

Sayings of Sam Jones.
Durham Recorder.

An infidel back the e says there is nothing in this Bible for him. Listen: "The fool has said in his heart, there is no God." Don't that fit your case, old fellow?

The best husband in Durham is the one that sticks closest to the Bible. I reckon God did call all the preachers into the ministry, but I believe he called some of 'em to keep 'em out of devilment.

There is no reason on earth or in hell why every man should not be a faithful Christian.

It is easier to tell the truth than it is to tell a lie. All a fellow has to do to tell the truth is to open his mouth and out it comes. But to tell a lie, he must ram back the truth and pump out the lie.

We hear people saying: "This world's a howling wilderness." And you are the dogs doing the howling.

You church members pray for God to put whisky out of North Carolina. That's nonsense. If you want it out, vote it out. God don't vote, you foot.

If you ushers don't attend to your business better, I'll turn you off, and if you don't take this kind of talk, you can quit.

A man who will lay his sin on old man Adam, is as mean as dirt.

All this cock and bull story these preachers tell about a man being a man of sores from head to foot is a lie. I ain't rotten. I don't know their case, however.

All some old fellows want in this world is somewhere to sit, and some place to spit.

There are many old fellows in Durham, who if they believed the streets of heaven were paved with gold, would get there or lose every toe nail trying.

If you are good, God says you are, and if you ain't, you ain't.

All some girls want is to go to a ball, and have a young buck put his arm around them. Girls, there ain't anything good in that. I know, 'cause I used to be a buck myself.

I never knew a fellow passionately fond of billiards that was worth killing.

Sister, if I were you when I went home this evening, I would say to my husband: "Now look here, husband, I want you to have family prayer to-night," and if he wouldn't, I'd tell him when the hour came: "Now, we'll have family prayer," and then say to the children: "You children get your rattlers and little red horses, and keep your little father quiet, while I read a chapter and pray, and I'd knock the old fellows teeth out, and nurse him on my breast until he learned to be a man."

God pity the brute, the brute—human brute, that will swear before his child. There is not a hog in North Carolina that would be guilty of it if he had the ability to swear. I mean a two legged hog.

If you old fellows want something to get mad about, just poke your horns in this old warehouse Sunday evening at 3 o'clock. I will preach to you then.

Brethren, I've been a mighty nice fellow ever since I've been here. I ain't said any hard things yet, but I'll light in next Sunday afternoon.

A man that will swear will steal if it w'n't for sheriffs and chain gangs.

Boys, I am just holding a mirror that you old fellows may see your old carcasses one time in your life.

Some of my illustrations are notable, but they illustrate.

When I call a fellow a hog you needn't answer if that ain't your number.

The trouble, brethren with the church is the devil can run a mile while we are pulling on our boots.

Brethren, I despise a stingy man—one that you must beg and beseech before he'll give to God. There is a man who lives down in Georgia, who is the hardest fellow to get money out of I ever saw. Now I have raised a great deal of money in my day—they say I'm good at it. But this fellow down in Georgia, he's given me more trouble than all other men I ever tried to get money from. One day I went to him for $1,800. I had a good place for it, but he said he didn't have it. I told him he was a liar. I knew he was making money, and I had promised his wife to help get him to heaven. He got mad, but finally shelled it out. In a few weeks I went to him and said: "A poor woman in Carterville—my home—will have her house sold, and she will be homeless next week—but $600 can save it, and now old fellow you can give the money for her." He didn't have it. I told him he was a liar, and I'd have it or tramp his gizzard out of him. He shelled it out, and now when that fellow sees me coming he just asks: "Jones, how much do you want? You can have it." If you won't say anything about it, and these newspaper reporters won't put it in the papers, I'll tell you his name. He is my wife's husband. And old fellow, when you tackle your wife's husband—the fellow that wears your moustache—for money, you are after the biggest rascal in Durham then, sure.

A man who had been married three times told me that first he married for money, the second time for beauty, and the third time for intellect, and said he: "All combined I had the world, the flesh and the Devil." I'm sorry for you fellows who have got it all in one lump.

