Celery.

Celery is one of the most fragrant plants the products of which are used as food. In its wild and uncultivated state it is of rank flavor and peculiar smell; the art of the gardener makes the stalks tender and agreeable to the taste. They are covered with dirt as they grow, the leaves only being allowed to appear above the ground. By this means light is excluded, and the shoots are kept white, mild and sweet. Celery should not be eaten with or after a hearty meal, as the stomach at the time is sufficiently taxed and unable to bear additional burden which this vegetable would impose upon it. When taken at lunch, with bread and cheese, it is easily digested and a most pleasing relish. —Boston Herald.

Wonderful Cures.

W. D. Hoyt & Co., Wholesale and Retail Druggists of Rome, Ga., says: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for two years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by Klutz & Co.

Baron Rothschild's Generosity.

It is related that Eugene Delacroix, the famous painter, thinking that the head of Baron James Rothschild would make a splendid head for a beggar, asked the eminent financier to sit as a model. Consent was granted. While the artist was engaged on the canvas, one of the pupils entered and told Delacroix that that was an ideal beggar. When Delacroix was not looking, the pupil, in a good hearted manner, put a coin in Rothschild's hand, for which the banker nodded his thanks. He learned that the young painter had very little money, and so he wrote him that the coin he had given him had borne interest, and that if he called at the Rothschild banking house he would receive 10,000 francs.

Greatly Excited.

Not a few of the citizens of Salisbury have recently become greatly excited over the astonishing facts, that several of their friends who had been pronounced by their physicians as incurable and beyond all hope of suffering with that dreadful monster consumption—have been completely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the only remedy that does positively cure all throat and lung diseases, Coughs, Cold, Asthma and Bronchitis. Trial bottle sent at Klutz & Co.'s Drug Store, large bottle $1.

A Remarkable Jewel.

Henry Fera, the John street diamond man, has in his possession a remarkable jewel. It is a diamond in the rough state, nearly round, and weighs 31-2 carats. When the cutter took to prepare it for the for the polisher, the first sharp blow divided the diamond into two parts. Upon examination it was found that a perfect, natural diamond crystal had been the nucleus about which the layer stone had formed. The nucleus is a perfect cube, and weighs apparently three-fifths of a carat. One half of the cube projects above the face of the matrix. It is the only specimen of diamond crystal in the world. —New York Sun.

The American Girl Got There.

The most exclusive of all the exclusive sets of European courts is the inner circles at Vienna. No American lady outside the diplomatic corps ever set foot therein; that is, saving one. The fair one is from Baltimore. Accompanied by her husband she came, saw and "took the town." Archdukes touched elbows at her receptions and, although the Austrian ladies frowned at first on their dangerous American rival, they, too, soon yielded to the charm, and are now as loud in her praise as the whicker-and-lords. The Emperor and Empress are said to be delighted with Mrs. Padelford.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

ASK ANY ONE WHO HAS USED DR. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PURGATIVE PELLETS AS TO THEIR MERITS. THEY WILL TELL YOU THAT PIMPLES, blotches and eruptions disappear; that constipation—that breeder of disorders—is relieved; that the appetite is restored; that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any conception by the little wonder-workers. Being purely vegetable, they are perfectly harmless; being composed of concentrated, active ingredients, they are powerful! Purge and purify the system and disease will be unknown. Of all druggists.

A Soldier's Clear Grit.

As a young officer doing duty with a Madras cavalry regiment, Sir Edward Bradford was a keen sportsman. One day when tiger shooting he "missed his mark," and soon found himself in a tiger's clutches. It was an anxious moment, few of his friends being at hand. As a sportsman of experience, Sir Edward knew well that the best course was to lie quietly and sham death. The tiger surveyed his prey, looked around, and thinking all was safe set steady to work to make its meal. Taki-g the young officer's hand in his mouth it was steadily disposed of, and the arm eaten to the elbow before Sir Edward's companions came up and released him. The cool resolution of the man in feigning death had been the means of saving what has since proved to be a most valuable life; for, as Sir Edward says when telling the story, if he had moved, or uttered even a groan, the tiger would have put an end to his existence before going on with his repast.

Keeping Honey.

It is pretty well known that honey crystallizes under the action of light, but remains liquid in a perfectly dark room. Why this change takes place is at length suspected to be due to an action similar to photography. As food for bees it is worthless when crystallized. Hence the reason why bees succeed only when working in the dark. In relation to the change produced in honey by exposure to the light, M. Scheibler found that the same agent which alters the arrangement of iodine of silver on the excited collodion plate and determines the formation of camphor and iodine crystals in a bottle causes the syrup honey to assume a crystalline form. This experimenter inclosed honey in stopped flasks, some of which were kept in perfect darkness, others exposed to the light. The invariable result was, the sunned portion rapidly crystallized, while that kept in dark remained perfectly liquid. —Farm, Field and Stockman.

No Money in It.

"My mother gets me up, builds the fire, gets my breakfast, and sends me off," said a bright youth.

"What then?" said the reporter.

"Then she gets my father up, and gets his breakfast and sends him off, then gets the other children their breakfast and sends them off to school, and then she and the baby have their breakfast."

