

Self-Explanatory.
We clip this from the N. Y. Independent, of May 24, inst.

We have received the following letter from the priest in active charge of an important city parish:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE INDEPENDENT:

"As you appear singularly unware of the wonderful effects of St. Benedict's medal, the enclosed notice may induce you to hasten to Lafayette Place and furnish yourself with that efficacious safeguard. It will readily be understood how easy it is to escape all maladies, bodily and spiritual, by its use. Perhaps you might print it for the benefit of those who need the mighty blessings promised in the amazing little sheet. It is the seventh tract issued by that focus of illumination in the heart of this great city, and the vast harvest already reaped by the thrifty missions argues well for their veracious promises."

"If any person suffer henceforth from the plague, from prison, from lightning, storms at sea, hemorrhages, pleurisy, etc., it must be imputed to his want of faith in this lucrative invention. You will perceive that the use has been approved by three Popes, altho the special virtues which the tract ascribes to the medal may not claim infallible authority as a basis or guarantee to the investor. Like all speculations, from the days of Tetzter, there is some risk of failure in this mercenary enterprise."

We have been up to Lafayette Place and Great Jones Street and got the medal and the tract which tells the virtues. It is a magnificent house built out of the profits of the sale of indulgences and is the headquarters of a mission for children. The whole basement is taken up with offices for clerks who conduct the business. The medal, with the St. Joseph's card, costs a cent or two to manufacture, and all who will pay twenty-five cents for them are enrolled as members of St. Joseph's Union. But we hasten to the tract given with the medal, which is as follows:

"THE SEVENTH TRACT
PUBLISHED BY THE
MISSION OF THE IMMACULATE VIRGIN.

"Especially for the
MEMBERS OF ST. JOSEPH'S UNION.

"ST. BENEDICT'S MEDAL.

"The use of the medal was first approved by the Holy See and enriched with many indulgences by Apostolic letter of Pope Benedict XIV., on the 23rd of December, 1741. This approbation was afterwards confirmed, and more ample faculties were given for blessing the Medal by a Rescript of Pope Gregory XVI., on the 9th of February, 1844, and by a Brief of Pope Pius IX., on the 27th of June, 1856. (Here follows a description of the Medal.)

"EFFECT AND VIRTUE OF THE CROSS OR MEDAL OF ST. BENEDICT.

"1st. It is efficacious against sorcery and other diabolical works.

"2d. It is a protection to any one tempted, imposed upon, or harassed by the Devil.

"3d. Sinners are often converted through its use, particularly when in danger of death.

"4th. It helps to repel temptations, especially against holy purity, and by the divine help makes those who wear it chaste in heart and body."

"5th. It is a preservative against poison.

"6th. Against plague.

"7th. Against lightning.

"8th. In storms at sea.

"9th. It has often been found a remedy in falling sickness, hemorrhages, pleurisy and other diseases.

"10th. It frees cattle from plague or epidemic.

"HOW IT IS TO BE USED.

"To be worn on the neck or person.

"To be affixed to walls or doors, or found in the foundations of buildings.

"To be dipped in the drink of animals.

"PRAYERS TO BE RECITED.

"No particular form of prayers is enjoined, but all are earnestly advised to recite daily, or at least every Tuesday, Five Glorias in memory of the Sacred passion of our Lord. Three Aves in honor of the most Blessed Immaculate Virgin Mary, and Three Glorias to invoke the intercession of St. Benedict.

"From the numerous indulgences mentioned in the Official prophet on St. Benedict's Medal, published in Rome we extract the following.

"A Plenary Indulgence and remission of all sins on all the principal Festivals of the year, to all who, besides wearing St. Benedict's Medal are in the habit of reciting at least one-third part of the Rosary of the Blessed Virgin once a week, or of teaching the Christian doctrine, or of visiting the sick or those in prison, or of giving alms to the poor, etc., provided that on those days they go to Confession and Communion, and pray for the Pope's intentions.

"By decree of the Sacred Congregation Indulgences, Confession is not necessary for the gaining of these Indulgences to those who have the pious custom of confessing their sins once a week, and are in the state of grace.

"By special favor, we have received the privilege from the proper authorities in Rome to bless and indulge St. Benedict's Medal.

"REV. JAMES J. DOUGHERTY."

Now this is what Catholics are taught by authority of three popes and of Cardinal Corrigan. Remember that Cardinal Corrigan to-day approves teaching Catholics that wearing this medal is a protection against sorcery, poison, lightning, hemorrhages, pleurisy, and the diseases of cattle; and that it is well to affix it to walls or doors, or dip it in the drink of animals. This is the nineteenth century.

A Tribute to Lee.

Wilmington Messenger.

There is no American who ranks so high abroad for military genius as the incomparable Robert Edward Lee. Lord Wolsey places him among the great captains of war. The highest authority among English soldiers while living on war matters, the author of the famous "Battle of Dorking," in Blackwood's Magazine, gave it as his opinion that the three great soldiers of the English speaking race were Marlborough, Wellington and Lee. History will not alter the judgment, we do not believe, unless it should be what Napoleon said it was—"mostly fable."

