

CONCORD AND CABARRUS COUNTY.

Concord Times, June 9th.

Another R. F. D. route has been recommended to go from Mt. Pleasant, and it is expected that the service will begin in two or three months. The route will go from Mt. Pleasant to Mission, Lambert, Tucker and Leading, then back to starting point.

A small child of John Fletcher, of the Cabarrus Mill, was run over last Tuesday by Mrs. R. O. S. Miller's buggy. The child ran out in front of the buggy just as it passed, and both wheels passed over it. Fortunately the wheels had rubber tires and the child was not hurt much.

John T. Goodman, whose bottling works at Albemarle were burned Sunday night, returned to Concord Tuesday. He says he will rebuild the works at Albemarle. The loss was about $1,400, $800 insurance. He thinks the house was accidentally set on fire by some people who were in there stealing.

Rev. L. L. Triplett, a well-known Methodist minister, died suddenly last Saturday at his home in Mooresville. He was 75 years of age, and was superannuated.

Mr. Morrison Fetzer, who fell 70 feet in a Miama mine shaft last Thursday, is getting along as well as could be expected. He is badly bruised and very sore, but it is believed that there are no internal injuries.

Mrs. H. M. Barrow returned last Saturday afternoon from Salisbury, where she had been for treatment in the Sanatorium. We are glad to note the fact that she is much improved.

Concord Times, June 13th.

One day last week a Concord lady, while standing near the well at her home, saw a chicken fly up on the well house. The chicken struck the bucket, knocking it in the well. This, of course, caused the windlass to revolve. At the first revolution the handle hit the chicken on the head, killing it instantly. This is a true bill.

Mrs. Frank Isenhour, of No. 4 township, died last Thursday, aged about 60 years. Her husband and two children survive her. She was a faithful member of the Lutheran church for many years. The interment was made Friday at Enochville.

Last Sunday the centennial services were held at the First Presbyterian Church, and the programme was carried out exactly as published in The Times several weeks ago. The weather was fine, and a large audience, probably 1,000 people, assembled in the handsome new church to attend the services. No services were held at the Central and Forest Hill Methodist Churches. The sermon in the morning was preached by Rev. Dr. Ephraim H. Harding, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Milton. Dr. Harding was pastor of the church here about 40 years ago, when the congregation worshipped in the little building now used as a warehouse in rear of the city hall.

J. A. Reid, colored, of Mt. Pleasant, while ploughing last Wednesday, was struck in the stomach by the plow handles (caused by the plow striking a root) and received internal injuries from which he died Friday. He was 35 years old.

R. W. Bigger, of Flows, has for the past two years been experimenting with Irish potatoes, and has, by actual results, proven that farmers need not go north to their planting potatoes. In the spring of 1904 he planted northern potatoes. From the first crop he gained from this planting again last fall, and the second crop he gained from his own potatoes he gained in the spring, and the third crop he gained from this planting as a fourth crop in

Enforce the Watts Law.

The Monroe Journal makes a suggestion regarding the failure of county officials in certain sections of the state to enforce the Watts law which is worthy of serious attention. If there is a positive law on the statute books and the county officers ignore it and refuse to make effort to bring to punishment those knowingly violating it why should not the grand juries take the matter up and indict those county officers who so flagrantly neglect their duties and violate their oaths of office? That paper is right in its declaration that the governor is chief executive officer of the state and that it is his duty to see the subordinate executive officers do their duty in this respect. If the sheriffs and other officers in some counties are winking at this violation of the law it is the governor's duty to see that they do not to suppress this lawlessness or have them punished through the grand juries. The Journal says:

A special from Carthage, Moore county, tells of a stir there over alleged illicit liquor traffic and of efforts United States officials are making to enforce the law. The state authorities it is added are doing nothing. Thus the evidence is accumulating that in many sections of North Carolina the Watts and Ward laws are dead letters.—Charlotte Observer.

In our primer days we were taught that it was the business of the executive department of the government to see that the laws were enforced. It was also stated that the governor was the chief executive of the state and the sheriff the chief of his county. Has all this been changed? If it hasn't, why is it not the business of the solicitors and grand juries to indict the sheriffs for making no attempt to arrest the law breakers.—Wilmington Messenger.

Southern Boys in Demand.

The following item was clipped from the "Live Topics About Town" column of the New York Sun of a few days ago: "The men most in demand now as clerks for apartment hotels are young Southerners who have come to New York to live. They do not always intend to go into occupations of that kind, but seem to drift there by natural selection. Most of them have good manners by nature and the savvy that is so often the possession of the men from below Mason and Dixon's line. Whatever the cause of it may be, these young immigrants to New York very readily find such employment."

Southern boys are coming into their own wherever they go nowadays. The young men who attend lectures and take courses at the educational institutions of the North rank with the first.

Microbe Weather

These warm, balmy days make fine growing weather for myriads of microbes. They are laying in wait for your health. The thing to do is to destroy them with a good germicide before they have an opportunity of harming you. Smallpox, diphtheria, typhus, scarlet fever and all infectious diseases are germ diseases. Disinfectants should be used freely in every dark spot or damp place, in cellars, drains, etc., and the sooner we use every disinfectant of known value. Cost almost nothing in comparison with good they do.
