Who Will it Be?

There is a good deal of debate as to whether or not Mr. Cleveland's letter on the silver question will hurt his chances for the nomination in 1892. Neither Mr. Cleveland nor Mr. Harrison will be the next President. No man in either party who holds the same views may expect it. Mr. Harrison endorsed the McKinley tariff monstrosity and the force bill. Mr. Cleveland holds views on the silver question that will forever keep him out of the Presidential chair.

The Progressive Farmer.

The Progressive Farmer has entered on a new volume and celebrates its 5th anniversary by enlarging two columns, a new outfit of type and new head. The columns have been made wider, are as wide as the WATCHMAN columns now. It has been a power for good and we hope that it may do even greater good than ever before.

The attack upon Bro. Beddingfield is unceded for. He lived but six miles from Raleigh, near a railroad station. He wanted to be with his family every night. It was a rough trip by private conveyance in all kinds of weather. He asked for low rates on the Raleigh & Gaston road, so he could ride in and out every day on the train. Every man has a right to do that and thousands do it. Hence the racket is uncalled for.

Bro. S. O. Wilson, representing the State Business Agency, will be at Statesville next Monday. We hope Iredell people will turn out to hear him. He talks business when on that line, but is one of the most entertaining speakers in the State on Alliance principles, also. Come and hear him. It will do you good.

MANY names have been brought out for railroad commissioners. Capt. W. S. Harris, of Raleigh, a thorough Allianceman and one of the best of men in every respect, would make a good commissioner. Gentlemen, don't overlook Capt. Harris.

WE suggest that the citizens of Raleigh give the members of the legislature a grand possum hunt when the session ends. Possums have dens all over the city and enjoy the darkness made darker by the electric light.

OHIO and Iowa State Alliances will be organized in a few days. Each of those States having reached the requisite number of county Alliances. The proclamation has been issued.

The Charlotte Chronicle has begun the job of making the Catawba river navigable. At least it says it can be done. Let her go, Gallagher.

The present legislature is controlled by Alliance citizens. They may make mistakes, but they will get there all the same.

THE Senate at Raleigh has passed a bill appropriating $10,000 for a geological survey of our State.

We notice, remarks the New York Daily Press, that some of our contemporaries pretend to poke fun at the Farmers' Alliance. The movement is one that, however faulty some of its aims and questionable the methods of certain promoters, deserves respectful attention, and that the press proposes to give it. Whatever the essential wrong may be that has aroused a vast body of farmers to an emphatic political protest, the cheap wit of this newspaper indicates a comprehension as shortsighted as it is puerile of grave and momentous issues.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Postur of Ohio for Secretary of Treasury - The Nicaragua Canal - Free Coinage in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23, 1891. - Mr. Harrison's nomination of ex-Congressman and ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, to be Secretary of the Treasury, caused no astonishment here. It had leaked out several days ago that his nomination had been determined upon. The nomination, generally speaking, has been favorably received.

The republicans regard it as one of the very best that could have been made, both from a financial and a political standpoint. They expect the new secretary to take up and carry out the financial policy which the late Secretary Windom and Mr. Harrison inaugurated, and they also expect him to greatly strengthen their party in various ways in which the late secretary, who wasn't much of a politician, would not have done had he lived. Don't understand me to mean that Mr. Foster is expected to help his party by means not considered legitimate. The idea is simply that Mr. Foster is a practical politician, while Mr. Windom was not.

The democrats do not criticize Mr. Foster's ability as a business man and financier, but some of them express the fear that he will turn the Treasury department into an immense political machine, such as they say it was under that other distinguished son of Ohio, John Sherman.

The friends of the free coinage of silver are not displeased with the nomination of Mr. Foster, although they know him to be opposed to free coinage. They say that they believe him to be very conservative in all of his ideas, owing to his being a practical business man himself, and they think he stands very near where Mr. Windom stood on silver; that is, he will favor the white metal as much as possible under the present laws. Of course they would have preferred that a friend of free coinage should have filled the position, but they had no hope of that, and are very well satisfied to know that a single gold standard man was not selected.