Calves in the Society Pastures.
Jas. Crawley, of Danville, aged 17, and little Lizzie Burton, of Cascade, aged 13, run away and were married in Pelham, N. C., last Sunday week. Poor little things!

A lesson is contained in this and like instances which are being alarmingly frequent. Many a mother in order to have her little girl appear bright and precocious delights in dressing them up in the height of the prevailing fashion and pushing them forward into society when they should be playing with dolls in the nursery. Don't be in a hurry, parents, to see your little girl in the parlor entertaining visitors and being praised by all who see her as "the brightest and most lady like child they ever saw." We have "lady like" children. They are like lady apples which ripen early and fall off the tree; they appear very well at the time, but they won't keep. Give us the lively, rollicking, playful girl or boy who does not know anything about society and cares less, who can play marbles or can slide down ladders, but don't know a bean from a cross-cut saw. They will grow up soon enough; their merry, childish prattle and laugh will cease to echo around the old hearthstone long before the baby form has grown out of your heart.

There is something repulsive and horrible in the idea of children marrying. They cannot realize what this sacred relation means; they know no future and look at nothing further than their present infatuation. This is only the natural outgrowth however of allowing human calves to run at large—of allowing your little girl to go off to churches or parties alone with boys who are older than they and who pour silly words of love in the ears of the child until her brain is turned and she thinks she knows what love is and becomes infatuated as she would with a new toy—and the result is, if not something worse, the young goddesses want to get married at once, and at the age of from 13 to 18 rush into the matrimonial state and go to live with the old folks; and when the doctor comes they haven't money enough in the house to buy a half yard of flannel.—Madison Leader.

United We Stand.
Bees and ants may be called civilized animals. They live in cities and understand the value of co-operation. Indeed, they could give men some valuable lessons upon one of the oldest, the best known, and the truest of human proverbs: "In union there is strength."

Ants show wonderful intelligence, and the "driver ants" not only build huts, but launch them, too; only these huts are formed of their own bodies. They are called "drivers" because of their ferocity. Nothing can stand before the attacks of these little creatures. Large pythons have been killed by them in a single night, while chickens, lizards, and other small animals in Western Africa flee from them in terror.

To protect themselves from the heat they erect arches, under which numerous armies of them pass in safety. Sometimes the arch is made of grass and earth gummed together by some secretion, and again it is formed by the bodies of the larger ants, who hold themselves together by their strong nippers while the workers pass under them.

At certain times of the year freshets overflow the country inhabited by the "drivers," and it is then that these ants go to sea. The rain comes suddenly and the walls of their houses are broken in by the flood, but, instead of coming to the surface in scattered hundreds and being swept off to destruction, out of the ruin rises a black ball that rises safely on the water and drifts away.

At the first warning of danger the little creatures rush together and form a solid body of ants, the weaker in the center. Often this ball is larger than a common baseball, and in this way they float about until they lodge against some tree, upon the branches of which they are soon safe and sound.—St. Nicholas.

A Sound Legal Opinion.
E. Bainbridge Munday Esq., County Atty., Clay Co., Tex., says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilkinson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds his testimony, saying: "He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters."

This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequalled. Price 50c and $1. at T. F. Klutz & Co.

A Girl Mail Carrier.
Oregon has a woman mail carrier. Her name is Miss Mamie Westman, and she carries Uncle Sam's mail from the head of navigation on Sitka Bay over the Coast range mountains, following up the river to Hale's post-office station, within fifteen miles of Eugene City.

Her route is twenty miles long, and is situated right in the heart of the mountains, where all the dangers and adventures incident to such an occupation abound. She carries the mail night and day and fears nothing. She rides horseback and carries a trusty revolver.

Miss Westman is a plump little brunette, and is twenty years old. Her father and uncle operate a stage line and have a contract for carrying the mail. At Hale's station Minnie meets her father and gets the mail from Eugene City and starts on her round.

