THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1889.

The legislature of Connecticut has passed a secret ballot bill.

Prohibition is up before the people of Pennsylvania, and the antics say they will carry the State.

The vault in the Chicago Postoffice was forcibly entered on the 27th and 83 registered letters carried off.

A nine year old boy in Georgia was bitten in the calf of his leg by a rattlesnake and died in twenty minutes.

Read Mr. Cleveland's speech in this paper. He is a Democrat from the crown of his head to the ends of his toes.

The Michigan House of representatives has passed a bill giving women the right to vote in town and city elections.

The seventeen year locusts have appeared about Asheville. They are often limited to small sections of the country.

The Monitor, Puritan, which has never been finished nor armored is to be taken in hand and made a first class modern war vessel.

The Raleigh cotton factory scheme is progressing, and the site for it will probably be located in rear of the agricultural building.

It is not true that a niece of Jefferson Davis was put under arrest in London for poisoning her husband. It was another woman.

Buffalo Bill with his troop of Indians, is in Paris. He is "on the make," and will no doubt return with a large bank account.

There is trouble in Will county, Illinois, with striking rioters, and troops have been ordered out to protect property and persons.

The Samoan question, in which the United States was a party, it is stated, has been satisfactorily settled, and there will be no war growing out of it.

Two burglaries were perpetrated in Charlotte this week: one Sunday morning after daylight, and the other Monday morning. No clew in either case.

A syndicate composed of Asheville and New York men have purchased 2,000 acres of oyster grounds in Hyde and Carteret counties. They will raise oysters to sell.

Very imposing and impressive ceremonies were held at Fredericksburg, Va., May 28, on the occasion of decorating the graves of the Confederate dead who sleep there.

Judge Ruffin's funeral was largely attended at Hillsboro, last Saturday. Many of the most prominent people of the State were present in honor of the distinguished man and jurist.

A furious wind storm at Quincy, Ill., struck a cemetery at that place, Monday, and demolished nearly every monument on the grounds. Houses were unroofed and trees torn out of root.

Tyranny of the worst kind prevails in Russia. The rulers of the country can't read the signs of the times, but still strive to crush out resistance to oppression by the iron heel of power.

J. B. Connelly, formerly Superior Court Clerk of Iredell, who was recently tried on the charges of embezzlement and failing to make his returns, was acquitted of the charge of embezzlement.

A family feud between Lucien D. Mabry and John T. Lyon at Abbeville, S. C., ended in the killing of Mabry, on the 22d inst. Lyon used a double barrel shot gun loaded with buckshot, and waylaid his victim.

The Michiganders have shown their spirit towards a negro raper at Port Huron by lynching him without a chance to speak, except in the words, "What in the h-- do you want?"—his last words—a rope around his neck and fifty men pulling at it, dragged him out of prison and through the streets to the place of hanging.

Hobson county has a full docket of criminal cases. A special court called to clear it spent a week on less than half the cases, in which time two Croxtans were convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged on June 23th, and six other persons were sentenced to the penitentiary. Appeals were taken in the cases of the Croxtans.

Mr. Cleveland Speaks.

At a banquet in honor of ex-President Cleveland, given at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, on the 27th inst., at which many very distinguished Democrats were invited guests, Mr. Cleveland delivered a speech, a synopsis of which we give below. The democracy of the country are always pleased to read the speeches of this distinguished member of the party:

Many incidents of my short residence in this good city have served to fill my cup of gratitude and to arouse my appreciation of the kindness and consideration of those with whom I have made my home. * * * * *

And yet I truly say that none of these things will be more vividly or gratefully remembered than the opportunity afforded me by this occasion to greet the political friends I see about me.

I have been honored by my party far beyond my deserts. Indeed, no man can deserve its highest honors.

After six years of public service, I return, to you my party friends, with no excuses or apologies, and with no regrets of any kind. It is not given to man to meet all the various and conflicting views of party duty and policy, which prevail in an organization where many and opposite opinions are so freely tolerated as in the Democratic party.

Because these views are various and conflicting, and because they are honestly held and advocated, they should provoke no utterance nor condemnation, but when they are dishonestly proclaimed, as a mere cover and pretext for resentment and disappointment, should be met by the exposure and contempt which they deserve. If, with a sincere design and intent, one charged with party representation has kept the party faith, that must answer the party obligation.

When we seek for the cause of the perpetuity of the Democratic party and its survival through every crisis and emergency, and in the face of all opposition, we find it in the fact that its corner stone is laid in devotion to the rights of the people, and sympathy with all things which tend to the advancement of their welfare and happiness.

Though heresy may sometimes have crept into its organization, and its party conduct may at times have been influenced by the stiffness which is the habitual device of its opponents, there has always remained deeply imbedded in its nature and character that spirit of true Americanism and that love of popular rights which has made it indelible in disaster and defeat, and has constituted it a boon to the country in its time of triumph and supremacy.

We know that we have espoused the cause of right and justice. We know that we have not permitted the country to await upon expediency. We know that we have not trafficked our principles for success. We know that we have not deceived the people with false promises and pretences. And we know that we have not corrupted nor betrayed the poor with the money of the rich.