Aside from political feeling Mr. Foster's nomination gives great satisfaction here, where he has many warm personal friends, made during the four terms he served in the House.

The bill making this government the endorser of $100,000,000 of the bonds of the Nicaragua Canal Company, has been the cause of a somewhat spirited debate in the Senate, and strange to say its bitterest opponent and its strongest defender are both democrats, being respectively Senators Vest and Morgan. The lobby that has manipulated this bill has done its work well. It has surrounded it with mystery and Senators upon the floor hint at secret reasons for its passage in a manner that would be almost amusing if it did not involve the possible loss of a very large sum of money. For instance, Senator Morgan, who is a member of the committee that unanimously reported, said that the reason for the committee's reporting it at this stage of the session was its great importance and further that the committee had no alternative. The questions naturally arise, why has it suddenly come so important? and why did the committee have no alternative? There is one consolation, when the bill gets to the House, which has no executive sessions to mystify the country, there are members who will insist on having these questions answered before voting to put more money into a similar position to that invested in the Pacific railroads.

The democrats in the House are again filibustering, and unless they stop or the republicans get and keep a quorum of their own party here, extra sessions will go bobbing again. There's lots to be done on the regular appropriation bills, and there's very little time left to do it in. It is easy to tell that we are on the eve of a presidential campaign. All the usual variations are being rung on the chimes of public opinion. Senator Gorman is a candidate, Senator Gorman is not a candidate, Mr. Cleveland is a candidate, Mr. Cleveland is not a candidate, Mr. Harrison and Mr. Blaine ditto, ditto. These stories serve their purpose by bringing out the friends and enemies of the parties named, and in that way really do have some effect upon the prospects of the candidates, besides that they make interesting reading for the people.

A group of Alliance Representatives-elect, which includes Jerry Simpson, may be seen at the capitol daily. They are learning the ropes, and they are proving apt scholars.

The free coinage bill has been reported adversely to the House, but the delay is what has killed it and not the adverse report. Prominent democrats are accused of bad faith by the friends of free coinage.

Alliance News.

When Cleveland voted the silver bill, his signature signed the emancipation of Alliancemen from his further support. The farmers are debating measures, not men.

The Alliancemen of Oglethorpe county have established, with a large capital, a co-operative store at Antioch, under the management of a board of directors. They are selling a great many goods. - Southern Alliance Farmer.

For the next eighteen months the Alliancemen in Georgia must devote to organizing and strengthening their ranks. Let the politicians do the wrangling, and when the time comes the farmers will attend to the voting part. - Southern Alliance Farmer.

It is True.

A writer in the Southern Alliance says:

We have arrived at a crisis in the progress of our organization, and a crisis that demands our utmost care, prudence and wisdom to steer safely through. The alliance and kindred organizations have accomplished much good. We are a power that is being felt and acknowledged. The cloud that was no bigger than a man's hand is descending in showers of unity and brotherly love, and has penetrated the very strong-holds of political bosses and money powers, causing a quaking of fear and trembling. The enemy has quit haunting us with scorn as a insignificant little clan of "wood-hut boys" of the "Jonah gourd vine" order, but they are not asleep. They find to their dismay that persecution and ridicule and sarcasm only makes us grow the stronger. So they have changed their tactics and assumed the role of friendship - even brotherhood in some instances. Here the great danger lies. The "wolf in sheep's clothing" once inside the fold can and will work our ruin - our death. The enemy can't hurt us from without, and this they well know; but if they can once get within our ranks, with their professions of friendship, they have a strong hold, and they will not be slow to use it. I am led to these reflections by noticing in the public prints a secret caucus held at the Governor's mansion the 5th inst., where the editor of our State organ is openly, and some of our leaders are covertly arraigned, condemned and executed without a hearing, and by a secret self-constituted tribunal. Brethren, if our State organ or leaders have done wrong, or are derelict in their duties, in any sense they are amenable to our order, not to an unauthorized, self-constituted caucus, we have a regular tribunal to try them, where each sub-alliance is represented, and where they can have a fair, honest and impartial trial and where they surely will be condemned, if they are guilty.

New Plan for Disposing of the Cotton Crop.

