The Common Sense View of the Money Question.

The only party that seems to be honest in its claimed adherence to the true principles of our form of government, and that seriously criticizes the constitutional prerogatives of the law-making powers of this country, to-day, is the Democratic party. The party has been true and loyal to that liberty-guarding instrument—the national constitution—throughout its existence, and we believe its leader, Grover Cleveland, is guiding it safely into the right financial harbor by his sound views on the money question and his firm and inflexible determination to carry out if possible the will of the people in giving them an honest and economical administration.

A true Southern Democrat, Maj. Hale, of the Fayetteville Observer, whom Capt. Ashe pronounces one of the "most polished" and "best" writers, gives what we believe to be the only true and common sense solution to the money question, which is, in part at least, in line with President Cleveland's opinion on this great and momentous subject. It strikes us that a good Democrat cannot conscientiously entertain any other method for dealing with the question than that laid down in the constitution.

We quote as follows from Maj. Hale's paper. It is good reading now when this question is the all absorbing one, and in which all are interested:

"He is a bold man who would attempt to solve at a breath the momentous money question. But there is a thing which orators have been in the habit of describing as the 'sheet anchor' of our liberties—without much realizing the significance of the words—which also will be found to be the sheet anchor of common sense. It is the United States Constitution, which rightly read—that is, read as any common sense person would read it—is the embodiment of all the governmental wisdom of all the ages applicable to such a government as it intended to put into being. Whenever we have departed from its strict letter we have invariably come to grief."

Further along after quoting the provisions of the Constitution he says: "There is not a suggestion anywhere in the constitution that the Federal government is entrusted with the power to make—that is to create—money. It can borrow money on the credit of the United States. It can punish counterfeiting its coin or securities. It can 'coin' money. To coin is to stamp a metal and (by so doing, that is, by stamping) to convert it into money. So it can 'fix the standard' of weights and measures, and can 'regulate' the value of foreign coin as well as its own coin. It cannot create an ounce out of that which is less than one sixteenth of a pound, nor can it create a pound out of a number of ounces less than sixteen. It has the same control—precisely the same control—over the 'value' of foreign coin that it has over its own coin. It is evident that it cannot give a value to foreign coin which such coin does not possess, and therefore it cannot give a value to its own coin which its own coin does not possess."

"In other words, the Federal government being a government of delegated powers, it can do only what it has been given the power to do, and over money its power is as we have stated: the power to 'coin' money and to 'regulate' its value."

As the substance of the matter, Maj. Hale well says: "The silver question will be solved when the government treats silver as the Constitution says it may treat it: when it confines itself to 'regulating,' not to creating, value in silver. And the 'more currency, and greater flexibility' of currency questions will be solved when the Home Rule of our fathers is reapplied to the currency question by the abolition of the unconstitutional 10 per cent tax on State banks."

"The Chicago platform is perfectly right on this subject. It is the first constitutional platform the Democracy has had in a long time. On the subject of money, it calls for the repeal of the Sherman law, and it calls for the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on State bank issues."

The telegraph announced the appointment Monday of Hon. Kope Elias as collector for the Western Internal Revenue district of this State, and Hon. B. B. Glenn as United States Attorney for said district. This is as we thought it would be all along. They are undoubtedly good, first-class selections, and the people can rest assured that this part of Uncle Sam's service will be well done. Both of these gentlemen have done valiant and herculean work for the cause of Democracy and are eminently worthy of the trust imposed and the honor conferred by their appointment. Others wanted their places, but they have won, and as both are esteemed as great favorites of their party in North Carolina, we trust all are satisfied that the right thing has been done.

Wilmington and Wadesboro Banks Fail.

The Bank of New Hanover, Wilmington with a capital of $300,000 and $200,000 surplus, closed its doors yesterday morning and made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors. The failure was caused by the withdrawal of $320,000 in deposits and notice of intended withdrawal of $150,000 more in a few days. The bank was unable to promptly meet these heavy calls for money and was forced to close. An official statement from the cashier says that the depositors will receive all their money.

The Bank of New Hanover at Wadesboro, a branch of the Wilmington bank, also closes its doors. It is believed that the depositors of this bank will be paid in full if its affairs can be settled independent of the Wilmington bank.

The Wilmington bank's liabilities are estimated at $800,000, with assets at $1,250,000. When the failure became known a run was made on the Wilmington Savings and Trust Company, which was crowded with depositors. The bank stood the test and confidence in its solvency has been restored.

The Fourth of July at Guilford Battle Ground.

We are gratified to learn that the preparations for the celebration on the 4th of July at the Guilford Battle Ground are in a most forward state and that there is every reasonable expectation of an immense assembly of citizens and a most enjoyable day.

