

THE CAROLINA WATCHMAN.

WM. H. STEWART, Ed. and Prop. Published every Wednesday at 120 West Innes Street.

Entered as second-class matter Jan. 19th, 1906, at the post office at Salisbury, N. C., under the act of Congress of March 3rd, 1879.

SALISBURY, N. C., July 8rd, 1912

Some of those who were interested in a mass meeting to be held here last Saturday to devise ways and means to prevent the erection of a new court house, were disappointed because of the failure to hold said meeting, no one more so than the writer.

The writer, however, is still of the opinion that the action of the three defeated commissioners is most outrageous, particularly so since the great majority of the people have unmistakably said the new building was not wanted.

In Tabloid Form.

WOODROW WILSON.—Paternal ancestry, Scotch Irish; father, Jos Ruggles Wilson; mother, Jessie Woodrow; father's vocation, clergyman; time and place of birth, Staunton, Virginia, December 28, 1856; vocation, educator-publicist; college, Princeton (also Davidson, University of South Carolina and University of Virginia law school); wife's name and former residence, Ellen Louise Axson, Savannah, Georgia; children, three daughters; home when elected, Princeton, New Jersey; politics, Democrat; year of inauguration, 1818; age at inauguration, fifty-seven; religious connection, Presbyterian.

Not caring to wait upon The World Almanac of 1913 for these facts, we lay them before our readers now. Woodrow Wilson will be the twenty-eighth and probably also the twenty-ninth President of the United States.—Charlotte Observer.

Automobile Wrecked by Train.

While endeavoring to rescue Mrs. W. H. H. Bagwell and son of Hamlet from his automobile which had come to a stop on the Southern Railway track in the path of an approaching train, John McKee Jamison a prominent hotel man of Charlotte was instantly killed and Mrs. Bagwell and her son were seriously injured.

The motor car, a five passenger Marion, was headed due west at the time on a pleasure spin, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jamison, their young sons, John and Paul, Mrs. Bagwell and small son, W. H. H. Bagley, Jr. The dirt road slopes down somewhat acutely at this point, after having curved from north to west. Three hundred yards farther back the top of an approaching train from the south can be seen, but after that the view is obscured by a bluff until within about one hundred feet of the track.

Evidently the train was not sighted until the last point had been reached. Mr. Jamison, known as one of the most careful drivers in Charlotte, may have sought to turn his car into a ditch at the left, as car tracks in the damp earth indicate.

IT IS WILSON AND MARSHALL.

Nomination of Democratic Candidates Made Unanimous.

Baltimore, July 2.—Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, was nominated for the presidency at three fifteen this afternoon, by the democratic national convention. Wilson's nomination was made sure when Pennsylvania cast her vote for him, making his total at that time in call of the roll 733. The nomination was made after Underwood was withdrawn, Clark supporters released and New York, as acclaimed, moved to suspend the balloting and make Wilson's nomination by acclamation. Objection was raised to this. The final roll call came as state after state fell into line, giving Wilson an overwhelming majority. The result was reached with tumultuous demonstration among the delegates and the galleries.

THE BALLOT.

Forty-sixth ballot: Clark, 84; Wilson, 990; Harmon, 12; absent, 2. Wilson's nomination was made unanimous at 3:33 o'clock. The motion to make unanimous was made by Senator Stone, who managed Clark's campaign on the floor during the convention.

Chairman James formally declared Woodrow Wilson the nominee of the convention for president of the United States. A tremendous demonstration followed. Cheer after cheer swept the hall and was taken up by the surging crowds outside the auditorium. The convention adjourned until 9 o'clock.

Before the forty-sixth ballot started, Senator Bankhead, Underwood's manager, went to the platform and withdrew Oscar W. Underwood's name from the convention as a candidate for the presidential nomination. Senator Bankhead, withdrawing Mr. Underwood's name, spoke amid breathless silence. He said Underwood entered the contest hoping to be the nominee. But his chief desire was to eradicate every vestige of sectional feeling. That had been demonstrated by the liberal support given him. He would not be a party to the defeat of any candidate. Bankhead added that all of Underwood's friends were now released to vote for whom they pleased.

