From the Banner Township.

Messrs Editors:—Taking it all in all, the present season has been decidedly unpropitious to the growth and perfection of most of the productions of the farm and orchard.

In the first place, the spring was late, cold and wet, which greatly retarded all planting operations, consequently cotton especially, got a late start. Then, a protracted spell of unfavorable weather so delayed its growth that it was not until recently, that it got above the clouds, and now, the rains are so frequent, that it is all the farmer can do to keep the grass from taking it. Still, it looks well where it has been kept clean.

The season has been very unfavorable for wheat, and now that it is harvested, it proves, in most cases, to be almost a complete failure; and though you now and then see and hear of a good yield, where it had been properly put in, and fertilized, there are very many farms which will yield but little more than the seed sown, and even that is of a very inferior quality.

The oat crop, being unusually heavy, tall and full of sap, the heavy rain and high wind of Monday 21st was seriously damaging to it, by causing much of it to lodge. Of course it cannot mature properly in its recumbent, tangled condition, and will be difficult to reap, hence the loss will be serious.

The early peach crop has proved almost an absolute failure. The trees were loaded with a heavy crop, and much profit was anticipated from that source. Just about the time they began to color up nicely, and to mellow a little, they rot. The cool weather, the frequent rainy spells and consequent humidity of the atmosphere, proved too much for them. It is hoped, however, that the later kinds of peaches may do better, especially the seedlings.

Speaking of peaches, en passant, it is fast becoming a settled conviction in the minds of many observing people, that the budded fruits from the nurseries, (especially peaches) are a humbug. You may plant out an orchard of budded peach trees, and they will grow off rapidly, and come into bearing in from two to three years, but if you will examine that orchard again, about the fourth or fifth year, you will observe, dotted about, all through it very many trees upon which the leaves are turning yellow, and looking shrivelled, and about mid-summer they will be entirely dead. This is a universal thing, with all budded peach trees, and so well convinced are people becoming of this fact, that I know quite of a number of practical farmers, who say they would not accept and plant such trees, if tendered them as a gift, because they rarely get more than one or two crops from them, until they become diseased and die.

Persons who desire a good, permanent orchard, one that will last almost for a generation, and continue, year after year, to ripen its fruit to perfection, let them plant the very best varieties of the old fashioned seedlings, and they will not be disappointed. Such trees will not only last many years, but it is a well established fact, that the fruit will hang on and ripen much better, and is much more perfect and healthful. It ripens through and through, whilst the budded peach ripens only a little on the surface, and remains perfectly green and insipid about the stone, and is decidedly indigestible and unhealthy for use either for eating, drying or cooking. These are stubborn facts, however much it may operate against the interest of nurserymen.

There is great complaint about the condition of the Wilkesboro public road, especially as it runs through Scotch Irish, from Mr. Leopard's on third creek, to Mrs. Mapkins'. Persons who know, say that the said road has scarcely been worked at all for three years past; that it has gullies in the very middle of it, and is almost utterly impassable. They say they have complained to the Supervisors, and they say the people complain that there are so few hands to work the road, that it is too much of a hardship on them; and yet, they don't work it at all. Where, then, is the hardship? Nearer Salisbury, the Supervisors would not dare to let their roads get into such a condition. If they did, there would be a universal howl of complaint, and they would be threatened with indictments, dire, without end. Work your roads, friends. We want to visit you sometimes. Fix up your roads so we can do so.

THE MAN ABOUT THE COUNTRY.

The Crisis.

Home rule—coercion. There is the issue. It is an inspiring thing in the drama of the nineteenth century, this pleading before the proud English people of the venerable parliamentary chieftain for the long-refused rights due to a liberty-starved nation. As Mr. Gladstone himself says, it is the crisis of the half century. What a consummate triumph it will be if the years of his career as a statesman shall be crowned with success in this great contest between aristocratic prejudice and hate against good men's demand for fair play and decent treatment of an oppressed race. Gladstone's sure victory will be civilization's gain and England's glory.—N. Y. Star.

From Over the Mountains.

