Flavoring Extracts

Made Just for You.

It stands to reason that in making flavoring extracts for our own trade, and requiring only a moderate profit, we can supply better extracts than some distant manufacturer who must provide for two or three profits.

There is a distinct saving here that goes into the quality of our extracts. Try them for cooking and see how much fresher, stronger and more appetizing our extracts are.

Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, we furnish patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. For this purpose I am so certain that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial relief, nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real genuine merit. But this article must possess true merit, else the test will be of no value. The test is as follows: Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic. It is put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars with cream like packaging, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc., surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative. For uncomplicated Catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY Will Surely Stop That Cough.

A DIABOLICAL MURDER.

Mangum Martin Lured Away and His Life Taken. Murderer Escapes.

A ghastly murder was brought to light last Friday morning about about 10 o'clock, when the dead body of Mangum Martin was found near Brown's brickyard between the creek and the railroad. The body was found by Mary Stafford, a colored girl, who was tying out a cow. She stumbled over the body in a clump of bushes, and immediately ran home to tell the news.

The alarm was given, and a number of people went to verify the girl's story. The body was as she stated lying on the back. There were four bullet holes in his head, and his head was almost severed from the body. The left hand held a pistol, four chambers of which were empty. There was no evidence of a scuffle.

Mr. Martin had been missing for thirty six hours before his death. He ran a store on Corbin street at the top of the hill near the depot, and about 8 o'clock Wednesday he left the store and told his son if he did not return in a short while to close up the store and go home. His son thought little of the matter, and later closed the store and left.

Mr. Martin when last seen was going toward the depot. That is the last that was seen of him, so far as is now known, until he was found stark and stiff a day and a half later. He was a man who nearly always carried a considerable sum of money on his person, and was found of showing it. When he left the store he had $400 in cash in his pocket, and when he was found this was missing together with his watch. Nothing was found on his person, except a box containing morphine tablets, his pocket knife and 70 cents in change.

Wednesday Mr. Martin's family began to feel uneasy about him, and instituted a search for him. No trace whatever could be found, and on Friday morning the police force was notified. Officers Beunfield and Sides made a general search for him, but failed to find him.

The theory is generally accepted that Mr. Martin fell into the hands of some one who knew he had the money about him, that he was lured to the place of his undoing, and murdered. The theory of suicide is untenable, and it was impossible for him to put four bullets into his brain and then cut his own throat, or vice versa. The murderer had placed the pistol in his hand, no doubt, to make it look like suicide. (The pistol was placed in the left hand, however, when Mr. Martin was a right handed man. The absence of his money and valuables also sustain the murder theory.)

Dr. R. S. Young made a post mortem examination. Both the windpipe and jugular vein were severed. One bullet entered the right temple, one the left temple, one in left part of skull and the other in the back of the head. There was also a cut on the thumb of the left hand.

Mr. Martin was a son of the late T. L. Martin, who lived near the Patterson mill, and came to Concord about 15 years ago. He made his home here with his daughter, Mrs. Marshal Jones. He leaves a son and five daughters. He was 51 years old.

Paper Going Up.

A dispatch from Appleton, Wis., says the International Paper Co is said to be behind the print paper merger now being bought to a successful close. It is said that within 12 months the International Paper Company, which was incorporated in New York in February, 1898, with an authorized capital stock of $118,000,000, will control the print paper market of the United States. To do this the company will expend from 80,000,000 to $50,000,000 in buying up the plants of the west. This means more trouble for newspapers. The price of printing paper has advanced at least a half cent a pound within six months and another advance will be made when the merger is completed. As it is not practicable to advance the subscription price of newspapers. This increase in cost of material means a net loss to all publishers.—Statesville Landmark

DAYS OF THE TRUNDLE BED.

Some Things that were Done and Taught in the Days of Yore.

The Montgomery Advertiser and the Charlotte Observer have been indulging in reminiscences of the trundle-bed. It belonged to a distinct period in the history of American civilization and was one of the greatest institutions of the Simple Life. It obtained in the time of the high poster and valances, the time when the youngsters were kept under the immediate protection of the parental eye and before they had been sent to the nursery to be looked after by hired servants; that far off time in the contemplation of which tears "rise in the heart and gather in the eyes," the time of still waters and green pastures, before the fashion of the world had changed, the time when the simplicity of existence was lost in the glory of expectant faith. We doubt that there is a trundle-bed in use to day in the modern city of Charlotte; but the best men and women who have lived in the North Carolina town sleep there when they were children in trundle-beds, and slept such refreshing sleep as they have never slept since they outgrew the secure place by the side of their parents and were given rooms to themselves.

There were not many street waifs in the trundle-bed days, nor gilded youth, nor simpering stupidity in petticoats responsive to the vulgarities of mashers in plantations. That was before the President of the United States tried to control the birth-rate of the country by learned discourses on the subject of posterity. Some questions were not considered in the trundle-bed days as proper for general discussion before mixed audiences on great public occasions; the animal was not exalted above the spiritual. Children were taught to know their place, authority was respected, precocity was rebuked, the individual was exalted.

The editors of the Advertiser and Observer will remember that they have never laid down to such peaceful and confiding slumber as when, tired out with the simple pastime of the long and weary day, they sought the comfort of their trundle-beds; and in the mind of them doubtless there will come back through the mist of years a vision of two little fellows with hands folded and saying before a gentle face as if in the Divine Presence:

"Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my soul to keep;
If I should die before I wake,
I pray the Lord my soul to take."

Oh, the days of the trundle-bed! The days of simple living and true-hearted faith, of modest women and brave men, of high impulse and noble achievement, of personal consecration to lofty ideas, before the dust of the market place had covered the tabernacle and the invisible thing were clearly seen.—Charleston News and Courier.

Standard Oil Declares the Usual Dividend.

At a meeting of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey held today a dividend for this quarter of $6 a share was declared, which makes the dividends declared so far this year $30 a share.

At this time in 1906 and in 1905 dividends of $6 a share were declared, the same as today's, and the amount declared for 1907 to date is the same as for the period in the past two years. In the full year 1906 the company paid 40 per cent; in 1905 the same. Its highest recorded dividend rate was 48 per cent. in 1900 and 1901.

Buy Hair at Auction?

At any rate, you seem to be getting rid of it on auction-sale principles: "going, going, gone!" Stop the auction with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It certainly checks falling hair; no mistake about this. It acts as a regular medicine; makes the scalp healthy. Then you must have healthy hair, for it's nature's way.
