Attention Democrats! REGISTER AND

To the Polls next Tuesday.

The State calls to her faithful friends for protection. Let her not call in vain.

Recount the noble acts of the Democratic party in restoring liberty, prosperity and happiness to the people.

Rally on Tuesday, and by your votes proclaim your unshaken faith. It is the best work you can do on the 2d day of Nov. 1886.

OF ELECTION WILL TAKE NO there must be four boxes for election next Tuesday. One for the ticket, one for the Congressional ticket, one for the Legislative ticket, one for the County ticket.

The returns must be brought to Salisbury, to be counted by Thursday after the election.

If you desire to elect a constable there must be an additional box.

"If I had Known,"

Is one of the saddest refrains ever written by the scribe or by the poet sung.

It signifies lost opportunity—the death of hope, and the reign of black despair.

"If I had known" is no excuse for those who could or might have known. Thus, it will be no excuse for those who stay away from the polls next Tuesday, should their candidates be defeated. It will be nothing in relief then to say—

"If I had known there was any danger of such a result I would have voted."

The adversaries of the Democratic party are always watching for an opportunity to defeat them, by fair means or by foul—BY STILL HUNTING, or false lights, or no lights at all. Shall Democrats SLEEP while such enemies skulk around them?

Let every man do his duty and there will be none to say, when it is over, "If I had known!"

What the County Candidates Say.

John M. Horah says—"The people who have heretofore invited us to a feast have given all they could stuff into us. I hope the ration will be full next Tuesday."

Sam. McCubbins says—"I believe it would break my other leg if the people fail to give a rousing vote."

"It will be dreadful had on Sam McCubbins," says Woodson, "if he should lose his only good leg. I think they'll come out."

"I'm more uneasy about Arey," says Atwell, being a new man before the people, than any body else."

"I've been thinking it over very soberly," says Arey. "If the Democrats come to the polls they will make things crack for us all; but if any body gets 'left' its going to be Atwell."

"There is not much fun in it boys," said Sheriff Krider. "It is a dreadful serious piece of business, when you take time to think of the consequences which stretch out far beyond the personal interest of you or me. We ought to elect good men to administer the laws—good judges—as well as maintain the integrity and strength of the party which has done so much for the State and the welfare of the people. Voters seem to be very careless, but I think they will come out."

Mr. Bernhardt—the reporter has heard nothing of him since he spoke at China Grove.

Republican Candidates.

Dr. J. J. Mott, of Statesville, is Chairman (or president) of the Republican Executive Committee of the State. He stands at the head of the party. Some weeks ago he announced that the Republican party would hold no State Convention this year, and consequently nominate no State ticket. A portion of the party, comprising ambitious and aspiring members, took ground against the action of the Executive Committee, and called a State Convention of the party to be held at Raleigh. Dr. Mott has denounced the action of these self-constituted party leaders, and also denounced the judicial ticket they put in nomination, as totally unfit for judges of the Courts—"mountebanks," as he calls them—and advises his republican friends to vote for the Democratic judicial ticket.

When the head man of the party—and Dr. Mott is perhaps their foremost man in respect to judgment and influence—takes such a stand as that related above, can democrats afford to be indifferent in respect to the men who are to preside over our Courts?

Attend the election and vote for good and worthy men for judges.

It is no new thing for the republicans to nominate bad men—the worst in their ranks—for public office. They have done so in Mecklenburg county, this year. The man Hinson, whom they are running for the Senate, was indicted in the Superior Court of the county a few years ago for two "plated" bales of cotton which he sold to L. W. Saunders, knowing them to be frauds, and therefore a deliberate cheat. He paid the cost of the prosecution, $50.08. Instances might be multiplied, but it is a fact well known to the Democrats of the county, that the Republicans have few men in their ranks who are truly worthy to rule over the important interests of the Democratic taxpayers of the State. Turn out, democrats, and assert your political views on Tuesday next.

Strange.

The Charlotte Observer reports a daily shower of rain from a clear sky at a particular place in that city for four weeks past. The shower comes on about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and lasts for about two hours. It covers a space of only ten feet; but in that space it is a veritable shower. No one has yet been able to explain it. It was witnessed last Friday by 250 people, who were drawn there by curiosity to witness the strange phenomenon.

Ho! for Liberia.

An agent for collecting emigrants for Liberia, is abroad in this section. He was expecting to find one hundred at Charlotte, and a number from South Carolina. They are to take shipping from Norfolk, where they will be joined by others destined on the same ship and voyage.

