A CAR LOAD

VICTOR Grain DRILLS

KELLERS PATENT.
For sale to the Farmers of Rowan. Cheap for cash or well secured TIME NOTES.

This Drill stands at the very top and is unsurpassed by any her in America. It sows wheat, clover seed and bearded peas together with fertilizers most admirably.

The quantity per acre can be changed in an instant—by a single motion of the hand.

Read what people who have used it say about it.

My VERNON, ROWAN Co. N. C.
Sept. 16th, 1886.

I have used the Victor—Kellers patent—rain Drill for several years and I consider a perfect machine. One can set it in an instant, to sow any quantity of wheat or clover seed, from one peck to four bushels. It sows bearded oats as well as it does clover or clover seed and fertilizers to perfection. I know it to be strictly a No. 1. It is simple and combines great strength, with other good qualities.

W. A. LOCKERT.

SALISBURY, N. C.
Sept. 15th, 1886.

Last Spring I borrowed Mr. Whiteley's Victor (Kellers patent) Grain Drill and put in my oats with it. It sowed bearded and non-bearded oats to perfection. Indeed it was the best Grain Drill I ever saw. It sows wheat or oats and clover seed or clover seed and fertilizers to perfection. I know it to be strictly a No. 1. It is simple and combines great strength, with other good qualities.

RICHARD H. COWAN.

SALISBURY, N. C.
Sept. 15th, 1886.

I have used the Victor—Kellers patent—rain Drill for the past two years and consider it by far the best Drill made. I have used the Deciduous & Hoffman Drill, and greatly prefer the Victor, because it is the most convenient and I believe a Victor will last as long as two Bock & Hoffman Drills. The Victor sows kinds of grain satisfactorily.

EDMONT WAGONS!

YES

EDMONT WAGONS MADE UP

At Hickory, You Know!

Why They Can't be Beat.

They stand where they ought right square

AT THE FRONT!

Was a Hard Fight But They Have Won It!

Just read what people say about them and if you want a wagon come quickly and buy either for cash or on time.

SALISBURY, N. C.
Sept. 1st, 1886.

Two years ago I bought a very light one-horse Piedmont wagon of the Agent, J. A. Boyden, have used it nearly all time since, have tried it severely in all kinds of logs and other heavy loads. I never had to pay one cent for repairs. I look upon the Piedmont wagon as the best Thimble Skin wagon made in the United States. The timber used in them is most excellent and thoroughly seasoned.

Two years ago I bought of John Boyden, a one-horse Piedmont wagon, has done much service and no part has broken or given away and consequently it has cost nothing for repairs.

SALISBURY, N. C.
Sept. 3d, 1886.

Sixteen months ago I bought of John Boyden, a 24 inch Thimble Skin Piedmont wagon and have used it pretty much since and it has proved to be a first wagon. Nothing about it has given out and therefore it has required no repairs.

SALISBURY, N. C.
Sept. 8th, 1886.

Eight months ago I bought of the Agent, John Boyden, a 24 inch Thimble Skin wagon—which lighter one-horse wagon—I have kept it in almost constant use during the time have hauled on it 75 loads of wood, and that without a crack or repair.

When I am Dead.

When I am dead and gentle hands press me,
With loving touch their lips do gently press me;
Dear love, remember, lean low down and kiss me,
For when I'm dead they'll find that I am here.

The day when you are dead and I will miss
You, dear love, and I will miss you,
Come close, dear love, and sit beside me,
For you, of all, know how my sorrows tried me;
Speech were vain, you know, my love, and kiss me,
My greatest need, and all my love.

When I am dead and all my heart's distress
Lies in the green earth's sweet forgetfulness,
I care not how, if all the world go by,
My quiet grave without a word or sigh,
If I should think of me with gentleness.

Why should I care so near the infinite?
Why should I mourn that thou wilt cease to Miss me?
Ah, God, these earthly ties are knit so tight—
Quick, quick, lean lower, oh, my love, and kiss me.
—K. B. in Richmond Whip.

Rules For Society.

You ask me for rules of society,
The following were given to me:
Alas! though the world is so pretty simple,
I fail in each one of the three.

The first is the shortest, but hardest;
Forget yourself—dress, looks and all,
Not wishing you're stouter or thinner,
Less dark, or less fair, or less tall.

Forget, though in dress may be shabby;
Forget, too, of your own hair,
Forgetting, in short, all about you,
Remember all else who are there.

Rule two is Think always of others.
And when you are thinking be sure
To try and discover their best points.
Don't dwell on the faults they should cure.
If only you look and endeavor
You always may find something good.