Miss Westman has never met with a serious mishap in the performance of her duty. On one of her trips last year she found three good-sized bears in the road right in front of her. The horse, on spying them, became frightened, threw his rider to the ground, and, turning around, ran back the road he came.

Miss Westman, with great presence of mind, started after the runaway, and, overtaking him, re-mounted and rode right through the savage cordon, and, strange to say, she was not attacked. Meeting some friends, she told them of what she had seen, and they went to the place and killed the bears. So far this year Miss Westman has met two bears, which did not molest her.—Portland Oregonian.

A Saratoga Spring Over 3,000 Feet Deep.
A dispatch from Saratoga says: A company has purchased the Seltzer Spring and will utilize its waters for the purpose of liberating and storing in liquid form, the carbonic acid gas with which it abounds. To do this extensive arrangements are being made upon a large amount of invested capital. The establishing of the plant is under the supervision of Mr. Oscar Brunler, a German expert.

This Seltzer Spring, located on Spring Avenue, was developed by Dr. Haskins less than three years ago. The drill was put down to the depth of 300 feet. At this depth an abundant supply of water was found flowing from a crevice in the rock bottom. A few days ago, to assure himself of the leath of the spring, Mr. Brunler sounded it with a line and plummet; but instead of resting at 500, the line weight sank the whole length of the line, 900 feet. Other soundings have since been made, the weight used being a piece of inch gas pipe filled with lead and weighing thirty-four pounds, until a depth of 3,000 feet had been reached, and yet without touching bottom or any obstacle. No further soundings will be made until instruments expressly designed for the purpose can be procured.

Prof. Brunler admits it as possible that the line and weight could have been carried away by some powerful current, but he holds to his original belief in the existence of a subterranean sea of greater or less extent, and that there is undoubtedly some connection between it and the water of the ocean. In other words, that Saratoga is over a vast water-filled cavern, the roof of which is about 500 feet thick. He also thinks it probable that at a given depth and temperature carbonic acid gas may be found in a liquid form. The specific gravity of the liquid gas is about nine degrees lighter than water, which would really cause the water to climb 300 feet above the ocean level. Should the existence of a subterranean sea be established, and scientific speculations as to the source and course of the many springs here.—Scientific American.

She Became Wealthy.
"I was attorney for the railroad twenty years ago," said a Detroit lawyer, "and one day went out to settle a loss with a woman. She and her husband had been struck at a crossing, and, while she was badly hurt, he was killed outright and the horses and buggy smashed to pieces. She had the dead wood on us for $15,000, as the engineer did not signal the crossing. I went out to make an offer of about $12,000. The widow was not able to sit up, and I stopped at a store in the village and bought some oranges and lemons and took them up. When we finally got around to the matter of damages she said:

"Yes, it was a sad thing, and the railroad was to blame, but I don't want to be mean about it. I suppose the president and all of 'em are worried most to death, and I suppose I could stop all the cars from running, but I want to be just. Your bringing up that fruit proves how kind-hearted you all are, and if you think you could afford to give me $1,000, I'll sign off."

"I made her accept $5,000, and took her the money myself. When she received it she asked:

"Won't the road be crippled?"

"Oh no."

"Can't run just the same?"

"Yes."

"And none of your folks are mad at me?"

"No."

"Well, then, I'll take it; but if the road should get hard up and want to borrow, it'll find me ready to lend."

Don't Experiment.
You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always secures, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Cough and Croup, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottle free at Klutz's Drug Store.

Try it, and you will be astonished at the good results of the genuine Simon's Liver Regulator, prepared by J. H. Zeilin & Co.

All want to play First Fiddle.
In the grand orchestra of life everybody is anxious to play the first fiddle. Nay, almost everybody plays it; for although the first fiddle absolutely may take precedence of all the rest, yet every second fiddle is first fiddle to somebody. As "deas have smaller fleas to bite 'em, and so on ad infinitum," so every man who tickles a superior has an inferior to tickle him. If it were not for this pleasant arrangement we should have no social harmony, and it is only when this system of relations is disturbed that we experience discords and crashes.