Several weeks ago Representative Anderson, of Hertford county, was requested by the Winton Alliance to formulate a plan for disposing of the cotton crop, and we find in the Wilmington Messenger of the 17th, the following synopsis of the plan which Mr. Anderson submitted:

It provides for a division of the cotton States into districts, and that in these conventions of the Alliance be held, composed of delegates from each Alliance, which elect an agent at a cotton port, who shall be a member of the Alliance. A finance committee will also be elected, which is to make arrangements for the advance of money on cotton shipped to such agents, the advance to be the largest amount possible and at a low rate of interest; the cotton States to elect a general supervisor of the agencies, with headquarters at some central point, who is to keep himself thoroughly informed as to the state of the foreign market and by that regulate the movement of cotton put upon the market each day, and he is to be given power to hold all cotton for any number of days; in so doing he shall confer with all port agents; the latter agents shall secure warehouses, etc., any planter shall be permitted to ship cotton to the Alliance agents whether they are or are not members of the Alliance. It is proposed that some Southern city and not New York, shall be made the great cotton market of the country.

The Two Alliances and their Common Enemy.

As is well known there are two distinct organizations in the United States known as the Farmers' Alliance. The aims and purposes of both are identical, and they are ready to co-operate with each other in the advancement of their common interests. Both realize the necessity of such co-operation. One of the schemes of the enemy at this time is to prevent this and to sow the seed of discord in their midst. This has been apparent for some time. The plan will fail, however, just as every other nefarious scheme has failed. The people representing the great industrial interests of this country are coming together, and they propose in the future to have something to say in relation to the policy of their government. Plutocracy has brought us to the verge of ruin, and despite the efforts of the plutocratic press, the co-operation of industrial organizations will not interrupt or progress of their work be retarded. They are marshalling their forces for the great struggle of 1892, and all the perfidious schemes of the enemy will not prevent their solid support of a common cause against a common foe. - Topka Advocate.

The Reason for Free Coinage Terely Stated.

Up to the coinage act of '73, history demonstrated that silver bullion was at a parity with gold at 16 to 1, and at premiums over gold at other stands, as the 15 to 1 of Europe, the 15 to 1 of India, made about 3 and 6 per cent. premium, respectively.

History also proves that England and Germany combined failed to reduce the price of silver bullion one-sixteenth of one cent until aided by the treacherable act of 1873.

History also proves that England has been endeavoring to produce wheat and cotton in India at such prices as to drive out the European markets a portion of our wheat and cotton, and reduce their price to our own markets.

History proves that from 1875, when the act of treason was first made public, to 1890, England has purchased our silver bullion at an advance of about 95 cents per oz. and selling it later rapes for India at about $1.35 per ounce giving her about 49 cents an ounce advantage over our producers.

How can an American claim to be loyal to this government and oppose free coinage? - L. G. Jeffers in Silver Dollar.

State Sunday School Convention.

We have before us a copy of the programme for the Tenth Annual Convention of the North Carolina State Sunday School Association, to be held in Fayetteville March 24, 25 and 26 next. We notice that this convention will be attended by Mr. William Reynolds, of Peoria, Ill., President of the Fifth International Sunday School Convention, and who is now Superintendent of Organization for the International Sunday School Association. It will also be attended by Mrs. Wilbur F. Crafts, President of the International Primary Teachers Union, and one of the most prominent writers of Primary Teachers Lesson Helps. Mrs. Crafts will not take part in the work of the Convention proper, but will hold separate meetings and conferences for persons interested in Primary Sunday School Teaching.

She will present some of the following topics: Seven Lamps of Teaching, Ways of Working in the Primary Class, Next Sabbath Lesson Taught to a Class, Temperance Teaching Conversion and Christian Culture of Children, Principles of Instruction applied to the current International Lessons.

We also notice upon the programme the following well known persons: Judge R. P. Dick, of Greensboro, and Mr. N. B. Broughton, of Raleigh, will respond to the address of welcome made by the several pastors of the churches in Fayetteville.