Who shall say that these things should be rewarded, and that the party shall not follow the enlightened judgment and the sober second thought of our countrymen? There are to-day no weak, weary, and dependent members of the true Democracy—and there should be none. Thoughtful attention to the political parties is thoroughly aroused. Events are day by day leading men to review the reasons for their affiliations, and the supporters of the principles we profess are constantly recruited by intelligent, young and sturdy adherents.

Let us deserve their confidence; and showing all ignoble practices, let us remain true to the Democratic faith and to the cause of our country. If we are true and loyal to these, the day of our triumph will surely and quickly come, and our victory shall be fairly, nobly won, through the invincible spirit of true Democracy.

Content in responding to the toast "The Democracy of the State of New York," declared that the Republican administration was making fatal mistakes and convincing the country that it was unable to fulfill its promises of good government and industrial prosperity.

The Republicans of Virginia who oppose the exclusive recognition of Mahone by the President have been in public meeting to protest against such invidious distinction, and claim that they have rights which Mr. Harrison ought to respect.

There is to be a grand Railroad celebration at Asheville, on the July 4th.—Three townships in Randolph county recently voted on the stock law and defeated it. The Asheville Courier, says the Hoover Hill gold mine continues to pay a handsome dividend and sustains its reputation as the best paying gold mine in the State.

Goldsboro, we see, is just pushing ahead with her water works. The digging up of the streets of that town any time between now and October will prove a costly thing to the health of the place. Also we observe that Raleigh proposes to enter upon the work of constructing a general sewerage system in July. Nothing could be more fatal or foolish.—W.H. Messenger.

People who like to know the reason of things will most naturally call for a light on the assertions of the Messenger. We think the light ought to have been thrown into the article from which we quote.

That lady in South Carolina who, some 15 months ago, married two men in about ten days—married, first, a man named Mintz, secretly; and, second, a man styled Dr. Atkinson, openly; has been arrested on the charge of bigamy, and will be brought to trial for her smartness. She and her husband, the Doctor, was well armed when they were arrested at Black's, S. C., on the 29th. After denying the double marriage for a month, she confessed it, and separated from the Doctor; but they have since gone together again, and now a serious obstacle intervenes to her future happiness.

Washington Letter.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, May 27, 1889.

Postmaster General Wanamaker, or as the irreverent persist in calling him "Cheap John" is deserving of a leather medal as the Champion hair-splitter of the age. Saturday afternoon he tendered the use of his newly purchased steam yacht, "Restless" to Harrison and a party of friends, all men this time, to go on a Sunday excursion down the Chesapeake Bay, but asked to be excused from accompanying the party on the ground that he could not be away from his Philadelphia Sunday school on Sunday. He probably thought to ease his conscience for lending his yacht to the Sunday excursionists by staying away and attending to his Sunday school class, but what would the members of that class have thought as they took their instructions from Mr. Wanamaker yesterday, could they have seen in that very time the gay party about the "Restless," which was being needlessly run on Sunday under the orders of, and at the expense of their teacher.

What a lesson is here for those who blessed with well-nigh perfect sense, waste their precious days in moody broodings over the foolish question: "Is life worth living?"

A North Carolina Wolf Hunt.

The farmers of Macon county have been so annoyed by the wholesale destruction of their sheep by wolves that they concluded to devote last week to a grand hunt. They made up four very large parties led by thirty experienced hunters, and after two days unsuccessful search, came upon the wolves Friday in a thicket of rhododendron, near the base of an immense wall of rock. Their dogs got the wolves at bay, but it was found that they were in a cave, with a small opening. The hunters were not to be balked, and began a lively fire into the cave with their repeating rifles. When there was quiet one of the hunters crawled inside and found no less than seven wolves. Three more were killed in the course of the hunt, one after a desperate fight with the dogs. The latter was the largest wolf killed in many years. This hunt, so successful, will probably be the last of the county hunt, which in former years were common in that wild section.—Charlotte Chronicle.

This is quite a family sort of an administration. The latest appointment is that of R. C. Spooner, of Wisconsin, brother of Senator Spooner, to be U. S. consul at Prague. Any other Senators or Representatives of influence having brothers or sons to be provided for will do well to address J. G. Blaine, Department of State at once.

U. S. Treasurer Huston who is incidentally chairman of the republican state committee of Indiana, has gone home in a terrible peck because Corporal Tanner of the Pension office, and the Postmaster General would not allow him to name a lot of appointments in their offices. But he will return he will not resign his office, as some of his friends hint. He knows when he has a "snap," and is not likely to give it up because he can't get a few places for his strikers.

Corporal Tanner has already announced that there will be a deficiency of at least $15,000,000 on account of pensions during the fiscal year beginning July 1, and he is trying to make it appear that the late Commissioner Gen. Black is responsible for it. To anyone familiar with the rulings of Tanner and of Assistant Secretary of the Interior Bussey, who hears appeals there is no difficulty in placing the responsibility for this deficiency. I shall be greatly surprised if it isn't nearer $25,000,000 than $15,000,000, and besides I am satisfied that there is a large deficiency for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, about which Tanner has yet said nothing.