"How old is the baby?"

"Oh, she is 'most two, but she can walk and talk as well as any of us."

"Are you well paid?"

"I get two dollars a week, father gets two dollars a day."

"How much does your mother get?"

"With a bewildered look the boy said: 'Mother! Why, she don't work for anybody!'"

"I thought you said she worked for all of you."

"O yes, for all of us, she does; but there ain't no money in it." —American Farmer.

A Lady's Tribute to a Considerate Workman.

On a crowded East Boston horse car the other evening the seats of which were nearly all occupied by men, a cutting rebuke answered by a neat compliment was overheard. Shortly after the car left the ferry there got aboard a young lady, whose pallid and careworn face marked her as an invalid.

None of those having a seat at their disposal deemed it to offer a seat to the one who seemed most in need of the resting place till at the further end of the car a roughly dressed workman, seeing her plight, beckoned to her, and resigning his seat in her behalf, said:

"There don't seem, Miss, to be any gentlemen on this car."

"I beg your pardon, sir. I am sure there is one," she replied, gratefully, as she accepted the seat. —Boston Budget.

The Largest Circulation.

What volume printed in the English language has had the largest circulation next to the Bible? Give it up? Well, it is Webster's spelling book. Something over 50,000,000 copies of this work have been published since it was first brought out in Hartford, and the royalties which old Noah Webster received on it were sufficient to support his family handsomely while he was compiling his big dictionary. It is an instructive volume, and we advise everybody to pursue it, although, as somebody said of the dictionary, the story is somewhat disconnected. —Boston Herald.

Didn't Like The Ending.

"That's the last novel I shall ever read," said a gentleman throwing the book down in disgust. "What's the matter dear?" inquired his wife. "Doesn't it end happily?" "No they were married."

Dyspeptic Fare.

While the American eagle is having a good time in the way of peace jollification there are certain birds of prey that are sitting over the tattered remains of a bloody shirt shrilly clicking and wildly pecking away. —Wil. Star.

Opium Smuggled in the United States.

Washington, July 17.—The treasury department is in receipt of information that opium is being smuggled into the United States in large quantities across the northern frontier. Customs officers on the frontier have been put on the alert with a view to effecting seizure of the contraband merchandise.

A Genuine Yankee.

From the Hot Blast.

There is a Yankee in an Illinois town who plants a sunflower seed in every hill of beans. The stalk serves for a bean pole, while the seed is utilized for chicken food.

The death of Wm. Glenn is noted at his home in Cincinnati, July 17. He was born at Hillsboro, N. C., 1800, and has been a merchant for sixty-four years; and during his life filled responsible positions.

How to Rear Children.

Treat them kindly. Don't preach politeness and propriety to them, and violate their laws yourself. In other words, let the example you set them be a good one. Never quarrel in their presence. If you want to quarrel, wait until the children are gone to bed. Then they will not see you, and perhaps by that time you may not want to quarrel.

Hard Lines for the Colored Brother.

A colored gentleman was heard to remark: "Times are changed; de hog law, lokal action an' bar'd wire fences an' gwine to ruin this country." —Brenham (Tex.) Banner.

FAITH CURE FAIRLY BEATEN.

For many years my wife had been the victim of nervous dyspepsia, of the chronic, distressing and apparently incurable type from which so many of her sex suffer, languish and die. It was all the worse because the tendency to it was inherited. She had been under the systematic treatment of many of the best physicians in New York and Brooklyn and elsewhere for twenty years with only temporary relief. In fact, there were few, if any, kinds of food that did not distress her, so diseased, sensitive and torpid were all the organs of digestion. The usual symptoms of dyspepsia, with its concomitant ailments, were all present—bad taste in the mouth, dull eyes, cold feet and hands, the sense of a load upon the stomach, tenderness on pressure, indigestion, giddiness, great weakness and prostration, and fugitive pains in the sides, chest and back. I have often risen in the night and administered stimulants merely for the sake of the slight and transient relief they gave.

Disbursing Affairs to be Investigated.

Washington, July 17.—Secretary Fairchild has directed a searching investigation into the accounts of all disbursing agents of the Treasury Department, to find out exactly the standing of disbursing agents. The test of counting the cash will be adopted. Those who cannot stand this test will be held responsible. Besides accomplishing the object of examining the books, this investigation will lead to several changes in the system of accounts now in force in the Treasury. It is understood that the next Congress will be asked to legislate that no disbursing agent shall receive at any one time a sum greater than the amount of his bond.

A Narrow Escape.

Ridgelyville, N. C., July 15.—Mr. A. H. Motley, Jr., and mother came near having a serious accident Wednesday. They were in the factory, on the fifth floor, and boarded the steam elevator to descend. An employe, in the meantime, had disconnected the lifts and breaks attached to all of them, and when the elevator, which was also loaded heavily with tobacco, was released, it rushed with frightful velocity down through four floors to the cellar beneath. Although severely shocked neither occupant was seriously hurt, and Mr. Motley thinks that escape from injury due to the fact that the weight of the tobacco prevented the elevators rebounding.
