A supply of turkeys in the market. Important business meeting of the Y. M. C. A. to-night.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hodges, of Winston, are here this week visiting relatives.

Last Court furnished several accessions to the county chain gang, both male and female.

Mr. J. T. Harrison will put in a stock of groceries at the stand formerly occupied by Mr. Davidson.

Mr. Mangum, of Winston, is fitting up a store next to Smith's, preparatory to putting in a stock of fruits and groceries.

The many friends of R. M. Payne (Mal) will be pleased to learn that he has moved back to Salisbury from Winston.

Klutz & Rendleman have something to say to the people of Rowan in our advertising columns. Read and profit by it.

Our merchants say that Christmas goods are being rapidly disposed of already, and those who call early will get pick and choice.

The water furnished by our water works, is found to be splendid drinking water and is excellent for all domestic purposes.

A large fish (red horse) weighing about twelve pounds, was exhibited on our streets last Tuesday. It was caught in South River.

Dr. Rumpel preached a special sermon to the young men on Sunday night, subject: "How to build a character." It was able, interesting and instructive.

Robt. L. Ramsay, who has been very sick with pneumonia for the last week, and whose life was almost despaired of, are happy to state is improving.

Persons wanting to join the clubs of Rendleman & Kuser and D. A. Sifford, are requested to see these gentlemen and renew with them before the first of January.

The protracted fair weather has kept the price of wood within reasonable bounds, and many have taken advantage of a flush market to lay in a full supply for the winter.

The services at the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday morning, at 9:30, will be conducted by Messrs. Brenizer and Sides. The subject will be faith. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Sportsmen from the north are not so numerous as formerly around this part of the hunting grounds this season, owing no doubt, to the fact that all of the land is posted as it should be.

The revival meetings in Raleigh, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Pearson, are still going on with unabated interest, and large numbers of converts are being added every night.

It is with pleasure we note the retention of Rev. Mr. Bobbitt and Rev. Mr. Byrd at their old charges. The sending them to other fields would have been very much regretted by the people of this district.

Engineer Moore lately ran his engine 111 miles on the Western road, making 17 stops, in two hours and thirty minutes. This is fast time, and could not be accomplished unless the road was in first class order.

Attention is called to the advertisement of N. P. Murphy in another column. He receives new groceries every week, and is thus enabled to have them fresh all the time. If you try him once you will go there often.

Almanac has taken a fall in the last week or two among our merchants, it has gone down by the quarter and half cent a yard until it now stands at 51, and the end is not yet. We are making our arrangements to clean out the town on the Almanac question when it reaches 1 cent a yard.

We propose adding a County Local column to the WATCHMAN and want all our friends to send us short items of anything of interest from their neighborhood. We want to please our country subscribers and we know that they are all interested in what is going on in other parts of the county.

Big crowds on our streets last Saturday. Almost any thing a person wanted could be bought on the public square, from a horse to a dog and from a bale of cotton to a pint of chestnuts. A more quiet and orderly crowd could not be found in any town of our size from Murphy to Smithville.

It would seem as if some artist of happy discrimination had used his best efforts in accumulating the superbly beautiful stock of silverware that is now on exhibition and for sale at W. H. Reiser's jewelry store. A description of what is there is next to impossible but go and see for yourself. He is always pleased to show his goods and when you hear the prices you will hardly fail to buy.

A letter from the Rev. Mr. Rainsford, of New York, says he is likely to be in Salisbury on next Sunday, and is willing to preach for us if he is here. In case he comes he will be expected to preach at the Episcopal Church, both in the morning and at night.

It would pay some of our country friends who are in the habit of hauling large quantities of wood to town every year, to lease a lot and establish a wood yard. It could be stocked after crops are laid in in the summer, and while the roads are in good condition.

Our esteemed contemporaries, the Greensboro Patriot and Western Scotian are in a wrangle over the tobacco markets of their respective towns, each claiming highest prices paid for the leaf. Settle the matter, gentlemen, by allowing Salisbury to act as umpire. Bring your tobacco to Salisbury if you want big prices.

It seems that Christmas trees are to be in vogue here again this year. Some of our Sunday schools have already appointed soliciting committees who were canvassing the town for funds last week. It is indeed pleasure to the children; but the decorating that is usually done at such occasions is damaging to the church buildings, furniture, etc., to say the least of it.

Dr. Furr, Stanley's champion fisherman, was in town last Friday, and reported the red horse fishing in the Yadkin, near Rockhole, as excellent. Thursday morning he went to a hole that he has baited and in six bites caught five red horse and one sucker, the smallest red horse weighing over four pounds and the largest ten pounds. This is not meant for a fish story but the pure unadulterated truth.