The Monument, of Mt. Airy granite, is completed at the quarry and will be shipped to the Battle Ground tomorrow, when Mr. Thomas Woodruff will take it in charge and see to its erection on the chosen spot at once. It is a most unique and attractive design and when the bronze tablets are attached to the four faces of the die it will present a novel and imposing appearance. These bronze tablets 18x21 inches are the design of Bureau Bro's Philadelphia. These will bear the historical inscriptions and the fourth will be Coat of Arms of North Carolina.

The enlightened patriotism of Governor Holt, who preferred to donate his money for a North Carolina Monument rather than send it to adorn the Capitol of a sister state will strike a responsive chord in the heart of every true North Carolinian.

The dedication ceremonies will be elaborate and striking—as the monument is to mark the spot where the North Carolina volunteer riflemen of 1776 under Major Joseph Winston were fighting the Hessians and Tarleton's Cavalry after General Green had retreated from the field. Judge Schenck was especially requested by Governor Holt to deliver the address demonstrating this most important historical fact.

The Lexington Silver Cornet Band, sixteen strong, have given an exhibition of their patriotism by volunteering their services for the day. This is perhaps the largest and best band in the State, and their performances are superb. They will be the guests of the Guilford Battle Ground Company.

Adjutant General Francis H. Cameron has shown his appreciation of the day by a loan of a twelve pound Howitzer for the occasion.

Prof Henry J. Stockard, of the University of North Carolina, a poetical genius of rare qualifications and just now rising into fame, has written a most inspiring poem to be read as part of the dedication ceremonies.

Hon. Cyrus B. Watson, of Winston, will deliver the annual address in the evening to the Confederate Veterans reunion. No one who has ever heard Mr. Watson in happy moods will fail to hear him again when opportunity offers.

The Governor of the State, the president of the University and other distinguished North Carolinians have promised to be present at the dedication and add a word of congratulation when called upon.

The invitations are all printed and will be sent out this week. The posters are in press and will soon announce the attractions of the day in every corner of the State.—Greensboro Record.

Guilty of Criminal Negligence.

Washington, June 19.—The coroner's jury investigating the Ford's Theatre disaster has brought a verdict holding Col. F. C. Ainsworth, Contractor George W. Dant, Superintendent Covert and Engineer Sasse responsible for the deaths of the victims by reason of criminal negligence on their part.

The jury were out nearly two hours. The verdict, with much surplus verbiage, says that Dant excavated the earth beneath one of the brick pillars which supported the floors above without in any way shoring or protecting the pillar, and this caused the pillar to fall, bringing down the floors above with the results known.

"That Frederick C. Ainsworth was the officer in charge of said building and the said clerks, and that William G. Covert was superintendent of said building and that Francis Sasse was the mechanical engineer and fireman of said building; and the latter, although not an architect or civil engineer, prepared the plans and specifications for the enlargement of said cellar, and said Ainsworth, Sasse and Covert and each of them knew or ought to have known that said Dant was engaged in excavating said cellar and underpinning said piers and that he had not shored the columns and beams of said building or taken any other precaution to prevent the fall thereof or of said floors, nor did Ainsworth, Sasse, Covert, or either of them, take any precaution to prevent the fall of said floor while the said Dant was engaged in underpinning said piers or columns so as to protect the said clerks from the loss of life or limb by reason thereof, but said Ainsworth, Covert, Sasse and Dant were, and each of them was, guilty of criminal negligence in respect of said cellar and the underpinning of said piers then being and about to be done therein, and we, the jurors aforesaid, say the said Ainsworth, Covert Sasse, Dant and each of them is guilty of criminal negligence and we further find that Frederick C. Ainsworth, William G. Covert, Francis Sasse and George W. Dant are responsible for the killing of said Frederick B. Loftus; and we, the jurors aforesaid, say that the failure of the government of the United States to provide for skilled superintendence of the work of the repair and alteration of its building in charge of the War Department is most unbusiness-like and reprehensible, and we are of the opinion that if such superintendence had been proved in the case of the work on the Ford's Theatre building the awful tragedy might have been avoided.

At the request of the coroner, Mr. Thomas, the district attorney, read the verdict aloud. Not a sound disturbed him. It was supposed that the announcement would be followed by a scene, but when Thomas finished reading and laid down the paper not a man in the house spoke. There was an oppressive silence for a moment and then the voice of Lieut. Amis, requesting the assembly to file out quietly, was heard. His instructions were obeyed to the letter. Coroner Patterson decided not to issue warrants for the commitment of Ainsworth, Dant, Covert and Sasse until tomorrow morning, in order to give them an opportunity of obtaining bail. Ainsworth has already secured bondsman. Dant is very ill at his residence, suffering from a nervous attack brought on through the accusation made against him in connection with the disaster.

Three Tragic Occurrences.

A Correspondent of the Charlotte Observer writing from Marion, McDowell county, says:

Monday of last week was our county prohibition election day. The result: The county went wet. A crowd of wet voters met at Broad River precinct about 18 miles from here, and there were none in favor of the dry ticket they held no election. Before leaving the voting ground they were visited by a most disastrous thunder storm in which the lightning did some terrible work. Several had taken shelter under trees in which a stroke of lightning struck, killing William Garrison instantly and badly stunning four others, one of whose chances for recovery are doubtful. The same bolt of lightning killed a mule which was hitched near by. The unfortunate man being killed relieves the McDowell county court docket of several cases against him.

At the election at Nebo Monday a negro named Rutherford used some insulting words to a Mr. Simmons and Simmons struck him on the head with his gun, fracturing his skull.

At Old Fort election day Capt. Salisbury voted the wet ticket and shortly afterwards was driving his turkeys to shelter and fell dead.

Dormitory Destroyed by Fire.

By Southern Associated Press.

Warrenton, Ore., June 16.—The dormitory of the Central Wesleyan College was destroyed by fire last night. At the time the fire was discovered 1,200 people were in the college hall in attendance on commencement exercises. That a panic did not ensue is due to the presence of mind of the presiding officer, who quietly had the doors locked separating the hall from the burning portion and allowing the audience to make their exit calmly and safely. Several persons were injured by falling timbers while attempting to extinguish the blaze. The electric lights were shut off to prevent accident, leaving the city in darkness. Kerster, Professor of Theology, fell from the roof of one of the buildings and broke both legs, besides sustaining internal injuries.

Rates of Postage in 1814.

An old almanac for 1814 gives the following as the rates of postage prevailing at that time: For every single letter by land for 40 miles, 8 cents; 90 miles, 10 cents; 150 miles, 12 cents; 300 miles, 17 cents; 500 miles, 20 cents; and for more than 500 miles, 25 cents. No allowance to be made for intermediate miles. Every double letter is to pay double the said rates; every triple letter, triple; every pack weighing 1 ounce, at the rate of 4 single letters each ounce. Every ship letter originally received at an office for delivery, 6 cents. Magazines and pamphlets, not over 50 miles, 1 cent per sheet; over 50 miles, not exceeding 100 miles, 1½ cents per sheet; over 100 miles, 20 cents per sheet.—Quincy Patriot.

A Vicious Horse Seizes a Man by the Right Arm Crouches the knee.

Durham Sun, 16th.

H. D. Kerr, known here as Duncan, was plowing yesterday on G. W. Barber's place (his father-in-law) in Cedar Fork township, near Nelson, when the horse turned upon him in an apparently fearful rage. The horse seized his right arm above the elbow and bit him terribly. It is reported that the horse ran fully one hundred yards with his teeth firmly imbedded in Kerr's arm and that it took three men to choke the animal off, and when his hold was broken there he seized his arm again below the elbow. Dr. Cotten, of Morrisville, was summoned and gave medical aid. He will try to save the arm, but thinks it will eventually have to come off.

This strange freak of the horse is not accounted for and some persons entertain the idea that he was mad.

Lower Rates to Chicago.
Baltimore, June 15.—"It is not true," says a prominent official of the B. & O. R. R., "that our line has cut the rate from all sorts of reports about cutting rates, but the agreement has not been violated. There will be lower rates to the World's Fair before August. From the first it has been intended to sell lower rate limited tickets after a time to be fixed by the passenger committee of the Trunk Line Association. On Tuesday next the committee will meet to settle the matter, and by the first of July the tickets will be on sale."

GENERAL NEWS.

Washington, June 16.—The President today appointed George W. Sandelin, of North Carolina, Third Auditor of the Treasury.

The Kingston Free Press says there has not been a death of a white inhabitant of that town in two and half months—a splendid showing.

Chicago, June 17.—The Court of Appeals has unanimously decided in favor of open Sundays at the World's Fair. The court holds that the local directory is in full control and that the government has no standing.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 16.—J. R. Harris, of the Lubricating Company, was killed by two burglars, who had been discovered by him in his parlor, on Fifteenth avenue, at 2 o'clock this morning. He attempted to seize them and was shot twice, dying at 8 o'clock this morning.

Bristol, Tenn., June 17.—Henry Hall, aged 27, and a desperate criminal, was hanged at Pikeville, Ky., yesterday for the murder of his younger brother, Edward, last August. The murder was provoked during a game at cards. The murderer grew more desperate with confinement and died cursing.

A Coney Island, N. Y., dispatch says: A large amount of property was destroyed by fire Friday. John Madden, volunteer fireman, was standing on the roof of a building near the fire, when he was precipitated to the ground, falling between two structures, and before his comrades could go to his rescue his head was burned completely from his body.

