

Mayor Linn is visiting in Gettysburg, Pa.

The Catholic church is receiving a new coat of paint. It will be stone gray in color.

A cold wave struck Salisbury Saturday night. On Sunday overcoats were comfortable.

The Charlotte News of May 13, reached our office this morning, after a two weeks trip over the roads.

When wanting job work remember that the WATCHMAN has one of the best job outfits in this section.

Four new dwelling houses are being erected in the neighborhood of the knitting mills. Brooklyn is booming.

Rev. C. L. T. Fisher delivered a discourse at the regular gospel meeting, in the Y. M. C. A. hall last Sunday evening.

Mrs. E. N. Medernach, who has resided here a number of years has returned with her children to her old home, Danville, Va.

The bird well top in front of Horall's jewelry store has been removed, the well repaired and the new fixtures put in place.

The minutes for the Baptist convention which recently met in Winston, are now being printed in the WATCHMAN job office.

One of the printers of this sheet has sworn off from sitting on stools. He fears he will make the seat of his pants sore.

The Catholics of Salisbury will probably have a lawn party one night week to help raise funds for painting the church.

There will be a members' reception at the Y. M. C. A. hall to-night. Refreshments will be served by the ladies auxiliary society.

The room formerly occupied by the Star saloon, is being nicely fitted up for the new jewelry store, which will be open on the first of June.

The Sunday School Convention of the South Yankin Baptist Association will be held in Mecklenburg to-morrow. Several delegates will go from here.

A sum of money was found on the streets a few days ago. Owner can obtain the same by calling on Capt. John Bond and paying for this notice.

Mr. Sidney Dost was ordained an Episcopal minister by Bishop Lyman, at Greensboro, last Friday. He will assist Dr. Nardone with his duties here.

Mrs. R. V. Miller, wife of Secretary Miller, of the Y. M. C. A., came down from Asheville on Tuesday evening. She will probably make this her home.

The board of medical examiners in session at Wilmington last week granted license to Drs. J. Thomas Wright, E. J. Buchanan and M. L. Stephens, all of Rowan.

The North Carolina Dental Society is in session in Winston this week. Drs. J. E. Griffith and R. L. Ramsay, of this place, are in attendance. The former is State secretary.

It is estimated that there has been a reduction of 25 per cent. in the average of cotton planted. There was a still larger reduction in the amount of commercial fertilizers used.

Four or five of our young men will have early next Tuesday morning for Mount Pleasant to attend the closing of the female seminary at that place. They will go by private conveyance.

The commencement exercises of Davidson College will be held June 5th to 9th inclusive. Messrs. John Gaither, of China Grove, and Ernest Brown, of Salisbury, are among the marshals.

A gang of nine boys have been arrested for disturbing a disturbance in the neighborhood of the Salisbury Cotton Mills last Saturday night. They will be tried before John A. Ramsay to-night.

Evangelist Fife has just closed a series of meetings in New Bern, and is now recuperating at his home in Fayetteville. He will begin a series of meetings in Goldsboro next week.

The closing exercises of Farmington Academy will take place on Thursday, June 21, day and night. Music will be furnished by the Yankin concert band. We return thanks for an invitation to attend.

Rev. C. Pyle requests us to announce that he will preach in Shiloh church, at Granite Quarry, on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. On the same evening at three o'clock he will deliver a lecture on the millennium.

One of our citizens who attended the State Convention in Raleigh last week says he expects to open a saloon there before the next convention meets. He says a person could hardly get to one there, so great was the crowd.

Mexican Chick has been giving performances in the hall since Monday. The performance Monday night was free and each night after the fire was ten cents. He will probably show every night this week. So far, full houses have greeted him. As to the quality of the show it is like the ordinary run of minstrelsome new features but many failures.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Banks celebrated their crystal wedding on Monday night, it being the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage. An elegant reception was given, and a large number of crystal presents were received.

The civil engineers are making the surveys of the Concord Southern from Concord to Wadesboro and from Concord to Monroe. We hope to bring the Roanoke & Southern this way and make connection with this road before many years.

The WATCHMAN is the liveliest, most newsy and best paper ever published in this section. It is on the side of the people. It is for the people and by the people. Our friends should see to it that it has more readers. Get everybody to subscribe.

Mrs. John Beard requests all persons who promised contributions for the Soldiers' Home, in Raleigh, to leave them with Capt. John Beard, at the Planters' Warehouse. All others who feel able to contribute but have not done so, will please come forward.

The Concord Standard of yesterday says: T. M. Kerns, of Rowan and within six miles of Salisbury, was here on Tuesday. He made a big trade with J. W. Cannon by which Mr. Kerns conveys 60 bales of cotton to Mr. Cannon. Mr. Kerns did this way last year.

