The WATCHMAN is organ of the Alliance in the 5th and 7th Congressional Districts.

The WATCHMAN has 50 per cent more circulation than any paper published in Salisbury.

THURSDAY, JAN. 28, 1892.

PRINCIPLES first, parties afterward.

WATCH how your representatives vote.

WHEN the masses begin to think the bosses begin to quake.

IREDELL county Alliance does not approve of the celebrated "Address."

CABARRUS county Alliance advises a reduction of at least ten per cent. in the cotton acreage. Better make it forty per cent.

From reports of county meetings the Alliance seems to be in good shape and the members in earnest for reform in every section.

An exchange remarks that the sub-Treasuries have grown very quiet. That is true, but it means a good deal all the same. Wait.

The alien land law and sub-Treasury plan means that the farmer shall own his homestead. The defeat of them means foreign landlords.

SENATOR SHERMAN once remarked that a silver dollar was only worth 80 cents, Leland Stanford offered him 90 cents each for a million silver dollars, but Sherman refused to trade.

PRESIDENT MONTT, of Chili, was visiting a watering place when President Harrison made his demand for immediate reparation a few days ago. Montt's next visit will probably be to a firing place.

OWING to reasons of a private nature Mr. J. F. Newell cannot stay in Charlotte and conduct the Mecklenburg Bureau of the WATCHMAN. Bro. J. P. Sossamon will hold the fort until other arrangements are made.

JOSEPH P. BRADLEY, associate justice of the Supreme Court, died in Washington last Friday. He was nearly 80 years old. Justice Bradley was one of the judges who settled the famous Tilden-Hayes presidential dispute.

WE respectfully request that all of the Alliance papers exchanging with the WATCHMAN and all local papers published within fifty miles of Charlotte send their papers as exchanges to "THE WATCHMAN BUREAU," Charlotte, N. C.

A GOOD BILL.

Capt. S. B. Alexander, of the Sixth District, evidently did not go to Washington for the purpose of acting as many others have done. He means business with a big B.

His bill for the suppression of gambling in agricultural products is a very sensible one and we hope may become a law.

It is said that several times as much of any product that is raised is sold every year. This is wrong. This makes gambling the basis for prices. In other words the price of any crop is almost as uncertain as a game of cards. Sometimes this gambling may raise prices; but as a rule it is all against the farmers. That it should be stopped every honest man will agree, and we think Capt. Alexander has struck the key note.

THEY WERE NOT MISTAKEN.

Seventeen years ago some philanthropists suggested that if things were not managed better land values would depreciate one-half. They were laughed at and hoisted. They were said to be crazy. However, right here in North Carolina we have the proof of this truthfulness. Land will not bring half what it sold for fifteen years ago. With a few exceptions this will apply to all sections of the United States. Now some of our best men are predicting a general collapse of the business interests of the country. They are called fools, cranks, and some even go so far as to say they are seers. But who ever heard of a reformer getting anything in the way of money for his labor? It is very unreasonable to say that they are working to enrich themselves. Anyhow their predictions are coming true. There will be a collapse in less than ten years if reform fails.

YES, CONSISTENCY IS A JEWEL.

The Herald last Monday attempted to make a mountain out of a molehill and wound up by making nothing. The Charlotte Chronicle, a paper of the same class, takes up the warhoop and winds up the same way. It thinks the adoption of the WATCHMAN by the Mecklenburg Alliance "an injustice to every paper in Charlotte." If the WATCHMAN does not benefit the people of Mecklenburg we hope it will not deceive, misrepresent and lie on them as some of the Charlotte papers have done. The farmers of Mecklenburg have worried along for years and still none of their papers would treat them right. More than a hundred years ago the people of that county declared their independence. Why? "Taxation without representation" was the main cause. Recently they declared their independence again. They had been directly and indirectly taxing themselves to support Charlotte papers. Who did these papers represent? Not the farmers. Is it any wonder that they have again declared their independence?

Mr. C. N. Brown was not "thrown out of the Alliance and disgraced." The WATCHMAN simply stated that he was working for the Chronicle, making a living that way, as we understood it; in other words was a member of the Chronicle staff. An occasional correspondent of a paper—no matter what paper—paid by the article or by the column, would not be ineligible. But he was devoting all or nearly all of his time to that paper. His Alliance gave him a demit. That is all there was in it. He was not disgraced unless working for a paper like the Chronicle did it.

