WORK FOR WOMEN.

How Two Enterprising and Industrious

Here is the way one woman turns the honest penny: She is a seamstress by trade and a good one, but after all her faithful industry is barely able to eke out a scanty living with her needle. Constant and weary toil makes madame none the less a lady, however, and one of the first requirements of her life is to occupy pleasant apartments. Rent per month is say five dollars. With a hundred and one drains on a small treasury this is a considerable sum to compass, and the cleverness with which she manages to secure the amount would put to shame many an older financier. In the first instance one dollar was invested at the baker's, which as every one knows will buy two dozen fat loaves.

She next secured twenty-four regular customers to pay five cents apiece as she delivered the bread early every morning, carrying it warm and crisp from the oven. This, as will be seen, gives her twenty cents clear profit a day. Being executly diposited in a savings bank on the mantle shelf, behold when the landlord knocks the required sum is all ready for payment. The early walk in no way interferes with her regplar duties, but on the contrary serves as a good constitutional, a healthful preparation for the sedentary employment of the rest of the day. Hearing of a woman who has courage and energy to do this sort of thing helps others along, no matter what their calling or

The first woman to occupy the position of cane weigher on a sugar plantation -a place of some trust and responsibility-was a young girl from the North. Fortune took her up in the coast country this past autumn, and, asking work, the situation was offered and immediately accepted. She went to work without hesitation, and, giving perfect satisfaction to her employers, proved there is still another line of work opened to those of hir sex looking for employment - N. O. Times-Democrat.

Sleep as a Medicine.

The cry for rest has always been louder than the cry for food, not that it otherwise equal, the one who sleeps the best will be the most moral, healthy and efficient. Sleep will do much to cure irritability or temper, peevishness and uneasiness. It will restore to vigor an overworked brain. It will build up and make strong a weary body. It will cure a headache. Indeed, we might make a long list of nervous and other maladies energies in a business which yields a that sleep will cure. The cure of sleep- fair return, rather than sit at home lessness requires a clean, good bed, suf- content with a scanty pittance and a pleasant occupation, good air, not too Faithfull warm a room, a clear conscience and avoidance of stimulants and narcotics. For those who are overworked, haggard and nervous, who pass sleepless nights. we recommend the adoption of such habits as shall secure sleep, otherwise life will be short, and what there is of it sadly imperfect .- Medical Times.
