

The Way Girl's Kiss. It is pleasant to hear intelligent and learned students of history talk of Gen. Lee, the great leader of the confederates in the late war—pleasant because so many of our people loved him for the grandeur of his character not only as a soldier but as a man. Lord Wolsey, a distinguished British soldier has been reviewing the military characters of Caesar, Hannibal, Marlboro, Napoleon and Lee. We quote what he says about the latter. "And lastly, let me glance at Gen. Lee's strategy when he fought in defence of the Southern capital, and threatened and finally struck at that of the United States, marks him as one of the greatest captains of this or any other age. No man has ever fought an up-hill and a losing game with greater firmness, or ever displayed a higher order of true military genius than he did when in command of the Confederate army. The knowledge of his profession displayed by Gen. McClellan was considerable, and his strategic conceptions were admirable, but he lacked one attribute as a general, without which no man can ever succeed in war—he was never able to estimate with any accuracy the numbers opposed to him. It was the presence in Lee of that intuitive genius which McClellan lacked, which again and again gave him victory, even when he was altogether outnumbered in numbers."

General Lee. We wonder why men pass by the Church to found clubs and brotherhoods and orders. They will have them, and they ought not to have them until the Church is in its divine love what its founder destined it to be—the brotherhood in Christ of the children of our God and Father. What the world needs to-day is not alms, not hospitals, not homes of mercy alone. It needs the Spirit and the power of the love of Christ. It needs the voice, the hand, and the heart of Christ seen in and working in his children. No powers of Government, no prestige of social position, no prerogatives of churchly authority can meet the issues of this hour. We have waited already too long. Brotherhood men will have, and it will be the brotherhood of the commune or brotherhood in Christ as the children of our God and Father. Infidelity answers no questions, heals no wounds, fulfills no hopes. The gospel will do, is doing to-day what it has done through all the ages—leading men out of sin and darkness and despair to the liberty of the sons of God.—Bishop of Minnesota in Westminster Abbey.

THE LEISURELY SPEED OF PASSENGER TRAINS IN THE WEST EXPLAINED. A man was one day making a trip on a mixed train on a Dakota road. Passage on these trains is never taken except for journeys of considerable length; walking is as easy and much faster for short distances. On this occasion the movement was even more deliberate than usual, and the passenger called the conductor to his seat and said: "Isn't this motion pretty slow?" "Well, we ain't flyin' it, I'll admit." "Sure everything is all right?" "I think so." "Wheels all greased?" "Yes, I greased them myself." "Tires all on?" "Yes. We run through the creek back here and soaked up the wheels so that they would stay." "Any spokes loose?" "No." "You are certain the wheels are all on the rails?" "They was when I come in." "Couldn't it be possible that any of them are off and the axle dragging, could it?" "I guess not." "Are we going up hill?" "No, this is pretty middlin' level." "Do you always run at this rate?" "No, we generally hump along a little faster this."

Why it Ran Slowly. The North State guilelessly asks its Radical readers, "Do you feel as happy under Cleveland's administration as you did before? How many of you have got into the federal offices since Cleveland came in?" &c., &c. Now, isn't this funny? As if Cleveland didn't make it a point to "turn the rascals out," all the country over! As if Radical office holders were going to be made a Democratic administration! As if the end and aim of the Democratic party—the highest possible achievement it could attain, were to make Radicals "happy." The North State is too funny for anything—funny enough to make a horse laugh—or a North Carolina Radical leader in view of the prospect of certain defeat that now stares him in the face.—News and Observer.

The Girl They Wanted. A young woman in Toronto recently answered an advertisement for housemaid, and the lady of the house seemed pleased with her. But before engaging her there was some question to ask. "Suppose," said she, "now only suppose, understand, that you were carrying a piece of steak from the kitchen, and by accident should let it slip from the plate to the floor; what would you do in such a case?" The girl looked the lady square in the eye for a moment before answering, "Is it a private family or boarding house?" "Boarding," answered the lady. "Pick it up and put it back on the plate," firmly replied the girl. She was engaged.—Toronto Mail.

Supporting Local Papers. The people of Radford will not look in the direction of advertising the town. They will attempt to cripple their town paper by patronizing offices of other towns with their job work and so forth. Still everyone expects the Democrat to boom Radford for all its worth.—Radford (Va.) Democrat. We have seen many cases of this kind, and some business men seem to be incapable of appreciating the fact that every good local paper does its town best times as much good as it gets paid for. Men having large interests in a town and deeply concerned as to its progress often try to see how little they can do for their own local papers. The papers of the South are to-day doing far more for the good of their country than they receive credit for. Day after day and week after week they are telling of its advantages of soil, climate and minerals and of its progress. The facts which they give are widely published in other papers, and thus the good work is carried far beyond their immediate circle of readers. The Manufacturers' Record has often noted with admiration the great work that Southern papers are doing, and regretted to see how poorly in many cases they are supported by the people whose interests they are serving.—Manufacturers' Record.
