Our Dead of 1888.

For some years on each recurring judgment inevitable.

Art is long and time is fleeting, Though our hearts are stout and brave, Still like muffled drums are beating Funeral marches to the grave.

* * * North Carolina was bereaved indeed during the year 1888. She lost many most worthy and excellent sons, and some of her ablest, most gifted, most distinguished. Among those best known and most highly endowed who went to their graves were John F. Poindexter, Col. Duncan K. McRue, Col. John R. Winston, Maurice Q. Waddell, Frederick S. Proctor, Rev. Dr. E. F. Rockwell, Maj. John Gatling, Rev. Dr. N. H. D. Wilson, Hon. William A. Smith, Rev. Dr. F. M. Hubbard, Judge Thomas Settle and Col. Robert R. Bridgers.

Among those who died who were men of influence, character and usefulness were such worthy men as Rev. J H. Coble, John A Moore, Dr. F. M. Rountree, Dr. W. R. King, Capt. John E. Dugger, Dr. John G.