So the Chronicle and Herald are both kicking because Mr. J. F. Newell quit the Chronicle to work for the WATCHMAN! Really we hoped to reclaim him and make a man out of him. He has since decided not to remain with the WATCHMAN. As his reasons are private we will not state them here. If he had remained with the WATCHMAN he would have joined the Alliance and entered into reform work with plenty of zeal, for he is built that way. Besides that Mr. Newell was only a reporter on the Chronicle staff and no doubt would have given a different tone to the editorials if he had been the writer of them.

The Herald and Chronicle both are simply hair splitters. Neither paper has ever done much good or much harm. The best thing they can do is to attend to their own business. They and their kind will have enough trouble hereafter without meddling with the business arrangements of other papers.

THE CHILI BASKET.

We are in favor of defending our subjects and the honor of our country, even if force of arms must be the final resort. But this Chili nonsense has gone on long enough.

Chili has three million people. The United States sixty-three millions. Her navy is, perhaps, as good as ours. But in resources and numbers we could whip them fifty times over.

All the trouble grew out of the killing of a few American sailors in Valparaiso, the capital city of Chili. It is reported that they were drunk and disorderly. It is not mainly for a big nation to quarrel with a little one. There is political capital to be made out of the quarrel however. Some people want an excuse to increase our navy. Some other people want to get the attention of our people drawn away from other things. These are the reasons for keeping up war talk with Chili. Away with such politics!

ANOTHER BILLION DOLLAR CONGRESS.

In one day since the present Congress opened thirty-eight bills, appropriating a total of $10,227,000 for public buildings in different States were introduced.

We have had a good deal to say about the "Billion Dollar Circus" that adjourned some months ago. So it is right and proper that this new concern be shown up. The former concern appropriated most of the money to pensioners that are not justly entitled to it. Now the question is are all these towns entitled to a public building? Can't they do without one, at least until our country is in better shape to build them? Would it not be better for some of our Congressmen to introduce bills appropriating some of these millions to build government warehouses. Put the farmers in good shape and they can stand to be taxed to build post-offices. But in their present shape they are not able to build post-offices, millionaires, palaces and pension claims to the extent of a billion dollars a year, or rather several billion dollars.

You want a picture of the national officers of the Alliance. Send $1.50 and get the Progressive Farmer and the Watchman and picture.

Gazette.

The two old parties have power. In their desperation they intend to use it, in order to keep it. The farmers need power, and they can have it if they will; but in order to get it, they must unite on questions, which are of vital importance to them, and cease warring over those on which they cannot agree.—Meadville (Pa.) Farmer.

In a very few years the "equality hewers" of to-day will be the heroes in history to the coming generations, that will call them blessed; and who will say, it was to these self-sacrificing women and men, who helped the race to a higher plane of truth and justice, and through the fiery ordeal of misrepresentation and abuse, that we owe our present liberty. They never faltered, knowing it to be their highest duty to transmit to posterity freedom from the merciless grasp of the money power, and combined corporate despotism.—Our Own Opinion.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Chilian Affair—Greed for Office—Crisp Again Well—Other News.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25, 1892.—Congress now has that long looked for opportunity to take a hand in the Chilian business, as this whole official story is before it. It is a somewhat lengthy story and the Senators and members, even the most hot-headed among them, seem disposed to study it carefully before expressing opinions that will commit them. President Harrison is generally praised for the conservative manner in which he has handled his part of the story. Congress feels its responsibility in this crisis, and there is no probability that it will take any hasty action. The administration having sent its ultimatum to Chili is still actively preparing for war, but it is asserted by the members of the cabinet that it is not done in any spirit of hostility towards Chili, but because it is believed that the better prepared we are for war, the more probability there is that we shall have no war, in short, that it is deemed necessary to show Chili that we are prepared to begin and carry on an aggressive war, in order to convince her that she must accede to the demands that we have made.

According to a statement made by a sub-secretary of the Treasury Spaulding to the House Ways and Means committee the condition of the Treasury is easy and will remain so during the rest of this fiscal year, if his estimates are not at fault. He says the actual receipts for the first six months of the current fiscal year were $7,000,000 in excess of the expenditure, and he estimates that the excess of receipts over expenditures for the entire fiscal year will be $24,000,000. The documents assert that the receipts will fall far below the estimates. It will take six months to settle the question.

If Mr. Springer had it to do over again it is certain that he would not make the positive statement that he did some time ago, that no silver legislation would be passed by the House, as it is now regarded by those who claim to have made a careful canvass of the House as certain that the free coinage bill recently introduced by Mr. Bland, chairman of the committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, will be made the basis of a measure which will be reported favorably from that committee, and passed by the House. The committee has decided to vote on the Bland bill on the 10th of February.

