THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1893.

Mr. W. T. Linton left for London, via New York, last Saturday night.

A large number of Salisbury people are attending Mr. Moody's meetings at Charlotte this week.

Read what the New York Recorder has to say this week. His advertisement is on this page.

If you wish to discontinue your paper the right way to do about it is to call and settle all arrears.

On March 11 a vagrant negro was sold at auction for six months from the court house steps in Kansas City.

Mr. Moody goes to Wilmington from Charlotte this week. He will conduct a meeting there.

Prof. Graham's school at Trading Ford closed last Thursday for a picnic, and those who were fortunately present enjoyed the occasion.

The WATCHMAN will be sent in clubs of ten and over at 85 cents per year. Single subscription $1, six months 50 cents, three months 25 cents.

At T. B. Wyatt's "Temple of Bargains" are goods with prices that must take. Read his prices in this paper and go and examine his fine selections.

It is learned from the Landmark that the capital stock ($100,000) for a cotton mill in Statesville has all been taken. The erection of the buildings will begin next month.

Last Sunday evening, a little son of Mr. S. I. Parker, of Morgan township, was taken suddenly with a violent attack of the "group," and died a few hours afterward.

Lexington, N. C., will soon commence the building of a new cotton-yarn mill. A capital stock of $50,000 has been raised. W. E. Hill is to be president of the company.

FOR RENT—A large, comfortable place, suitable for a business office, second floor, with stairway entrance on Main street. Apply at WATCHMAN OFFICE.

E. W. Bart & Co., have something fresh and new this week. Attention is directed to what they say in their advertisement. Look for it in another column.

The advertisement of Messrs. C. F. Baker & Co., published in last week's WATCHMAN sold the goods therein offered. So, here is evidence that an advertisement in the WATCHMAN pays.

Married, in Morgan township, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. C. Baringer, by J. W. Miller, Esq., Mr. C. Morgan to Miss Lou Bassinger. The happy young couple have the good wishes of the WATCHMAN.

We are informed by Mr. McNamara, one of his agents, that C. B. Webb, the enterprising marble man of Statesville, will soon open a large marble yard here. We know Mr. Webb to be a hustler, and shall heartily welcome him to our city.

Hon. T. F. Klutz arrived home from Washington City Sunday morning last, having been there since Cleveland's inauguration. He reports the capital city as still pretty full of visitors, most of whom are probably seeking place either for themselves or their friends under the new Democratic administration.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Richmond Market Journal. We notice the Davis & Gregory Co., tobacco warehousemen, have a whole-page advertisement. They are evidently prospering. Fair dealing, business methods, and printer's ink to tell about it all—this is a combination that wins.

Messrs. J. A. Neely and W. C. Wright, two of Salisbury's enterprising young business men, left Monday last for Winston, where they are to open a mercantile business. We regret these gentlemen were induced to leave our city, for they are good, progressive citizens, and their departure is a loss here while Winston gains. Success to the boys.

Hon. Jno. S. Henderson and A. H. Boyden, Esq., arrived home from Washington Sunday morning last. The latter was ill when he reached home and is yet unable to leave his room. Mr. Henderson returned Monday night to Washington, where he will remain several days yet to finish up his committee duties and to see to the interests of his constituents who need his endorsement for official honors.

After many years of suffering, Mr. W. H. Houser, died at his residence in this city, at 2 o'clock last Monday morning, aged 72 years. The deceased had long been a victim of inflammatory rheumatism which rendered him a cripple during the latter years of his life, and which caused him great bodily suffering; but through the patience and manly fortitude. He was a good citizen, a devoted husband and father; and he was held in high esteem by the many who knew him. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

The first number of Our Fatherless Ones announces that our liberal-hearted citizen Capt. S. H. Wiley, proposes to be one of twelve to give $100 per annum for five years for a salary fund. G. W. Watts, Esq., signifies his willingness to be the second one of twelve. Let ten more accept and the fund will be raised. Mr. Watts makes a second proposition. He will be one of twelve to give $1250 toward a permanent salary fund. Should eleven more accept this proposition the fund will be provided. Think of these propositions, friends of the fatherless, and send in your names.

There is considerable ice this (Thursday) morning.

The fourth biennial Report of the North Carolina Board of Health is received.

The Yadkin train yesterday morning brought up four car loads of piping from the "Sam Christian" mine, in Montgomery county. The piping is being shipped to Long Island, N. Y.

Mr. William F. Griffith, chief of the Charlotte fire department, died at his home on South Mint street Monday the 13th inst. The news of his death was a painful surprise to the whole town. His death was the result of an attack of grippe and pneumonia.

Mr. T. M. McCulloh, of this city, has just returned from Baltimore, where he had Dr. Caidholm, the celebrated specialist of that city, to remove his sightless eye and replace it with an artificial one. The operation was successfully performed, and Mr. McCulloh is reported as doing well.

