers can be gotten for such purpose. The Judge who tried the criminal thought him guilty, and it is indirectly his suggestion that the execution be made public as a warning. He also intimated the necessity of an occasional public hanging in order to check the tendency of the times—the execution of the law in an unlawful manner, by lynching. The Governor should not interfere in this case.

Petty Political Humming.

Who is going to the Legislature from Rowan? A swarm, and a good sized one at that, of Legislative bees are humming in the town, on the roads, and in the fields. The humming is growing louder and more distinct. These little fellows are doing their best to make as much fuss as a "queen bee," but the summer has not advanced far enough yet for a decision. The weather is not nigh hot enough for such important business. Wait until it gets so hot that you cannot think about anything else, then the right man will naturally come into your mind. In Cabarrus they are trying to make a hum, but it goes slow—long drawn out, you know. Bide your time for the weather—and bide the time for a nomination. With the departure of leafy June, comes hard shaking July and then the dog days; but many will survive this season.

Bad Behavior.
Some of the thoughtless and meddling youths of Salisbury are amusing themselves by doing over and over again the staid kind of worn out funny things. They have long since lost any flavor of humor they might have possessed. The last achievement was far below the order described above, and consisted in moving the signs from certain saloons and placing them on the premises of prominent citizens. A beer sign on the piazza of a minister and a liquor sign on the front of a prominent gentleman's residence, who is a member of one of the leading churches of the town. This may have seemed very funny to the perpetrators, but there is not a ghost of humor about it. It is simply a demonstration of the pernicious wickedness and utter destitution of all refined feeling on the part of the doers. It is a case for the police and they are on the look-out now for that class of offenders.

The Neave Concerts.
The two concerts by the Neave music school, on Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week, proved to be the great success which was expected from the well known ability and good taste of these earnest musicians. The programmes were made up of popular material and in ample diversity by the introduction of orchestral instruments. The programme on Tuesday evening was as follows:

Grand Vocal Waltz, "Life's Amazons"—Misses Baker, Keen, Wallace, Neave, Young, M. Smith, Mary and Nora Crawford, Chimes, Miss M. Gaskill, Piano and Cornet, W. H. and Mrs. Neave.
Piano Duo—"Sultana"—Misses Annie Bingham and Bess Brown.
Orchestral—Overture—"Constellation"—Piano—Miss Agnes Neave and Master Sam Wiley, with trombone and cornet.
Vocal Quartet—"Beautiful Night"—Misses M. McNeely, M. Gaskill, P. Tuttle and N. Marsh, with solos for each.
Orchestral—"Chant Espagnol"—Miss Jeanie Kluttz, with flute obligato.
Vocal—"Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin"—Faithful and True—Misses Keen, Wallace, Neave, Baker, M. Smith, M. and N. Crawford.
Piano Duo—"Convent Bells"—Misses Kate Walton and Hattie Crawford.
Vocal Solo—"Peacefully Slumber"—Miss J. Baker, with Trombone obligato.
Piano Duo—"Les Griots"—Misses Mamie Gaskill and H. Crawford.
Cornet Solo—"La chaste Suzanne"—Mr. E. B. Neave.
Vocal Chorus—"Carnival of Venice"—Misses Baker, Keen, Wallace, Young, Smith, M. and N. Crawford.
Orchestral—"Dances Hongroises," No. 2.—Miss Lillian Foust, with flute obligato.
Vocal Solo—"Voices of the woods"—Miss Bessie Alexander—flute obligato.
Orchestral—"Frühlingsskizzen"—Piano.—Misses Mary Mauney and Sallie Smith, Chimes, Miss Hattie Crawford, with Cornet, Cuckoo, Cricket, &c.
Piano Solo—"Eolian Harp &c."—Miss Rachael Wallace.
Vocal Solo—"I think only of thee"—Miss Nannie Keen, with Trombone obligato.
Orchestral—Moreau of gems from opera Bouffe—Piano—Misses Maggie E. McNeely and Pattie Tuttle. Chimes, Miss Hattie Crawford, with Cornet and Trombone obligatos.
Grand Vocal Waltz Fantasia—"Life's shade and sunshine"—Misses Baker, Keen, Wallace, Annie Gowan, M. and N. Crawford, Chimes, Miss Mamie Gaskill; Piano and Cornet.
Opera—"The Secret"—A. Cantata for Juveniles—Principal characters by Misses M. Gaskill, P. Tuttle, N. Marsh and N. Smith, with choruses. Accompanist, Miss Bessie Brown.

While it is not intended to detract from the concert, which was all that could be expected, the general public felt a livelier interest in the operetta. The hall was packed—rarely has there been seen a larger audience in the hall than greeted "The Sleeping Beauty" last Wednesday evening.

