Live Stock Notes. Don't breed more cows than you can properly care for.

It is poor policy to keep pigs of all ages and sizes together.

The wool clip of New Mexico for this year is estimated at 15,000,000 pounds.

When you find a bull to head your herd that suits you, buy him. Don't gamble over a few dollars.

It is estimated that 180,000 lambs between four and eight weeks of age were marketed last season.

See that the sows about to farrow are not left out on cold nights, and a lot of dead or dying pigs found in the morning.

Don't stire the young sows you intend to breed soon. Oats, wheat, middlings and a little oil-cake will be much better for them than heavy corn feeding.

The custom house officials at Philadelphia have seized 150 bales of wool that had been entered as "cattle hair."

Good draft horses, roasters, or work horses are always in demand at good prices and with care in the selection of the breed-stock, may be raised as cheaply as common pigs.

In selling fat wethers each one must decide for himself whether the money is in shearing or selling unshorn. We know flock-masters who hold there is just as much money in selling with the wool on.

In selecting mares for this season's breeding, get those that are sound, healthy and vigorous, of good form, size and disposition, then breed them to a vigorous, thrifty stallion of some of the better breeds.

The Conductor's Poem.

Some time since a general manager found out that one of his conductors was running short in the north reports a small amount every trip.

"I want to know if your salary is large enough for you to pay your own board," said the conductor to the general manager.

"I shall have to pay my board without any salary for the matter," was the conductor's reflection to himself.

Much to the conductor's surprise the manager told him to take out his train, but not to charge his board to the company again.
