

THURSDAY, SEPT. 24, 1891.

Col. Harry Skinner will speak on Thursday of Fair week.

The Institute opened with sixty-three teachers in attendance.

Brother Ohio Wilson, assistant Business Agent, was in the city last Saturday.

The cotton weigher is now generally found around his platform.

Jim Cook is coming to see the balloon ascension during Fair week.

Mr. Sam Pemberton, Esq., of Asheville, was in the city yesterday.

Miss Fannie Howard is visiting her father and his family in Asheville.

Prof. McVey will lecture to-morrow on education and politics. Hear him.

Jim Cook says our first next month will be a success. Of course it will, why not?

Mr. Lewis H. Hoyle, of Mt. Pleasant, is visiting his brother, Mr. D. H. Hoyle, of this city.

Salisbury is filled with a set of people who love to honor, viz: school teachers.

Mr. John H. Walton, of this county, had his tobacco barn full of fine tobacco in the city last Friday.

Julius Arnold and Solicitor Long passed through this city last Friday night for their homes in Statesville.

Have you gotten any of your neighbors to subscribe for the WATCHMAN yet? If not don't give them any rest until they do.

A lawn party was given Tuesday night at Mrs. J. F. Gaskill's, by the Children's Missionary Society of the Methodist church.

Mr. Geo. D. Pender returned home from Catawba College last Tuesday night. He attended the teachers' institute, and will probably teach this winter.

A fire-kettle exploded at Mr. D. L. Gaskill's tobacco factory last Friday. Luckily no one was in the room at the time or he would have been scalded to death.

The WATCHMAN wants a correspondent at every point in Rowan and adjoining counties. Will make it satisfactory with anyone who has any patriotism in his bones.

We received an article from Maj. W. A. Graham explaining his position on the national bank, but as the first page had been overlooked it cannot be published this week.

The WATCHMAN will publish 2,000 papers Fair week containing a full account of the Fair and everything connected with it. Don't forget to put in an advertisement.

Mr. Joe McNeely, who has been clerking for Liffman & Lichtenstein, left Monday for Asheville where he will clerk in the large dry goods establishment of P. P. Minnigh.

We received a communication from Craven, this week, which did not contain the name of the writer. We will invariably refuse to publish letters without the proper signature.

Hon. G. W. Sanderlin, who was to speak to the farmers at the Fair, will, it is reported, not be able to fill his appointment on account of the shock he received at the Statesville wreck.

A string of wagons came in town Tuesday morning, bringing for y babies of cotton from the upper part of the county.

Mr. J. F. McCubbins bought the entire lot, paying 8 cents per pound for it.

Salisbury will soon have better facilities at the express office. The delivery and driver will be consolidated into one. A new man will be put on the force for night. These things have been needed for some time.

Mr. Chas. L. Brown and Miss Ellen Holshouser, both of Rockwell, passed through here Monday morning en route for Virginia. Mr. Charlie goes to Roanoke College and Miss Ellen to Marion Seminary.

Rev. Samuel Rothrock, D. D., of Gold Hill, passed through here Tuesday morning en route for Forsyth county. He is a venerable man, but he said he was going to visit an older sister, who is about 96 years of age.

Two daughters of Dr. Pesham, of Wilmington, are now pupils at the Lutherau Female Seminary, at Mt. Pleasant, an evidence that this learned gentleman holds that school as being superior in educational advantages.

Messrs. John Gorman and Sam Wiley rode down to Concord last week on their bicycles in 2 hours and 45 minutes, and not in 2 minutes and 45 seconds, as stated in the Chronicle. This is pretty good riding for amateurs.

We make our humble bow to Mrs. C. M. Miller for some very large peas sent us. They were the size of a large man's fist. We suggest that she bring some of that size to the Fair, for we know they will take a premium.

Many readers of this paper will be pained to learn of the death of Mr. C. A. Starr, at his home in Guilford, last Sunday. He was a bright young man who graduated at Catawba College last spring. He was preparing for the ministry and had preached several sermons in this county. He was looked up to by his church as soon to be one of her brightest and best preachers.

Mr. H. N. Craven, formerly of this town, but late of the R. & D. postal clerk system, has been spending some time in the city this week. He is walking on crutches, the result of a wreck which he was in near Danville.

Be sure you see the advertisement of J. J. E. Myers in this issue. He has something of importance to the farmers in this section. He is known personally by our editor, and is perfectly reliable. This is an Alliance enterprise, being operated by money raised by counties.

The Postoffice Department at Washington will receive bids for the letting of the star and steamboat routes through-out North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky from now until December 1st, 1891. The contracts will continue good for four years, going into operation July 1st, 1892.

