Rev. Park Hawk's Wisdom
 An earnest reformer is a good deal like a grindstone, deah breddern; he beats his horns an' sharpens those who come in contact with him, but wears himself out in the course ob his laborious undertakin'.

De kind ob piety dat makes a man bury his face in his hands an' beat his breast violently wen de colleckshun basket an' bein' passed aroun', deah breddern; ain't much ob an' improvement on obery chicken stealin'.

De man dat's on handsakin' terms wid de debil for six days ob the week, deah breddern, an' on Sunday jist fines time to how to de Lawd will discover wen he looks for recognishun on de las' day, dat de Lawd doan recollect him at all.

De kind ob generosity dat de Lawd has no use for de deah breddern, is de spreadin' ob a ten dollah bill on de colleckshun plate on Sunday, an' den goin' round on Monday mawain' to evict a poor family from yer house becuz dey are five dollahs behin' in dere las' month's rent.

De wast ting about de man dat keeps puttin' off his repentance until he gets old, deah breddern, is dat he nebbber knows wen he's old enuff to turn from his evil ways, an' de debil scoops in many an ole reprobate ob ninety who up to his last gasp is full ob de idea dat he's "just as young as he eber was in his life."

It's all berry well to hab confidence in human nature, deah breddern, but wen ye stand out to lake in de sights at de west end ob Coney Island on a summer ebenin' it's jist as well to leave your diamond studs an' tings safe at home, indurwise yer likely to lose yer confidence in humanity an' yer jewelry at de same time.

Some Clever Catches.
 A young lady was once talking with a very young and very smart man who was inclined to air his knowledge of the languages a little beyond what she felt that modesty required, says a writer in Harper's Young People. She therefore said to him, with an air of difference to his superior attainments: "You are a Latin scholar. I wish you would tell me how to pronounce the word 'so-met-i-mes'."
 The youth, with an air of kindly patronage replied, "I have not met the word in my Latin reading; but I should be pronounced 'so-met-i-mes' (giving it in four syllables, the accent on the second.)"
 "Thank you for telling me," replied the girl, demurely. "I have always heard it pronounced 'sometimes,' but if you say the other way, that must be right."
 "This is similar to the perhaps familiar catch of the pronunciation of 'back-kach' which will often surprise the initiated by proving to be only 'ack-kach'." It also reminds one of a question printed some years since as to the way of spelling "used"—"t" need I say. The average person will reply, "K-n-e-e-d, of course. But the answer will be, 'That is the way to spell' 'kn ad dough, but not to 'n-ed' bread."