Addresses will be made as follows: "The week day of the Sunday School," by Rev. J. J. Hall, D. D., pastor of Tabernacle Baptist church, Raleigh. "Our Work and Our Reward," by Rev. Robert E. Peelle, pastor of Brooklyn Baptist church, Wilmington. "Illustrating or Lighting up a Lesson," by Rev. Dr. J. F. Crowell, President of Trinity College.

"The application of certain Secular Methods to Sunday Schools," by Prof. G. T. Adams, Principal of New Bern College, Beaufort.

"Discusses incident to Sunday School Teachers' Work," by Rev. Dr. B. F. Dixon, President of Greensboro Female College.

"Lesson Helps and the Teachers need to use them," by Rev. F. A. Bishop, pastor of Main Street Methodist church, Durham.

"The Training of Christian Children," by Rev. J. P. Barrett, editor of the Christian Sun, Raleigh.

"How to teach International Sunday School Lesson of April 5th '91 to a class of Adults," A practical demonstration, by Dr. C. A. Rominger, Reidsville.

"The following topics will be presented: "Temperance Work in the Sunday School," by N. B. Broughton, of Raleigh. "Sunday School Evangelization," by Mr. J. H. Southgate, of Durham. "Conventions and Institutes," by Prof. H. C. Dunn, of Concord.

"Woman's Mission Aid," by Prof. S. Blair, of Hertford Co.

A large number of singers, a combination of all the choirs of Fayetteville will contribute largely to the music for the Convention.

Reduced rates of fare on all the railroads of the State have been secured.

State News.

Asheville Journal: Mrs. W. A. Blair, wife of W. A. Blair, of the firm of Blair & Brown died last night of peritonitis.

Durham Sun: Mrs. J. W. Shepherd died at her residence in this place between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning, after several days of extreme illness.

Gold-boro Argus: Two of Mr. R. M. Johnson's children, in this city, got out to the wood-pile Monday and undertook to cut wood with an axe. One of them cut the other on the head very badly.

Winston Sentinel: The mad dog mentioned in this column yesterday, bit five other dogs before he was killed. Three of these dogs were shot this morning, and the other two will be slain tomorrow morning.

Carthage Blade: A petition was circulated on our streets last Saturday evening by the Legislature to save the tax payers that $2,000 bonus give to the public contractor. It received numerous signatures.

Laurinburg Exchange: There is an unusually great demand for fertilizers this year. - Wiley Oats colored, gets six months in jail for selling liquor, because he confessed to the truth instead of preparing himself.

Raleigh Capital: We are reliably informed that the $50,000 for the additional endowment of Wake Forest College, being raised by Dr. Taylor in consideration of 27,000 acres of land, is nearly completed, and that the whole amount will be raised by 1st of March, as was provided in the proposition.

Though we have faith in the future of intelligent fig culture in North Carolina, and are doing all we can to encourage their growth, we were not exactly prepared for the wide-spread interest in this matter that has been awakened by our previous Bulletin on this subject. Applications for figs have rushed in upon us from all parts of the State. We are propagating all we can and will distribute this spring to those parts of the State best adapted to this fruit, and hope by another season to be more fully able to supply the calls upon us. We are now propagating forty varieties, out of which we hope some will be found of value in this State. We are pleased to see the interest in this matter and will do all that we can to make the fruit division of the N. C. Station of practical use to our growers. - W. F. E. Mossey, Horticulturist, N. C. Experiment Station.

The Bulletins of the Experiment Station at Raleigh, as far as possible, are illustrated by numerous cuts to accompany the descriptive matter. An illustration oftentimes will be greater value than a page of type.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing and disgusting of the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

Bulletin 73 of the N. C. Experiment Station is a volume of 100 pages, on the "Best Agricultural Grasses." There are 23 full-page cuts of grasses; 29 figures showing illustrations of grass seeds and additional illustrations to increase the value of descriptive matter. It is sent to all names on the mailing list of the Station and others in the State free of charge. To those outside of the State, 10 cents will be charged. Apply to the Experiment Station at Raleigh for it.

Rich Fork Baptist church, near Thomasville, is without a pastor. Messrs. J. H. Mills, J. W. Canally and J. B. Fitzgerald are the committee having the matter of securing a pastor in charge.
