THURSDAY, JAN 26 1893

There are at the University, Chapel Hill, 315 students.

Mrs. John Cauble, who lived about three miles from Salisbury, died last Friday.

The United States Senate has passed the quarantine bill for a protection against cholera.

Mr. Jas. A. Cooper of China Grove, has accepted a position in the family grocery store of Smoot & McCulloch.

Wonder if the present Legislature of North Carolina will tackle the dog question?

The new Administration has the option of bestowing 180,000 offices among the dear people.

Hon. Elias Carr was inaugurated Governor of North Carolina on Wednesday of this week.

General Ben. Butler died at 75 and left an estate valued at $7000,000. Among other things he was a great money shark.

Premier Gladstone, of England, has passed his 83rd mile post, and the vigor of his mind and body are yet unabated.

The State Road congress is in session at Raleigh this week. It is to be hoped that some plan looking to a better system of public roads will be evolved.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature looking to the passage of a law to prevent lynching. A step in the right direction.

The water in the fountain in the public square froze to a thickess of three inches, and it was taken up and housed. Ice will be a cheap commodity next summer.

The Casino, a new saloon by Lee Schulz, on Lee street, was opened last Saturday. A free lunch was served to the public during the day.

Messrs Cornelison & Byrd, from Montgomery county, have opened out a stock of family groceries in the T. J. W. Brown store house on South Main street.

Rev. Dr. Martin, of the Dutch Reformed church at Chicago, is in favor of his church adopting all kinds of sports including horse racing, cards, billiards etc. He's a hustler, now, ain't he!

We were in error last tweek in stating that Mr. M. V. B. Capps would soon move to Lake George, Louisiana. He will not do any thing of the kind. The Watchman was misinformed.

Four men implicated in the murder of Dr. Hill were hung in Baltimore last Friday—all of them swung into eternity at the same time. There were eight in all but four were reprieved.

Edward J. Murphy, Jr., has been nominated by New York Democrats for the United States Senate. Murphy received all the votes but five, they being cast for Cochran.

Rev. Sam. Small has quit lecturing also evangelism, and has returned to journalism. He has accepted a position on the Constitution editorial staff.

France is threatened by another revolution. It seems that that once prosperous nation is never happier than when rocking amid the throes of internal and eternal discord.

Last week at Elk river, Minn., the mercury registered 30 degrees below zero At Winston, N. C., it fell to 6 below and much suffering is reported among the poor. A purse of $1000. was raised to help the needy.

Mrs. George Hearst, widow of Senator Hearst, of California, has insurance policies aggregating $500,000. She is the most heavily insured woman in the world

There will be a public debate at Rowan Academy on January the 23rd at 7 o'clock, p. m. Subject: Which will a man enjoy the most, "Pursuit or possession." Everybody is cordially invited to attend.—T. M. Kestler, President.

The snow of the winter fell yesterday evening and last night. The ground is covered to a depth of six or seven inches on a dead level, but the weather is not so severely cold.

"Babe" Price, the negro who stole a watch, suit of clothes, money, etc., a short time since, was captured at Danville, Va., last Friday, and brought to this city where he is now in jail to await his trial before the Supreme Court.

Mr. J. A. McDowell, the gentlemanly manager of the Rogers clothing store, left last Tuesday for Chatanooga, Tenn., for the purpose of taking charge of an establishment of the same line of goods and by the same firm, at that place. We regret to lose Mr. M. from among us.

Mr. W. B. Smoot, formerly with M. S. Brown, clothing store, has accepted a position in the store of the Rogers Clothing Company, which was held by Mr. McDowell. Mr. Gus Hall, formerly with J. W. Bostian, has taken the position previously occupied by Mr. Smoot in M. S. Brown's emporium.

—Last Friday night while Mrs. Jessie Gaskey, near the knitting mills, was out cutting wood for a fire, her little three year old son caught on fire and was so badly burned that he died during the night. At the time of the distressing accident cenrred, the husband and father, so we hear, was up town heavily intoxicated.

By request of Mayor Linn, a number of the citizens of Salisbury met in the mayor's office last night for the purpose of devising means to relieve the destitute in this city, who have been made helpless on account of the severity of the weather. We understand that about $200 from the citizens, and half this sum from the Knights of Rythias was secured This, indeed, was thoughtful and worthy but we fear the amount raised will not be sufficient to relieve all who need, but it is is certainly a great and timely help.

The annual appropriation for the Confederate Soldier's Home to be asked for is $9,000. It is now $3,000.

The Farmers' Alliance store at Raleigh, managed by Capt. R. J. Powell, has assigned. Liabilities $5,000, assetts not stated.

L. E. Nicey, agent of the Southern Express Company, has left Winston under mysterious circumstances. His whereabouts are still unknown.

