be instituted by miners in the vicinity of Bellaire, O., about January 1st. if operators do not revoke their decision to cut the wages at that time. Rev. Edwin A. Bolles, a well known and venerable Lutheran minister, died at his home in Columbia, S. C., last Thursday. He was in his eighty-second year, and had preached 50 years. Both sides deny the story that any effort has been made to compromise the case of Miss Pollard against Congressman Breckinridge, and the latter says he is confident of his re-election.

The state of North Carolina now has 925 convicts at work ditching and clearing new lands at its great leased farm on Roanoke river-the largest number of convicts it ever had thus employed. Six men held up a train near Coceyville, Kansas, Sunday night, robbing the mail and express cars, and relieving all the passengers of their money, jewelry, etc. They blew open the express car with a bomb. Charles Mitchell, the English pugilist, was given a grand ovation on his arrival at Jacksonville, Fla., last Thursday. He is said to be in fine condition and confident of victory in the coming bout with Corbett. Two men who committed murders in Kansas have been located in the Mississippi penitentiary, where they are serving a sentence for burglary. One of them is the murderer of express messenger C. A. Chapman, at Mound Three of the leaders of the late n.

gro riot at Wildwood, Fla., were arrested, after a desperate resistance, on Tuesday. Seventy-five shots were fired, and several negroes were slightly wounded. The negro who started the difficulty is still at large.

The call of Governor Waite for an extra session of the Colorado legislature was dated December 25th, and the legality of the call is being questioned on account of Christmas day being a legal holiday in all the states of the Union. The courts will probably be asked to decide the matter. Exhibitors are slow about removing world's fair exhibits from Chicago. There are now 20,000 packages lying in the buildings which cannot be removed by December 31st, the date fixed for the termination of the customs condition of the buildings. An extention of the time is asked for. SOUTHERN INDUSTRIES

> TWENTIETH CENTURY FAIR Paris Is to Have Another Fair

The site of the exposition of 1900 has been definitely selected. At the meeting of the sub-committee especially appointed to settle the question, it was decided that the Champ de Mars, the Trocadero, the Esplanade des Invalides, the Quai d'Orsay, the Palais de l'Industrie and the surrounding ground, should all be devoted to the great world's show that is to be held there at the close of the century, and that the banks of the Seine should be further connected by a bridge to be constructed between the Pont de la Concorde and the Pont des Invalides. It is interesting to note, now that this problem has been solved, that all the members of the sub-committee who attended the meeting were in favor of this choice, M. Berger, who was the sole absentee, being the only one who would have preferred Auteuil; yet, as a matter of fact, M. Berger's views were originally shared by most of his colleagues. It was objected, however, that the distance from the center of the metropolis would be too great. and the Parisian tradesmen, fearing that a smaller number of visitors would thus be attracted to the city. also made their voices heard with good effect. One by one the subcommittee were brought around to the opinion that the old site was, after all, the best, and the resolution at which they have arrived completely settles the affair.

One of the principal entrances to the exhibition will be on the Place de la Concorde, but the square itself will not be interfered with, nor, indeed, will any attempt be made to include such well-known establishments as Ledoven's restaurant and the cafe chantant of the Horloge, situated between the Place de la Concorde and the Palais de l'Industric, within the boundaries of the world's show.

People have been inquiring with much curiosity whether the Eiffel tower, which was the crowning feature of the exhibition of 1889, is to be allowed to stand, as the architect of the city of Paris has spoken In favor of its partial demolition. M. Pickard, however, said that nothing had yet been decided on the subject. - London Telegraph.

lowa's Ice Cave.

Decorah, Winneshiek county, Ia., has the finest specimen of the typical ice cave to be found in the Mississippi valley, being a far better representation of that class of natural curiosities than the famous "Natural Icehouse" in Minnesota.

It has been known to the inhabitants of that portion of the Hawkeye state for more than a quarter of a century. It was first scientifically described by the White geological surveying party in 1869, and has since been visited by many of the noted scientists of this country and Europe. To this Iowa oddity, if to any, the evaporation theory of ice accumulation may be applied. The walls, and especially the roof, of the cave are very near the surface, in no case being more than twenty-five feet below the surroundings, and in some places not more than ten. A fact which goes a long way toward establishing the truth of the rapid evaporation theory as applied to ice caves in general, says the St. Louis Republic, is that where the walls of this Winneshiek mystery are thinnest the ice accumulations are thickest. The floors and the base of the walls are the only places where ice is found, and there only in the warmest months of the year, say during the five months beginning with May. Charles White, director of the lown geological survey of 1870, says that "the Winr shick ice cave is about 100 feet in length, taking all its windings into consideration."