Cleveland stock is not rated very high in congressional circles just now, although it is not yet apparent which of the other candidates are to benefit by the victory won by the Hill-Graham-Brice combine in getting Chicago named as the place for holding the democratic national convention.

There is one feature of our political life that is little short of disgusting, and that is the unseemly haste displayed in seeking the offices made vacant by death. The latest instance is the vacancy in the Supreme Court caused by the death of the late Justice Bradley, who expired Friday morning. His body was hardly cold before eminent men, many of whom had been his personal friends, were running hither and thither to get their names on a list committed to the support of this or that man for the vacancy.

Around Mooresville. Owing to bad weather farmers have done but very little work. Mr. Joseph McLean will open up a dry goods store in Mooresville soon. So reported.

Mr. William Christie and family, of Rowan county, moved last Friday on the farm of Mr. T. G. Christie, in this vicinity.

Mr. V. P. Tharp, of North Irredell, is teaching the public school at the Braxley school house. Sixty scholars or more have been enrolled during the past few weeks.

Mr. W. D. Eady, who has been a resident of this community for some time, left a few days ago for Hillsborough, N. C., where he will be his future home. His family will follow some time this spring.

The Sunday school at this district school house has again resumed its work under the management of former superintendent and teachers.

Bethany Academy. Reckwell post-office was moved to the station this week. Mr. Charles Holsinger is postmaster.

The Gold Hill mine is still moving on. Ten stamps are running daily.

Mr. H. A. Holsinger will soon market some of his fine tobacco.

Mr. Tom Spindel and wife, who went to Alabama about a year ago, have returned.

A party of fox hunters passed through here last week enroute for Bringle's Ferry.

Mr. Robert Smith's hands are still playing havoc with the hickory wood in Cabarrus county.

Messrs. J. B. Brown and J. A. Linn are at work building a new house for Mr. Lafayette Best.

The old building of Burger school district will be sold next Saturday for cash to the highest bidder.

Mr. J. W. Peeler, the depot agent at New London, is spending several weeks at his home in Rockwell.

Clinton's school house, near Organ church, together with about fifty dollars worth of apparatus, was consumed by fire on the night of the 11th instant.

Mr. W. G. Adams, who has kept up this section of the Yulkin road for the past year, has been called to Charlotte to take charge of a section on the R. & D. road. Capt. Johnson, a well known track layer, is in his stead.

Gold Hill, Jan. 23rd, 1892.

Chester's Big Blaze. At 2 o'clock Tuesday morning the cotton mill of the Chester, S. C. Manufacturing company was discovered to be on fire. The alarm was sounded and the fire department responded, but to no avail. In less than two hours the mill was burned to the ground. More than a million yards of gingham were awaiting shipment. The loss is estimated at $275,000, with insurance to the amount of $150,000. More than two hundred men were thrown out of employment. The heat from the mill was so intense that a negro church near by was fired. Loss on the church $1,000, no insurance.

The License Question.

Mr. Editor:—Equal rights to all and license to none. It is so much easier to give and involve in it a correct principle. The county commissioners give a license to saloon keeper and thereby extend to him a special privilege. Under that license he can sell intoxicating liquors in small and large quantities with perfect impunity. Any one who attempts to do so without license is liable to an indictment. If he wishes to allow every man to sell in small quantities, then it should be unwise to allow the saloon keeper to do it. "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

Davidson's Mines.

LINCOLN, N. C., Jan. 25, 1891. Mr. Editor:—I see in your valuable paper that you invite correspondence in your mining column. As I am somewhat interested in that line I thought I would drop you a line or two to let you know what there is in old Davidson. I have been prospecting somewhat in the mountains of Abbeets creek about seven miles from Lexington in the southeast corner and about two miles from the old Lead Hill mine. I have sunk two shafts about one hundred yards apart; there is free gold until we struck water, then they turned to a heavy separate one which contains gold, silver, lead and other metals. One shaft has been sunk to a depth of forty feet and the other thirty feet. The thirty foot shaft has a vein four feet wide and is getting wider and richer every blast we make. When a chunk of blast was made we took out a chunk that weighed twenty pounds. The chunk was sent to Charlotte to be assayed and the result was that it assayed one hundred and fifty-four dollars per ton. The forty-foot shaft has a vein about two feet wide, never had it assayed, but it seems to be the same as the other. I have had experienced miners to work them and they say it is the best prospect they have ever worked in this part of the country.