Senator Stone, Clark's manager, mounted the platform and speaking for Clark, released all the Clark delegates. Mayor Fitzgerald took the platform and withdrew Foss. The Massachusetts delegation supported Wilson.

Congressman Fitzgerald, of New York, spoke from platform, presenting the New York delegation's view. Fitzgerald moved that the roll call be dispensed with and that Wilson's nomination be made by acclamation. The convention arose enmassed as the New York spokesman moved Wilson's nomination by acclamation. A frenzy of cheers swept the floor and galleries. The delegates stood on their chairs, waving hats and flags. Senator Reid, of Missouri, interposed an objection to New York's request for unanimous consent to make Wilson's nomination by acclamation.

Congressman Fitzgerald made his speech just after conference with Murphy. His advent meant the end of opposition to Wilson as an organized body. Fitzgerald pleaded for harmony. "We want to leave this hall animated democracy, with a victory in November assured." Chairman James ordered the 46th ballot to proceed because of Reid's objections to suspending and nominating by acclamation.

The weary delegates stood on chairs, shouting wildly as state after state, which clung to other hopes, filed into the Wilson column. Missouri and New York alone sat unmoved. Wilson adherents dashed about the hall, shaking hands and hugging each other, almost dancing with glee. The aisles were jammed; the police in vain fought for order among the throng. A solid mass of men who had sat through ballot after ballot, greeted the approaching end of the convention with outbursts of jubilation. Baltimore, July 3, 2 a. m.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana was nominated for Vice President by acclamation after the third ballot, the names of all other candidates having been withdrawn. The convention adjourned sine die.

Mail Carriers Will Fly.

This is an age of great discoveries. Progress rides on the air. Soon we may see Uncle Sam's mail carriers flying in all directions, transporting mail. People take a wonderful interest in a discovery that benefits them. That's why Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs, Colds and other throat and lung diseases is the most popular medicine in America. "It cured me of a dreadful cough," writes Mrs. J. F. Davis, Stickney Corner, Me., "after doctor's treatment and all other remedies had failed." For coughs, colds or any bronchial affection it's unequalled. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists.

How Babylon Was Captured.

The height, thickness and solidity of the walls of Babylon rendered them impregnable to every attempt. On the top they were so broad that several chariots might run abreast, and at short distances there were towers much higher than the walls, continually filled with armed men. The gates were solid pieces of brass, of such strength and weight as to defy all possible engines of war. The walls and towers were guarded by a numerous army and it was thought, with what provisions there were in the city and what might be raised within it in the gardens that the inhabitants might sustain a siege of twenty years. There is reason to doubt whether Cyrus could have taken Babylon otherwise than by stratagem. For after having spent nearly two years, during which time he tried every mode of attack he could devise, he saw no prospect of success, nor any reason to expect but that a blockade of many years must be his only resort, and even that resorted to extremely dubiously.

His comprehensive genius, however, at length projected a plan by which he gained the city. At some distance above the city had been dug an immense pit, of size sufficient to receive the water of a river for a considerable time. It is said to have been many miles in extent. With this lake the river communicated by canals, which were closed along the river by dikes of amazing strength. By breaking down these the river would forsake its course and flow into the lake. On the night of a public festival Cyrus caused the dikes to be broken down. The river immediately turned out of its channel, which became so dry that the Persian army marched down into it with little difficulty into the city; and were met by another division of the army who had marched up the channel from the opposite side of the city; and although there was a high wall on each side of the river, yet on that night the gates leading to the river were generally left open. In the midst of reveling and drunkenness the inhabitants were surprised; and the king, hearing the uproar abroad had only time to advance to the gates of his palace, where, fighting sword in hand, he was slain.

The city and province of Babylon, without further resistance, submitted to the conqueror, Samuil Whepley. The Kannapolis ball team defeated the Spencer team by a score of 6 to 3 at Kannapolis Monday evening.

Last spring and winter I had a lot of trouble from my kidneys. The kidney action was irregular and I had severe pains in my back. At times I was dizzy and nervous and could not sleep well at night.