The Southern Inter-State Exposition at Raleigh begins next Thursday. This will no doubt be one of the grandest affairs ever held in this State, and will be largely attended. Every product grown in North Carolina will be represented, and no pains will be spared to show that she is one of the grandest and best States in the Union in natural resources.

Salisbury Street Improvement. Some time has been passed since the bonds were placed on the market. Owing to the flooded market the bonds could not be sold. But at last this point has been passed over. Messrs. N. E. & James McCausland take bonds to the amount of $25,000. Arrangements have been made that they can get the others upon the same condition. Salisbury will have macadamized streets very soon. Work will begin on the street just as soon as possible. Our hope is that it will be soon. Let the good work go on. Gradually we rise, if a little behind the tide.

Honors to a North Carolinian. Mr. D. M. Luther, the clever and obliging postal clerk of the W. N. C. R. R. returned home last Monday night from the meeting of the National Convention of Postal Clerks at Thousand Isle, N. Y. Mr. Luther has long been noted for his shrewdness and great common sense. In this meeting he made for himself and North Carolina a name. He was an earnest worker and occupied the floor more times and longer than any other man present. Postmaster General Wamaker and many other prominent men were present. His work was highly esteemed by his brother clerks.

An Honorary Badge was offered by Mrs. W. H. Warner and several other ladies of New York City, for the best speech made at the convention. We are proud to say that this North Carolinian has the honor to wear this badge. Mr. Luther is a native of Buncombe county. He had the chance of a seat offered him in the legislature but he refused.

Death of Father Gerard. The congregation of the Church of the Sacred Heart was sad last Sunday night, extremely sad. The evening services had just closed and the crowd was dispersing when it was announced by a telegram that their pastor, Rev. Father Gerard, was dead. Inside the church could be heard the plaintive sobs of many persons.

Rev. Father Gerard Pilz was born Oct. 20th, 1834, in Bavaria. He was ordained a priest at St. Vincent's College, Pa., on the 20th of April, 1859. He has served at Chicago, Ill., Covington, Ky., and Erie, Pa. In 1860 he went to Europe and graduated at the Royal Art School, at Munich. He has executed a large number of paintings. His last painting of prominence is the life-size portrait of Bishop Hall, which is at the monastery at Belmont.

He has been in North Carolina since 1889, and for some time previous to his death had charge of the Salisbury mission. His funeral took place at Mary Help Abbey, Belmont, Monday evening at 4 o'clock. He died surrounded by all the Rev. Fathers, whose pardon he begged just before he expired, at 5:30 p. m. Sunday.

The Fair Next. We have received reports from other fairs; they were a success. We know from the lively interest taken in the preparation that ours will be one of the best ever held in the Piedmont section. The premium lists are in the hands of the distributing committees, and thus it will be largely circulated. A large number of premiums are offered, both for exhibits and for racing. There will be racing every day during the fair. The bicycle races are open to the State and no doubt a goodly number will enter the contest. The race track is one of the finest and best located in the State. The Fair is going to be, must be a success. Wednesday is set apart as soldiers' day. They will have a good speaker to address them. Thursday is Alliance day. Col. Harry Skinner, the father of the sub-treasury, will be present and expound the theories of said bill.

The entire programme is one of interest, and one of which our people may well be proud. The premium list, telling all concerning the Fair, can be had by addressing Capt. John Beard, Salisbury. The balloon ascensions on Thursday and Friday will certainly repay all for coming out. He will make a parachute leap from the balloon at the height of 1,900 feet. There will be many things to please and instruct you. Here you will see stock that it pays to raise; you will also see many labor-saving devices that will be worth the coming. Come and bring your wife and your bright boys and girls and you will create in them a desire to stick to the farm and also to make successful farmers out of them. Come and enjoy yourself for a week.

CONCORD FAIR.

Salisbury and Rowan Have a Full Celebration—Let Concord and Cabarrus Retain the Compliment.

The most successful fair yet held in Concord came off last week. A great crowd were present and everything passed off pleasantly. The weather was superb, but the dust was rather plentiful. The exhibits were very good. Some of the horses and cattle were very fine. The display in Floral hall was exceedingly fine. The handiwork of the ladies always show up well in every fair and this one was no exception.

The bicycle, running and trotting races attracted much attention. Most of the newspaper men did the betting, they being the monied men present. Jim Cook lost his newspaper outfit on one of the races, but Dr. Strong, of the Charlotte Democrat, who was the winner, kindly gave it back to him, knowing that the printers would suffer.

Two balls were held on Thursday night. The beauty and grace of Concord Charlotte and Salisbury and surrounding country was represented. That is sufficient to prove that each of the balls was a success. The people of Concord and surrounding country are noted for their failure to do anything by halves. They do everything right or not at all.