MURPHY, CHEROKEE COUNTY, June 11th, 1886. Editors Watchman:—Cherokee is now rather badly in the weeds as we have had over fifteen inches of rain since the 17th of May, and as a consequence, grass is good, and corn is growing fast but is not a good stand and is much in the weeds. The wheat crop is good and as yet not injured with rust. Will commence cutting next week. The wheat I brought from the Exposition at New Orleans I divided into two parts, as I expected it to prove to be a Spring wheat but it proves to be a winter variety and what I sowed last fall is fully two weeks later than many of our home varieties but so far the straw is perfectly free from rust and looks well. What I sowed in the spring I think will be a failure. Oats are unusually fine and there is a fine stand of tobacco plants but we are needing sunny weather. Strawberries have been very fine and the different varieties of raspberries are just beginning to afford us the pleasure of enjoying them. The rhubarb, or pie-plant is very fine. I have measured some that were 30 inches across the leaf, 5 inches or a little over in circumference of leafstalk and weighing nearly 11 pounds per trimmed stalk. English peas, Irish potatoes, beets and beans are now plentiful. Peaches are scarce this season but apples are promising to be a good crop. Grapes also look well. There is quite a building boom in Murphy at this time, building lots are in demand and all our builders are fully employed. The Marietta narrow gauge & Murphy Railroad will be completed to the Blue Ridge by the 1st of July which will place us within 24 miles of the railroad. Major Wilson says he will have the cars running on the W. N. C. road from Asheville to Jarretta again by the 20th of this month. Property is changing hands here some and we are receiving some citizens from the South as well as from the North.

The Deepest Hole in the World.

The deepest boring yet made is at the village of Schlach, near the line between Leipzig and Corbetha. It has been made by the Prussian government to test for the presence of coal and was bored with diamond drills. Its depth is 1,390 metres (4,560 feet); its breadth at the bottom two inches, and at the top eleven inches. It has occupied three and half years to bore, and cost a little over $5,000 sterling. The temperature at the bottom is 118 degrees Fahrenheit.

Where Danger Lies.

The only danger under our form of Government was, and is, in the disregard of the plain and obvious limitations of the Constitution. Disregard of these limitations by North led to the civil war, and disregard of the Constitution, in the North and the South alike, now threatens the Republic with decay.—Charleston News and Courier.

Fashionable Pets.

Fashionable ladies in New York are discarding pet dogs and substituting young lads as pages. The page is supposed to be in constant attendance upon his mistress. He goes into her room with her breakfast tray, and goes out with her carriage. He waits upon her at the table and attends her in her boudoir, combining the duties of the maid and footman, the jester and the confidant.

Wise Action.

The trustees of Trinity College, at least a quorum of them, met in earnest counsel for the good of the school. There was one application for an honorary degree, that of D. D. We will not say why, except that there appears to be no demand just now for any more of this class. There is not room even at the top for any more. Important matters were discussed and entered into in regard to the near future. There is good prospect of a vigorous step forward. It is perhaps best not to canvass things that are incomplete and necessarily more or less contingent.—Charlotte Advance.

The Folsom Flower.

Hundreds of ladies and occasionally a gentleman stopped to gaze at a blood-red flower which was on exhibition yesterday in a State street show window. Exclamations of delight were heard in every side and some of the ladies fairly went into raptures over the strange blossom. It was blood-red at the base of the petals, but the color gradually grew lighter until at the tips it was a delicate blending of white and pink. The curious shading was what made it so beautiful. At the bottom was a cardboard, on which was written in a careless scrawl: "Folsom Cardinalus Inkanius, Very Rare."

A clerk, with pompadour hair and foppish air, answered questions about this strange plant all day. "Oh, isn't it lovely?" "Where did it come from?" "Can't I get a seed?" chorused the ladies all afternoon. The wife of a millionaire drove up in her carriage. She saw the red blossoms and at once marched into the store. "Did Miss Folsom bring it over from Poree? How sweet it is. I hear they are very fashionable over the watah. How much is it?"—displaying a well-filled pocket book. "It isn't for sale, madam," said the clerk, dropping his foppish style. "Oh, I'm willing to pay whatever you ask," replied the lady, haughtily. "I fancy it very much."

The clerk seemed puzzled, but insisted that it was not for sale. He grew a little red in the face while he went on to explain that the flower was the property of a wealthy gentleman who had kindly allowed it to be placed on exhibition.

A Davis Mouse.

A few days ago a young gentleman, of Fork Church, called to see some ladies, according to custom, we suppose, and allowed one of his pets (he is very fond of animal pets) to accompany him. Making his visit too long, the pet became restless and began running up and down the back of its friend. The young man did not like for his pet to make him feel so uncomfortable and the continued scratching of his back became unbearable. He made a grab, but didn't get it, whereupon he came out of his coat and made another attempt with the same success. The ladies enjoyed his discomfort for awhile, but when he shedded his vest, unbuttoned his shirt collar, ran his hand down his back and threw a mouse upon the floor, they gathered their skirts, in the "Cousin-Sallie-Dillard style, and mounted chairs, tables and everything else they could find in their eagerness to escape the "horrible mouse."—Davis Times.

How to Succeed.