Monday will be Federal decoration day. It is principally observed in the South by negroes. The cemetery in the southern part of the city will be invaded and strewn with flowers. The town will be packed with the dusky brethren. Before night lemonade (?) will flow freely at a cent a glass.

A large number of Salisburyans returned last Friday night and Saturday morning from Charlotte, where they had gone to attend the Mecklenburg celebration. All seemed to have as pleasant a time as could be expected in such a crowd. The sham battle was one of the most enjoyable features of the celebration.

The WATCHMAN has some good correspondents. It gives the news from several counties. It has some friends who write very entertaining articles for its columns. We want more good correspondents. Our friends in Mecklenburg county should write more for its columns. It is the coming paper for this section.

For the past few weeks we have been discussing the early closing of the stores during the hot summer months. But as yet no action has been taken in that direction. With the exception of farmers we know of no other class of people who have to work fifteen hours a day. The early closing worked well here once, why not try it again?

The planting season will soon be here. The Baptists will picnic at Patterson's Grove on Wednesday, June 1st; the Methodists on Thursday, June 2nd, and the Lutherans at Thursday, June 3rd. The places for holding the last two have not been decided on. The Presbyterians will probably postpone their picnic until we are in need of rain.

Yesterday evening Prof. W. H. Neave showed us the plans of the residence he is to erect on the lot on Bank street recently purchased. It will be a large and comfortable building, two stories high. One of the most important features will be the large room for his music school. When thrown open its full length, the room will be forty-eight feet long.

The railroad cut between the depot and Dixonsville was cleaned out Monday. The vines and weeds on the banks were cleared off and the ditches cleaned out. This is only temporary work, however, for the cut will soon be in as bad condition as before. It looks like the railroad company could devise some plan for the permanent drainage of such places.

The Presbyterian female school of this city closed, and the distribution of prizes took place in the Presbyterian tabernacle last night. Dr. Rumble addressed the children and awarded the prizes. The one for writing was won by Miss Lucy Brown, the one for French, by Miss Jeanie Klutz, and one each by Misses McNeely and Craige for attendance.

Some fiend attempted to burglarize the residence of Hon. John S. Henderson about eleven o'clock Tuesday night. The burglar raised a window, but was discovered by Mrs. Henderson, who gave an alarm. Some gentlemen, returning from a Bible reading, were attracted by her screams and went to the relief. But the burglar had made his escape. Mr. Henderson was absent, being at his post in Washington.

The white graded school of this city closed last Friday. Short services were held in the morning. The awarding of diplomas was preceded by a short devotional and song services. Prof. Kizer presented the diplomas to the graduating class, with great honor; Walter Medernach, Charlie Klutz, Agnes Walter, Frank Gaskill, Wilbur Folsom, Eliza Swicegood and Belle Rendleman. At a meeting of the directors in the evening the old corps of teachers was re-elected.

The recent cold spell has been very disastrous to the farmers in the tobacco section of North Carolina. The plants have been thoroughly chilled, and in some instances where the beds were situated near a stream the frost has played havoc with them. From now until the 15th day of June most of the tobacco plants will be put out, but in many localities the farmers will be obliged to rely on their neighbors for tobacco plants. This is a very serious matter for the farmers of Western North Carolina, for the tobacco crop is their main stay.

Fire!
An alarm of fire was sounded about nine o'clock last Friday night. It proceeded from Mr. P. W. B. Owen's store on Chestnut Hill near the cotton factory. The fire department started out but finding that they could not make connection with a water plug they returned. The store was burned to the ground and only a show case was saved. The loss is about $1,800, with $1,000 insurance. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Wreck on the Murphy Branch.
A wreck occurred on the Murphy branch, beyond Asheville, Tuesday afternoon, in which one man was killed and others injured. While descending a heavy grade near Eryson City the train became unmanageable and dashed down a heavy grade. All went well till a broken rail was struck, when the engine left the track and went down an embankment, carrying the train with it. Engineer J. Atwood Hunt was killed and Fireman Means had both legs broken. Other members of the crew sustained slight injuries.

In the Country.
A drive through any section of the country will show that compared with last year, there is really a scarcity of cotton fields. Wheat, oats and corn are to be seen on all sides but only here and there do we see the familiar rows of little waxen like cotton plants popping up out of the ground. Where a cotton field is seen, though, one with a knowledge of farm parlance, pronounces that it is a good "stand." Cotton has a very good start. In some fields it has been chopped out and the plants are growing finely. In some fields corn is just above the ground, while in others it is knee high. Wheat and oats never looked better at this time of the year and all signs point to a splendid harvest.