The pig race was one of the most exciting affairs. The pig was the regulation razor back imported from eastern Carolina. Col. Fairbrother, Dr. Stroing, Maj. Sossaman, Lieutenant Hardy and Plain Jim Cook participated in the race the first day, but a dirky who lives on coldwater creek caught the pig. On Friday the pig was caught by Prof. Evin, of the Stanley News, Albemarle, N. C. He took it home with him.

The address of Governor Holt was said to have been good one. We did not get there in time to hear it. On the last day of the Fair Col. Harry Skinner, author of the sub-treasury scheme, was present and made one of the finest and most logical speeches in favor of the measure that we have ever heard. All of Cabarrus county will be at Salisbury in next month. Standly county will move up here and spend a week; so will, Fredell, Davis, Montgomery, Davidson and Mecklenburg. Lets give them a royal time.

Teachers Institute.

The annual teachers institute is in session here this week. Prof. McVey, State instructor, with his estimable lady are conducting the exercises. Eighty teachers were present Monday, ninety-one was the attendance Tuesday, and a few more have come in each day since then.

The question has often been asked whether these institutes pay for the time and expense expended. We would answer that if they do not it is not Mr. McVey's fault. He is a man thoroughly acquainted with his work. The instruction he gives is well worth the money, and if the institute is not a paying thing it is with the teacher.

In his talk Tuesday afternoon he made the State Normal School for Girls his subject. He explained the intention of the institution. He said it was simply to do for the girls what the University is doing for the boys. In defining the purpose for which the public school was intended, he said it was to train the children to be good law abiding citizens. This is the full duty of a teacher. He questioned the ability of a teacher to teach, if he was not himself law abiding.

Mrs. McVey adds much to the interest of the institute by her reading. She manages the voice expertly and her recitations receive applause.

Five teachers are standing examination for a State certificate which is good for three years. The examination has not been held yet at this writing.

Friday is the day set for the lecture to the public in general, but this does not say that all the lectures are not intended for the public; they are, but this one is prepared to show parents their duty in school work. Come out and give him a large house and you will be well repaid. He takes for his subject, "Education and politics." At this heated time no doubt he will give some good points on this subject.

Meeting of Fair Directors.

The Fair Directors met in the courthouse last Saturday at 10 o'clock. They did business at once. Wednesday was set as Soldiers' Day. They decided to admit all pensioners free and all veterans 15 cents on that day. Each veteran is to procure a badge from the adjutant of the regiment and pay his admission fee to the gate keepers. An able speaker will address the veterans.

Thursday was set as Alliance Day and Harry Skinner, the father of the sub-treasury, will address the crowd on that day.

B. H. Owens, P. R. Cress, J. H. Frick, Julius Bringle and George Barger were appointed as gate keepers.

G. L. Klutz and G. H. Page are the ticket agents.

Capt. J. K. Crawford is chief marshal; he is to appoint assistants.

J. H. McKinzie was appointed chief of police, he is to appoint his assistants.

S. R. Harrison, J. P. Halton and J. A. Fisher are the committee on invitations and receptions.

The grand stand is to be made 20 feet larger than was first intended.

ABOUT MARKETS.

Will Salisbury Take Advantage of Her Excellent Chance?

"A good market for the sale of farm products."

"A good market for the goods of the world."

The above words are best advertisement any town can have. If it gets this reputation once and holds it, no power can keep it down.

Salisbury has the men to handle the produce and the men to sell the goods. She has the railroad advantages. Will our people be on the alert? We might go further and say that she has the paper to advertise the town in. But it is well known that the WATCHMAN goes out into this and adjoining counties and carries good, as well as bad, tidings every week.

Last winter the tobacco manufacturers and buyers covered themselves all over with glory by their activity and liberality. They paid prices that brought thousands of pounds of tobacco here that had been going to other markets.

The sellers never failed to buy something before they left town. Now, will the cotton and grain buyers, in fact the buyers of all kinds of produce, from eggs to coconuts, work the same way? If they will, Salisbury will get twice the produce and trade she formerly got. There is no denying the fact that much cotton and other things go to adjoining towns that properly should come to Salisbury. The causes of this should be investigated and removed.

Salisbury has the money and should offer inducements in everything and be what her natural advantages already make her—the collecting and distributing point for a large section of territory. There is no sentiment in this, no politics; it is simply a matter of business. Politics in place of business has held every town back in North Carolina. The paramount question with Salisbury is not who will be elected county officers next year, or who will go to the legislature; it matters not who so they are capable men. The burning issue to-day is street improvement and liberality on the part of the business men of the city. Let it go abroad that Salisbury is the best place to sell and the best place to buy and a good place to live. If this is carried out all obstacles will be overcome.

A Monument to Heroes.

The members of the Salisbury Fire Department desire to pay their deceased brother members of the Asheville Fire Company, who went down in an untimely death in the recent terrible wreck on the W. N. C. R. R., some tribute of respect and fraternal regard.

