Democratic Organization.
PLAN OF ORGANIZATION OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF NORTH CAROLINA.
RALEIGH, N. C., June 10, 1886.

The following is the plan of organization heretofore adopted by the State Democratic committee for the guidance of the party.
TOWNSHIP ORGANIZATION.
1. The unit of county organization shall be the township. In each township there shall be an executive committee, to consist of five active Democrats, who shall be elected by the Democratic voters of the several townships in meetings called by the county executive committee. And such committee so elected shall elect one of its members as chairman, who shall reside at all said committee meetings.
2. The several township executive committees shall convene at the meetings of the several county conventions, or at any time and place that the majority thereof may elect, and shall elect a majority of its members as chairman, who shall reside at all said committee meetings.
3. In case there shall be a failure on the part of any township to elect its executive committee for the period of thirty days, the county executive committee shall appoint said committee from the Democratic voters of said township.
4. The members of the township committee shall elect to any vacancy occurring in said committee.
5. The county executive committee shall call all necessary county conventions by giving at least ten days notice by public advertisement in three public places in each township, at the court house door, and in any Democratic newspapers that may be published in said county, requesting all Democrats of the county to meet in convention in their respective townships, on a common day there stated which said day shall not be less than three days before the meeting of the county convention, for the purpose of electing their delegates to the conventions. That the township executive committee shall appoint delegates to represent the townships in the county conventions from the voters of the respective townships, which delegates, or such of them as shall attend, shall vote the full Democratic strength of their respective townships on all questions that may come before said county conventions. That in case no convention shall be held in any township in pursuance of said call, or no election shall be made the township executive committee shall appoint such delegates.
6. Each township shall be entitled to cast its county vote in the county vote for every twenty-five Democratic votes, and one vote for fractions of fifteen Democratic votes cast by that township at the said preceding gubernatorial election; Provided, That every township shall be entitled to cast at least one vote, and each township may cast as many delegates as it may see fit.
7. That in cases where townships consist of more than one ward or precinct, each of said wards or precincts shall be entitled to send delegates to county conventions, and shall cast its proportionate part of its township's vote, based upon the last preceding vote for Governor in said township.
8. The chairman of township committees shall preside at all township conventions; in their absence any other member of said committees may preside.
9. In cases where all the township executive committees are required to meet for the purpose of electing county executive committees, said meetings shall be held in the county seat, or in any other place designated by the chairman of the county executive committees, and in such place at the call of their respective chairmen, meet at same time and place in their respective districts, designated in said call. And it shall be their duty to appoint the time and place for holding county conventions in their respective districts; and the chairman of said respective committees shall immediately notify the chairman of the different county executive committees of said appointment, and the said county executive committees shall forthwith call county meetings to be held in conformity to said notice to send delegates to said respective district conventions.

COUNTY AND DISTRICT CONVENTIONS.
1. The several conventions shall be entitled to elect their senatorial, judicial and congressional conventions, one delegate and one alternate for every fifty Democratic votes, and one delegate for fractions of twenty-five Democratic votes cast at the last preceding gubernatorial election in their respective counties, and none but delegates or alternates so elected shall be entitled to seats in said conventions: Provided, That every county shall have at least one vote in each of said conventions.
2. The chairman, or in his absence any member of the county, senatorial, judicial and congressional committees shall call to order their respective conventions, and hold the chairmanship thereof until the convention shall elect its chairman.
3. The county executive committee of the senatorial, congressional and judicial districts, respectively, shall, at the call of their respective chairmen, meet at some time and place in their respective districts, designated in said call. And it shall be their duty to appoint the time and place for holding district conventions in their respective districts; and the chairman of said respective committees shall immediately notify the chairman of the different county executive committees of said appointment, and the said county executive committees shall forthwith call county meetings to be held in conformity to said notice to send delegates to said respective district conventions.

STATE CONVENTIONS.
1. The State convention shall be composed of delegates appointed by the several county conventions. Each county shall be entitled to elect one delegate and one alternate for every one hundred and fifty Democratic votes, and one delegate for fractions of seventy-five Democratic votes cast therein at the last preceding gubernatorial election; and none but delegates or alternates so elected shall be entitled to seats in said convention; provided that every county shall have at least one vote in said convention.
GENERAL RULES.
1. Such delegates (or alternates of absent delegates) as may be present at any Democratic convention shall be allowed to cast the whole vote to which their township or county may be entitled.
2. In all conventions provided for by this system, after a vote is cast there shall be no change in such vote until the final result of the ballot shall be announced by the chairman of said convention.
3. All Democratic executive committees shall have the power to fill any vacancy occurring in their respective bodies.
4. That the chairman of the different county conventions shall certify the lists of delegates and alternates to the different district and State conventions, and a certified list of said delegates and alternates to State conventions shall be sent to the secretary of the State central committee. For the committee, R. H. BATTLE, Chairman.

