Miss Bessie Henderson has returned from a visit to Washington.

Mr. Claud Thompson went to Statesville this morning on business.

Prof. Hume's lecture, in the Y. M. C. A. hall last Thursday night, was of a highly entertaining character, and it is regretted that a larger hall was not secured for the occasion; for there were many who were there to hear him but could not even get standing room. Get the Doctor to come again and have him lecture in the Opera Hall, or a hall large enough to give all a chance to hear so popular a lecturer.

There seems to be something wrong in the internal revenue laws—only recently discovered—or else it is improperly executed. Distillers are not allowed to sell in packages containing five or more gallons; but a few days 13 kegs were seized by the officers here because they contended that some of said kegs were five gallon kegs;—yet, we are told none of the kegs really had as much as 5 gallons. This feature in the law should be made plain.

I. H. Foust Sentenced—Two Years.

After the charge of His Honor, Judge Battle to the jury, last Wednesday night, it did not take them long to come to a verdict of guilty; but owing to the late hour at which court adjourned, this was not rendered until Thursday morning, when as stated in last week's WATCHMAN, the defendant's counsel gave notice of an appeal for a new trial and the required bond was given until his lawyers could prepare their plea.

Friday morning Mr. Foust's attorneys argued their motion for a new trial, which being denied, an appeal to the Supreme court was taken, when the Judge said that he did not think he had committed an error in trying the case, but that he was glad the defendant had appealed to a higher tribunal so that if he (his honor) had committed an error it would be made known, and justice be rendered to all concerned. Then followed the imposing of the sentence—two years in State prison—which is the lightest limit of the law in such cases.

Preceding the passing of the sentence, a number of the best citizens of the town were examined as to the previous good character of Mr. Foust, which was done to mitigate the punishment. Each of these witnesses testified that no man in the city more fully possessed the confidence of the people, and that his character had been without reproach or blemish. During this part of the proceedings, some of the witnesses exhibited warm and tender feelings, and the scene was sad and impressive, and all asked that mercy be shown to an erring brother. After these had given their evidence, Mr. Foust when asked by the court if he had anything to say, arose and confessed to having committed a great wrong, expressed sorrow and penitence, and alluding to the great mental suffering he, and his family, had been and were then undergoing, threw himself upon the mercy of the court.

The public hearing, Judge, in passing sentence, had his duty to perform, but expressed sincere regret and pity for the defendant, and in consideration of the good character and upright life he had previously lived, he would give the minimum penalty the law prescribes for such offence, which was two years in State prison.

Tested Their Piety.

There was a grand baptizing at a colored church in Washington City the other night, and the candidates for the rite found their new grace put to a very severe test immediately after the ceremony. When they returned to the dressing-room to resume their worldly garments they found, to their dismay and annoyance, that during their absence some evil disposed person had been examining their clothes, and had relieved them of all their cash and other valuables. The young man who reported the matter to the police, was one of the robbed. He said that he had just got religion that morning, but that if he could come up with that thief he would put his new principles aside long enough to give him the worst trouncing that he ever had in his life.—Ex.

Charlotte Observer: The principle of protection for protection's sake is one is inherently wrong. Germany and Russia two countries between whom little love is lost, have found it absolutely imperative to their industrial prosperity to remove the high tariff walls they had erected, the one against the other, and have just negotiated a commercial treaty. This will probably compel France to modify her high tariff laws. Commenting on this fact the Philadelphia Times, then which there is no more orthodox newspaper authority on the tariff question, says: "It is a fact which interests us even at this distance, that the universal industrial depression of the present time has been associated with high tariff experiments in all parts of the world, a convincing proof that in these days of close international communication the utmost freedom of exchange is essential to prosperity."

Death Through A Kiss.

It was a joyous company of young, middle aged and aged people who congregated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Larkin in Susquehanna, Pa. They met in honor of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of their host and hostess, who had passed their allotted three score years and ten and were still in the enjoyment of perfect health.

Several sweet faced, laughing grandchildren were present to contrioute their share of sunshine to the occasion. Little 5-year-old Mary Edwards, with her bright blue eyes and light tresses, was there. After kissing her grandmother affectionately she sprang upon her grandfather's lap, exclaiming, "Grandpa, I have lots of kisses and a bear hug for you."

Then the old man pressed the sweet face of his favorite grandchild to his, fervently remarking: "God bless you, Mary. No company would be complete without you. You are the embodiment of sunshine itself, and I trust you will grow to be a noble woman."

"Tell me how much you love me, grandpa," said the child, "and then I will give you the kisses and the bear hug."

"I cannot tell you how much I love you, child," answered the old man, "but I can assure you it is a big lot."

Then Grandfather Larkin imprinted kisses after kisses upon the rosy cheeks, and the child, delighted at the manifestation of affection, returned the compliment, and then, throwing her little arms about the old man's neck, gave the promised "bear hug." She then crawled down from grandpa's lap and busied herself for a time among others of the company. An hour later, and just before the joyous party were about to partake of dinner, the same little Mary approached her grandfather, remarking, "Grandpa, I want to give you one more kiss before dinner, and then I want you to sit by me at the table."

The old man smiled and lifted the little girl in his arms. Two minutes later he felt a tickling sensation in his throat and realized that in returning the last kiss a hair had caught in his mouth and been sucked into his wind-pipe.

This immediately produced hard fits of coughing, and before relief could be obtained a blood vessel was ruptured, and death resulted instantly.

Consternation reigned for a time, and the aged partner of the unfortunate septuagenarian, overcome with grief, fell in a swoon. She rallied an hour later, but it is thought her grief will cause her death in a short time.—New York Herald.

Prayer is the door forever open between earth and heaven. There is quite a freak of nature near Big Creek, Stokes county. It is a white negro girl who is about six years old and in good health. She was born to parents as black as the "ace of spades," so to speak. The latter is as white as wool.

Read the Following Magnificent Offer.

MONEY MADE EASY, YOU CAN DO IT, SO WHY NOT TRY? We call the attention of our readers to the remarkable clubbing offer in another column by which we can send this paper and the Atlanta Weekly Constitution to the same address for one year for the low sum of $1.50.

This is the only offer of its kind we have ever been able to make to our readers.

The Atlanta Weekly Constitution is too well known to need any introduction here. It has won its place at the fireside of the nation as a model weekly newspaper. It numbers on its staff some of the most famous and brilliant writers of the day and on all public questions its lance is ever in rest to defend the rights of the people. It is the largest and most widely circulated weekly newspaper published in America having a circulation of 150,000, and it week. It is in itself an education to those who read it. By the clubbing rate which we offer, our readers can get the Weekly Constitution and their home paper at but little more than the cost of one paper, thereby getting the news of their home and the news of the world every week for a year at an insignificant outlay.

In addition to this, every subscriber to this paper and the Constitution, under our clubbing arrangement, will be given an opportunity to win some handsome prizes.

All these matters are explained in another column. We merely call attention to it here to show our readers what a liberal offer we have to make to them. These offers are made by our arrangement with the Constitution, and only those who subscribe for both papers through this office are entitled to take part in the contest.

This is the most liberal clubbing offer any have ever been able to make, and we feel sure that it will prove immensely popular with our readers.
