The Coming Political Battle.

A contemporary truthfully says, the elections next fall are "in no sense unimportant." It is important that our own State government remain in control of the Democracy. Important that our Legislature be able to elect a Democrat to the United States Senate, as Senator ransom's term' expires with the last ses sion of the present Congress. Important that we may continue to have a majority in both houses of Congress so that the legislation begun for the relief of the people be not checked, or that those rehef measures already enacted be net repealed,

It is evident that the result in this State will be a Democratic victory if the party be thoroughly organized and enter the contest with a determined and united effort; because, if the Republicans and Populists were to enter into a a combination enough honest Republicans and Populists will vote the Democratic ticket to defeat the unholy combination. And if, as in the last election, each of these parties put a ticket in the field, a victory for Democracy is assured; because the Populists are not nearly so strong as at last election, when they cast the largest vote they will ever be able to cast again in this State.

The Democrats as usual will have to be prepared to refute falsehood, expose deception and trickery, and show an honest effort to relieve the country from the evils of vicious sectional legislation; not only in what they have done in the one short year of their power, but prove that they have endeavored, as far as the exintrusted the duty to fulfill those pledges have falled in performing their duty, then turn the indifferent derelicts down, select more honest and capable men, and do not blame the grand old party for the faults vants who imagine all they are expected propriation for the enlargement of our to do is to draw their pay and attend the sessions of Congress as it suits their convenience and if, peradventure, they are present at roll-call, to vote only in accordance with their own sweet will.

The easy, haleyon day of the prafessple are beginning to know they are the out, else the unfaithful servant will find himself a witness some fine morning at his own political obsequies. But, we believe, very few of the Southern Congressregret to record the fact, that all are not a character-obstinately self-willed.

The permanent prosperity of this country hinges upon what Congress will do within the next two years. If the existing tariff and pension laws are not greatly they know their only hope is in the Democratic party and will be patient and discrete enough to give it time to bring about the relief so long desired and hoped teach us that it will take several years, vided it is sufficient for our purposes." the world. at least, for a perfect recuperation of all industrial interests. The issu of bonds is to be limited to the immediate needs of the Government, thus leaving Congress free to act as soon as it may be so disposed, by providing other means of raising money that must be had from some source. One of the most interesting incidents of the present tariff debate in the House of Representatives, was the discussion between Mr. Reed and Mr. Cochran on this point. Mr. Reed said:

"Now, let us come for a moment to this question of wages. The gentleman says that it depends upon supply and demand. I say that is an utterly exploded doctrine. Wages depend upon the amount of the market, and also succeeded in killing the deg after beupon the nature of the workingman himself. A Story of Love and War.

The Norfolk Landmark is responsifor the truthfutness of this following story, the facts in which we have to reason to doubt:

In December, 1863, Company $100 for the capture of the party who Eighty fifth New York Regiment, was stationed at Roanoke Island, this State, and Mr. John P. Dunning, then a handsome young man of 23 years, was a private in that company. He met there Miss Margaret Stone. then a prefty girl of eighteen summers and mutual admiration soon sprang up between them. He addressed her, and on the night before Christmas of that ing a March convention to nominate year they were happily married. Soon after the marrige the company was ordered to Plymouth, and Mrs. Bunning went with her husband, but at Plymonth they seperated, Mr. Dunning giving his wife wife money and sent her back th her father on Ronnoke, without being seen. There are no where she was told to remain until he turned for her if he outlived the war.

> The company then proceeded to Columbus, where Mr., Dunning was taken prisoner and sent to Andersonville, where he remained until the end of the war. Being released from prison he at once preceeded to seek information of his wife, but he was informed in the meantime that his bride had been drowned in attempting to cross Kitty Haw buy.
