It therefore becomes necessary to begin the work, and to that end the Commissioner of Agriculture invites suggestions and designs, which he intends, as far as practical, to publish in the Bulletin of the Department, with the view of present ing the subject before those who may in tend to build now, or at some future time. In doing this, the wide range of financial ability existing amonst our people must be taken into consideration. There must be suggestions for those who can only spend $300, as well as those with more ample means,

In the subjoined sketches, which are to be viewed in the light of suggestions, are to be found plans intended to meet the wants of those who are called "well-to-

When I see a person habitually refuse onions at the table from fastidiousness about their smell, I am serry for her and for the camel that is doomed to be swall lowed by the one who strains at a gnat. While listening to the plan he floor for something he seemed to have a lowed by the constant use made of it in soups, chowders, meat dressings and composites. If any do not like onions, it will pay to cultivate the taste. In several fountries of Europe, onions with bread corm a staple diet for the laboring people, the two articles being a match in strengthing infectant among the waste tissues of inter man, are too obvions to need more than a mention. An all round argument lies in the fact, that Americans are the most nervous of nations, and onions the best of nerve food. Allowing celery as a nervous of nations, and onions the best of nerve food. We are now inclined to reverse our opinion on this point, all at once, but will leave the question open, and judgment suspended, until more light is afforded from the most exact experiments. In passing, however, we will say that in our own exper lience we have uniformly got better results from the use of rotten cotton seed, that corn does not require nitrogeno ? If but a small amount of fertilizer is to be applied to corn, say less than ten bushels, of cotton seed, or its equivalent, it is probably best to make but one applycation, and that at the time of planting, taking care to scatter the manure around the seed, instead of drodping it in a lump in one spot. But if liberal manuring is contemplated, we advise two applications. This advice is not based on the theory that the plant says: 'I hold all the winning cards, and the husband and wife being first, secwill take up the manure before it is need. when I get ready I will simply lean over ond and third cousins.
