Charlotte sends $270 to the relief of the Johnston sufferers.

Five blocks of buildings destroyed by fire in Jacksonville, Florida yesterday.

Theodore E. McCray has been appointed Post Master at Lexington, N. C.

Policemen Bradley and Donovan are in jail in Asheville, on the charge of murder.

The Wilmington Messenger has added to its staff of editors Mr. Kingsbury, formerly editor of the Morning Star, which we consider a valuable acquisition.

The magistrates of Mecklenburg county at their meeting on Monday voted $1,000 as a contribution to promote the dropseed Piedmont Exposition to be held in Charlotte this fall.

The Critic is a new and spicy weekly recently started at Charlotte, with C. F. King as editor. The newspaper enterprise of Charlotte is equal to its growth. The Critic is issued every Saturday, at $1 a year.

Five persons have just now been put under arrest in Galveston, Texas, for lynching a young man about five years ago. The accused are men of some prominence in their county, and the case is quite a sensation in the community.

A bloody tragedy is reported by the Raleigh News-Observer as having occurred in Surry county, June 1st, at the home of Nat. Boyden, in which two men were shot, one instantly killed and the other mortally wounded. They were drinking.

The particulars of the dreadful flood of Johnston, Pa., are coming in, and they reveal a most deplorable amount of suffering and death. Fire broke out in the houses dashed together by the flood, and many persons were also burned to death who had escaped on them from the furious waters.

The Washington Post says that the appointment of the Rev. James Townsend, a negro, to the office of Recorder of the General Land Office, has troubled the lady clerks in that department who come under his direction. Very naturally. They ought to get out and let negro women take their places, and so make the whole department black.

Gov. Larrabee, of Iowa, in a letter addressed to the State Chronicle, bears unhesitating testimony to the efficiency of the prohibition law of that State. He says: "I think that more than half of the jails in the State are empty at the present time. There are 98 less convicts in our penitentiary than there were three years ago, notwithstanding increased population." Expenses in criminal courts have been greatly diminished, and that the testimony from all sources is overwhelmingly in favor of the law.

One of the surprising things of these fast times is the rapidity with which railroad companies re-building bridges, and repair serious damages to their roads. Bridges that cost thousands of dollars, at the first, and required much time to build them, are often replaced in a few days after being lost, and in full operation before people have ceased to talk of the structures which were burned, or washed away by a flood. The late storm in Virginia destroyed three bridges on the Midland road, besides making several washouts, and broke the mail connection South. And yet the bridges have been replaced and the road repaired, and mail service resumed over the entire line. This one instance illustrates the energy and the promptness of railroad companies generally, and it is certainly a very commendable feature of the railroad business.

A Tramp Killed.

On the arrival of a freight train at Morganton, Saturday night, an unknown man, who it is supposed was stealing a ride, fell from between two box cars across the track while the cars were yet in motion, and was caught under the trucks and his body severed in two a little above the hips. He was not known to be on the train, and one single outcry of pain was the first intimation any one had of him. He had nothing on his person by which he could be identified—nothing, except an old barlow knife and a small piece of tobacco. Several cars passed over him. His death was instantaneous. He was about 50 years old.

A story is told of the winning conversational powers of the great Daniel Webster, to the effect that he easily obtained the endorsement of his wealthy friends on notes promising thousands of dollars; and when payday came, such friends would meet the demand and the great statesman go free. On one occasion a friend who had met an engagement called to see Mr. Webster to ask him to refund the amount. Mr. Webster received him most courteously, and entertained him with such consummate grace, that the creditor not only did not tell the object of his visit, but actually endorsed for him another note of five thousand dollars, and returned home rejoicing that Mr. Webster had not made it ten thousand instead of five.

If this story be true, it presents the great man in a very bad light. There is a vast difference between depriving a man of his property by force and obtaining it by flattering attentions; but the wrong in either case remains.

Terrible Floods and Loss of Life? We publish in this paper an account of the most destructive floods in Pennsylvania and Virginia known for many years. The destruction of human life is frightful, no less than two thousand persons having been swept into eternity in the short space of a few hours.

Decorating Gaves—May 30. The Veteran Association of New Haven, Conn., decorated the grave of the one Confederate soldier buried there. The Pickett Camp of Confederate soldiers, Harrison's home, and Dudley could walk all the way to Concord on bricks, making a step for every "block of five."

The Race Question. Rev. Mr. Vance, of the Second Presbyterian church of this city, in his sermon last Sunday, as reported in yesterday's Gazette, said: "Christianity changes neither the color of a man's skin, nor the structure of his brain. It does not make a white man black nor a black man white, and man cannot take out of his blood the race peculiarities which God, for some wise purpose, has put into it. Therefore the church is doing a work of supererogation, and a work, too, which can only result in disaster and failure, which it would disregard race character, and make 'brotherly love' mean the wiping out of all race distinctions."

Earthquake in Europe. PARIS, May 31.—A shock of earthquake was felt on the left bank of the Seine in this city to-day. LONDON, May 31.—Dispatches show that earthquake shocks were not only felt in the Channel Islands yesterday, but also in the Isle of Wight. Disturbances were also experienced in many towns on the mainland of both England and France. Among the places included are Portsmouth, Havant, Cherbourg, Havre, Rouen, Granville and Caer. No damage was done anywhere.

Obituary. Entered into the rest of Paradise, May 28th, at 10:30 a. m., Charles Montfort, son of James H. and Sallie W. McKenzie, aged one year, ten months and sixteen days. He was a bright child, the light of the home. But transplanted to fairer regions where there is no more pain and suffering. His expanding soul will take in the beauties of the Paradise of God, where all is joy and praise, and far better than the brightest things of earth.

The Durham Cox of this morning says: Yesterday Mr. Coy Jordan, of Raleigh, and his brother, left Red Mountain to come to Durham. When they reached Little river they found it very much swollen but undertook to cross. Their team began to sink and saved the wagon. They jumped out and saved the horse by cutting him out of the harness. The wagon floated on down and lodged against some obstruction. One of the Jordans swam out to the vehicle and got his books. It was a pretty close call. They saved everything but the wagon.—Raleigh Call, June 1.

Concerning the remarkable industrial growth of the South the New York Star says: "The first manifestations of this growth were almost contemporaneous with the end of the scandalous Republican misrule in the South. It has been pursued exclusively under Democratic administrations of the various Southern States and municipalities. It found its leaders in Democratic Southerners themselves, and so far as there is any real connection between politics and business it has been Democratic from the start."

The exodus of Italians from their native land has grown so great as to occasion alarm among the statesmen of that country. The official figures put the emigration of 1888, exclusive of those leaving the country temporarily, at 195,211 some provinces whose villages are depopulated, and large estates left without a single laborer. The Economist and Italia newspaper ascribes the exodus to excessive taxation and militarism. The high protective tariff discriminates against the farmer to a ruinous extent, and agricultural laborers are going elsewhere.

The turpentine ran out in a stream which extended as far as Broad River, three miles away. The people near at hand gathered it in large quantities, and it is said that some of them have enough to do for a lifetime.

McCORMICK TRIUMPHANT IN 1889 In Field Trials. The McCormick, at the opening of the present season, encountered a storm of detraction raised by its demoralized competitors, who depicted its wonderful abilities with more energy than regard to fact. But the season no sooner began than the reputation of the McCormick, instead of being clouded, shone out more brilliantly than ever before, and the banner of the "Best in the World" after passing through a campaign more arduous than has ever been previously experienced, now stands triumphantly over all. On its folds are emblazoned the following astonishing legend:
