Two Clever Answers.

It is reported that a man, appointed sixth auditor of the treasury subject to examination, was asked to state the distance of the moon to the earth. His written answer was simply, "Not near enough to effect the function of a sixth auditor." He passed. So did another who, being examined for employment in the treasury, was asked how many soldiers England sent to this country during the Revolution. His answer was, "A blamed sight more than ever got back."

gleton, who murdered LuluPayne in the tirely new apportionment of pensions penitentiary a few days ago, has been in. the present term of court if his condition will permit it. Singleton is now serving a life sentence for murder. His case will perhaps be the only one on record where a life convict has ever fore been tried before a court for murder. As the evidence is conclusive there is little doubt of his receiving the extreme penalty.

This is what we need - not so much an aggressive as an attractive religion. Men are not at peace; they pursue it over sea and land, but they not have found it. If in every Christian they beheld a soul manifestly at peace with itself, filled with a joy unspeakaable which betrayed that it has found to preach them and plead with them so much; they would come flocking of their own accord like doves to their windows. - Rev.