Last week the report went abroad that the WATCHMAN had change hands—was sold to a party in Mitchell county. There was something in the air looking towards a sale, but the trade was not consumated and at this writing the Watchman is still owned and edited by Mr. J. L. Ramsey.

The Cold Snap.

Last Saturday morning and Monday morning of this week, the cold wave got squarely down to business, and it's "holding the fort" right along. The thermometer not only dropped to zero but two degrees below, and the rivers and smaller streams are frozen from bank to bank. Ice in the middle of the Yadkin river, it is said, was found to be 9 inches thick. It has certainly been cold, cold, cold, and it runneth not back in the memory of this scribe when such a prolonged, cold visitation struck this latitude. The hardy Laplander may find pleasure in such wintry blasts, but we, that is us, prefer a warmer climate. But the principal feature is it has caused suffering among the destitute. Those who have should remember those who have not.

Most of our farmers are keeping up with the times, that is, they keep plenty of fire wood.

A number of Gold Hill men left recently for Chatham county to work in the Egypt coal mines.

Mr. E. B. C. Hambley has cleared a large field near Rockwell, this winter The creamery and most of his farm can be seen from the station.

Mr. Tom Moyel's new dwelling at Gold Hill, which he is building near the depot, will be the most attractive and expensive in the town. It will cost nearly $1000, when completed.

Dr. L. N. Barleyson, a prominent physician of Gold Hill, moved into the vicinity of Grace Reformed church recently, where he will have a much larger and more prosperous field.

The school at the academy is still moving up at a lively rate. 95 scholars now have their names enrolled. An entertainment will be given at the end of this month for the benefit of the parent.

Elm Grove Alliance is now on a larger boom than ever. Scarcely any members have dropped off since the election. Applications for membership are still received quite frequently. She is still the banner lodge of old Rowan, and will continue so to be. A new store, 18 X 24 ft., is now being built, and its stock will be increased to about $600. Furthermore, an exchange will be run, and all kinds of produce will be bought at the highest possible price. ELEVE.

Correspondence of the Watchman.

Dear Watchman: It has been too long since I have written to you. But I trust its readers have not all forgotten me. If they have I will ask them to remember me, while they are sitting by their good log fires, as using every means I know now to keep warm, while the thermometer registers three degrees below zero It actually reached that point yesterday morning, here at college. The ground is covered with about three inches of snow, which the wind is ever driving in blinding blizzards from place to place. It is hard for a person who has been used to warmer weather to keep his religion and desires both in the same direction. At Paz-well Court House, a little town on the top of the Blue Ridge mountains eighty miles from here, the thermometer stood 22 degrees below zero yesterday morning. This is the coldest weather known to exist in the Old Dominion for many, many years. The weather is good for ice harvesting and for skating purposes, both of which are being done on a large scale.

Quite an important case is in court at this place now. N. Hockman, a contractor Salem during the recent booms, against the N. & W. R. R. company for delay in shipping his lumber, after it was loaded and on the railroad. Mr. Hockman has sued for $10,000. The last witness was examined to day, having taken so far ten days for that purpose. If the court decides that a railroad is liable for damage in such cases they will hereafter be more prompt in shipments or pay the penalty.

What has become of the reformatory school that the teachers of North Carolina were going to make an effort to build? The Legislature is in session and I see nothing of this important subject discussed. Rowan teachers, speak out, you who see the need of this institution. How do you expect to make a good citizen of a boy who has been brought up under corrupt parents, and who has been sent to the penitentiary for a short term, where he meets as companions men who have been thieves, robbers, murderers, etc? You reap only what you sow; put a boy who don't know right from wrong with a highwayman and you will reap an assassin and murderer. Our nature is to depravity and it is all we can do to go up when we have right influences thrown around us. Then why throw the boy into such associations that will sink in deeper. Now is the time to act. If we reclaim one boy, that is a citizen made and one criminal lost. If I am right give a line of approval through some paper. We must ask for such legislation if we get it. Impress upon our editors our plans and ideas, and it will give them more courage to work for us more earnestly knowing that they have the approval of their supporters.

The Demosthenian Society Hall sustained a severe loss a few days since. A radiator froze and burstead, which let the steam out in the hall, ruining almost everything. The only loss sustained that cannot be replaced is in the large Painting which was presented by a lady to the society. The society was at one time offered $500 for the painting, but now it is ruined. Beside the picture the loss will amount to several hundred dollars

Bakersville ought to be able to turn out several very efficient circulation editors.

The next time Bakersville, N. C., attempts to startle the country suspect it on the spot.

The North Carolina people should organize a mob and lynch some of the assbolied liars down there.

By adding a few medical properties to mucilage the Columbian stamp might be utilized to crush the porous plaster trust.

Truth crushed to earth may be able to rise again, but it will never select the Bakersville town plat for resurrection purposes.—Washington Post.

A Criminal Killed by Officers Shooting on a Wager.

A remarkable story comes from Buchanan county, Virginia and is said by reliable parties to be true.