Guilford county has taken the initiative among the old counties, in the way of remodeling her Court house, to conform to the surrounding of the thrifty town of Greensboro, her county site. Such improvements on public buildings are an index to a county's prosperity, and is calculated to impress favorably that class of people who are just now traveling over the State on the look out for homes and suitable locations to engage in business. We are not grumbling but suggest that Rowan keep pace with her neighbors.

There is a remarkable lot of business going on just now in Salisbury. In a visit to some of the stores, last Saturday, we found that Klutz & Rendleman's was crowded, and it taxed to the utmost nine busy clerks to wait upon the customers. The same could be said of the Racket Store, with equally as many if not more clerks. On the other side of the street the clerks at VanWyck & Schultz were as busy as bees, and it was the same way at Moroney's, and the same at Julian & Watson's and Young & Bostain's. Our country friends must have been blessed with good crops judging by the money spent here.

President's Message. We send out as a supplement this week the President's Message in full. We do this knowing that our patrons will appreciate it.

Musical Entertainment. The parlors of Mrs. Neave was filled to overflowing, last Friday night, by the parents and friends of her pupils. It was the occasion of a rehearsal given by the pupils of the Neave Music School, and was a very enjoyable affair. The children acquitted themselves handsomely, and a great deal of praise was bestowed both on the performers and their able teacher.

Apron Bazar and Art Gallery. The King's Daughters will give an apron bazar at the Boyden House tomorrow night, where refreshments of all kinds will be served. There will be an art gallery in connection with it where will be shown some very high works of art. We have had the pleasure of seeing a few of these and they are truly meritorious. The entertainment is to be given for the benefit of the Presbyterian church.

The young ladies should be encouraged in this effort by your attendance. Admission 10 cents, children half price.

Commissioner's Meeting. The Board of County Commissioners met on Monday and the following was the most important business transacted: License to sell liquors of all kinds was granted Shepherd & Co., Miller & Smith, Leonard, Howell, and L. E. Steere. A petition was filed for a new public road leading from a point on the Statesville road about 2 1/2 miles from Salisbury over the land of S. H. Wiley to a point on the Sherrill's Ford road.

The Bond of Sheriff Kridler in the sum of $50,000 was received and approved. The bonds of D. A. Atwell, Coroner, B. C. Arey, County Surveyor, J. M. Horah, C. S. C., H. N. Woodson, Register, and J. Samuel McCubbin, County Treasurer, were also accepted and ordered recorded. J. M. Horah, H. N. Woodson and C. C. Kridler filed their official reports and exhibited the proper receipts for same.

Death of Miss Christy Poard.

THE OLDEST INHABITANT GONE.

The older inhabitants of this town, together with numerous relatives and friends, to turn the departure of this beloved lady, which took place at her home Monday night last. She was the oldest inhabitant of the town, dating from the 7th May, 1799—was born, reared, and lived through all her life in the family residence, the eastern terminus of Main street. On the day before the summons came she said to friends sitting in her room—'This is the last Sabbath I shall be with you, and I'm glad of it,' and answered their reassurances with 'oh, I know it is—I feel it.'

The deceased was in several respects a remarkable person, but in nothing more so than the clearness and power of her memory, which seemed to grasp and hold incidents and events in relation to families, persons, and things in both the town and the surrounding country, to a degree most wonderful. She really seemed never to have forgotten anything worth remembering, whether of her personal knowledge or gathered from others; and for years it was the habit of citizens who desired information not of record, to go to her for it, and they rarely failed to obtain it. While writing the history of Rowan County Dr. Rumpel had frequent occasions to consult this highly esteemed relic of the early times for hints and facts important to him in working out his subjects. In this respect her death is a loss to the community, as with her ends forever the knowledge of many things of the past which she alone had a clear recollection. Though in feeble health for many years, she retained her mental faculties, and to the last her conversation was pleasing and interesting.

She was lovely in life and sought to do good by precept and example. It is enough to say that her most intimate friends loved her with a sincere affection. She was for many years a consistent member of the Episcopal Church, and from its portals her remains were conveyed to the tomb. Miss Beard was descended from an ancient and highly respected family. She was the daughter of the late John Beard, Esq., and a family consisted of six sons and four daughters. The sons were John Lewis, Charles, Horace, Adrian, William, and Marcus. The daughters: Eleanor, Christina, Mary, and Julia. The last named, and William, of the sons, and the survivors of this large family which, 60 years ago, occupied a conspicuous and influential position in the community of their day and time. Horace and Eleanor have left descendants who remain with us, to cherish the memory of worthy ancestors long since gone to rest.