The tea business of Japan is steadily on the increase. They exported in 1884, 26,384,471 lbs. In 1885 their exportations ran up to 30,034,140 lbs.; and so long as the foreign demand continues, it will be met. The most skilled hands employed in the business are paid from 50 to 60 cents per day. Tea pickers, mostly women and girls, receive from 10 to 12 cents a day, and their work is required to be carefully done.

The Japanese seldom use sugar or milk in tea. The hot water is kept near the table, and poured upon the leaf already in the cup, and drank as soon as the proper flavor is acquired.

It is worth while to know how tea is raised in tea. There are some people in this country who do not know how to make it. We remember hearing of a good old housewife whose husband on returning from a distant market (in the olden time) with a pound or two of tea as a special gift for her, wanted to know whether it was to be biled by itself or cooked with a chunk of bacon. The story did not enlighten us as to whether her husband was able to tell how to prepare it, and so we are at liberty to suppose that it came up as a dish of greens.

It is asserted as a fact, that though hogs can be made drunk by feeding them food saturated with whiskey or brandy, you can only make them drunk once. They never forget it and never repeat it. In this respect the hog is wiser than man. But he is nevertheless a brute for all that. There are many things in respect to which men should have good memories; They should remember to do right as near as they know how, for wrong doing is sure to go back on them. They should remember public, social and private evils and avoid them. They should remember political evils and guard against them. Was there a time when the political condition of the country was bad, and men trembled for fear of mischief coming upon them? Recall the time and circumstances, and guard against the return of such anxiety. The price of liberty is eternal vigilance. Don't forget political adversaries; and above all, remember our past experience with republican rule and avoid it.

It has been found in general experience that no two statements of a particular event given by different persons will uniformly agree, though both may have been eye witnesses. They saw from different standpoints, is one reason, either of personal concernment, from preference, or from prejudice. Various, indeed, are the circumstances which exert influence resulting in a different recital of the facts in the case. And it does not necessarily follow that either witness is corrupt in omitting a part of the facts in his statement, nor in declaring to facts not witnessed by the other. This is all well understood, more especially by gentlemen of the bar, and for which due allowance should be made, as a matter of simple justice to the parties concerned. No two men will describe alike a man or a dog fight; the incidents of a runaway team of horses, a railroad accident, an accident in flood or field, a race, or any other action whatever, of men or beasts. Some witnesses only take in facts, and their description of the scene is brief and uninteresting. Others are able to begin at the beginning and relate almost every minutia step by step, presenting to the listener a complete picture of the scene. In doing so he necessarily presents facts which the other witness overlooked. The difference is more in the character of the minds of those who testify than in their dispositions to tell the truth. Both are truthful, but one tells the whole truth, while the other only gives a part of it.

The sheep is unknown in Japan, except as a curiosity kept by a few wealthy persons. But the people are well awake, imitative and progressive; and the cheapness of labor there, it is predicted, will speedily lead to the introduction of manufacturing enterprises, and the machinery employed in Europe and America. Already they are adopting woolen clothing, all of which is imported, but which, if they can obtain the wool, will soon be made at home.

A new method of making water gas at extremely low cost was the subject of a recent communication to the French Academy of Science, which has caused much anxious attention not only in France, but all over Europe and in England. It reduces the cost to little, if anything below that of natural gas. It will be employed to drive machinery. Actual experiments producing 60,000 feet of gas from one ton of coke.

The foreign news is again warlike and threatening. France angrily insists on English evacuation of Egypt, and urges Russia to initiate a movement on Constantinople. Bulgaria refuses to submit to the demands of Russia, and the Russian army is ready to move upon her. Indeed, the whole of Europe is in a state of angry fermentation, and flaming war may burst out at almost any moment.

The contest in Buncombe is pretty hot. Mr. Pearson, it seems, is troubling the Democrats of the county by the use of means not recognized as proper. The Asheville Citizen reports him as having said: "a politician had to eat all sorts of dirt and crawl in the slime in order to attain success." When an aspirant talks that way, you may set it down that he believes the people are fools, and generally the voters fool him.

The Scientific American says the farmers of this country consume thirty-five thousand tons of twine annually upon the self-binding harvesters. About 1200 feet is required to the acre and it costs about 25 cents. Manila hemp makes the best twine, but Sisal hemp is cheaper and therefore most in use.

President Cleveland has got to be too fat and heavy for comfort or health, and it is reported will subject himself to the treatment of a Swedish Professor in New York for the reduction of flesh. The Prof. will probably put the President on short rations and set him to sawing wood.

Barrels of kerosene oil, says the Wilmington Star, have been washed ashore on the North Carolina coast which are believed to have been part of the cargo of the Steamer City of Nassau, which left Philadelphia the 25th December last, and has never been heard of since.