Broke Up the Meeting.
The fire last Sunday night put an abrupt end to Rev. N. S. Jones' preaching in the Baptist church. Mr. Jones was preaching on Christ's second coming, and his eloquence held the profound attention of the audience. When he raised his hand and declared that the millennium might come at any moment, there arose a great disturbance in the streets; loud cries were heard, and under the impulse of the moment some thought the time had come. A truthful gentleman tells us that he noticed two girls in front of him and that their faces turned deathly pale. When the cries became plainer and it was known that there was a fire in town, the crowd surged to the street, and in a few minutes the church was deserted. As Mr. Jones is not accustomed to preaching to an empty house, he cut his sermon short.

The Potato Bug.
Go into nearly every garden you please and you will see the work of the potato bug. Gardeners around town are having much trouble with them. We saw one patch a few days ago where they had left nothing but the stalks of the potatoes. The only way to prevent this is to employ some one to pick the bugs off or else sprinkle the plants with some dangerous poison. A Mecklenburg gardener tells how he managed to escape them: "It is easy enough, but the time to act is when you put your potatoes in the ground. When you plant your potatoes put plenty of wood ashes in the ground along with them. The acids developed from the ashes, kills the bugs and fertilizes the ground at the same time. It is the only safe and sure way to prevent a visitation of the potato bug." Gardeners should cut this out for future reference.

Dr. Hall's Lectures.
Rev. Dr. William Hall, editor of the Internationalist, of New York, delivered a lecture in the Baptist church Tuesday night on "The Resurrection." The admission was free and the church was full of eager listeners. Dr. Hall talked an hour and twenty minutes. He is a very eloquent preacher and the audience was swayed continually, and moved from smiles to tears. At the close he announced that he would deliver another lecture Wednesday night on "How to get married and how to stay married." Before he began the house was again filled. He talked an hour and fifty minutes, and gave one of the best lectures that was ever listened to here. It was a splendid combination of wit and wisdom.

Card of Thanks.
MR. EDITOR:—Will you permit me through the columns of your paper to tender the ladies of Thyrtara church sincere and hearty thanks for the consideration and kindness which they have manifested toward their pastor in the neatly furnished room which they have fitted up with tables, chairs, window shades, mattress, pillows, sheets, quilts, comforters, counterpanes, etc. May they be richly rewarded for the encouragement and cheer with which they have filled his heart by their handsome presents.

AN OLD BOOK WANTED.—If you have a copy of Emmons' Geological Survey of the Middle Counties of North Carolina, you can get a good price by bringing it to this office.

HOUSE FOR SALE.—A good farm horse for sale. Call at M. S. Dr. Wm's.

MECKLENBURG NEWS.

What is Going on Among the Delegates of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence.
Mr. Milas B. Leslie died suddenly in Concord on the 29th.
Mrs. Mary Caldwell, of Paw Creek, died Saturday night, aged 65 years.
Pollock Lee, the four-year-old son of Mr. David P. Lee, of Sharon township, died at ten o'clock last night, of remittent fever.

The closing exercises of Bain academy were opened Sunday by a sermon by the Rev. Ed. Mack, of Charlotte. The school will close to-day.
Mr. Julian Carr, the great philanthropist, says he must have $100 of stock in the permanent arch that is to be erected over Independence square.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sloan, of Berryhill township, age 2 years, died on the 24th at 3 o'clock. The remains were buried at Steel Creek church.

Mr. B. W. Simpson, the young man from Monroe, who was Texas bound, but who was arrested in the city to await the arrival of his father, was returned in care of the latter to the paternal roof on the 24th.

Mr. Robert Hayds, formerly editor of the Charlotte Chronicle, but who has been located at Lynchburg for several months past, left there last week for Portland, Oregon, where he goes into the newspaper business.

A very interesting meeting was held at Huntersville A. R. P. church, commencing last Friday and lasting five days. Much interest was manifested and several members added to the church. The preaching was done by the Rev. Galloway, of Yorkville, S. C.

We congratulate our Mecklenburg friends on the grand success of the celebration of their declaration of independence, Friday, Charlotte threw open her gates and her heart, and acquitted herself admirably, as she always does. The address of Senator Hill was an effort worthy of the occasion and the man, —Wilmington Star.

Notwithstanding the large crowd in Charlotte on the 26th, good order prevailed, little drunkenness was seen, and only two accidents reported. The little son of Mr. E. L. McDonald was run over by a wagon and knocked unconscious. The ten year old son of Mr. John Newell was trampled under foot by the horse of one of the marshals, and was seriously hurt.