A Boston house has been for years publishing the American Statesmen Series. We have heard read some half dozen or more volumes, and the best of all by far is Schurz's very able life of Henry Clay. Some of the volumes—eminent the one on Calhoun—are unfair, bitter and untrue and are burlesques really on biography. We have not seen the one on that very able native North Carolinian, Thomas Hart Benton. It is by a Republican, Theodore Roosevelt, now in the civil service reform commission. In his work he says this of the illustrious Southron, the very greatest man, as we steadfastly hold, ever born on this continent:

"The world has never seen better soldiers than those who followed Lee, and their leader will undoubtedly rank as without any exception the very greatest of all the great chieftains that the English speaking people have brought forth—and this, although the last and chief of his antagonists, may himself claim to stand as the full equal of Marlborough and Wellington."

He is right as to the soldiers of the South as he is in what he says of Lee. The men who wore the gray were among the best. They had the great quality of individual personal courage and knew how to stick, and among them all there were no soldiers who would "stand like a stone wall" more and make a more desperate charge than the 125,000 soldiers North Carolina sent to the front. The time will come and before fifty years when the North will be as proud of the splendid valor of the soldiers of the South as we are proud of them now. When this writer was a lad in the forties the prejudice against England was twenty times greater perhaps than it is now. No enlightened American hates England or is jealous of England or disparages her greatness now. We be brethren and her literature is the consolation and delight of all Americans who love the best and noblest.

Cotton Mills.

Manufacturers' Record.

The Montgomery Advertiser, having proposed the building of cotton factories in several Alabama towns, the Tuscaloosa Times expressed the fear that if so many factories were built there wouldn't be cotton enough produced to keep them all running.

If every cotton mill in the South were located in Alabama they would not consume the total production of cotton in that State; in fact, the Alabama cotton mills do not at present consume more than about four to five per cent. of the crop raised there. Alabama could build 300 or 400 large mills and still a part of its annual cotton crop would have to be shipped away to find a market. In 1880 the census reported over $207,000,000 invested in cotton manufactures in the United States, and the consumption of cotton by American mills, 1,570,342 bales. As Alabama produces about 700,000 or 800,000 bales of cotton a year, it would, on this basis, require an investment of upwards of $100,000,000 in cotton mills for the product of that State to be wholly manufactured at home. Three fourths of the entire annual cotton crop of the world is produced in the South. To manufacture the 10,000,000 to 11,000,000 bales of cotton which the world annually consumes requires about 80,000,000 spindles, of which Great Britain alone has 43,000,000. The one city of Oldham alone has 11,000,000 spindles, which is about 5 or 6 times as many as the entire South has, including the new mills that have lately gone into operation, and is not very much below the aggregate number of spindles in the United States, as the total for the North and South is only about 13,000,000 spindles. Great Britain, with its 43,000,000 spindles, consumes about 3,500,000 to 3,800,000 bales of cotton a year.

A Chinaman's Impressions.

A traveled Chinese mandarin, who has lately communicated his impressions of the West to his countrymen, deals with great peculiarity with the position and treatment of women in Europe. These surprise him beyond measure. Thus the notion of husband and wife walking arm and arm in public places fills him with amusement. "Nobody smiles at it," he says, "and even a husband may perform any mental task in his wife's presence, yet no one will laugh at him." Then again, the notice of men standing aside to let a woman pass, and the code of politeness which requires men to make way for a woman, are to him incomprehensible. In China when the men are gorged the women dine off the scraps, but in the West "at meal-time the men must wait until the women are seated, and then take one after another their places, and the same rule must be observed when the meal is finished."

Double Crops.

Why not make at least a part of the farm yield double or treble crops in one year? It would be equivalent to having the use of the land one or two years without taxation, for only one crop is usually grown on an acre taxed for the year. The season is long enough for two or three crops in nearly all parts of the United States. Oats or corn and peas, can be followed profitably by turnips, grass, or a soiling crop. But do not hope to accomplish this without making the land very fertile. Quick crops will not grow on poor soil.

Have you a field of oats growing on good ground? Don't be afraid to put an extra bag or two of phosphate on it or more manure, even if the grain has begun to wave. When the oats are in the milk harden your heart and put in the mowing machine. They will make the best of hay, and nothing will make more milk when fed to cows. Let no time be lost after they are cut, but rip up the soil and sow turnips in a mellow seed bed at once. This is an especially good plan to pursue if the piece were seeded and did not "catch." It can be seeded again with turnips, and there are few crops better to seed with. There is no crop a farmer can raise which will make less work, cost less, and impoverish the farm less, for the amount of money it brings, than the common strait-laced turnip, and where it follows another crop the same season the profits are even greater speaking of the crop purely as a means to direct money.

A Strange Bird.

