The Republicans of Ind.ana in State Con-Tennou Assembled.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 27. - For over twelve hours vesterday and last night, without a single recess for a bite or a sip, the 1,700 delegates to the republican state convention devoted themserves to the making of a party ticket to be voted on in November. This extraordinary sess on was due to the fact that there were no less than forty-three candidates for the ten nominations, and taking their keynote from the speeches of ex-President Harrison and ex-Secrotary Thompson, both of whom suggested that a republican nonlitation in Indiana this year was equivalent to an election, the supporters of each candidate fought to the last ditch for their favorites.

Three and in some cases four ballots were required for each nomination, and the net results of nine hours calling of the roll four nominations had been madeup to 8 o'clock last night.

The Alarming Proportions of the Congressional Sick List.

WASHINGTON, April 27. - The sick list of men in and about congress is reaching remarkable dimensions. Senator Stockbridge is but slowly recovering from a severe illness at Chicago. Representative Simpson is is not yet convalescing. Representative Schermerhorn's condition still excites the apprehension of his associates, and Representative Brattan is at nome with an organic trouble which gives no hope of his return te congress.

Representative Graham, of Brooklyn. has never taken his seat. o ving to coutinued idness since his term began. Representative Brown, of Indiana, is still ailing from his recent serious attack. Representative Wilson, of West Virginia, has about recovered, but can not resume congressional duties for information. Every beggar who refuses to give that information ought to be summarily dismissed with the injunction to protect himself and never appear again insolently demanding favors from congress

Second, there is the important matter of materials. Under the Wilson bill domestic goods would be produced at lower cost because the leading raw materials would be free, and materials advanced beyond the raw stite would be subject to greatly reduced duties. Senatorial botchwork may require a modification of this statement, but even in its present form the bill greatly favors manufacturers. This fact the tariff benefficiaries very carefully ignore. Senator Smith, of New Jersey, recently said: "I have heard tha manufacturers are very much pleased with that Wilson bill. Its passage will give them an opportunity to increase their profit-15 to 20 per cent. by cutting down wages, and at the same time charge that it is made necessary by the tariff bill. They will not say that by the bill they will save large percentages on the cost of raw materials." And he might have added advance | materials. And so the game is to cut wages upon a false pretense and pocket larger profits.

"The tariff is all a matter of wages," say the philan hropists who spend time and money in Washington looking after the interests of their dear bired men aul women. "If the tariff goes down wages must go down in the same ratio."

Very well, then if the tariff goes up wages must go up in the same ratio. This is a rule which must work both ways if the tariff is all a matter of wages. But how was it after the passage of the McKinley law in 1890? The haw advanced duties nearly all along the line. And yet wages did not go up. On the contrary, they went down in the protected industries very soon after the law went into effect. Take the woolen industry for instance. In 189) the duties on woolen manufactures averaged 69.08 per cant; in 1893 they averaged 98.55 per cent. The McKinlev law increased the average rate 29.47 points, or 42.6 per cent. The factory operatives did not get the benefit of that. Their wages were lower after the passage of the McKinley law than they were before. In the carpet brane 1 of the woolen industry facts which have been published show a cut averaging more than 10 per cent. And no donut the cut was as great in other branches. And so it was in other industries it is notorious that the McKinley act, s . far from advancing wages had no effect even to prevent a decline in the verv industries which were most favored by that act And as the McKinley act dif not raise wages, so the Wilson bill will not lower wages Wages have know and no doubt will be reduced upon the false pretense that the Wilson bill mikes a reduction necessary. But the falseness of the pretense will be un. covered in good time, and then wages will go up again. The manufacturer may not make quite so much, but with his materials wholly or partially untaxed he will not have to close his mills and go to the poorhouse. Ils will survive and his employes will have more steady work and quits as good wages. -Chicago Herald