Mrs. Newton Todd, niece of the late Mr. William Todd, and sister of Mr. Worth Todd, who died several days ago, died Saturday at her home in this city, after a brief illness. Her husband left for Paw Creek Saturday to attend the funeral of Mr. Worth Todd, and on his return found his wife sick. She grew gradually worse and died suddenly Sunday night. This is the third member of the family who has died in a week's time. The funeral took place at Paw Creek—Observer.

Now that one of the big democratic leaders has had a hearing, we wonder if Mr. St. John, the great national leader of prohibition, will receive an equal welcome on the 27th. His coming so soon after the 26th is inopportune but we hope he will have a hearing. However hopeless the cause of prohibition may seem at this juncture, St. John and his followers are fighting the battle of morality and humanity and merit the respect of all who realize and deplore the dreadful carnage that is being wrought by the devil's greatest abettor in life, "King Alcohol."

In conversation with Mr. Scott Brown, a former graduate and now one of the managers of the Keely Institute, on the 26th, he said before his treatment it would have been utterly impossible to have passed such an occasion without getting drunk, but now there was no temptation for him. Keely has solved the liquor problem, but unhappily the relief is not in reach of the poor. Since the national and State governments must license the business of making drinkards and receive a part of the profits arising therefrom, they might in part atone for the evil by paying for the remedy and giving it free to those who are not able to pay for their cure. 60,000 poor souls fall each year before the fell destroyer. The government helps the liquor men to kill them. Let it help Christian people to save them.

We are glad to state that the butter and cheese factory is under way. The contractors have the pilrows ready for the superstructure as soon as the material arrives. The well diggers struck a strong vein about twenty-eight feet below the surface, and an abundance of cold water is assured. The factory will have a capacity to work up the product of 600 cows. The present stockholders have less than 200, so there will be a market at the factory, for the milk of all cows within a radius of eight miles and doubtless several hundred besides. Such being the case we think it will be wise policy for all farmers in reach to lay their plans for providing feed for an increased number of cattle. The general failure this spring in the "crimson" will deter most persons from seeding again this fall. We would suggest that rye be sown at last ploughing or often first picking of cotton to come in for early feed to be followed by the best of all large crops, red top and orchard. For yield cutting there is nothing that will yield so large a crop at so small a cost as corn mixed with peas and sown broadcast. With a canning factory to consume the surplus vegetables, and a butter and cheese factory to give a market for milk, and with the liberal patronage of the Charlotte merchants and consumers there is no reason why the farmers around the Queen City should not get out of the cotton rut.

Extract from Dr. Talmage's sermon of May 18th, text, the dumb devil. But do not let the world divide the church because of all this for the dumb devil is just as conspicuous in the world. The two great political parties will soon assemble to build platforms for the presidential candidates to stand on. A committee of each party will be appointed to make the platform after proper deliberation the committee will come in with a ringing report whereas and whereas and whereas. Pronouncements all shaped with the one idea of getting the most votes. An expression in regard to the great moral evils of the country ignored. No expression about the liquor traffic for that would lose the run vote. No expression in regard to the universal attempt at the demolition of the Lord's Day. No recognition of God in the history of this nation, for that would lose the vote of the atheists. But whereas and whereas and whereas nine cheers will be given for the platform. The dumb devil of the text will put one wing over the republican platform and the other wing over the democrat platform. There is nothing involved in the next election except offices. The great conventions will be opened with prayer by the chaplains and if they avoid platitudes and tell the honest truth in their prayers they will say, "O Lord we want to be postmasters, consuls, foreign ministers and United States district attorneys, for that we are here and for that we will strive till the election next November. Give us office or we die."

We think the Alliance has no reason to be discouraged at the result of the State convention. I gave us for governor a man whom we honored with the highest office in the gift of the order in the State. Mr. Scarborough, superintendent of public instruction, and Mr. Coffey, secretary of state, represent the Alliance and his principles as enunciated by the last two national councils of the order. They object to governmental ownership in the St. Louis platform, but that measure was premature as we had at Omaha demanded "governmental control, and if that did not correct the evils of which we complain, then ownership." We should have adhered to that policy, and tried control before demanding ownership. Great revolutions can only succeed by successive steps, and by attempting too much we sometimes lose all. Our nominees also object to dropping the tariff issue out of the St. Louis platform. That was another mistake, as it had been advocated by every State and national council of the order. We can't complain at the platform of the State democracy, and if the national democracy incorporates in its platform the Alliance demands for an increase of the currency, Government control of railroads, and a tax upon incomes, every Alliance man should not only support the ticket but go into the campaign with enthusiasm. If, however, the Chicago convention ignores issues that three million of Alliance people have so earnestly advocated we can have nothing to hope from that party, and we had as well stay at home and let Mr. Hill or Cleveland work out their own salvation without our help. The importance of white supremacy in the South will take all good men to the polls in State elections.