The most disagreeable is never Too utterly horrid and rude.
Remember this one has had trouble,
That other may have feeble health,
This man has been sinned by poverty,
These two are but just the exceptions,
For out of the people you meet
You'll find only one who is sour.

In proportion to how are sweet,
Think always the best things about them,
It will not be hard if you try—
And then you can always say truly
"In this thing he's better than I."

The third rule is, Make them all happy.
Look never to see who is left out;
Cheer up the shy girl in the corner,
Amuse the old man with the gout.

Take care of that pale-looking lady,
And mind that she's not in the draught,
But don't let her see what you're doing,
"The King of Heaven, be full of love!"
Talk politics to the statesman,
Converse with another on trade,
Talk of home and friends to the lonely boy,
And of flowers and woods to the maid.

Remember the rule says "All,"
And you must not be entertaining one
At the cost of another's fall.
It's your mission to make all happy,
Never turn out to see who is left out;
That could carry sorrow to any heart,
Wherever your words might reach.

After all, it's the Bible maxim
That puts it shortest and best:
"Be kind to everyone, be full of love!"
You may safely leave the rest.

Shorts From Heilig's Mill.

Heilig's Mill, N. C. Oct. 15, 1886.

Eds. Watchman:—The farmers are busy getting corn and cotton, some are sowing wheat and others grumbling about dry weather.

There is considerable complaint about weeds in the corn, especially that thresher on the wet order. Examine your wheat.

District No. 1, Gold Hill township, is to have a new school house 26x36 ft. The lumber is all saved and most of it on the grounds. Mr. Alton Bost has bought the well known flouring mills and engine of Mr. Wiseman, and is putting up on his farm one mile south of Organ Church. These mills have a wide reputation for the large quantity and excellent quality of flour they turn out. Mr. Bost also has an excellent saw mill, which he has been running by Barnhart Bros' engine, this he also moves home. Like to forget! He is building and will have ready to run by the 20th of this month, a cotton gin of the latest improvement, in fact he never buys but he beats.

Mr. David Beaver has taken stock with H. W. Bost, our popular merchant, at Heilig's Mill. Mr. Beaver possesses splendid business qualities, and will be sure to make his mark in the mercantile business.

Mr. M. A. Fesperman is making a club for the WATCHMAN, all who would like to read a good reliable paper can have that pleasure granted for a small sum by applying to Mr. Fesperman.

Wishing the WATCHMAN success I close.

Items about the State Fair.

The Parade of Horses will take place at 11 o'clock on Thursday of Fair week, and of stock at 12 o'clock, same day.

Trials of speed will begin on Tuesday of Fair week, 26th October, and will continue from day to day.

The North Carolina State Fair is a State enterprise, and should be encouraged and fostered by every one who loves the Old North State. If a few of the great lovers of the State and people, the politicians of the State and work more for its success, they would be serving the people and State to good advantage, if not better than some things they now do.

It is the desire of every proud North Carolinian to see the halls of the Agricultural buildings filled this year, especially, with specimens of products from our workshops, our schoolrooms, our laboratories, our factories, our foundries, our mines, our mills, our fields and our gardens, from one extreme of the State to the other, and to welcome the splendid contribution of our ladies, which in the part have been such valuable and interesting feature of our State Fairs. Let every man and woman in the land who loves the Old North State do their best for we are to have many visitors from afar. Visitors, through their papers, speak to thousands of millions of people both in the United States and foreign countries. North Carolinians put your best foot foremost, show to the outside world in North Carolina a people of workers and that our State abounds in everything to make a people happy, proud and contented. Let the Fair Grounds be crowded with the fair ladies of our State from Currituck to Cherokee.

President Cleveland and Party at the State Fair.

A GRAND RECEPTION—A GAMBOL—THE VIRGINIAN DOING HONOR TO THE PRESIDENT AND PARTY AT THE STATE FAIR.

RICHTON, VA., Oct. 21.—The train which left Washington about 8 o'clock this morning, conveying President Cleveland, Secretary Bayard and Belmont, Postmaster General Vilas, Lieut. Gen. Sheridan, Superintendent of Agriculture Colman, Mr. E. D. T. Myers, General Superintendent of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad, Mr. Robert A. Park, of the Pennsylvania railroad; Mr. R. Barry, Superintendent of the Pullman Palace-car company; Col. Daniel Lamonte and a committee of Virginians, consisting of Gen. W. C. Wyckham, Col. A. S. Buford and Dr. Holt, arrived here at 11:32 a. m.