Don't worry. Don't overwork. Don't make the field too broad. Make friends, but don't encourage favorites.

Keep down expenses, but don't be penurious. Keep a high vitality. Sleep well, eat well, enjoy life.

Stick to your chosen pursuit, but not to chosen methods. Don't tell what you are going to do—till you have done it.

Make plans for a little way ahead, but don't cast them in iron. Be content with small beginnings—and be sure to develop them.

"I see they are trying to put a stop to all betting in New York."

"I am glad of it. Betting is a pernicious practice. I hope they will stop it."

"But they can't do it."

"Prof." Chas. Burton, colored, late of Biddle University, Charlotte, and more recently still a school teacher in Iredell and Catawba, was convicted of forgery at the late session of Catawba court, as is learned from the Newton Enterprise, and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Prof. H. L. Fairchild, in a scientific lecture in New York, stated that while we always think of the dry land as the true place of stability, as a matter of fact it is the ocean which forever maintains its place and the land which is continually oscillating. He informed his auditors that Manhattan island is gradually sinking, and if they lived long enough they would find the sea covering the place.

Contentment is better than money, and just about as scarce. The selfish man has most presence of mind. He never forgets himself.

Vanity rules the fools and often makes simpletons of those who know better. What we believe is right is more often so because it grinds our ax than otherwise.

Money is a handy commodity, and it takes enterprise and self-denial to get much of it. He who is the most slow in making a promise, is the most faithful in the performance of it.

Naturalists now count no fewer than 1,870 different kinds of fishes in North America waters, of which 550 live in the rivers and lakes and 550 kinds belong to the Pacific. Of the remainder, 105 dwell only in the deep waters of the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico, never approaching the shore or the surface.

A good many people will be disposed to laugh when they read of German infantry regiments being drilled to use of bicycles and tricycles, but on the good roads of Europe they might be made very useful equipments for any army. The soldiers could ride them in marching order with less fatigue than they could march, and at a rate of speed that might easily determine the fate of a battle.—Charlotte Evening Chronicle.

NOT SEARED.

But the Heart-Throbs Or True Manhood.

SPARTA, GA., Sept. 23 1885.—To the Constitution, Atlanta.—Were I to practice deception in a case like this, I would think that my heart had become seared beyond recognition.

To be guilty of bearing false testimony, thereby impeding the lives of my fellow-men, would place me beneath the dignity of a gentleman.

The facts which I disclose are endorsed and vouched for by the community in which I live, and I trust they may exert the influence intended.

For twenty long years I have suffered untold tortures from a terrible pain and weakness in the small of my back, which resisted all modes and manner of treatment.

For a long time the horrid pangs of an eating cancer of my lower lip has added to my misery and suffering. This excruciating, burning and painful sore on my lip was pronounced Epithelial Cancer by the prominent physicians in the section, which stubbornly resisted the best medical talent.

About eighteen months ago a cutting, piercing pain located in my breast, which could not be allayed by the ordinary modes of treatment.

These sufferings of misery and prostration became so great that, on the 18th of July, a leading physician said that I could not live longer than four days, and I had about given up in despair. The burning and excruciating ravages of my back and breast, and the rapid prostration of my whole system combined to make me a mere wreck of former manhood.

While thus seemingly suspended on a thread between life and death, I commenced the use of B.B.B., the grandest blood medicine, to me and my household, ever used.

The effect was wonderful—it was magical. The excruciating pains which had tormented me by day and by night for twenty years were soon held in obedience, and peace and comfort were restored to a suffering man, the cancer commenced healing, strength was imparted to my feeble frame, and when eight bottles had been used I was of the happiest of men, and felt about as well as I ever did.

All pain had vanished, the cancer on my lip healed, and I was pronounced cured. To those who are afflicted, and need a blood remedy, I urge the use of B.B.B., as a wonderfully effective, speedy and cheap blood purifier.

ALLEN GRANT.

SPARTA, GA., September 22, 1885.—I saw Mr. Allen Grant, when he was suffering with epithelial cancer of under lip, and after using the B.B.B. medicine, as stated above, I find him now almost, if not perfectly cured.

Signed, J. T. ANDREWS, M. D.

SPARTA, GA., September 22, 1885.—We take pleasure in certifying to the truth of the above statement, having supplied the patient with the Blood Balm.

Signed, ROZIER & YARBEMAN, Druggists. SPARTA, GA., September 22, 1885.—I often saw Mr. Allen Grant, who was suffering from epithelioma, and from the extent of the cancer thought he would soon die. He now appears perfectly well, and I consider it a most wonderful cure.

Signed, R. H. LEWIS, Ordinary.