Will the Mecklenburg Alliance department of the Salisbury WATCHMAN support the ticket nominated at Raleigh last week, or will it go cavorting around the political arena in a delirium of frenzy, like Polk, to the amusement of the spectators of both parties?—News.

The WATCHMAN is not in the habit of "cavorting around." If the News has ever cherished any political principles it has failed to reflect them from its columns. Like an undisciplined bird it has set with open mouth ready to receive any political food that those who control democratic conventions might choose to give it. We, on the contrary, have cherished and contended for certain measures that we believed would be for the good of the country. Among those measures were the "unlimited coinage of silver," an increase of the circulation and substitution of a national legal currency for bank notes, reclaiming public lands unjustly granted to corporations, the suppression of gambling in farm products, and a graduated tax upon incomes. The fact that these measures were embodied in the State platform shows that the element whom we represent were dominant in the convention, and the crowd to which the News belongs were only there to endorse what we dictated. The battle that the Alliance has made for three years for political reform is shaping the democratic platforms of the States and will bear fruit in the national convention, and we do not regret to say we have made the fight without any help from the News, or papers of that character.

There are two classes of persons who should have no place in a nation of free men. First, the blind fanatic who is not able to realize that those who differ with him may be right, and second, the partisan self who has not political convictions of his own and accepts anything dictated by party leaders whether suggested by principle or policy. Upon neither of these classes can the toiling, struggling masses depend for protection to their interests, but rather upon those who are sufficiently free from sectional or partisan prejudices, to see things in their true colors, and sufficiently independent to defend the right, even though they clash with the interests of political or moneyed autocrats.

Butler is All Right.
A politician who is quite well known in this section and who evidently knows what he is talking about, tells the News that Marion Butler has been abused more than the circumstances would warrant. He thinks from what he knows, that he is reasonably sure that Mr. Butler has accepted his defeat in good faith and will not only support the State and national democratic ticket, but will use all his influence in its behalf. If Colonel Polk wants to push the Third party business in this State, he will have to do it without Mr. Butler's aid.—News.

The above will be news to Mr. Butler, for he did not know he had been defeated. Some of us that are not wise politicians as the above gentleman, but who are a little better posted on Mr. Butler's movements, don't think he has suffered defeat and think that he may be heard from later on. Mr. Butler will be found in the ranks of the reform movement, when some of the old fossils that have been fattening at the public crib to these many years will be gone where the whang dole is made.

The Celebration.
The long agony is over, and Mecklenburg has celebrated the 117th year of her independence in the 116th year of American freedom. After it is over one naturally asks himself the questions, has it been a success? has it paid? A large crowd was attracted to the city, and doubtless some money was spent in the town. Charlotte's enterprise and attractions were again advertised and the "soft told tale" of the re-embalme of brave spirits on May 20th, 1775, was repeated by a Senator from a distant State, thus making that State and the country at large bear testimony to the glory of Mecklenburg and North Carolina.

The tournament carried one back in fancy to the days of chivalry, when gallant knights tilted for honor and their lady loves. The procession was imposing, and the sham battle recalled vividly the days about Manassa, Fredericksburg, Richmond and Gettysburg, when the shrieks of the wounded and groans of the dying were heard amid the roar of cannon and rattle of musketry. Mr. Hill's oration was in taste, and he administered big doses of flattery to North Carolina, for which he doubtless expects abundant pay in votes.

The incident connected with the auditorium exercises most deserving of praise was the prayer of the young divine, Mr. Ed. Mack. He alone seemed to have the brain to realize, and the heart to feel that amid the sham and glorification of such an occasion that there was a toiling, struggling mass of humanity, whose minds were racked with anxiety and whose hearts were harrowed with care, and he prayed, that they might be renewed in mind and body for the battle of life. Ed. Mack's prayer was for humanity. Mr. Hill's oration was for popularity. These 4th of July and 20th of May orations are well enough in their place. It is well to honor the distinguished dead, but more important to care for the living. The toiling millions prefer to hear from those who set themselves up as statesmen and leaders of thought, advice upon the vital issues of the day that may affect for good or ill, their own and their children's future, rather than hollow flattery of our dead ancestors.

If the 117th celebration of our declaration has revived love of liberty in its broadest sense, and revived courage for the struggle of life, it has been a success. If it has only been a period of excitement, merely to drown care amid the intoxication of noise and a crowd, it has not.