B. C. BECKWITH, Secretary.
Christian Tomling of Louisville, owned a hen and a collie dog, which were great friends. The former recently hatched a fine brood of chickens, and the dog watched over the family with care. A few days ago the hen was killed accidentally, and she was much troubled. He at once assumed the charge of the motherless chicks, got them into his kennel at night, where they nestled close to his shaggy side, and has since cared for them faithfully.

MISCELLANEOUS.
The Tables Turned.
Jacksonville (Fla.) Herald.

General W. S. Walker met recently around a social board an extreme Massachusetts man of the Pendry type of sentiment. Finding this gallant old veteran of two wars corralled as it were in the midst of a group of Northern gentlemen, the Pendry sympathizer thought it would be vastly fine to rig him a little upon the issues of the war, and so sailed into him with more frankness than courtesy, the General replying with great good humor of self-control. Finally the Massachusetts man touched upon the Davis incident and vented his solitary disapproval in emphatic terms, eulogizing Pendry and arraigning Davis in sharp terms. Misled by General Walker's good nature the extremist said:

"This whole demonstration toward Jeff Davis is an outrage upon the country and a menace to the peace of the nation. It proves to me that you Southern people are willing to-morrow to begin another rebellion, and to destroy the Union!"
"Look here," said Gen. Walker, quietly. "I see you do not understand the situation at all. The truth is, the South is just now better satisfied with its position and more interested in the preservation of the Union than you people of Massachusetts. The South is prospering, contented and hopeful. As a result of the war, our representation in Congress has been vastly increased, and in point of fact the South comes nearer to controlling the Government than any other section of the country. We are the largest influence in it. Why should we wish to destroy it? No, my friend, the next rebellion will come from New England! When you people up there see the current of prosperity setting Southward; when your manufactures begin to drift away towards the field of production; when your spindles and looms decrease, while the mills of the south are multiplying, you will get up a great dissatisfaction over some small constitutional question, and rebel against the new order of things. But I want to say to you," said Gen. Walker, rising, "that if ever you people of New England attempt to secede from the Union, we of the South will promptly thrash you back into it!"
The group of Northern gentlemen present broke into a roar of approving laughter, and the extremely "loyal" left the company.

Woman's Rights.
Silas is a country character, who means well. He tries to earn a living and "tinkers around" at odd jobs and and chores and whatever he can get to do, but he works a good deal as he talks—with a painful drawl that is very suggestive of that state of natural restfulness which his ilk call "born tired." Silas came to mend a fence the other day for one of his patrons in the suburban village where he belongs, with a peculiar air of festivity about him. He had on a bright, new necktie of blue Japanese silk, and his honest face was covered by an expansive grin all the time he was receiving his orders.

"You seem happy, Silas," said Mr. Bland, with some curiosity, when he had finished about the fence.
"Ya-as," drawled Silas. "Ya-as, I've been a gitnin' married this mornin'!"
"Married? You? Why, Silas, man alive, what on earth have you gone and done that for? You can't support yourself as it is!"
"Well," said Silas, "I ken pooly near support myself, 'n' I think it's a darn jine if she can't help me!"

Jube Early's Nigger Joe.
One of the best known characters in Lynchburg, Va., is Jube Early's nigger "Joe." Joe is an old negro with all the dignity of a body servant of the slavery days; and his affection for the general amounts to worship. Jube owned Joe before the war, and owns him still. Joe having never been freed, nor to belong to him, and saying as long as Mass Jube was alive Joe is his slave. Early is very fond of his slave, and would shoot quicker in defense of the negro than of any body else. He has given Joe carte blanche to buy what he likes in the town, and has instructed storekeepers, no matter what Joe wants, or how much it will cost, to give it to him and send the bill to his master. Sometimes Early gets rather worse for whiskey and then a comical sight is seen. Joe follows him like a dog, and when the General gets very drunk Joe will say:

"Mass Jube, you mus, come home."
"Why you black rascal, what do you mean? I'm your master."
"Yes, Mass Jube, when you're sober; when you're drunk I'm massa."
"Well, I reckon you are right, old man. I'll go with you."