The opening piece was an Overture—"Sounds of Spring" by Misses Annie Bingham and Bessie Brown, at the piano, and the following orchestral instruments, obligato: two cornets, chimes, cuckoo, &c. The curtain then rose on a lovely scene of sweet, fresh girl faces, set in a back ground of flowers. The following was the cast of characters:

Sprite for Prologue..... Miss Nora Crawford
Prince Wolfgang..... Miss Josephine Baker
Princess Mianesoida..... Miss Carrie Young
Eimtra..... Miss Agnes Neave
Zelma..... Miss Rachael Wallace
Gisela..... Miss Mamie Smith
Gertrude..... Miss Maggie McNeely
Elrida..... Miss Mamie Crawford
Schildlaine..... Miss Annie Gowan
Barbara..... Miss Nannie Keen
Margery..... Miss Bessie Alexander
Sprites in Elrida's train—Misses M. Gaskill, P. Tuttle, Nottie Marsh, Jeanie Kluttz, Sallie Smith, Lillian Foust, Mary Mauney and Lizzie Eingham.

The scenic effect was extraordinarily good. The costumes of the young ladies were appropriate and tasteful; their delicate tints greatly heightened the effect of the stage scene. But the perfect control over voice and the easy natural stage appearance of the whole, was a subject of general remark. The young ladies did themselves great credit and exhibited in a high degree the thorough and careful training to which they had been subjected. Altogether, the entertainment was a gem of its kind, and was fully appreciated by the vast audience gathered to hear it.

DIED.
Reginal Heber, infant son of Mr. A. H. Boyden, of cholera infantum, at the age of seven months. The little fellow suffered greatly, and was only sick a short time. He died on last Thursday.
"Sadler little children to come unto me."

MINING DEPARTMENT.

T. K. BRUNER, EDITOR.

Hemby Mine.
The Hemby mine, in Union county, just over the Mecklenburg line, is under the Superintendence of Mr. G. T. Raymond, a young man of intelligence and experience. There are seven or eight veins, from two to five feet in width on the property, but at present only one is being worked. The new shaft is being sunk deeper and the prospect is promising. At present there are more than 200 tons of ore on the dump, which is being added to each day. The outlook is so fine that the company have determined to put in a complete plant of machinery, which has been bought from the Mecklenburg Iron Works, and is being put up by that company. The machinery consists of an engine, boiler, ten stamp mill, cornish pump and hoister. With this complete outfit, now going rapidly in place they expect to start reducing the ore by the 1st of July.

Phoenix Mine.
The Phoenix mine, in Cabarrus county, keeps going steadily, on their sulphureted ores. They reduce with a stamp mill concentrate, and chlorinate the concentrates. They have a typical sulphide ore which is amply rich to justify chlorination by the Meares process, which is not the cheapest process afloat, though it is one that is reliable and that may be depended on. The Phoenix has been going for about four years, with only occasional temporary hauls, which fact may be considered as evidence enough in their favor.

St. Catherine Mine.
St. Catherine mine, in Mecklenburg county is one of the best properties in the State. It is progressing in a quiet but steady manner and is paying all expenses and making good wages besides. At present they are working at a depth of 390 feet on a breast of ore said to be from 12 to 16 feet in width. The ore is a heavy sulphuret, but carries some free gold. They work about eight tons a day on a ten stamp mill, and catch the free gold on ordinary amalgamation plates, the tailings pass from these plates directly to Frue vanners, where they are concentrated. These concentrates are shipped to the Yadin Chlorinating Works at this place where they are treated. In this way from $40 to $60 a ton is saved from the ore—though Supt. Pitcher does not give the exact figures to the public. All of this goes to show what is possible by the judicious and skillful handling of the sulphide ores of this State. Intelligence and economy must go hand in hand in mining, otherwise the most profitable sources must prove failures.

Prof. Hidden reports in the Statesville Landmark the finding of seven ounces of hiddenite, but says that only six pieces are suitable for making gems.

Randolph Notes.
Affairs at the Uwharrie Mine, in Randolph county, are holding up in a very encouraging manner. The main shaft is down 85 feet—15 feet in stump. They have drifted each way on the lode and succeeded in making a large dump on top. The company are so much encouraged that they intend putting up a twenty stamp battery for reducing this ore at an early day. At present, thirty-five hands are employed under ground and on the surface. They have completed offices and tenement houses.

The Gray mine is being opened and to some extent developed by a practical miner, for some capitalists. The prospects are considered very good for success in opening a mine which is likely to prove of value.

Prospect work is also going on at the Henley, one of the old mines which was opened years ago. It is said to be a good property and is to be thoroughly tested.

Tramontane Notes.
Prof. Wm. Beall, of Cherokee writes: There is but little doing in mining just now; Mr. King is letting his mine on Peachtree remain idle. I have been at the Brasstown mines within the last few weeks, and found that they had finished a good mill. They have taken out some fine gold, and are at work opening out the property for more vigorous work. The Gromley mines are idle at present. The ores from this property have as yet from $60 to $80 and upward, per ton. I expect them all to resume work in a short time.

General Thomas, of Waynesville, is making preparations to ship lime very extensively from his property on the Nantahala. He has completed one kiln and is making preparations to build one or more perpetual kilns, so as to enable him to ship several carloads of lime per day. He has, also, vast quantities of talc ready for shipment.