It is pleasant to recall to memory the close and intimate friendship we formed with them in our mingling together at the Durham Tournament. And when we journeyed homeward together our minds were filled with happy thoughts of our recent association, and our voices were resonant with mirth and expressions of mutual good will. We little dreamed that we were holding our last earthly interview, and that our parting would be final. And when the last hand shaking was engaged in, and with swelling hearts and tender gaze we looked into each other's eyes and clasped each other's hands, we little knew that it was for the last time. Sad fate, that almost before our eyes were to be closed in sweet refreshing sleep, on that eventful night, our beloved comrades were sleeping their eternal sleep. Gallant, glorious boys. Tender, precious memories come crowding upon us as we think of them, and bedewed eyes well nigh shut out the tracery of our pen strokes as we write of them and their noble, selfless lives. How shall we perpetuate their memory? They are enshrined in our hearts, but the world knows them not like we do. Why not on marble shaft or above granite base tell how nobly they lived, how gallantly they met danger and how oft they fought the devouring element with fireless courage. How they often snatched the tender infant and the half crazed mother from the home suddenly wrapped in fiery flames and soon to be in ruins, and restored them to the loving embrace of relatives and friends. These deeds of heroism, scarcely surpassed by the warrior upon the battle field, have left behind them. Let the marble shaft or the tablet proclaim their self sacrificing devotion to duty. Let the Salisbury boys start the ball, and may it roll from the Piedmont hills to the seashore, until an amount shall be raised that shall serve to perpetuate the memory of our beloved comrades, and let the State Association rear in their mountain home or near the spot where their mortal career was so sadly terminated.

New Advertisements. Mr. J. J. Rodgers, of Norfolk, Va., wants the farmers produce to sell on Commission, cotton a specialty. See the new advertisement of the Piedmont Exposition. Watch it, it will change every week. Mr. J. F. McCubbins & Co. wants cotton, see their new ad.

MINING DEPARTMENT.

Mining News Gathered in This and Other States.

"Mining is a safe business if pursued with the same care as the heavy as in the mining, banking, or any other legitimate pursuit. It is also a source of wealth. It is claimed that the profit on gold and silver mining, since the discovery of gold in 1849 on the Pacific coast, amounts to over $100,000,000,000. The miner of the precious metals does not exchange his earnings. What he takes from the earth has a permanent, intrinsic value, and it is the wealth of the world."

Fine Gold Specimens. Mr. J. L. Corwell showed us some of the finest specimens of gold we have ever seen. They came from the "Jenn" mine in Stanly county, two miles east of New London. The mines is now being worked by a northern party under the supervision of Col. I. M. Taylor of New York. The specimens shown us were taken from a vein three feet wide at the bottom of 94 feet deep. Col. Taylor has several thousand tons of this ore on the dumps ready to be ground, as soon as the mill which he is now erecting on this mine is ready to run. A miner tells us that failures in North Carolina mines are to be attributed not so much to the quality and quantity of the ores, as to the extravagant manner in which they have been worked by unskilled and impractical managers. He says that if farming, merchandising, manufacturing or any other vocation was managed with so much extravagance as have been the mines of North Carolina up to the present day, all would meet with failure equally as appalling as have the mines. Col. Taylor is a practical miner and when he gets his mill to running we shall expect to hear of fine returns from this mine.—Concord Times.

A new furnace has been erected at the New Russell Gold Mine, at Thomasville, to treat the ore by an entirely new process. Some time ago we made mention of the rich finds on the plantation of Mr. E. C. Black. These finds are still kept up, and recently several gold nuggets worth $50 each. Mr. Black owns the mine and prefers to look for this precious metal than to pick his crop of cotton.

GLAD TIDINGS! WHAT IS IT?

Klutz & Rendleman want all the dried fruit, berries, etc., brought to Salisbury. We want you to know that we will give you as much for them as the market affords. Eighteen years ago we began business in this town and by always paying cash for what we bought and sticking to our motto, "The best goods for the money," we have been compelled to enlarge our store-rooms until now we have six floors filled and packed with the most desirable goods.

WILL GET THE R. & S. All kinds of Gents' Furnishing Goods.—Always make our stores your headquarters even if you don't want to buy, it will give us pleasure to show you our goods and tell you how cheap we will sell them. In our back lot you will find food for your horses. For the wholesale trade we offer special inducements. Yours anxiously to serve, KLUTZ & RENDLEMAN

Twenty pounds of the whitest sugar for $1.00; coffee, 20 cents; seven grades of fresh hams, crackers these every week at lowest prices. Alumnage at 5 cents. We have a stock of shoes equal to any anywhere along the proposed route of the R. & S.