NOW.

As there is a tide in the affairs of men, which taken at its flood leads on to fortune, so may it be truthfully said that communities have opportunities which, if availed of, will lead to general prosperity; and there are occasions when there are strong tides towards moral and religious advancement. Such a tide—we might almost say a tidal wave—has recently visited Salisbury. It has permeated every quarter, and all have felt its influence, and the religious sentiment has stirred the community to its profoundest depths. It is too often the case that such revivals have been followed by reactions, and the beneficial effects of the flood tide have been borne away by the ebb. Is this to be our experience? One great benefit that has come to us on the flood, is the increase in membership of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the earnest religious sentiment that pervades it. How shall this be best fostered for all future time?—is the question that needs most serious consideration, both for the Association and the general community which is so seriously affected by the moral status of the young men who are now beginning to have a voice in shaping its affairs, and who must soon assume the direction of them. So what affects them must affect the whole town of Salisbury, to some extent now, and to a greater extent in the near future. Therefore to keep the Association alive, and render substantial aid in every effort to firmly establish it, should be considered a privilege, as it is certainly the duty of every citizen who has at heart the future moral improvement of the community. Especially is it so to every parent who would elect to have his son surrounded rather by the moral atmosphere of the Young Men's Christian Association than the association of a bar room. The Y. M. C. A. has in contemplation the purchase of a site, to build a home of its own, where access can be had to literature that will be improving, intellectually and morally; a gymnasium for physical training, and appliances for healthful recreation, and all surrounded by moral influences; and it is their intention to call upon the citizens to assist them in this enterprise. This is an opportunity for every citizen to show, by substantial evidence his estimate of the value of the moral sentiment now pervading the community, of his desire to have it fostered and extended, and of appreciation of the efforts of the young men towards the establishment of a moral status that shall last for all the future.

MINING DEPARTMENT.

T. K. BRUN, EDITOR, RALEIGH, N. C.

Dan River Coal Survey.

Under the auspices of the Board of Agriculture investigations are being made of the coal deposit in this district. The citizens of the vicinity have great faith in the final success of the undertaking and have raised about 100 dollars to add to a like sum supplied by the Board of Agriculture. This amount is deemed sufficient for the purpose and an experienced mining engineer and coal expert, Mr. H. B. Robson, of London, Eng., has been placed in charge of the examination. He is not a stranger in this country but has been engaged for a number of years in doing just this kind of work for some of the large railroad corporations, and he is considered a very reliable authority on the subject of coal formations. In his first report to the Board of Agriculture he says: "The vein called No. 1 has been followed 190 feet horizontally into the hill and carries steadily a thickness of 5 1/2 feet of soft bright coal, but very friable and almost devoid of bitumen, but as it has not reached a greater depth than 22 to 25 feet below the ground surface I expect to find it harder and improved when lower depths and more cover is reached; and to that end I have hands quarrying out downward a cross entry to meet the same vein at 50 or more feet greater depth. Vein No. 2 one mile south-west of the above has been carried similarly 90 feet under. Rock cover has been much disturbed by rock intrusions but presents about 3 to 3 1/2 feet of somewhat harder coal of the same general character as No. 1. On the opposite slope of the same valley after several failures opened a vein of the soft coal which for 20 feet into the hill has carried steadily the extraordinary thickness of 8 1/2 to 9 feet almost clear of slaty matter or other interlamations. Our continued operations thereon will bring us under a heavy hill cover and I hope to find it improving as we get on though the thickness may diminish. I have had men out one mile farther southwest from the above and after much delving among the rocks that so often fall down over and conceal coal outcrops, I have just received a specimen of hard coal with cubical grain and promising appearance and it seems to promise an early outlook for a vein of good quality of hard coal when we get fairly through the debris and fairly into it. I have had much troublesome research on a hill near Stokesburg, where a thick vein of soft coal shows about 7 to 7 1/2 feet and about 40 feet below which we have pursued a thin vein of hard coal which has been squeezed down from 2 feet in thickness to a few inches by overlying rocks and by upthrows, but I am continuing my pursuit as the coal is good and may enlarge when we get further into the hill, which has been much disturbed and is changeable in dip, &c. Altogether I am confident that, although we have no useable coal at present before us, we shall be able by further research and following up our present attainments, to give a good account of the 'Dan Coal' within a few months of further operations."