The depot and streets leading to it were crowded, and as the President alighted he received an ovation. The Home Guards came to a "present," lifted their helmets, and, as soon as the visitors were seated in the carriage, wheeled about and preceded the cavalcade to the fair grounds, three quarters of a mile distant.

Upon reaching the grounds the presidential party were driven to the building occupied by the general officers, and shortly afterwards the executive emerged from the balcony overlooking the fair grounds, where he was presented to the multitude by Governor Fitz Hugh Lee, who pleasantly welcomed the President to the meeting of the representatives of the agricultural interests of Virginia.

Gov. Lee said: "The annual gathering of the representatives of the agricultural interests of Virginia is always a subject of concern to all, and that interest is more intense and profound than ever this year, because the chief magistrate of this great republic tells us by his presence this morning that he too, is interested in whatever touches the prosperity of the Commonwealth which forms a part of this great land, whose government has been committed to his charge. Indeed it is a recognition of the fact on the part of our President that agricultural wealth and progress is intimately interwoven with the advancement of national prosperity. It should, therefore, be an encouragement to the farmer to study carefully his profession, as others have to do theirs. In order to attain eminence in the respective pursuits, agriculture standing in the van of our industrial arts, will have a renaissance, and with the rapid development of all our mineral resources, we will hope to present to your eyes, Mr. President, a section that is abreast with the other parts of the country in all that constitutes the genuine wealth of public success."

Gov. Lee then alluded to the railroads of Virginia, the development of the iron ore, coal fields, and to the general industrial and commercial growth of the South. He continued to speak of this, because, while occupying the position of Governor of the North, no South, no East or no West, it will give you pleasure to know that the South will contribute her proportionate share to the future grandeur and glory of the American republic. The old mother of Presidents to-day welcomes within her borders a President of the United States, and I know the voice of the sentiments of this vast throng when I tender you and the distinguished citizens and statesmen who accompany you, a sincere, hearty welcome to Virginia. Virginians not only feel the most profound veneration for the high office you do, but they will also gladly recognize, but they respect the man who fills it. We share, sir, the feeling so prevalent elsewhere, that under your administration the destiny of the country has been committed to wise, conservative and safe hands, that the constitution of liberty is secure. We believe, Mr. President, that we will stand firm in the defense of the principles of the government inaugurated by the forefathers. The nuttings of discontent have become hollowed tones, and recoil from your armor of right as the dashing spear rebound from the rock barred beach of the ocean. Mr. Alton Bost has bought the well known flouring mills and engine of Mr. Wiseman, and is putting up on his farm one mile south of Organ Church. These mills have a wide reputation for the large quantity and excellent quality of flour they turn out. Mr. Bost also has an excellent saw mill, which he has been running by Barnhart Bros' engine, this he also moves home. Like to forget! He is building and will have ready to run by the 20th of this month, a cotton gin of the latest improvement, in fact he never buys but he beats.

as well as her distinguished husband. It was arranged that the ladies of Richmond should tender a joint reception to her and Miss Winnie Davis (daughter of the President of the Confederacy) at the Governor's mansion, and the R. E. Lee veterans intended to present her a beautiful souvenir. One of the principal objects on the part of Virginia in inducing the President and his Cabinet to visit their capital at this time was to obliterate the last vestige of sectionalism, and they deemed it highly appropriate that Miss Davis, the direct representative of the head of the South during the rebellion, should be presented to those who now represent a united party. It was intended to make the reception at the Governor's mansion this evening a day of love feast, but on account of the absence of Mrs. Cleveland, and the expressed wish of the President, the day's entertainment was confined to the fair grounds.

The depot and streets leading to it were crowded, and as the President alighted he received an ovation. The Home Guards came to a "present," lifted their helmets, and, as soon as the visitors were seated in the carriage, wheeled about and preceded the cavalcade to the fair grounds, three quarters of a mile distant.

ARRIVES HOME SAFELY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21st.—The return trip of the presidential special from Richmond, was without incident, and but one or two brief stops were made. Upon the arrival at Washington at 10 p. m., the President and members of the Cabinet were immediately driven to their respective homes. The President and members of the party expressed themselves as having enjoyed their visit.

Silk, Cotton and Rice.