Senator Quay's bluster has had its effect: Harrison has surrendered and, the Pennsylvania boss gets all he wants in spite of the opposition of Postmaster-General Wanamaker, Boss McManes and Representative Bingham. Quay has had the following Pennsylvanians appointed by Harrison: E. F. Gilkerson to be secured Comptroller of the Treasury; S. B. Holliday to be Commissioner of Customs and David Martin to be collector of Internal revenue for the Philadelphia district.

Senators Calum and Farwell are not so fortunate. They are still floundering around in the shadow thrown by the influence of Representative Cannon, of Illinois. It is very seldom that a Representative is strong enough to down two Senators of his own party, but "Joe" Cannon performed the trick.

Harrison is going slower instead of faster in the matter of making appointments and the dissatisfaction among republicans is daily spreading and the growls growing louder, as the cause for all the trouble Harrison's weakness becomes more apparent to the disappointed men who nominated and elected him.

Washington sent a big delegation to Alexandria Virginia, last Friday to witness the unveiling of a handsome statue erected in honor of the Confederates of that city. The principal speech was delivered by Governor Lee.

Gen. Twiggs' famous Sword which have been on exhibition in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, in this city, every since their capture during the late war, have, in accordance with the recent decision of the court claims, been turned over to A. C. Myers, executor of the estate of the late General David Twiggs.

The standing of parties who passed the civil service examination will be made public hereafter. This is a victory for the people, and will to a great extent prevent favoritism.

Salem Female Academy.

The commencement exercises at this old and celebrated academy will begin May 29, and continue until June 4th. Round trip tickets will be sold by the railroads, good to return until the 6th of June.

The Charlotte News, of the 25th, gives an interesting description of the two hundred thousand dollar oil mill and fertilizer factory now in process of erection half a mile west of the city limits, along the line of the Charlotte and Augusta R. R. The seed house is to be 80 feet wide and 304 long; and other necessary buildings will be designed with special reference to their uses. An army of workmen are employed in erecting them, and it is expected the factory will be in operation this year.

"Is Life Worth Living?"

Philadelphia Record.

Sixty years blindness, deafness and silence, were what Laura Briggan, who died on Friday, passed through; and yet although thus shut out from all the channels of expression, she lived a contented and industrious life, with a strongly developed moral and intellectual nature and a sunny disposition that enabled her to rise above her gloomy surroundings. No doubt her unusual quickness, eagerness to learn contributed toward the success of what Dr. Howe set himself out to do for her; but, independent of this, it always remain a marvel that dull and diseased senses could have thus been acted upon. The success achieved in her case was undoubtedly the means of suggesting the application of similar methods in other instances; and there are thousands of unfortunates to-day who, shut out from all intercourse, with the external world, have had their weary lives brightened because of Laura Briggan.

What a lesson is here for those who blessed with well-nigh perfect sense, waste their precious days in moody broodings over the foolish question: "Is life worth living?"

Wanted to Go to the Penitentiary.

Smith Howerton was arranged last week on the charge of selling whiskey in Concord in defiance of the local option law. He plead guilty, and the Judge sentenced him to twelve months in the county jail; but still he was not satisfied, and asked to be sent to the penitentiary. He had been there before, and it seems that he liked the place. It strikes us that the penitentiary hardly performs its object as a correction of crime when its inmates are ready to seek again the shelter of its walls. It may be that the whipping-post is a barbarous institution of the past but we can't help thinking sometimes that it would be better for our kind mother, the State, to chastise such delinquents as Smith, rather than send them to a place that they rather enjoy at the expense of her more upright children.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The way is apparently being paved for another disappointment, such as was experienced by the prospective Oklahoma settlers a few weeks ago. The news comes from Pierre, Dakota, that scores of men have already entered the Sioux Reservation, in anticipation of its cession to the government, and staked off claims for the best lands. This was precisely what occurred in Oklahoma, and when the law-abiding men who waited for the formal opening of the lands for settlement entered the Territory, they found everything pre-empted. Thousands of them have since turned their backs on Oklahoma, carrying with them a load of disappointment and a consciousness of having been wronged, for which, justly or unjustly, they blame the government. There may possibly be some excuse for the failure to prevent the unauthorized rail into Oklahoma.—N. Y. Times, Ind. Rep.

Business Education

I HAVE opened a school of penmanship and book keeping and having a thorough theoretical knowledge, as well as practical experience, in book-keeping, I am able to give a practical business education, and prepare my pupils to enter at once into business. MCCORMICK TRIUMPHANT IN 1889

In Field Trials. The McCormick, at the opening of the present season, encountered a storm of derision on account of its demoralized competitors who deride its wonderful abilities with more energy than regard for fact. But the season no sooner began than the reputation of the McCormick, instead of being clouded, shone out more brilliantly than ever before, and the banner of the "Best in the World" after passing through a campaign more arduous than has ever been previously experienced, stood triumphantly over all. On its folds are emblazoned the following astonishing legends:
