

THE CAROLINA WATCHMAN

SHORT LOCAL ITEMS

Rev. C. B. Heller will preach a sermon on "Education" at Shiloh Reformed church in Faith, on Sunday November 14th at 11 a. m. This sermon will have special reference to education in our public schools. We trust that all the patrons and teachers of the school at Faith and also from other schools may be present to hear it.

M. A. Powlass, one of the leading and best farmers in Franklin Township, has just completed a nice two-story dwelling, and moved into it last Thursday. Mr Powlass' farm is one of the best in the county, it shows thoroughness and skill and is a thing of beauty to look upon.

A small house on Liberty street, in the rear of the old jail, was burned Wednesday night. The house was occupied by that well known old colored man, Joe Ballard, who, we understand, lost all of his household goods. This is the second time Uncle Joe has been burned out recently, he having lost his house in the southern suburbs of this city a short time ago, and this loss falls heavily upon him.

R. L. Barringer, who recently sold his farm in the county and moved to Skipwith, Va., has made another change. His family did not like conditions in the Old Dominion, so he now sojourns at Hiddenite, N. C. Mr. Barringer is a good farmer and a splendid citizen and has many friends here who wish him much success in his new home.

Mrs. Frances Ternan has been quite sick at her home for a week or more, and was only slightly improved on Monday.

Emmett Cruse, son of chief of police, J. N. Cruse, of Spencer, who has been with R. W. Price in his meat market for some time, has bought the business and goodwill of the Dorsett meat market at Spencer. He will make some improvements and continue the business in the same place, next to the post office. He took charge Monday.

J. E. Hennessee has been quite ill for several days at his home on North Jackson Street.

We are sorry to chronicle the severe illness of Victor Wallace at his home on South Main Street. He has been sick for several days and there has been little if any improvement in his condition. He is quite aged and his family and his many friends are naturally uneasy, and will hear with pleasure any news of improvement in his condition.

The district assembly of the Rebeckahs met here on Saturday and held an afternoon and night session in the hall of Cordon Lodge, I. O. O. F. Delegates were here from Winston-Salem, Southern Pines, Hickory and a number of other points. Dr. L. S. Fox delivered the address of welcome and before adjourning at night a very pleasant social session was held. At the afternoon session officers were elected for the year.

Railroad Shops at Newbern Burned.

News was received here on Saturday of the destruction by fire of the Norfolk and Southern Railway shops at Newbern about 2:30 on Saturday morning. The machine shop and round house, boiler shop and almost the whole plant was burned, throwing about 150 men out of employment and causing a loss of about a quarter of a million of dollars, partially covered by insurance. This comes as a serious blow to the road as they had made extensive improvements in shops and on the road, building bridges tressels and so on, and were just getting in shape to handle the business in that section of the State, but we understand that they will go to work at once to rebuild and it is to be hoped that when they have had time to look round they will find that most if not all this machinery is in condition so that it can be used. Jas. F. Cuthrell is foreman in the shops that were burned, and several Salisburyans have worked there during the past two years.

David R. Julian's Funeral.

The funeral of David R. Julian which took place from St. John's Lutheran church, at 8 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, was one of the largest attended funerals held here for some time. Quite a number failed of admission to the church and waited outside until the services were over, and beside the large number of carriages and other vehicles in the procession to the cemetery two street cars were provided to carry those who wished to go.

The services were conducted by his pastor, Dr. M. M. Kinard, who, after reading the burial service of the Lutheran church, made a short talk in which he paid a well deserved tribute to the life and character of the deceased.

The interment was in Chestnut Hill cemetery. The police force of the city attended in a body, in respect for chief of police, D. W. Julian, son of the deceased. The church council were honorary pall-bearers, Mr. Julian having been one of the officers for a number of years. The active pall-bearers were intimate friends of Mr. Julian. They were Senator Lee S. Overman, A. H. Boyden, L. H. Clement, J. F. McCubbin, A. M. Rice, J. D. Norwood, N. B. McCannless and P. H. Thompson.

The casket was canopied with the most exquisite designs and the flowers was of such quantity as to require an extra carriage to convey them to the cemetery. The large attendance at the funeral and the attendance of flowers offered testified in how great esteem the deceased was held by the people of Salisbury and Rowan county.

Work of the Reaper.

Rowan County had its first death from pellagra in the case of Mrs. Julius A. Peeler, who lived at 310 South Ellis Street. Mrs. Peeler has been in bad health for a number of years. It was generally supposed that she was a victim of the white plague and her friends were hardly prepared for the announcement that she had died from the effects of pellagra. The funeral was held at the First Baptist church at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon and the remains were buried at the Lutheran Cemetery. She leaves one daughter, Miss Ada, a very estimable young woman who has been her support and comfort through the years that have passed since the death of her husband, upon whom her loss falls heavily.