Charles Carroll, a moonshiner was being pursued by a Deputy Marshal concealed himself in an old abandoned cabin, barred the door and stood peeping out through a knot-hole. The posse came along the road, stopped and began talking on the edge of the clearing, too far to be heard, and in an ordinary conversation, a bet was made and taken, that one of the party could not shoot through a knot hole in the door of the cabin. A Winchester was levelled and fired, and something was heard to fall inside the cabin. The officers rushed to the spot and found, writhing in death, the man for whom they were hunting. The ball had entered his eye.

Decadence of the Cowboy.

The cowboy is becoming extinct like buffalo, the prairie wolf, the painted red-skin and the highway robber of the plains. Civilization is as hard on the cowboys as it is on the other animals enumerated. The cowboy, however, has been largely a myth. He has been existing in the imigration of eastern writers just as several very fine Indians were turned out by Cooper. There are many herders, but from them the cowboy who is pictured by the common imagination was envolved. Texas produced the herder and the cowboy. Texas produces all there is of him yet I have seen the cowboy element as it actually exists—never totally depraved but always wild and often dangerous The dangerous cow-boy is rapidly disappearing.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Entertaining an Audience.

An incident occurred in the Union Square theater on Wednesday night that nearly ruined the movement of the lugubrious "Therese." An Englishman of middle age and of very dignified and stately manner entered the house attended by a valet carrying an immense basket of flowers. They took a box, and it was soon evident that the foreigner had been dining unwisely. There was a long wait between the first and second acts, and John Bull felt called upon to entertain the audience. Advancing to the front of the box he made his speech, with the utmost urbanity and profound bows:

"Ladies and gentlemen, let us not be impatient of this long wait. We can enjoy the orchesta's music and admire the pretty pictures on the drop curtain." At this point a police officer and an usher stepped into the box and politely invited the orator to leave the theater. After bowing to them with great consideration he turned again to the amused audience and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I yield to the majesty of the law. There is only one of me and many of you. I depart, and with me the comedy element of this entertainment disappears. After me the deluge!" The audience howled with delight and urged the Englishman to proceed, but with "swagger" dignity he departed, the valet with his basket of flowers bringing up the rear of the procession. Outside he kicked the big bouquet to pieces, and the street gamins all wore buttonhole pinks and roses through the evening.—New York Advertiser.

The Raleigh correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says there will be three contestants for State Printer—Josephus Daniels, S. A. Ashe and T. H. Jeringan.

The cabinet is not yet filled. They say that North Carolina will not be in it. And this is the fault alone of North Carolina.—Durham Globe.

The Governor's message is a model State paper, one of the best that has for many years been presented to the Legislature. While it is long, it is exhaustive, and shows a vast amount of study and preparation.—Charlotte Democrat.

The feature of this provision (a bill before the House) which would make the bonds of other States equally for the notes of our own State bonds appears to us rather objectionable. This State would have no power whatever over such bonds and it seems that whatever species of property may be named as a proper security should be within the jurisdiction of our own State courts, as the banks would be State institutions. This principle might not be forced in every case but would be safe as a general principle.—Raleigh Chronicle.

Neuse river was reported to be frozen over yesterday morning by country people visiting in the city—something that has not been known before in these parts within the memory of the oldest inhabitants. This would indicate that we are having the coldest weather on record. The death of Mr. Chas. H. Stanelli, who was for a long while connected with the post office here, occurred at 11:30 Friday night at the home of his relative, Mr. Leonard D. Bass in this city, of consumption, from which he has been a great sufferer for several years.—Goldsboro Argus.

Hair Found in a Tree.

The Herald, of Carlisle, Pa., tells a strange story about the cutting down of a hickory tree by William F. Rutherford, of near Harrisburg. He found in it a lock of human hair of auburn hue, which had evidently been placed there half a century ago. The tree was 150 years old. An auger hole had been bored near the ground and the lock of hair placed therein after which the hole has been filled with a plug, perfectly concealing it, and it was not discovered until the log was split open.

Gen. Butler was one of the most aggressive, sagacious and unscrupulous politicians of his age. Apart from having been a Jefferson Democrat construct onist and [illegible] protection theories, he appeared at Chicago as the leader of the high tariff element, and opposed the adoption of even the liberal tariff plank [illegible] the platform of that year. With great opportunities as a military chieftane he accomplished nothing, in the field that is turned to worn side by the loyal people of the nation, and with all his towering intellect and subtle legal cunning, he leaves few enduring monuments to tell that the world is better because he has lived in it. He was a politician of the narrowest sense of the term. He was a supporter and the candidate of every party that existed during his active participation in public affairs. Taking him all in all he was greater in resources than in achievements, and did more to dim his own greatness than all the enemies who have assailed him throughout his long and turbulent career.—Philadelphia Times, Ind. Dem.