A western editor thus records a theft by which he was the loser: Some worthless scoundrel committed the very reprehensible act of stealing a pair of overalls from the editor's porch one evening recently. The only consolation we can derive from their loss is that possibly they may lead the thief into the paths of rectitude where they have habitually trodden, thereby causing him to forsake his evil ways and become an ornament of society.

Baltimore, Md., June 16.—The schooner John Holland, from Norfolk for Providence, sank this morning near Cape Henry, Va., through a collision with the steamer Michigan, from Baltimore for London.

The collision occurred at 4 o'clock. The schooner was loaded with coal. It went down in twenty minutes. The crew was rescued and taken to Norfolk.

Fayetteville, N. C., June 16.—The burglars who robbed the two stores Wednesday night were captured at Keyser station, and are now in charge of Sheriff Smith and Geo. A. Burns, who went in pursuit of them. One of the burglars was shot in the arm and side before he would surrender. One thousand dollars of the money was taken with them, with one hundred and fifty missing. The men are strangers and very young in appearance. The Sheriff arrived tonight at 7:30 with them. They refused to talk. There is great rejoicing over their capture.

Memphis, Tenn., June 17.—General Hathcock, aged 19, and Mark Davis, aged 17, were convicted today of the murder of Dr. T. A. Clark, and sentenced to twenty years each in the penitentiary. The boys worked as farm hands for Dr. Clark and had a dispute as to their wages. They went to where he was at work in the field, and Hathcock shot him in the back. There were no witnesses but the participants, and Dr. Clark died without giving any particulars, merely stating that Hathcock shot him. Hathcock and Davis swore that Clark fired first, and when Hathcock drew his pistol, Clark turned so as to receive the ball in his back. It was proved that Clark had no pistol and only the youth of the boys saved them from a death sentence.

Hathcock's father, an attorney, was arrested today for contempt of court. He tried to bribe witnesses to show that his son's pistol had only one chamber discharged and that a pistol was found on Clark.

New York, June 17.—Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant and Mrs. Jefferson Davis are to meet. The wives of the two great leaders will exchange their first greetings at the Cranston's on the Hudson in sight of West Point Military academy. The place has many associations dear to the hearts of both, as their husbands were graduates of the academy. Mrs. Grant is now a guest at Cranston's, and Mrs. Davis will stop at the same place. The two ladies will thus meet every day. Mrs. Grant, in speaking of Mrs. Davis' intended visit, said she hoped she would not disappoint her as she did last year. She is very anxious to become acquainted with her. Mrs. Davis and daughter, Miss Davis, are at Hotel Marlborough and will remain there until early next week, when they will go to Cranston's. Mrs. Davis has expressed a wish to meet Mrs. Grant on ground which is of such historic interest to both. She feels greatly pleased with the kind expressions of interest Mrs. Grant has manifested in the coming visit.

Montgomery News.
(From our Regular Correspondent.)
Mr. GILEAD, N. C. June 20th '93.—It has seldom fell to our lot to chronicle the demise of a citizen more universally esteemed by all classes of this community than the subject of this article, Calvin W. Wooley, Sr., the news of whose very sudden and unexpected death reached us last Monday evening.

We learn that Monday, the 21st instant, at noon, Mr. Wooley, in apparently excellent health and spirits ate his dinner at his home in Troy, and shortly after went up town to his office to attend to some managerial duty. After conversing with some persons, whose names we have not learned, during which time he uttered no complaint of feeling unwell, while in the act of taking his spectacles from their case, he suddenly threw up his hands, fell from his chair and expired almost instantly.

His sudden death was a terrible and painful shock, not only to his distressed family, but to the entire community in which his true worth was known. He was a good citizen, a devoted and affectionate father and husband, a faithful friend, and withal a courteous, refined, Christian gentleman. His remains were buried at the family graveyard, near Mt. Gilead, Tuesday, Rev. K. A. M. Lead, conducting the solemn ceremonies due to the occasion. The deceased was twice married, and the wife who survives him, and five children by his first marriage, all grown and settled in life, have the heartfelt sympathy of the writer, and their host of friends throughout the county and section who knew him but to esteem him.

Will Stand by Dr. Briggs.

The Union Theological Seminary has cast its gauntlet into the Presbyterian Church arena that the foes of the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Briggs may take it up. It was unanimously decided at a meeting of the board of directors on Tuesday last that Dr. Briggs should continue his work in the department of biblical history.

Secretary Ezra M. Kinsley said yesterday that the seminary meant to stand by Dr. Briggs to the end. He said that the directors decided to make special provision that none of the students of Union Seminary should suffer from the restrictions which have been put upon the Presbyterian board of education by the General Assembly. The formal acceptance of the Rev. Dr. Arthur C. McGiffert, of the Washington professorship of Church history, and the Rev. William Adams Brown, of his appointment as instructor in systematic theology, were received at the meeting of the directors.—Herald.