Charlotte News: The boiler of the Florence Cotton Mills, at Forest City, burst this morning, killing the fireman, Homer Harrell, instantly, and wounding seriously engineer Saunders and a young man named Dean. The accident occurred at 7 o'clock, soon after the hands had commenced work. The damage will amount to a considerable sum and will necessitate the mill stopping for some little while.

Miss Madge Redfern, a bright piece of 16 year old femininity, who is manager of the Western Union office in Moore, is in the city. She is what the boys call a "gilt edge sender." Charlotte Observer. (Miss Madge is a cousin of Mr. W. H. Redfern, a compositor on the WATCHMAN, and though he may not be of the "gilt edge" variety, yet a steadier and cleverer young man never held down a case or distributed a form, and is not ashamed of his "gilt edge" relative.—Ed. WATCHMAN.)

A neatly printed little sheet is Our Fatherless Ones, published semi-monthly at Barium Springs, in the interest of the Presbyterian Orphan's Home, located there. Its first issue reached our table last week. We hope the commendable purpose for which this journal is published will soon secure it such a circulation as will make it profitable to the institution and thus secure its enlargement and increased usefulness. We copy from it in another column a brief sketch of the Orphanage from its beginning up to the present time.

A "Handbook of North Carolina" has just been received. This is a very neat book of more than 300 pages, profusely illustrated, the pictures (evidently made from photographs) being very pretty. We have not read the book, but from a cursory examination we are pleased with it. That it was edited by Mr. J. D. Cameron is sufficient guarantee that the varied interests and resources of the State are set forth accurately and elegantly. The book is intended, we believe, for gratuitous distribution at the World's Fair in Chicago.

It is said that there are several candidates for the nomination for mayor. As the WATCHMAN does not make announcements gratuitously, these gentlemen will doubtless be heard from some other signature. Where all the aspirants are thorough Democrats and possess suitable qualifications, we shall of course remain neutral. Thus far the only gentleman who has made public announcement of his candidacy is a hustler, and has certainly started in to win if possible, and unless we are mistaken in the man he will make it lively until the convention announces its selection.

We have been twitted about the word "completely" as it appeared in a paragraph quoted from the Western Carolinian, as follows:

The same authority says "that a considerable number of rats have been found since the late snap completely dead from the effects of the cold."

We acknowledge the justness of the criticism, but not its application. Our friends should hunt up the editor and proof-reader of the Carolinian for 1893.

But the rats of '93 were not so enterprising as those of '92. A gentleman who lives in a cottage and weather boarded log house which is infested with rats, informs us that during the late severe weather the rodents moved to a comfortable lodging just above the fire-place. With the return of warmer weather they scampered away to their old haunts.

While Mr. Jas. Chaffin was attending to his duties one night last week, in turning down the gas lights of the city, on a street near the depot, a negro, Jno. Craige by name, peremptorily forbade Mr. Chaffin putting out a certain lamp until he passed. Of course Mr. Chaffin paid no attention to his impudence, whereupon the negro became angry and abusive, and finally grabbed up a stone with which he struck Chaffin. A policeman was called, but the negro ran and made his escape. Later a warrant was taken out and on Monday last he was caught, tried before Mayor Linn, found guilty of an assault and sentenced to sixty days on the county chain gang.

Mr. J. D. Bivens, of Albemarle, gave us a pleasant call this morning.

President R. F. Hoke of the G. O. C. & N. Railroad passed through the city on his way west yesterday.

Mr. Moody in Charlotte. The Observer says Mr. Moody will remain in Charlotte until to-morrow, and that from there he will go to Wilmington where he is to conduct a ten-day's meeting. His meetings in Charlotte were largely attended by the people, not only of the country immediately adjacent to Charlotte, but by hundreds from distant towns and communities. Mr. Moody's impression of the "Queen City" is thus given by Monday's Observer:

The evangelist is delighted with Charlotte, and the audience he is having. "I never saw so many people in a small place in my life. I don't know where they all come from." Mr. Moody says this is the most religious place he ever saw. The people, he says, seem to be in earnest about it, too. He was surprised beyond measure to find such a building here as that of the Y. M. C. A. "It is a revelation to me."

"The having of such a building here to speak in as the auditorium shows the push and progressiveness of the town." Mr. Moody preaches pure, plain doctrines making the plan of salvation so simple that a child need not err. Much hope is doubtless the result of his work, not only at Charlotte but wherever he preaches the Word.

Maning Notes.

Correspondence of the Watchman. An infant of Mr. D. K. Safrat died last Friday the 10th.

Mr. John Gaitner has been quite ill for the past few days with a gripe, but is better at this writing.