A bird differing considerably from anything of the kind ever seen around here was on exhibition on the streets here Wednesday. It was about the size and shape of a goose, web footed and legs considerably longer, which enabled it to stand straight up. Its body feathers were speckled much like a guinea, only they were much more glossy and beautiful. Its bill was long and sharp, like a crane's, and it had a vicious look out of its little red eyes. A beautiful ring of black and white polka dot feathers made a charming collar for its graceful neck, and a nice set off for its glossy blue black head. This rare avian was caught by Green Tatterton, who was working on Mr. J. T. Perdue's place. He says it showed fight both towards him and the mule he was plowing with until he knocked it down with a stick. The strange bird attracted no little attention and numbers of names were suggested for it, but no one seemed to know exactly what it was.—Quintman (Ga.) Press.

Do Scorpions Commit Suicide?

Lately M. Serge Noirkiff, of Constantinople, caught half a dozen scorpions, he says, and deliberately put the question to the test. Arranging on the floor a circle of glowing charcoal, having no break in it, a scorpion was placed in the center. Although the scorpion being injured or even incensed by the heat if it remained in the middle, the animal, finding itself surrounded by fire, began to look about for the means of escape. At first its movements were slow, but they soon increased, and finally it raced in a frantic fashion around the inner circumference of the charcoal. After racing for some time in this manner, it returned to the center of the ring, and deliberately plunging its sting into its back, put an end to its life in a few seconds, after a few convulsive movements. The remaining five were tried successively in the same way, and each with a like result.—Paris La Nature.

Catfish are Good Mothers.

Dr. Abbott, of Trenton, is a warm admirer of the catfish, not so much on account of its culinary excellence as because the females of the tribe are good mothers. He has studied the habits of the fish long and carefully, and he knows this to be a fact. He says that on one occasion he captured an entire brood of little catfish in a hand net, letting their mother, who was swimming with them, escape. She would not leave the spot where she had been bereaved, and when the doctor put the fry into a glass jar and placed it in the river where she could see it, she dashed herself furiously against the obstacle that separated her from her young ones. When the jar was drawn slowly from the water she followed it to the surface, and then absolutely left the river and wriggled twelve inches up the sloping beach in her frantic efforts to recover her progeny.—New York Sun.

Concerning the figures of the entire Jewish population on the globe there is a difference of opinion among the statisticians, but the "Annual" declares that France contains 63,000; Germany, 262,000, of whom 39,000 inhabit Alsace and Lorraine; Austria-Hungary, 1,444,000, of whom 688,000 in Hungary proper; Italy, 40,000; Netherlands, 82,000; Roumania 265,000; Russia, 2,552,090; (Russian Poland, 768,000; Turkey, 105,000; Belgium, 3,000; Bulgaria, 10,000; Switzerland, 7,000; Denmark, 5,000; Spain, 1,000; Gibraltar, 15,000; Greece, 3,000; Serbia, 3,500; Sweden, 3,000; In Asia there are 300,000 of the race; Turkey in Asia has 195,000, of whom 35,000 are in Palestine, 47,000 are in Russian Asia, 18,000 in Persia, 14,000 in Asia, 1,000 in India, and 1,000 in China.

A Bad Affair.
Yesterday morning a sad accident occurred about four miles west of Davidson College. Two children of John M. Henry, a boy about 12 years old and a little sister aged 7 years, were going out to work early in the morning, and as crows were quite troublesome, the boy loaded up his shot gun and carried it with him. As the two were wending their way along, the boy in front, and the girl followed closely behind, she asked him if that gun was loaded. Almost at the same instant the boy was about to change the gun to the other shoulder, when his hand accidentally caught on the trigger, discharging the entire load in the breast of the little girl, causing death instantly.—Charlotte News.

Sam Jones in Southern Virginia.
The tenth day of Sam Jones's preaching here showed undiminished interest on the part of thousands attending the meetings. The tabernacle was overflowing with people from the city and surrounding country within 100 miles. Over 600 professions of conversion were made, including a number of the most prominent business men.—Lynchburg Advance.

It is well for Connecticut that it has adopted a reform system of voting. The ballot will be secret and it is to be hoped that it will deter the monopolists and bosses from intimidating operatives and other working people from voting as they may elect. What the precise system is that has just been passed by the Senate after passing the House, we are not informed, but suppose it is based on the Australian, if modified. Before the war in Virginia, the viva voce law prevailed. Candidates sat upon an elevated rostrum or judge's bench in the court house. When farmer Jones or merchant Smith came to the polls, he was asked for whom he voted. He called out, Randolph or Goode. Then Mr. Randolph arose and making a profound bow said, "I thank you, Mr. Jones." This was repeated for every voter. This was a mainly open system. But since the era of monopoly and systematic bulldozing of workmen in the North by the capitalists a secret system is a necessity. A man can vote for whom he prefers and no man can know and cannot therefore molest or punish him as is the case now.—Wil. Messenger.

Dr. Talmage says: The Church, if it would do its duty, could convert the world in ten years. It has the men and money. "Perhaps so," says the Independent, "but it must turn over a new leaf of generosity very soon if it is going to undertake so great and speedy a task.