Newspaper reporters have got to carrying about with them a photographing camera with which they are able to photograph any important daily incident, and this is electrolyzed and comes out in next day's paper illustrating the subject.

A fire at Farmington, Me., the night of the 22d, destroyed property to the amount of three hundred thousand dollars. It consisted mainly of dwellings and stores.

An electric boat crossed the channel from Calais to Dover and back on the 13th of Sept. last. Electricity is the coming power, especially for light machinery.

Silas Laferty, Leavenworth Kansas, beat his wife until she was unconscious then poured kerosene oil all over her and set her on fire. She was burned to a crisp when found.

The present drought prevails in all parts of the State. In some eastern sections the wells have gone dry and the people are hauling water from the streams.

Senator Vance addressed a large gathering of his fellow citizens of Charlotte on the public square of that city, Thursday night last.

A Glass Mountain.
One of the forthcoming reports of the Geographical Survey will contain a paper by Prof. Joseph Iddings, giving a scientific description of a mountain of glass half a mile long and 150 or 200 feet in height, in Yellow Stone Park. It is of volcanic production, comprising glass of all colors and quality, the prevailing color being jet black. It is a remarkable mass, and makes a most interesting subject for scientific investigation and study.

The School Cases.

After a long and patient hearing of both sides in the Graded School Case, on Monday evening, the school Committee passed the following resolutions: "We are satisfied that Frank Tuttle is not justly liable to any charge against his character."

Also that Prof. Kizer has neither offended against the laws of the State, nor the rules of the school in the punishment he inflicted on Frank."

The law as laid down by Judge Pasture in the case of "The State vs. Rachel Pendergrass" is: "The law confides a discretionary power to schoolmasters and teachers, in the infliction of punishment upon the pupils and will not hold them responsible criminally unless the punishment be such as to occasion permanent injury to the child, or be inflicted merely to gratify their evil passions."

The 12th rule of the Graded Schools reads: "Corporal punishment shall be inflicted when necessary, but no cruel, unusual, or disgraceful punishment shall be allowed, nor shall teachers apply any insulting epithet to a pupil."

Burned to Death.
LOUISVILLE, Oct. 24.—Miss Sallie McGrath, a niece of the noted turfman Prince McGrath, was burned to death at Lexington, Ky., this morning. Her clothing caught fire from the grate, and before the flames could be extinguished she was horribly burned, and died after five hours of great suffering.

Charleston.

THE NEWS AND COURIER'S REVIEW OF THE EARTHQUAKE AT CHARLTON.

The News and Courier says: The first shock in this city occurred at 5:25 a. m., and awakened hundreds of people. No serious damage was done, however, and when the seven o'clock bells were rung, thousands of laborers reported for work as usual, and the air was soon filled with the music of the hammer, saw and trowel. The shock lasted about twelve seconds and was quite sharp. It was preceded and accompanied by the usual subterranean rumbling.

A number of persons who had risen and were in the streets, state that they secured a brilliant meteoric display about the hour. A gentleman who was at the corner of King and Beaufain streets, on his way to his place of business, asserts positively that the wave came from the west and went out to sea. On the other hand, a clock in the store of Mr. John Hodling on King street, which was hung on the south wall of the building, stopped at 5:23 exactly. This would indicate that the direction of the wave was north and south, as the pendulum could not have stopped had the rocking been from east and west.

At 2:45 p. m., another shock occurred. This was of much shorter duration than the first, and was equally sharp, and was equally as loud. Most persons were at dinner at the time, and there was a lively rattling of plates, knives and forks, of course. The thousands of workmen who were engaged at work on the scaffolds erected throughout the city felt the shock, and most of them naturally made a rush for terra firma some using ladders, some sliding down the posts, and many taking the risk of a jump. Under the circumstances it is somewhat marvellous that only two men were injured. The store of H. Biscoff & Co., on East Bay, was so badly shaken that one of the lower glass cases was broken. Two young ladies were at work on the third floor of the building at the time of the shock, and one of them was so badly frightened that she fainted.

The shocks at 5:20 a. m., and 2:45 p. m., were also felt on Wakeham and St. J. N. Buford, of Mississippi, was to-day appointed Deputy Fourth Auditor of the Treasury.

Grapes of the Flowers variety (of scuppernongs) were plentiful in Wilmington market last week.

Thanks!
I desire in this public manner to return my thanks to the children who in compliance with a request, appeared before the Graded School Committee last Monday; also to parents for their consent, and to numerous friends in the community for expressions of sympathy.
