We will take pleasure in publishing any appointments, announcements, or other matter for ministers in Salisbury, Rowan or adjoining counties. This paper stands ready to do anything for the public good.

In the interesting letter by Larry O. Gilmer from Winston last week a number of glaring typographical errors appear. Larry O. Gilmer was not responsible for these errors; he did not write it as it was printed. The real criminal was in this office; it wasn't the proof-reader either.

Dr. J. E. Griffith left last night to attend the bedside of his father, W. A. Griffith, Esq., in Forsyth county. Mr. Griffith has been suffering with heart disease for some weeks and yesterday's telegram stated that death was hourly expected. Owing to the sickness of his father Dr. Griffith has been unable to attend to his professional work for some time.

The Grip and Pneumonia. The grip and pneumonia is still on the grounds. A great many have one or both. We learn that many people in the western part of Rowan are sick, some cases have been fatal, but generally where proper care has been taken the patients get well.

The Stock Exchange. Business has been quite lively on the stock grounds this week. Owing to the great amount of mud operations have been confined to good stock. The plugs could not travel over our roads, hence but few of that kind have been offered. The market closed firm last night with a bright prospect for May futures.

More Light. We hear some complaint about the lights being put out so early at night. One of our citizens who has to stay at his place of business late don't like to see his lights on the boats with no light. The "Dolphin," which runs on Enniss street, ran into a small schooner last night and came near upsetting it. The pilot of the schooner block made boating extremely dangerous anyway on our streets.

Now For a Furniture Factory. Dropping into the First National Bank the other day, our attention was called to the new furniture of the bank, including desks, tables, &c. Naturally thinking that they were the product of some northern factory, we inquired where they were made, when the cashier informed us that they were the handiwork of R. M. Davis, Esq.

It is certainly gratifying to know that such skill can be commanded at our very doors, and the thought naturally suggests itself, why not start a furniture factory here in Salisbury? With Mr. Davis as manager it could be made a paying proposition, and thus the large quantity of hard woods that are to be found in our neighborhood could be made a source of great revenue.

Let the furniture factory be inaugurated along with the other industries that are taking shape in our community.

In Memoriam. WHEREAS, The Supreme Being in His all-wise providence has seen fit to call Miranda Alliance No. 331 to mourn the death of a beloved brother, W. A. McLaughlin, who died January 25th, 1891.

The Late Crop of Irish Potatoes. There is an increase of interest in various parts of the country in the matter of Southern grown Irish potatoes for seed.

Notes From Yost's School House. The roads are in a terrible condition. At our Alliance meeting on the 15th $50 was placed in the hands of the finance committee to buy goods with.

Immense quantities of copper and iron ore have been discovered near Baker City, in the western part of this State. Philadelphia capitalists are interested in this property.

A syndicate of southern and northern capitalists are negotiating for the purchase of gold, iron, marble, talc and other mineral lands on Valley river, near Murphy, and will organize a company to develop same.

The public is hereby warned from buying the following certificates of stocks, the same having been raised from the original issue fraudulently: Pay Rock No. 1, 689 of 100 shares raised to 10,000; Big Six No. 86, of 100 shares to 8,000; Legal Tender No. 802 raised to 8,000 shares, and Amity No. 169 raised to 6,000. The crooked work, we are informed, was done by some person or persons either in Kansas City or St. Louis. Look out for them.—Denver Mining Journal.

A process called freezing has been employed on Iron Mountain, Mich., by the Chapin Mining Company. In mines where, after sinking the shaft to a considerable depth, it frequently happens that quicksands cause a good deal of trouble; this process does away with a great many difficulties. The process briefly stated is this: Twenty-six wrought iron pipes, of 8 inch diameter, are sunk to or slightly into the ledge through the overlying strata of quicksand, gravel and boulders; the pipes are arranged in a circle, averaging three feet six inches center to center, and inside, extending nearly to the bottom of each, is a smaller pipe, one and one-half inches in diameter. These pipes are connected at the surface with an ice machine and with circulating pumps maintaining a constant circulation of brine through the entire system. The brine is cooled by the ice machine to an average temperature of about zero, Fahr. This intense cold maintained in the ground pipes results in a circular wall of frozen quicksand enclosing the proposed shaft. Ultimately the ground is frozen solid to the center of the shaft.

The resulting material, frozen quicksand, resembles a compact sandstone, showing considerable strength when in the cement tester, and has to be excavated as if it were rock.

The excavation and subsequent timbering are carried on inside the circle of pipes in every way as if in solid rock, water penetrating the frozen material. The shaft lining is of timber, suspended from above according to the plans of the Chapin Mining Company, and is put in exactly the desired position, the solid nature of the excavation permitting a perfect alignment.

In this manner the shaft is successfully sunk, where previous attempts by other methods have proved costly failures both in point of time and money.—Mining Record.