The ladies' missionary meeting will convene at Salem on Easter Monday, instead of Good Friday, as was heretofore announced.

There is considerable excitement in these parts about mad dogs. It was reported that two more mad dogs passed through here last week.

The Democratic flag which was erected in the yard of Messrs. J. & A. Sifford a while before the election in honor of President Cleveland, was taken down recently.

Old Granny McNally held something like a revival meeting at the school house a few nights since. Your correspondent tried to take down her discourse in shorthand, but the task was too great.

Mr. R. L. Berringer spent the evening with friends in this vicinity last Sunday.

Dynamite in Roanoke College.

Salem, Va., March 12.—In its forty years' honorable record Roanoke College has probably never had within its walls such a number of wild students as some of those there this season. So much of the college property has been damaged in various ways during the present session that the faculty would willingly have made an example if they could have detected the guilty ones, but as none of the students would inform, they were at a loss how to proceed. However, early this week they expelled two young men and put another on probation.

This simply enraged the wild element, who imagined that the junior, student named Willis, had been giving information. Early Friday morning a terrific explosion was heard in the lower corner of the main college building, and was accompanied by the falling of broken glass from the transoms over the dormitory doors.

A dynamite cartridge had been exploded outside Willis' bedroom, blowing a hole in the door, springing the corridor wall, and smashing several windows in the building. Luckily Willis was not in his bedroom or he would have been killed.

At a meeting of the college faculty Friday evening five more students were expelled.

The Y. M. C. Association of N. C. will hold its annual convention at Winston, beginning the 6th of April next.

Senator Gorman has stated emphatically that the Senate will seat no new Senators appointed by the Governor of a State. This disposes of the case of Allen and leaves the State of Washington with but one senator for the next two years.

Last Saturday night in Brunswick Co. Gaston Hickman, a young man 21 years old, quarreled with George Hill, a companion of about the same age, and drawing a clasp knife, cut Hill's throat from ear to ear, killing him almost instantly. Hickman fled, and at last accounts had not been captured.

The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record reports new industries established in the South for the week ending March 10th representing an aggregate investment of over $2,500,000.

Wilmington Star: There seems to be a good deal of dog in Virginia as well as in North Carolina, with a similar fondness also for mutton. In one county alone, Prince George, it is said the festive got away with $2,000 worth of sheep within a year.

The Wilmington Star is authority for a statement that Prince Robinson, a Birmingham, Ala., barber, of sable complexion, is a candidate for the position of Minister to Haiti, and he is backed by lots of Democrats he used to shave. To show that he does not draw the color line very strong and that there is nothing small about Prince, he says he will appoint a white man his secretary if he gets the job.

Montgomery County News—Troy.

There was a severe snow storm here last Saturday morning, with high, cold wind in the evening.

One of our citizens is extremely happy. It is a girl this time. He was so elated that whilst working in the garden he forgot what he was doing, and pulled up many of his fruit trees instead of cabbage stalks.

Col. B. F. Simmons has not yet returned from Washington, where he went to attend the inauguration.

Miss Minnie Lisk is visiting friends in Troy this week.

T. J. Shaw, Esq., is attending superior court at Carthage this week.

Mrs. James Lassiter, nee Miss Suggs, who is now a lunatic, is at the residence of Wm. Atkins, of this place, and an application, with a medical examination, will be made this week by Dr. Alex. Simmons, preparatory to sending her to the asylum at Raleigh.

Our Representative, J. R. Blair, after attending the inauguration at Washington, returned by way of Monroe, where he is visiting relatives. He will be at home this week.

Our farmers are busily engaged on their farms. They are badly behind in their work.

Our superior court will be held on Easter Monday, April 3. Judge R. W. Winston will preside.

There was another revenue case before Commissioner Moore this week—selling whisky.

A correspondent at Kennerlyville, N. C., informs us of an incendiary fire which occurred in that town on last Saturday night which destroyed the barn of Mr. Geo. Roy. Although the roof of the building had fallen in when the fire was discovered, Mr. Roy succeeded in saving his two mules and a cow, but lost all of his forage besides other property stored therein.

A Washington telegram says that the statement that the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution had voted to exclude collateral descendants is at least premature. The question is to be submitted for discussion to all the chapters during the present year and a final vote will be taken at the next congress in February, 1894. During the coming year all such applicants may be accepted, as they have been heretofore.

Why She Fanned the Grate. A Chinese sage, the happy husband of a third wife, came one day upon a young woman in mourning who was fanning a newly-made grave.

"May I ask, lady, what you are doing?" he inquired.

"Well, the fact is, this is the grave of my stupid husband who made me promise on his deathbed not to marry again until the soil above his grave should be dry. It is drying so slowly that I am fanning it to hasten the process."—Chinese Stories.