A Queer Old Cat.
I am a close reader of the Advocate and in the columns of Natural history see many strange facts, and I will now proceed to give you a few remarkable traits of a very old cat who I have owned for many years. In his youthful days he was famous for catching birds. He made it a business to go hunting early every morning, and often brought in live birds, mostly partridges; but for the last three or four years his disposition has undergone quite a change. There is a little lead colored bird (I believe it is called the tontit) comes every spring and pulls hair off his back to line her nest. I have often seen her light on his back and pull until her mouth was full, and he would pay no attention to her, until, I suppose, I would get tired of the fun, and would then get up and come in the house, the bird following him to the door. I have seen her, when the cat would be lying in the door, come and get a supply of hair, and oftentimes come on the door-step, which is one of the old cat's favorite places of repose. All my family and several of my neighbors will testify to the facts in this case, and if any one doubts, if he will come and see the poor old fellow's naked back, his doubts will be removed.—Meado, Calloway county, Ky., in Nashville Advocate.

Paralyzed the Court.
A young woman from the country was suing her ex-sweetheart for breach of promise, and the lawyers were as usual making all sorts of inquisitive questions. "You say," remarked one "that the defendant frequently sat very close to you?" "Yes, sir," was the reply, with a blush. "How close?" "Close enough so a cheater was all the time sitting room around you?" "No I didn't put his arm around you?" "No I didn't." "What did you say, then?" "I said he put both arms around me." "Then what?" "He hugged me." "Very hard?" "Yes, he did; so hard that I came purty near hollerin' right out." "Why didn't you holler?" "Cause I was afeared he'd stop." The court fell off the bench and had to be carried out and put under the hydrant for the purpose of resuscitation.

Courtesy at Home.
Why is it so many people keep all their fine manners for the outer world and have none left for home? Why do mothers train their little ones, in every way but by example, to be always courteous, and then wonder that they are sometimes rude? If you fail to say as surely as to your elders. "Thank you," "I beg your pardon," or "If you please," to a child, so certain will that ready little wit take on the conviction that politeness is not for every day use nor for home consumption. No husband has a right to read his wife's letters, in justice to the friends who wrote them, and the woman who reads. No wife has a right to pour her husband's coffee with her bangs entwisted in last night's curl-papers. No parent has a right to give away a child's playthings without that child's consent.

A Deeply Interested Father.
From Harper's Magazine.
Soon after the S—'s first baby was born Mrs. S— went up stairs one evening, and entered the room where her darling lay asleep. There she found her husband standing by the crib, and gazing earnestly at the child. As she stood still for a moment, touched by the sight, the tears filled her eyes, and she thought: "Oh, how dearly Charlie loves that boy!" Imagine the shock to her feelings when he suddenly turned toward her and exclaimed:
"My dear, it is incomprehensible to me how they can get up such a crib as that for two dollars and a half!"
Dr. Gatling's New Gun.
Dr. R. J. Gatling, the inventor of the great public defence gun, has about ready a modification of his machine gun, intended to be used by the police in large cities on the occasion of riots. It is on the same principle as the big gun for street and field use, but the barrels are twelve inches long, and the whole concern, when mounted on a light wagon, will not weigh more than fifty pounds. His idea is to have two or three of these guns for instant use in times of mob excitement. They will fire a thousand shots in a minute, which would be sufficient to put terror into the hearts of the bravest anarchists.

The Debt Statement.
Washington, July 1.—The debt statement issued today shows the decrease of the public debt by $9,354,057.52. Decrease of the debt since June 30th, 1885 $96,697,766.25.

Keep clear of personalities in general conversation. Talk of things, objects, thoughts. The smallest minds occupy themselves with personalities. Personalities must sometimes be talked because we have to learn and find out men's characteristics for legitimate objects; but it is to be with confidential persons. Do not heedlessly report ill of others. There are times when we are compelled to say, "I do not think Bouncer a true and honest man." But where there is no need to express an opinion, let poor Bouncer swagger away. Others will take his measure, no doubt, and save you the trouble of analysing him and instructing them. And as far as possible dwell on the good side of human beings. There are family bards where a constant process of depreciating, assigning motives, and cutting up character goes forward. They are not pleasant places.—Rev. Dr. John Hall.

The closing work for the season by the Egyptian exploration fund has been at the site of Tapanthes (Jeremiah xliii), and the disclosures have created an intense interest on the subject among many besides the scholars. The London Times of June 15 devotes a leader and a long article to the topic. That paper pronounces it "one of the most interesting discoveries that have been made in our time in Egypt."

Few are aware that the typewriter was invented so long ago as 1714. One Henry Mill obtained in that year an English patent for a device that would "write in printed characters, one at a time, and one after the other." There is no description of his device to be had now, but there is no doubt that Mill's invention was the parent of the present typewriter.