The Hon. Thos. R. Jernigan, writing to the Goldboro Messenger, from Japan, among other valuable information from that distant land, says:

"The business of silk production is carried on in the house where the family lives. The mulberry leaves are either picked off by women and children and carried into the house, or cut young limbs with the leaves on are taken there, where the leaves are picked off, washed, cut up, and fed to the worms. Little skill is required. When the cocoons are ready for winding, it is done by women and girls. To make an even thread requires experience, care, and skill, and such labor commands wages accordingly. Spinning, warping, dyeing, and weaving are all more or less skilled branches and require skilled labor. There are some establishments that buy the cocoons, wind them, spin the thread, and weave the cloth; but nine-tenths of the silk, raw and manufactured of the country, is family made. The machinery or manufacture of the factory or private house is crude, and still remains as though Jacquard and Arkwright never lived. The beautiful stuff made by such crude means testify to the skill and ingenuity. The man who tends the reeling commands ordinary farm wages, while leaf pickers and feeders, winders, spinners, and weavers of plain cloth, will get from twenty to forty cents per day. Weavers of fancy patterned goods get much more, even as high as one dollar per day, but this is very exceptional.

Speaking of cotton raising in Japan he says: The average yield per acre is 125 lbs. The lint is separated from the seed by means of rubbers, which consist of two small wooden rollers, which revolve in opposite directions, &c. They are not likely to compete with us, for some years yet, if ever.

The rice crop in Japan is the leading agricultural interest of the country. We quote as follows:

Without this product it would be difficult for the Coolies—the lower class of laborers—to live. It is so cheap that four or five cents will purchase enough for daily food. Rice is cultivated in all the provinces of Japan. The average price of rice land is about forty dollars per acre. Four or five acres of lowland rice fields form quite a respectable holding for one person. This, with another acre or so of upland where vegetables are raised, and a little bluff land for timber, fuel, and grass to feed the jack horse, supports his family, pays for hired help, and gives a little surplus at the annual renting day. The houses of the rice, silk and tea farmers are the best of the agricultural laborers in Japan. The house is often as large as thirty or forty feet square, universally one-story, thatched roof, strongly built, with veranda in front, and five or six rooms, one being kept as a spare or reception room. If built with a view to light and warmth they would compare in comfort with the average farm house at home.

The Chances of Matrimony.

A man who has studied the various phases of the matrimonial market has come to the conclusion that every woman has some chance to marry; it may be one to fifty or it may be ten to one she will. Representing woman's entire chance at 100, he has made out the following table to show the chance at certain points of time:

Between the ages of 15 and 20 years...	14 1/2 per cent.
Between the ages of 20 and 25 years...	19 per cent.
Between the ages of 25 and 30 years...	15 per cent.
Between the ages of 30 and 35 years...	10 per cent.
Between the ages of 35 and 40 years...	3 1/2 per cent.
Between the ages of 40 and 45 years...	1 1/2 per cent.
Between the ages of 45 and 50 years...	1 per cent.

For working purposes the mule is more economical than the horse. It eats less and will do as much work. It costs less to keep them, less to shoe them—for their feet are much harder than those of the horse—and they are more patient than the horse.

Methodist Giving.

BY CHAPLAIN C. C. M'CALL.

Some people think that a good way to raise missionary money is to compare the giving of Methodists with that of other denominations, and sometimes the comparison seems greatly against us. It is a very common thing to divide our whole missionary collection by one million eight hundred thousand members, and then take the little quotient of less than half a dollar and ring the changes on it.

"We Methodists," says a writer in a church paper lying before me—"We Methodists give but fifty cents per annum for missions per member while the Presbyterians give two dollars; the Congregationalists give three dollars and fifty cents; the Protestant Episcopalians one dollar and fifty cents," etc.

Now this would be shameful if it were the whole story. But look at the following table. The Methodist people gave last year for the work of God, as follows:

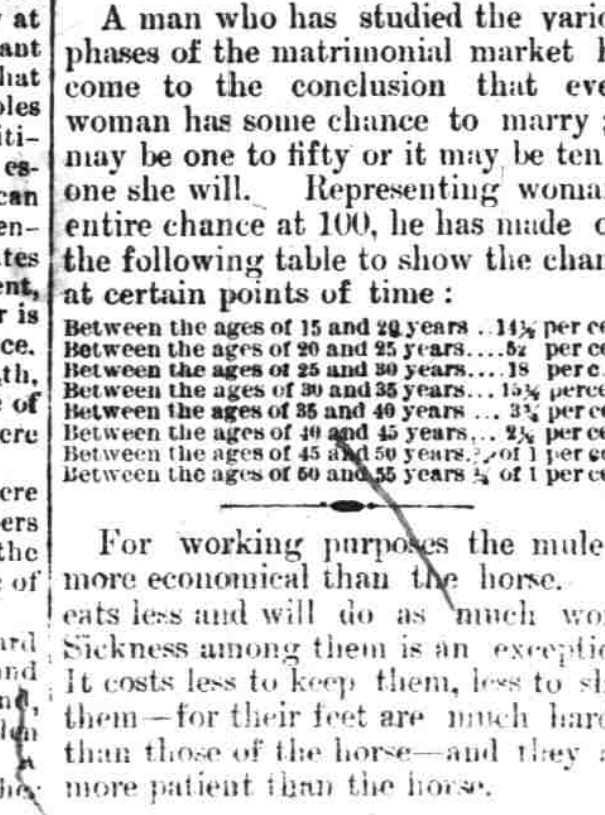

For support of Pastors, Elders and Sabbath Schools	$ 7,792,407
For Conference Claimants (aged ministers, widows and orphans)	180,000
For building churches and parsonages, and other church improvements	4,341,451
Paid on old debts of churches and parsonages	1,109,948
For support of General Agents and local city missions over	1,000,000
For the work of the Christian Alliance in local institutions	180,000
Board of Education at New York and Chicago	58,552
American Bible Society	29,511
Board of Christian Workers	14,672
Sunday School Union	16,753
Freedmen's Aid Society (See report in Gospel in All Lands)	148,75
Current expenses of 13,700 churches at the Rice plantations in Africa	3,500,000
Rock Conference—Station, fuel, light, music, etc.	127,211
Special aid—W. M. C. A. Hospital, Orphanages, Sewing Societies, Kinner Societies, etc.	87,000

Special agencies for cholera, typhoid, cholera, etc. average is	150,000
Total	$ 19,041,287

November Bivouac.

"The Rice Fields of Carolina" is the title of an illustrated article by Hugh N. Starnes, which is to appear in the Southern Bivouac for November. The methods prevailing on the rice plantations are described at length, and all the various processes in rice culture are carefully illustrated. The subject is one of unusual interest and the article is the best of the series on the industries appearing in the Bivouac. Lafcadio Hearn will have a delightful article entitled "The Last of the New Orleans Fencing Masters." It will also contain a second paper on Mexico, by G. C. Conner.

Raising our Farmers.

The crop of clover seed saved in Rowan this year will not fall far short of from 1,000 to 1,200 bushels. This is an important item. Rowan has hitherto bought her clover seed. The Rowan clover seed are pronounced cleaner and better than the Kentucky seed and less costly. At $5 per bushel, $5,000 is made by the Rowan farmers on 1,000 bushels of their seed and this money is kept at home. Wake county has produced many clover seed this season, also, it is a pleasure to know.—News and Observer.

Wonderful Ulcers.

ATLANTA, GA., June 5, 1886.

In 1878 there came on my hand what was thought to be a carbuncle, which ran its course several months, broke and finally healed. The next spring knots or nodules came on my arms, which were thought to be rheumatic, and I took gallons of medicine from the best physicians in Culbert, Ga., where I then resided.

About this time my left limb below the knee commenced swelling at a fearful rate and finally came to a head and broke. Both arms were sore, and I could hardly bear my weight standing, and hardly know how I managed to live through it all. About this time we moved from Culbert to Atlanta. I began to despair of ever getting well; the sore on my limb was a regular eating ulcer, now about three inches in length, two inches width, seeming to be down to the bone, and discharging about a cupful of pus (matter) a day, my arms still running, my sleep disturbed, and I sometimes thought I would lose my reason.

A friend recommended B. B. B. I commenced its use, and I saw an improvement from the very first. I have taken 8 or 9 bottles, and my arms are entirely well, and the large ulcer on my limb has healed. I now feel like a new person, thanks to such a noble remedy, B. B. B.

WORTHY OF A BROWN BOTTLE.

"The Rice Fields of Carolina" is the title of an illustrated article by Hugh N. Starnes, which is to appear in the Southern Bivouac for November. The methods prevailing on the rice plantations are described at length, and all the various processes in rice culture are carefully illustrated. The subject is one of unusual interest and the article is the best of the series on the industries appearing in the Bivouac. Lafcadio Hearn will have a delightful article entitled "The Last of the New Orleans Fencing Masters." It will also contain a second paper on Mexico, by G. C. Conner.

Raising our Farmers.

The crop of clover seed saved in Rowan this year will not fall far short of from 1,000 to 1,200 bushels. This is an important item. Rowan has hitherto bought her clover seed. The Rowan clover seed are pronounced cleaner and better than the Kentucky seed and less costly. At $5 per bushel, $5,000 is made by the Rowan farmers on 1,000 bushels of their seed and this money is kept at home. Wake county has produced many clover seed this season, also, it is a pleasure to know.—News and Observer.
